Chief Smith said the police have several leads but at this time had made no arrests.

The Charlevoix break-in was one of several in the area during the holidays.

Pellston-Harbor Lose in Non-Loop Mid-Week Tilts

The high flying Pellston Hornets were nipped Tuesday night by the Cheboygan Chiefs by a score of 57 to 47 while another Class C team, Harbor Springs, was downed by Petoskey St. Francis 40 to 21.

The Hornets who have a record of three wins in loop play found themselves trailing the Chiefs 14 to 12, 31 to 22 and 45 to 34 by quarters as they suffered their first loss of the current season.

Wtih Joe Flynn leading the way with 19 ponts the Petoskey Crusaders led the Rams 11 to 4, 17 to 12 and 28 to 17 by quarters before taking the game by a 19 point margin.

Bill Fowler and George Covyou had five points each for Harbor Springs.

Aspen Harvest Adds Winter Food For Deer Herds

Supplementing fall and winter outdoor sporting activities is an equally gratifying and significant operation from the standpoint of commercial forest management and wildlife interests — the aspen harvest.

This harvest is made by commercial loggers and pulpwood cutters who bid for the right to cut areas of public land designated by Conservation Department foresters.

Where possible, cuttings are made in deeryards to relieve deer food problbems that plague the herd most seriously during winter months.

Tops and limbs of aspen cuttings are non-merchantable for logging and pulpwood purposes but supply sorely-needed winter browse to the deer herd on the ground.

Aspen cuttings bear year-around ramfications since cut-over areas stimulate growth of aspen shoots and other close-to-ground food plants which are major items in the herd's summer diet. These regenerated areas also provide cover and food for ruffed grouse, rabbits and other game.

Dollar-wise, timber sales provide revenue for future financing of reforestation programs. Pulpwood receipts totaled $179,863 in 1957.

JayCees Consider Teen-age Road-eo

Plans for a teen-age Road-eo were discussed at a regular meeting of the Charlevoix JayCees held Monday with president Don Brown presiding.

At the same meeting the second Monday of every month was established as the regular meeting night for the club. For the present the group will meet at Karol's Kitchen.

Coasting on the Grant street hill was discussed. It was suggested that signs giving the hours of supervised coasting be posted. However, upon investigation it was found that at the present time the regular supervisor is not at the hill but is working at the ice rink so no action was taken on the matter.

Bill Carey to Head March of Dimes Drive

William Carey will head the 1959 March of Dimes campaign which will open here this week according to Charles A. Robinson, Charlevoix county fund chairman.

The National Foundation is expanding into a broad new force which will tackle health problems on a wider front, no longer confining its efforts to one disease, Mr. Robinson said.

Mr. Robinson went on to say that confidence is being placed in the citizens of Charlevoix county, who helped make possible victory over polio through their contributions to the March of Dimes over the past 20 years, to give even greater support to the expanded program in the future. The Foundation, however, will not abandon polio patients.

Details regarding the fund drive in the Charlevoix area will be announced next week by Mr. Carey who will be assisted in his efforts by members of the Charlevoix Jaycees.

Mich. Windstorm Insurance Co. Takes New Name

As of January 1st, 1959, one of Michigan's oldest insurance firms, the Michigan Mutual Windstorm company, has changed its role to become the Hastings Mutual Insurance Company.

The change opens up an entirely new field of providing comprehensive insurance protection for property owners throughout the State, Ray C. Whipple, of Mason, president, has announced.

With the change, made after years of study and with the approval of the Michigan Insurance Department, the 104,000 policy holders of the Windstorm company which was organized in 1887, are receiving new policies issued by the new corporaton.

The new policies, like all the policies of the new company, are non-assessable and are backed by the financial foundation and the experience of the Windstorm company which grew to become one of the greatest of its kind in the entire world.

On Wednesday, Dec. 31, the Windstorm company ceased to do business as it has for nearly three-quarters of a century, and on this Thursday began operations as the Hastings Mutual Insurance Company.

While it was known as the Michigan Motual Windstorm Insurance Company, the firm built up an enviable reputation thruout rural Michigan. Under its new plan, the Hastings Michigan Insurance Company will not only continue to offer to farmers and other rural residents the benefit of its experience, but it will also offer comprehensive coverage to city and suburban properties, as well as commercial and other types of risks, President Whipple concluded.

Cable Shorts Two Electric Circuits

The north and south circuits of the Municipal light plant were out of order for seven minutes Wednesday morning when a high voltage cable leading from the generator of one of the Diesel engines to an oil switch 'shorted out' breaking the circuits and causing minor damage to the engine according to Hal M Hill, city superintendent.

The engine, a Nordberg 450 kw unit, had been running for about 10 minutes when the accident happened.

Mr. Hill said damage was less than $100.00 and was covered by insurance.

Council Adds Four Reserve Members To Fire Department

The Charlevoix City Council, at its regular meeting Monday night, approved the addition of four reserve firemen to the list of 14 volunteer firemen and two regular firemen.

The transfer of $10,605 from the electric fund to the dock and harbor improvement fund was approved wth the stipulation that the loan be repaid from rental receipts at the rate of $3,605 in 1959 and $3,500 for the next two years.

The council also approved the Grate sub-division as presented to the council. The clerk was instructed to sign plats for the city of Charlevoix. The property to be included in the sub-division is located west of Prospect ave. and corner of Dixon ave. to Round Lake.

Ordinance 278, which fixes the date of the annual meeting of the Board of Review for the second Monday in March, was approved.

Bills amounting to $13,213.38 were approved and ordered paid.

Fish Shanties Dot Likely Spots On Lake Charlevoix

With winter underway, fish shanty communities are building up on the many Lake Charlevoix favored sites as well as on hundred of other inland lakes of Michigan.

Good catches of perch and smelt are being reported from most of the fish shanty communities, but as always, few can predict when the acion will be fast or slow. A few cisco have been taken this year and some anglers are optomistic about the return of this fish to Lake Charlevoix waters.

Other inland lakes offer the opportunity to take bluegills, lake trout, walleyes, white fish and perch with hook and line. Pike, surgeon and a few others offer ample opportunities for the spear fisherman. A few spear fishermen are reported to be trying for pike near East Jordan.

One of the most flourishing fishing communities at present is at Ironton where there are about 30 equipped shanties available for rent to visitors along with the many privately owned ones. Most of the rental shanties are equipped for both day and night fishing.

Minority Group Rejects Report Of Citizen's Tax Committee

Rejecting the philosophy and much of the detail recommended by the majority, two members of the Citizens Tax Advisory Committee have filed a minority report.

The dissenters are Tyrone Gillespie, Midland, and E. C. Hayhow, Hillsdale.

"We cannot subscribe to a program, or part of a program, which has as its objective the re-distribution of wealth, earnings and income," their report stated.

"This thinking too strongly pervades the majority recommendations with consequent diminution of incentive to compete, struggle and succeed, which has heretofore been the motive power for this state's industrial success."

The minority also rejected the philosophy that the state can better provide for its citizens than can the local community.

"We object to the majority proposal which we feel to be an attempt to remove from the local tax base as much revenue as possible and replace the lost revenue with state aid," the dissenting report said.

"This is incompatible with the traditional American principle of keeping government and its taxing and spending powers as close as possible to the governed.

The majority successfully met only one of four committee objectives, the minority contends. This was in the field of raising taxes where, the minority commented, the majority "has done well . . . better, we think, than was necessary."

Hay how and Gillespie contend the majority report:

1. Adds to the patch-work characteristics of the present tax

Annual Dairy Day To Be Held Jan. 13 At Ellsworth

The Annual Dairy Day for Charlevoix and Antrim counties will be held this year at the Ellsworth Community Hall, according to Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent. This dairy program will be held on Tuesday, January 13, starting at 1:30 p.m.

This Annual Dairy Day was started several years ago to take care of the annual meetings of the different dairy associations in these two counties. This practice has continued because of the interest by dairymen in this area.

The program will include the showing of two movies, one on Loose Housing, and the other on Bunker Silos. These movies were shown at National County Agents meeting in Seattle and they are very good. Speakers for the program will include Leyton Nelson, farm crops specialist, Michigan State University; and Byron Carpenter, fieldman for the Michigan Artifical Breeders Cooperative.

There will also be the annual meeting of the Antrim-Charlevoix A. B. A. at which time will be directors elections and a business report concerning the organization.

Supervisors Hold Two Day Session Here

The Charlevoix county board of supervisors met at the county building here this week for a two day session at which a variety of matters were discussed.

Bonds for county officials and deputies who require bonds were approved and all banks in the county designated as depositories for county funds at the opening session.

On Tuesday the discussion was confined to issues pertaining to assessments and equalization.

Grover C. Geneit was appointed county abstractor for the duration of his term as register of deeds.

A claim for $7.50 for chickens destroyed by dogs was approved.

Plans were made for the meeting of assessors and supervisors and representatives of the tax commission to study various types of property and buildings in an effort to better qualify these people in making assessments in their respective district. Fred White, Drew Young and Joseph Lang represented the tax commission at the meeting held in Charlevoix on Wednesday and in Boyne City Thursday for assessors and supervisors.

The amount of mail leaving the Charlevoix postoffice during the recent Christmas season was far below last year according to Postmaster Peter H. Timmer who said there were 9,000 fewer cancellations and 73 fewer sacks of parcel post dispatched from the local post office.

Incoming mail, however, was approximately the same as in 1957, Mr. Timmer added.

All incoming parcels were delivered by 4:30 p.m. Dec. 24 and by 3:30 p.m. Christmas Day.

Charlevoix to Host Coast Guardsmen at Reception Saturday

The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce will entertain all U. S. Coast Guard personnel stationed here and their respective wives at a party to be held at the Weathervane Inn Saturday evening.

Personnel of the U. S. A brief and informal program with the Rev. Fr. Yonkman as master of ceremonies will follow the dinner.

My Town

Making the rounds of the newspapers is a clipping that someone somewhere wrote about "My Town." We're sorry we can't say who wrote it, but the thought is important, especially when so many things are brewing community-wise in our city.

"My town is the place where I live, where I am employed, where I vote. It is where my children are educated and where my neighbors dwell. It is where my life is chiefly lived. It is my home.

My town has the right to my civic loyalty. It supports me and I should support it.

"My town wants my citizenship, not my partisanship; my friendliness, not my dissension; my sympathy, not my criticism; my intelligence, not my indifference.

"My town supplies me with protection, trade friends, education, schools, churches, and the right to free moral citizenship. It has some things that are better than others; the best things I should seek to make better; the worst things I should help to suppress.

All in all, it is my town and it is entitled to the best there is in me."

Weathervane News

Charlevoix

It always takes a breeze of some kind to affect a Weathervane, so a puff or two from us may indicate which way the wind is blowing.

Last Friday evening some early dinner guests, the banker and his wife came from an adjoining city to enjoy steaks in front of the big Weathervane fireplace. It is always nicer to have the banker come than it is to have to go to the banker. However, we soon had two or three more single couples and then a telephone call from fourteen from Birmingham asking if they could come for dinner wearing ski clothes. Of course, you are always welcome just coming from skiing! Guests from Memphis, Chicago and Detroit with groups of eight and two or three groups of seven ending up with over sixty dinner guests making the most enjoyable and colorful gathering for last Friday night at the Weathervane. Because of the storm, we did not have so many Saturday night, but we are always prepared to take care of any and all that come for dinner every evening excepting Monday and of course, Sunday from 12:00 until 8:00. The Weathervane is privileged with having the banquet this Saturday evening the Chamber of Commerce is extending to the personnel of the Sundew and Coast Guard, (anticipating about 200), so it is possible that unless you come very early, (between 5:00 and 7:00), this Saturday, we are not going to be able to take care of you. It is our desire to keep the Weathervane open for the winter and intend to do so with any reasonable support from Charlevoix and vicinity.

We realized last week how unfortunate it was for Charlevoix not to have accommodations when so many were looking for places to stay here and finding that all of the accommodations in the only motel open had all been reserved, and I can say much more next week than I can this week, I think.

ODDS 'N ENDS

BY FRAN MARTIN

AND A HAPPY 1959 to you . . . Since this is the first column in the new year we thought we'd like to wish the best ever in the new year . . . Everyone else has been looking back over 1958 . . . But we had an idea we'd like to list the things we'd like to see come to pass in the new year . . . However, it got out of hand and we might have tromped on a few toes so we pigeon-holed it . . . Better to get off on the right foot than to trip someone else up, we always say . . .

* * *

BUT ALL kidding aside, did you have a nice New Year . . . At this late date surely you can find something that was good about it.

* * *

OLD MAN WINTER must like us because he's returned in a big way . . . After receiving Christmas cards from Florida, Texas, Arizona and California . . . to name a few places . . . with news of temperatures in the 70's and 80's this weather's getting hard to take . . . It was down near the zero mark again Sunday . . . which made it rather brisk . . . But the skiers, skaters and ice fishermen are happy again . . . Guess the kids particularly have had a whale of a time these last few days . . . After the temperature dropped again . . . There's a squeak under foot, there's a gay song on the air as the skates glide over the ice and the stars are twinkling brighter than ever in the winter sky . . . All of which may not be good English but you get the idea.

* * *

WE'D LIKE TO take this opportunity to welcome an old friend back to town . . . Rev. L. L. Lewis who has returned as pastor of the Baptist church . . . We know that everyone will be happy to know that he and Mrs. L. are back . . . And the athletic teams have an avid rooter . . . No one loves and supports the athletic programs anymore than Rev. Lewis . . . so I'm sure today's teams will be as happy to have him in their cheering sections as much as the teams of old.

* * *

AND SPEAKING of teams, we hope our Rayders will keep up their good work of Friday night . . . They did more than a bit of alright . . . Since it was their first game of the new year we hope it was an omen of things to come . . . We sure hope so 'cause these kids have been working . . . both the Varsity and the JV's . . . and it's about time they got a break . . . They have a couple toughies coming up during the coming week . . . You call Harbor tough? . . . We remember too well things that have happened to our teams at Harbor Springs so we're not going to place any bets . . . for fear it will give the Rams' gremlins the needed inspiration to push the ball off instead of in, to make our boys trip over their own feet on the Rams' floor . . . Oh, all sorts of things . . . We just hope they do alright . . . And then come Tuesday we take on Gaylord . . . We're told these boys are out to avenge that football loss to Charlevoix . . . You remember the game . . . our toughest one which we won by a 13 to 0 margin . . . They still have not forgiven us and are out for blood . . . So our kids are going to have to tread the straight and narrow . . . Which we know they can do if they have to. So lots of luck to Coach Carey and his big boys and Coach Rice and his little ones (who'll, all too soon, be candidates for the Varsity squad). We hope that '59 will bring 'em all everything good.

* * *

THERE'S GOING to be a party in Charlevoix this weekend and we think it's going to be pretty wonderful. The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce is giving the shindig as a welcome to the crew of the cutter Sundew and to honor all Coast Guardsmen and their wives who make Charlevoix their home . . . and we've found that that's quite a number. We wonder if the people of this community realize what these people mean to our economy. We are sure you'd be mighty surprised if you were to make a study. But economy or no, thru the years we've met and made good friends of a good many of these same service people. To those people of the Coast Guard whom we haven't had the privilege of meeting, we're looking forward to saying 'Hi' to you come Saturday. We think we're lucky to have you with us.

The rectory of St. Stephen's church in Grand Rapids was the scene Dec. 27 of the wedding of Margaret Mary Osier and Bruce Ronald Fairbanks.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. John T. Osier and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Fairbanks of Grand Rapids.

The bride, escorted by her father, was attired in a formal white satin gown fashioned with sweetheart neckline, long tapered sleeves and chapel length train. Her matching satin headdress secured the fingertip veil and she carried a Colonial bouquet of white gardenias and ivy.

Mrs. James R. Crawford of Evanston, Ill., attended her sister as matron of honor. Sally Osier, also sister of the bride, and Shayne Fairbanks, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. They wore Christmas green velveteen gowns styled on princess lines. Their headdresses were wreathes of variegater ivy and mistletoe and they carried cascade bouquets of white azeleas and ivy.

Mrs. Osier selected a champagne lace gown, matching accessories and a corsage of brown orchids for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Fairbanks, mother of the bridegroom, chose a gray lace gown, blue hat and a corsage of matching gardenias.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Frey served as master and mistress of ceremonies at the reception held at the home of the bride's parents.

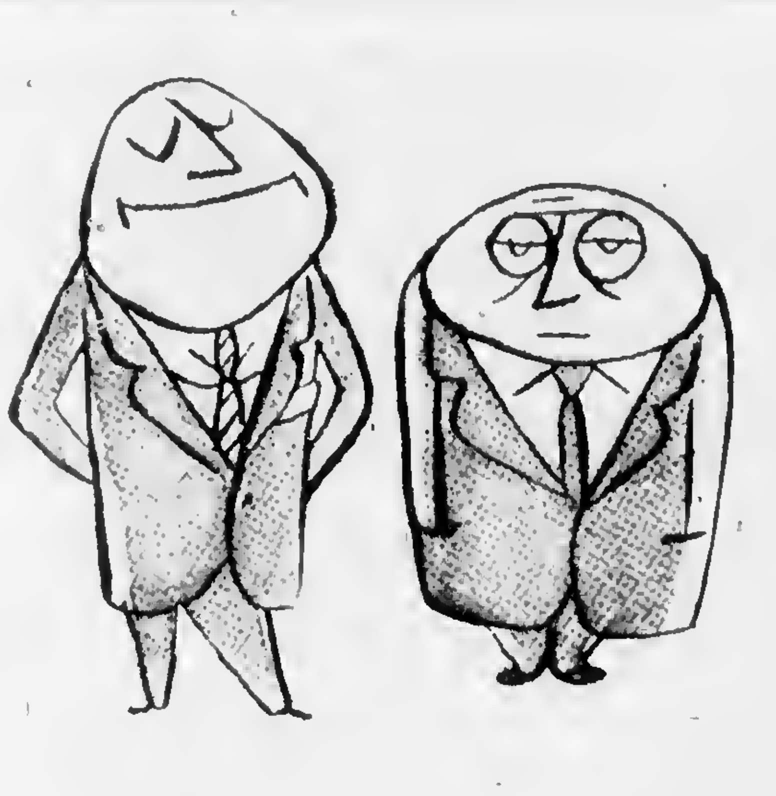
In Grand Rapids for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Clifford G. Riley and daughters, Joan, Carla, Ruth Ann and Gayle.



Satisfied . . . or sluggish?

"Are you really satisfied with all conditions in your town today? Do you honestly believe they need no improving? That progress can be taken for granted? That industrial expansion and economic development, growth and prosperity just 'happen'?

"Or is it perhaps a case of shrugging off responsibility with a 'Let George Do It'? Be honest with yourself, and reflect: Just who is George, in the final analysis?

"There are—fortunately—many 'doers' in your town, and you as a business man benefit from their active participation in community projects. These are the business men and women who realize that each one of us is 'George.' That's why they associate themselves with the organization which coordinates their thinking and translates it into action—a practical application of the American concept.

"Don't leave it all to the other 'Georges'! Join your Chamber of Commerce and lend a hand.

TAX FACTS #1

Selecting The Proper Tax Form

(This is one of a series of articles on federal income tax filing. The articles are based on information provided by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the Michigan Society of Certified Public Accountants, in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service.)

IF you are one of the millions of American taxpayers who spends the lion's share of his income feeding, clothing, housing and entertaining his family, chances are there is very little you can do to reduce your 1958 federal income tax bill — but you owe it to yourself to try.

First of all, decide which of the two individual tax forms you are going to use to report your income. If you choose the wrong one, you may automatically cut yourself off from a possible tax savings.

The easiest way to file is to use the simple 1040-A Form. It's a card the size of a check, on which you answer a few simple questions and have the choice of either computing your own tax or letting the Government do it for you.

You are permitted to use the card form if your gross income consisted only of wages, dividends or interest totaling less than $10,000, and if you did not have more than $200 of gross income apart from that listed on your W-2 withholding slips.

Facts to Consider

Before deciding to use the card Form 1040-A, you should consider these facts:

1. Your tax will be figured from a table which allows you a deduction of about 10 per cent of your income instead of itemized deductions for contributions, taxes, interest paid, medical and dental expenses, etc.

2. There is no provision in this form for filing as the "head of household", as a "surviving spouse" or for claiming special credits for dividends and retirement income.

If you are sure that these two points would not cost you any tax savings, and your income is within the limits for filing a Form 1040-A, you might as well use this simple card form.

Whether to Itemize

When you elect to use the regular Form 1040, you still must decide whether to itemize deductions or take the standard deduction which usually amounts to about 10 per cent of your income or $1,000, whichever is less. Generally, you will save by itemizing deductions if you:

(1) Own real estate
(2) Had unusual medical expenses
(3) Had deductible child-care expense
(4) Suffered losses from fire, storm, accident or theft
(5) Made fairly large charitable contributions

If you are supporting a dependent, although you are unmarried, you may be able to qualify as a "head of household" and figure your tax on a special table that gives you part of the advantage enjoyed by married couples filing joint returns.

You may qualify for a "head of household" status if you provide more than half the support of a parent and more than half the cost of maintaining the parent's household even if the parent does not live with you. You cannot claim a "head of household" status if you file a Form 1040-A.

The 1040 Form is arranged again this year so that a taxpayor whose income was entirely from wages needs to use only the first one or two pages. Pages three and four are for other types of income and for computing the special credits for dividends and retirement income.

The instructions which come with your tax forms give further information on how to select the correct tax form. Help is also available from the Internal Revenue Service.

By ELMER E. WHITE

MICHIGAN AND FIVE other states are fighting in court to keep Chicago from stealing the Great Lakes.

The simple statement of a complex problem distorts the issues on both sides of the courtroom, but the danger is here and immediate.

CHICAGO FOR decades has been draining water out of Lake Michigan for navigation at the rate of 1,200 cubic feet per second. That much is all right with all concerned.

But the city also is increasing its flow to 2,000 cubic feet a second for another purpose: treatment of sewage. The water then goes through a sewage canal, ultimately reaching the Mississippi river.

* * *

THE RESULT IS a development impossible except in the wildest of dreams. The level of the Great Lakes is being lowered!

Atty. Gen. Paul L. Adams has charged that the drainage into Chicago is damaging the recreational lure of Lake Michigan, lowering property values, and creating chaos.

If the drain continues, the level of the Lakes will be lowered another two inches, reducing the tonnage freighters can carry into available dockage space and ports.

Adams warned that this alone will cost shippers $4,000,000 a year and raise prices of products shipped into Michigan by boat.

Not only will Lake Michigan's level be lowered, but, ultimately, a heavy impact is foreseen on the other Great Lakes which surround Michigan on three sides.

CHICAGO OFFICIALS, visiting Lansing for a conference on the problem, said the citizens are turning to their only natural source of water to help them solve their sanitation problems.

Michigan and the other protesting states are insisting that Chicago return the water, treated and restored, to Lake Michigan.

Chicago people said this would double the costs of pipelines at a time when financing merely the taking of water for a public purpose is burdensome.

STATES INVOLVED in the legal fight, which is now before the United States Supreme Court, are Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

While that case awaits action, three of the states, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin, refused to allow three small Chicago suburbs to finance an $18,000,000 pipeline to the lake.

It was blocked by refusal of the states to agree to a "non-litigation" guarantee, demanded by investors before hey would buy the revenue bonds.

MICHIGAN OFFICIALS contend that residents of the state have a vast investment in the values the Great Lakes offer. A high percentage of the state's economic life depends on them.

An added factor of significance is the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway, which is expected to carry Michigan products to world markets and return the goods of other nations to the state.

It probably will be months or years before the case is finally decided, but the problem will smolder until then.

* * *

FOOD-BUYING Housewives, with the family budget to juggle in an era of rising prices have a champion in state government.

It is the foods and standards division of the State Department of Agriculture.

The department, headed until Jan. 1 by Miles A. Nelson, a veteran career state employee, makes certain all goods meet the Michigan standards before they are sold. Its range of operations is amazing.

IT CONSTANTLY checks the accuracy of weight machines, from the penny scales patronized by pound-conscious citizens, to the giant scales that weigh coal.

The department checks to determine if packaged goods contain the same weight as advertised on the label, guards against false claims for all products and approves labels.

IN NELSON'S OFFICE there are samples, a bottle of beer with a claim suggesting it has more inside than others of the same size, a misbranded package of sausage, or a jar of pickles that did not measure up to Michigan standards.

Nelson has been a fighter for perfection in his department and has not hesitated to seize a shipment of potatoes or other produce that didn't measure up. He has one pat answer to complaints: "Let's look at the law on that subject."

Adventures in Understanding

Notes from a northerner's diary

By Harold E. Kohn

Larger Rockets and Bigger Men

The great silence and peace of our golden near-neighbor, the moon, is apparently doomed. It won't be long now, a few months or years, before man will clutter the orb with his rockets, his flags of conquest, the paraphernalia of civilization and with himself.

Russia's rocket, launched Friday, will soon begin to orbit around the sun, this morning's news report informs us. The Russians claim the missile was intended to reach the moon but missed it, and is now about to establish an eliptical route around the sun, becoming the sun's first man-made planet. It is reported that the missile carried a Russian flag which Soviet scientists intended would be left on the moon as evidence the Russians were first to reach the place.

If American scientists should succeed in being first to send a missile to the moon, they will not need to plant an American flag there to substantiate their claim. A capsule will serve their purpose—a capsule that will explode upon contacting the moon's surface, scattering tin cans, beer bottles and paper napkins all over the place. Later explorers would then be certain Americans had been there.

Building interstellar missiles will not improve the behavior of any nation. It will just spread that behavior over a wider area.

While we have made tremendous progress in our technology we are much the same people we were fifty years ago. The Russians have advanced astonishingly in scientific research, but they are not better people. They still substitute the threat of brute force for honorable dealings with other nations. Americans have a higher standard of living. Judged by what we eat and wear and the houses we inhabit, we have progressed unmeasureably. But judged by what we are our advancement is at a snail's pace. Just about every man-made thing in our world is getting bigger—bigger rockets, bigger airplanes, bigger ships, bigger buildings, bigger governments, bigger national debts, bigger incomes, bigger cars. But man remains about the same size

Here is a note I read in a news magazine three weeks ago during the Christmas rush, a note from an irritated journalist. "Hurry as we may, we are hemmed in by a surging crowd in front and a dense throng of people pressing in from the rear. One man digs his elbow into me, another a pole; one bangs my head with a plant, another with a wine cask. You can be considered foolish and thoughtless . . . if you go out . . . without your will made." It sounds like your problem of a few days ago, but it is a quotation from the Roman, Juvenal, who lived from 60 to 140 A. D.

Or here is another problem: "People whose poverty stands in their way find it hard to rise, but at Rome the attempt is still harder. Here you must pay a big rent for a miserable house. Everyone dresses above his means." Again, that is Juvenal, complaining about Rome, but it could just as well be some 1959 writer grumbling about living conditions in New York, Chicago or Charlevoix.

Basically our problems have changed only a little since Juvenal's day. Our greatest difficulties are not with the external symbols of civilization, but with the people who make up the "surging crowd," with people who push, and make exhorbitant charges and live beyond their means. Our chief distresses do not come from armament but from the suspicious, jealousies, hatreds and greed that make armament dangerous.

The events of the past few days remind us of our folly. We are producing bigger missiles. Now we need bigger men and women. Bigger of thought and aspirations, bigger of heart! That is of major importance now. For the future of the world will depend less upon the calibre of shells and missiles made for war than upon the calibre of human beings who run our governments, and manage our homes and teach and influence our children.

An unlettered woman once declared with mixed pentitence and pride: "I ain't what I ought to be; I ain't what I'm going to be; but I'm better than I was."

Some such aim should be the goal of all of us. As long as we are here on earth we shall fall short of perfection, but we cannot afford to be small people in a world of bigger and more powerful governments and weapons. These are days for greatness. We must be better than we were.

Our work is cut out for us, the work of the churches, schools and homes—to produce men to match our missiles.

Minority Group Rejects Report

structure by adding new taxes and complicated tax features which are administratively cumbersome beyond any in the present structure.

2. Neglects equity by exempting thousands of individuals with incomes from any responsibility for sharing the cost of government service.

3. Fails to improve the industrial and business climate, by increasing the Business Activities Tax, retaining the Personal Property Tax on inventories, and adding a new tax on business profits.

On the positive side, the minority report makes the following major recommendations:

1. A flat rate personal and corporate income tax at a maximum rate of 2%. Recognizing the serious fiscal problems of local units of government, the minority suggests legislation permitting local units, at their option, to levy an additional income tax in an amount not to exceed 1% in each county.

2. Repeal of the Intangibles Tax and the Business Tax.

3. Retention of the Personal Property Tax in its present form with improvement in the assessment process.

4. An amendment to the Sales and Use Tax under which all purchases of the Federal government would be taxed. This would raise an estimated minimum of $37 million.

5. Replacement of the present Inheritance Tax with an Estate Tax carrying rates equal to the 80% credit allowed under the Federal estate tax law.

6. To supplement the Estate Tax, a Gift Tax in appropriate ranges, perhaps somewhat higher than suggested for the Estate Tax.

7. An Insurance Premiums Tax with rates of 2% on foreign premiums and 1½% on domestic premiums.

8. Due to Federal restrictions on the form and taxation of national banks, Michigan banks and financial institutions should [illegible] direct to the regular corporate income tax and the Legislature should confer with representatives of banks and [illegible] institutions, looking toward an additional tax which is fair and which meets Federal requirements.

As an aid to the immediate relief of the state's fiscal problem, the minority recommends the transfer or loan of the Veterans Trust Fund. The obligations to veterans, it is pointed out, can easily be met by appropriations from the General Fund.

Majority recommendations on Beer and Liquor, Chain Store, Pari-Mutuel and Cigarette and Tobacco Products taxes were accepted by the minority.

Gillespie and Hayhow point out that their program is flexible and will in its recommended form raise approximately $90 million.

"It is our sincere hope," their statement said, "that the Legislature will find it possible to reduce this figure. If this is not possible, we submit that $90 million properly utilized should be adequate to a nort [illegible] the current

The Church by the Sea in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., was the scene recently of the wedding of Deborah Ellen Bergeon, daughter of Mrs. Catherina Clarke Bergeon of Ann Arbor and Robert L. Clark jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Clarke sr. of Fort Lauderdale.

The Rev. Edward P. Downey officiated at the impressive service on Dec. 30 before an altar decorated with white mums and gladioli and lighted tapers. Arrangements of the same flowers and seven branch candelabra banked the sanctuary. While satin bows and greenery marked the pews. Mrs. Justice Cannon was the soloist.

The bride, escorted to the altar by S. A. Nurmi of Flint, selected a gown of ivory peau de soie for her wedding. It was fashioned with an empire bodice of lace which extended over the skirt as applique, a scoop neckline and bracelet sleeves. The very full skirt ended in a chapel length train. A crown of pearl orange blossoms held her tiered veil of bridal illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of Eucharist lillies and lillies of the valley.

Mrs. Bergeon chose a sapphire blue lace gown, matching blue accessories and an orchid corsage for her daughter's weddiag. Mrs Clark, mother of the bridegroom, wore a cafeau Lait brocade gown, matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

Following a wedding trip to Jamaica, the couple will reside at 1585 Ponce de Leon Drive, Fort Lauderdale. For traveling the bride wore a light weight cream wool suit with a blonde mink collar and bronze leather accessories.

Minority Group Rejects Report

deficit and provide for reasonable state needs."

The minority report recognizes several tax and related areas which require further study.

Cited as an example is the dilemma created by levying taxes to erase a deficit. "What happens," the minority asks, "when the deficit is erased? Will taxes be reduced or will, as is generally the result, ways be found to spend all the revenues available?"

More study is also suggested for the needs of local government and the constitutional limitations affecting taxes.

"Much could be said about the matter of governmental economy and we are sorely tempted. Suffice it to say the minority feels this is a fertile field for cultivation. But it was not part of the responsibility of this tax study group to go into this matter. We are limited, therefore, to a strong recommendation that this subject be pursued diligently, thoroughly and conscientiously."

Many Lands Mark Twelfth Night Traditional End of Yule Season

The Twelve Days of Christmas come to an end on January 6, the traditional time for burning Christmas greens.

Twelfth Night, or Epiphany, is marked with many customs, ceremonies, and legends in various parts of the world, the National Geographic Society says. French and Swiss children, for example, look forward to the Twelfth Night pastry—a rich "cake of kings" in which a black bean, a coin, or a china figure is hidden. Whoever gets the prize is crowned king by the family.

The Twelfth Night tradition is a reminder of the day's significance in Christian tradition. Epiphany, meaning "appearance," commemorates the visit of the Three Wise Men — also known as the Three Kings—to the infant Jesus. Their arrival was proof to believers that Christ the Savior had been born.

"Now when Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judaea in the days of Herod the king," says Matthew (2:1-2), "behold, there came wise men from the east of Jerusalem,

"Saying, Where is He that is born King of the Jews? for we have seen His star in the east, and are come to worship Him."

During the Middle Ages Twelfth Night was commemorated with plays presented in churches. But solemn observances largely disappeared in Elizabethan England, and they became a time for joyous revelry and wassail.

Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" reflects the merry mood. The play was probably first presented in a command performance at Whitehall Palace on January 6, 1601, during the height of Britain's era of boisterous celebration of the occasion. Queen Elizabeth entertained the Duke of Bracciano, Don Virginio Orsino. The Italian's name reappears for the Duke of Illyria in the play.

Twelfth Night later declined in popularity, but such customs as feasting and presenting a masque still survive in parts of Britain.

Today child "kings" crowned with golden paper coronets roam the streets of Europe on Epiphany, singing hymns and carols. In Italy, millions of children awake on Epiphany to find their stockings filled with presents from LaBefana, the good-hearted witch who takes the place of Santa Claus. La Befana, whose name is a corruption of "Epiphany," is supposed to leave a lump of coal for bad children, but she almost never does.

In France, a portion of the Epiphany cake is often set aside as "la part de Dieu"—God's share. It is given to the first poor person who comes to the door. In Greece, three pieces of cake are cut: one for Christ, one for Mary and one for St. Basil. In Britain, Twelfth Night cake is washed down with Lamps' Wool, a drink made with hot, strong ale spiced with nutmeg and sugar.

In 1922, several makes of cars introduced gasoline gauges on their instrument panels. Last year, gasoline and oil advertisers invested over $30 million in newspaper advertising.

1910 was the first year in this country that automobiles were offered to consumers "completely equipped." In 1957, makers of automotive parts and accessories increased their advertising in newspapers by 141 per cent over the previous year.

To the many citizens of Charlevoix . . . to the men of the United States Coast Guard stationed there . . . the city officials . . . and to the personnel of Charlevoix Hospital who so generously and sympathetically assisted in the difficult work centered at Charlevoix following the loss of the Steamer CARL D. Words cannot adequately express the very deep appreciation felt toward Charlevoix by personnel of Bradley Transportation Line and Michigan Limestone and especially by the friends and relatives of BRADLEY crewmen.

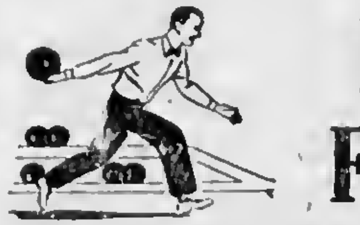
First Game Of New Year, Rayders Beat Petoskey, 63-44



Neff's Win First Round

Well the first round came to an end last Tuesday night with Neff's coming through like champions and winning all four points to take the first half. Neff's are now assured of being in the play-offs at the end of the season for the league trophy. The Airport Inn which was in first place going into the last night was the victim of Neff's onslaught. Although the Inn rolled its lowest series of the season, credit has to be given to Neffs who rolled at least 65 pins over their average every game. The other two games being 99 & 79 pins over. Dick Bergmann came through in fine style as the anchor man as he rolled a 557 series. H. Struthers pitched in with a 500 series. Other members of Neff's squad include Clayton Smith, Bernie Ward Jr., Bob Livingston and the sponsor Gordon Neff. Congratulations. For the Inn, the only one who was around was the guy we couldn't find last week — Nick Hamilton. Nick came through with a 508. As for the Airports Big Wheel—the man who is their co-sponsor, captain and anchor man (?) all rolled into one came through in fine style. I might as well tell you it will be all over town anyhow. I rolled my lowest game of the year, 109, and also my lowest series—3—yes I said 3—395. What's that saying — "He who laughs last" — I'm sure Puff knows it. Now you know why they call me "Duz"—"Duz does everything."

* * *

Puffs ended up the first round by taking 3 points from Browe Electric and holding down second place. Puff was high for his team as he had a 552 series including a 217 game. For Browes, it was Ted again leading his team with a 463. Nice going Nat — I see you hit over a 100 every game. (I should talk.)

* * *

Sinclair ended up in a tie for third as they took all 4 points from Hess Furniture. Only one man going for the Oilers and that was Meg with his 210, 539. For Hess the best they could produce was Ralph Jrs. average minus 10 points (142). The man who wasn't there was high with his triplicate 426. For the guys who were there; Jess Penn was high 395 (I don't feel so bad now—at least I beat Itch and Herb.)

* * *

Brown Motors ended up in fifth place by winning 3 points from an almost completely new Freedman No. 1 team. Frank Ochs took the spotlight for Browns as he rolled 55 pins over his average and led the team with a 481. For Freedman's, old standby John Swanson switched into the anchor spot and led the way with his 549 series including a 214 game. A newcomer to the team, Gene Richards, came in with a 502.

Moonlight finished just inside the top half as they split with Swanson's Gravel 2-2. Grover (I'm sure you all know who he is by now) was high for Moonlight as he rolled a 210 game in a 512 series. For the Swanson family, Ron was high with a 452.

Lake Construction, who ended up on top of the 2nd division, wound up the first half by winning 3 points from Freedman No. 2. John Wojan led the way with his 530. (You can tell John is back to his straight ball—and they'll be a tougher team this second half because of it) For Freedman No. 2, young Jerry Burke wound up the first half in a blaze of glory—with a 117 average Jerry rolled a 492 series including a game of 193 Nice going Jer (Simple game isn't it) I'd like to give Freedman No. 2 team a lot of credit. They started out in the cellar and finished in the cellar but as far as I know they had 5 men there every week and they were always in there trying. Many times when you get a last place team which is completely out of the running you have a hard time holding them together—Not so with this bunch. Better luck next half.

Well it turned out to be a pretty good half. You couldn't ask for a tighter race. Any one of half dozen teams could have won it in the last few weeks and you won't find them much closer than that. Here's hoping we have just as good a race and just as much fun in the next round. I know I opened my big mouth and said I'd write this column, but who was the blabber-mouth who suggested I put a little hu-

For the time being the Airport Inn tightened its hold on first place last week by winning all 4 points from Freedman No. 1. The Airport had 4 men over the 500 mark as they rolled high total for the night with 2545. Hank Felix was on top with a 540. I was second with a 520 series including high game of the night—240. (I know just what you're thinking—what happened the other two games—well that's the same thing I've been trying to figure out.) Andy Anderson was next with a 203 game in a 516 series — and then came Soupie with a 506 (Where was Nick?) For the losers who had a new man breaking in (I should say new bowler — Pat's been around a little while—Pat Curtis that is). As I was saying only John Swanson could get over the mark and he came in with a 519.

Neffs broke the tie for second as they won 3 points from Sinclair. Oops—mistake—Neffs had high total for the night—2657. And they also had high single game of 988, which is a season high. Howie Struthers was the big man as he rolled games of 219 & 223 in a nice 591 series. Gordon Neff rolled a 210 game 524 series. The Oilers had a pretty fair series themselves as they had 3 men over the 500 mark. Meg was high with 558, then Tip Riley with his 536 and last Teddie Ager with 507. Ken Cellner just missed with a 499 as he had a 205 game. (Where was Louie?)

* * *

The "could be leaders," Puffs, took 3 points from Swanson Gravel. Puff again leading his team with a 550 series—and that was all they had. Ron Cunningham who has an average of 151 almost hit that as a triplicate — 151 151, 154. For Swanson, Ron was high with a 476 They finally pushed that relative off the top—they should too when he only rolls a 440.

* * *

Browns and Moonlight had quite a tussle with Browns coming out on top 2½-1½. They tied the first game at 762. Norm Empey was top man for Browns with his 504, while Grov Geneit led Moonlight with a 528 including a 200 game. I wish this paper was coming out before Sunday so I could wish Brown Motors good luck.

* * *

Hess and Freedman No. 2 had a pretty close match as they ended up with a split 2-2. Al Anderson (an import from the E. J. league) was high for Hess with a 495 series including a 207 game. For Freedman's Harry Pearsal was high with a 448.

* * *

Lake Construction with John Wojan going back to his straight ball took all 4 points from Browe's. John who couldn't quite master that hook went back to his old straight ball and led the team with a 514 series including a 202 game. For Browe's it was Ted again coming in with a 510. I think they set a league low in the third game with a 589.

Dope Sheet

The Charlevoix Rayders, who got back on the victory trail last week with a 64-44 win over Petoskey, will take on Harbor Springs Friday on the Rams' floor and will host the Gaylord Blue Devils here Tuesday as the 1958-59 schedule is shifted into high gear.

Coach Don Carey's lads have two wins to their credit in league play, a 38 to 34 victory over the defending champions, Boyne City, and a 65 to 53 win over Grayling. Their one loss was to East Jordan in the final game before the holiday. The Rayders lost to the Red Devils by a 51 to 49 score after losing their top-scorer, Ron Vandenberg, early in the second half. Since then they have romped over the Class B Petoskey Northmen 63-44.

The Harbor Springs, on the other hand, have lost to the league-leading Pellston Hornets (61-44), East Jordan (59-39) and Grayling (62-34) and show little promise for this season due to a drought of experienced material.

However, anything can happen on the Harbor Springs floor and could this week if the Rayders do not play heads-up ball all the way.

On Tuesday the Rayders will entertain the Gaylord Blue Devils who are currently tied with them as well as Mancelona and East Jordan for second place. This small team which averages less than six feet has depended entirely on speed and long shots from outside to keep them in the running. They are led by John Burnson who has shared scoring honors with several of his teammates so their scoring punch is not confined to one or two players.

Gaylord only loss at this time has been to Pellston by a four-point margin (48-44) while they have defeated Grayling (54-46) and Boyne City (47-35).

Charlevoix has defeated two of these same teams, Boyne City and Grayling, by similar scores while losing to East Jordan by a two-point margin.

On the basis of records, this should be a close game with the result a toss-up. However, Charlevoix has more height which they have used to advantage most of the time and this, added to the fact that they are playing on their home floor, should give them a slight edge in the meeting.

The Charlevoix Rayders defeated Petoskey for the first time since the 1955-56 season Friday when they rolled over the Northmen by a score of 63 to 44

The game was a close one during the first two periods with the Rayders holding a 12 to 10 quarter lead and a 29 to 25 halftime advantage. In the third period, however, the Rayders racked up 22 points to pull away 51 to 37 going into the final period They cooled off in the final period as Coach Don Carey substituted freely.

Starting for the Rayders were Ron Vandenberg who rolled up an impressive 28 points to pace the game, Joe Beaudoin, Bruce Pease, Bill Poquette and Dave Schuchard. Steve LaBlance, Charles Coleman and Jim Ladd joined the action in the second period with Ralph Brock seeing action in the final quarter.

Vandenberg with two field goals and two charity shots, and Pease and Schuchard with three points each put Charlevoix ahead 12 to 10 at the first quarter. Gary Shanley had six and Mike Rosenow and John Riggs a field goal each to account for Petoskey's scoring.

Charlevoix continued to outscore their hosts 17 to 15 in the second period as the Rayders stayed ahead 29 to 25 at the half. Vandenberg accounted for the lion's share of points, scoring four field goals and five out of eight free throws while Beaudoin had one field goal and Pease and Ladd a free throw apiece. Petoskey had four field goals and seven free throws as Coach Ace Zographos re-shuffled his line-up.

In the third period when the Rayders had their best quarter of the season, Vandenberg and Schuchard shared scoring honors with seven points each. LaBlance contributed four and Beaudoin and Poquette two each for 22 points and a comfortable 51 to 37 third period lead.

The Rayders continued their scoring attack in the final period on four points by LaBlance and one field goal each by Vandenberg, Poquette, Ladd and Brock. The Northmen had three field goals and a free throw.

Charlevoix outscored Petoskey 20 to 15 in the field goal department. They also connected on 23 of 39 free throw attempts while collecting 19 fouls. Petoskey hit on 14 of 29 attempts and had 27 fouls.

Rosenow had 13 and Shanley 12 points for Petoskey.

Teams Wing Into Full Battle; Eight Loop Games In Five Days

Northern Michigan Class C teams will resume their loop schedules this week, returning to the basketball courts following a three weeks holiday vacation.

Friday's games will open a concentrated schedule during which each team will play 11 league games and one or more non-loop committments during the remaining seven weeks of the season.

This week will find Charlevoix playing at Harbor Springs, Gaylord entertaining Mancelona, Pellston invading Boyne City and East Jordan hosting Grayling on Friday.

Tuesday will find all teams returning to the hardwoods as Charlevoix entertains Gaylord, Boyne City travels to Grayling, Mancelona hosts Harbor Springs and East Jordan journeys to Pellston.

The Gaylord-Mancelona game will highlight Friday's action as the two teams battle it out for possession of second place in league standings. The two teams are currently tied with Charlevoix and East Jordan for the second place spot behind the league-leading Pellston Hornets who have a perfect record of three wins for the season.

Gaylord and Mancelona have one thing in common . . . both have been defeated by the league leading Pellston quintet, Gaylord by a score of 48 to 44 and Mancelona by a 40 to 36 margin. The Blue Devils have racked up wins over Grayling (54-46) and Boyne City (47-35) while Mancelona has defeated East Jordan (52-34) and Boyne City (55-54).

Unless they are slowed down as the result of the holiday lay-off this should be a hard fought game with the fast but small Blue Devils having a slight edge over the Ironmen who, thus far, have failed to prove themselves despite their experience.

The Grayling - East Jordan game should be another close one despite the fact that the Vikings have only one win to their credit. The Red Devils have lost to Mancelona (52-34) but have wins over Harbor Springs (59-39) and Charlevoix (51-49) while the Vikings lost to the latter (65-53) and Gaylord (54-46) while trimming Harbor Springs (62-34).

By virtue of their records the Red Devils, fresh from their win over the Rayders, should be favored. The Vikings, however, have a young outfit that is going to be consistently better as the season progresses and this might be the time for them to show potential.

Boyne City is sharing the league cellar with Harbor Springs with no wins in three games. Thus far they have bowed to Charlevoix (38-34), Gaylord (47-35) and Mancelona (55-54) while the high flying Hornets are in first place with victories over Harbor Springs (61-44), Mancelona (40-36) and Gaylord (48-44).

Hampered by inexperience, the Ramblers are finding it hard to get going while the taller, experienced Pellston five have coasted into the loop lead with little opposition. It looks as though the latter will stay on the victory trail this week when they meet the hapless Ramblers.

All eight teams will return to the basketball courts again Tuesday for mid-week performances.

This time East Jordan will be taking on the league leaders on the Pellston floor. This should be a close game for, despite their loss to Mancelona, the Red Devils have a promising outfit paced by Mike Schenck who serves as the floor manager and top scorer.

The Hornets, however, are leading the league for the first time in years and like their first place position Though Barry Anderson has done most of the team's scoring Coach Francis McMahon has several players who can score thus making the team a better balanced one than the Red Devils who depend almost entirely in Schenck.

The Red Devils will be trying but it is doubtful if they will have the power to knock the Hornets out of the league lead.

Boyne City will travel to Grayling to take on the Vikings in the hopes of coming up with a victory. The Vikings, however, have other ideas and unless the Ramblers show more than they have to date the big Grayling quintet which averages 6 ft. 3 in. should trim them without too much trouble.

Mancelona should have smooth sailing with the Harbor Springs Rams who currently share the cellar position with the Ramblers. The Rams lack experience after losing their entire starting line-up by graduation and injuries. Though Coach Charles Paige has plenty of material it will take him some time to develop it. In the meantime the Rams have been easy prey to more experienced teams.

From the Side Lines . . .

It looked like we were watching the first game of the season over again. The Rayders playing another hard play and relax game looked rather like a variety of Coleman's Cats of years back.

Undecidedness seemed to be the key-note Friday night with each player wanting to hold the ball as if it would be the last time it would be in his hands during the evening.

This thinking action slowed the Rayder attack on several occasions giving the Petoskey five a chance to bring the ball game back into their own back yard when the score at one time gave the Northmen a slight edge.

However the Rayders did emerge victorious, this being the object of the game. And at that point put all of us, part time, half time coaches, in our proper places until next week, when we shall again voice our opinion as to what should be done to improve the team. Until then—Ce-La-Vie.

JV's Win Thriller

Charlevoix's Little Rayders racked up their second victory of the current season Friday night when they edged the Petoskey Reserves 46 to 42 in a game which saw the score tied 32-all going into the final period.

The score was tied six-all at the end of the first period before the Rayders took a three-point lead at halftime as the score stood 20 to 17. In the third period, however, the little Northmen came back to outscore the Rayders 15 to 12 to knot the score 32-all as the game went into the final period. Charlevoix then put on the pressure and outscored their hosts 14 to 10 for the four-point victory.

Starting for the Rayders were Sam Supernaw, Jim Dennis, Lee Wielinga, Stan Martin and Don Nowland. Henry Wagner and Barry Pierce joined the line-up in the second period.

The game got off to a slow start with each team feeling its way as they scored six points each. Don Nowland scored two field goals and Dennis one to account for Charlevoix's scoring. Petoskey, on the other hand, scored two field goals and the same number of free throws.

Supernaw caught fire in the second period to lead the victors' scoring attack with four field goals while Dennis added one field goal and three gift shots and Martin one. Petoskey had four field goals and three charity shots as they trailed 20 to 17 at halftime.

The Northmen outscored the Rayders 15 to 12 in the third quarter to tie the score 32-all after scoring six field goals and three free throws. Charlevoix had 12 points including five by Dennis, four by Supernaw, two by Martin and a free throw by Pierce.

Wagner contributed three field goals, Pierce two and Martin and Dennis a pair of free throws each to give the Rayders 14 points and the victory. Petoskey had four field goals and two gift shots.

Dennis had 14 and Supernaw 12 for the victors.

FALLOUT SHELTER for a family of four to six shows how a layer of 2 feet 3 inches of earth over a 6-inch concrete roof slab offers good protection even in highly radioactive fallout zones. Cost of this backyard shelter would range from $1,000 to $1,500, including ventilation equipment. It is recommended by the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization as the best family fallout shelter for a moderate price, but other less expensive basement designs are available. What Is The Largest "Farm Group" In Michigan?

112,000 Farm Families That Regularly Save Trading Stamps Are The Biggest "Farm Group" In Michigan.

America's farm families are traditionally thrifty. The same pattern of thrift is found in Michigan. It is only natural, therefore, that the response of Michigan farm families to one of the oldest forms of thrift—the trading stamp—is so noticeable.

Today over 112,000 farm families save them. You might almost say that these savers constitute the largest single farm group in the state.

During 1957 alone, thousands of dollars worth of trading stamp merchandise went into farm households in the state, and every 2 seconds a farm family is redeeming trading stamps.

There is still another side—direct income for farmers. During 1957 the stamp industry purchased from Michigan farmers $975,000 worth of primary materials that go into the manufacture of merchandise for stamp redemption.

No one can contemplate these facts and fail to realize that both personally and economically the trading stamp industry is a meaningful and welcome force in the life of our state.

I is a rare occasion when the tugs all leave the local harbor at the same time.

Near zero temperatures for nearly six weeks has caused Little Traverse Bay to freeze over at the earliest date in recent years.

The U. S. C. G. cutter Sundew was called to southern Lake Michigan Sunday to assist in ice breaking operations. Several large tankers were caught in the ice off Chicago and Muskegon.

He also instructed the finance committee for last year to review a number of delinquent membership pledges and offer suggestions for collection. He pointed out that the budget of the Chamber last year was based on membership pledges and that this money will be needed to carry on operations until members start to pay their 1959 dues. The fiscal year started as of Jan. 1.

The board approved a motion to retain Tom Symons as secretary-manager pending negotiations of a new contract. Mr. Symons, whose contract expires Jan. 15, was agreeable to the action.

A resolution was adopted thanking the committee which planned and conducted the dinner for the Coast Guard personnel for the efficient and successful manner in which the function was handled.

Community Extends Official Welcome to Coast Guard Personnel

Congenialty and good fellowship reigned supreme at the Weathervane Inn Saturday night as the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce hosted the U. S. Coast Guard personnel stationed here and their respective wives at a "welcome to the community" party.

Nearly 200 members of the Chamber or persons representing them and their guests, Coast Guard personnel from the cutter Sundew, the Charlevoix Lifeboat Station and the Group office gathered at the Weathervane for the buffet supper which was followed by a brief program and a social evening which featured dancing to the music of the Johnny Kay Trio who contributed their talents for the party.

Among the guests were representatives of U. S. Steel which with the Bradley Transportation Co. and Michigan Limestone Co furnished surprise favors of cigarette lighters and bracelets for everyone present in appreciation for "all that was done in this community to assist our people following the loss of the Steamer Carl D. Bradley."

Rev. Robert J. Yonkman, a member of the Chamber of Commerce planning committee, served as toastmaster introducing Mayor James Hiller who welcomed Coast Guard personnel to Charlevoix and Max Hosmer, president of the Chamber of Commerce, who welcomed service people as well as Chamber members and their guests to the party.

Norman O. Hoeft, manager of the Bradley Transportation Co. and L. J. Patterson, manager of the northern district of the Michigan Limestone Co., both of Rogers City, and R. E. Allgire of Detroit, public relations representative of U. S. Steel spoke briefly. All commended the Coast Guard for their untiring and heroic efforts in the Nov. 18 disaster and expressed their gratitude to both the Coast Guard and the people of Charlevoix for their assistance during this trying time.

Lt. Cmdr. Harold D. Muth, skipper of the cutter Sundew which has been based here since June, and Chief Warrant Officer Joseph Etienne who spoke in behalf of the men at the Coast Guard Group Office and the Charlevoix Lifeboat Station thanked the Chamber of Commerce and the people of Charlevoix for their hospitality. Both stated that it was a gesture they had never seen duplicated during their years in the Coast Guard.

Fran Martin, chairman of the planning committee for the Chamber of Commerce, welcomed the guests and introduced the toastmaster. Other members of the committee were Earl A. Young, Andrew Essenberg jr., C. T. Symons jr., secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, and the Rev. Yonkman who was toastmaster.

Because of the time element in setting a date when the majority of Coast Guard personnel would be present it was impossible to plan ticket sales much in advance of the date. Commenting on the situation, Max Hosmer, president of the Chamber of Commerce said, "We are extremely sorry that facilities available could not accommodate all of the Chamber of Commerce members who wished to attend the Coast Guard dinner. The fact that some members were not solicited was not intentional but reservations were filled long before everybody could be contacted. I personally wish to extend my sincere thanks to the members of the party planning committee and all who helped to make the party a tremendous success."

The "welcome to Charlevoix" party staged Saturday night had been in the planning stage since Charlevoix was named as the base for the cutter Sundew. However, the duties of the cutter and the various other service units kept the city from officially welcoming he crew to the community until now. The cutter left the following day for ice breaking duties in the Muskegon and Chicago areas.

More than 100 members of the Chamber of Commerce or persons delegated to represent them together with their wives, were present for the event. The ticke

Township and city assessors and board of review members were given instruction in assessment methods and use of card index inventories at two schools of instruction last Wednesday and Thursday. The meetings were sponsored by the county equalization committee of the Board of supervisors. The schools were conducted by field representative of the State Tax Commission.

The study was held to further equality of assessment between the townships and cities through the use of modern uniform practices, according to Ted R. Miller, chairman of the sponsoring committee. The ultimate goal is to have a card file record for each piece of property in the county, he said. The cities of Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan are now operating under a card file system.

Commenting on assessing methods, Mr. Miller said, "With taxes as one of our prime financial concerns, it is important that each owner is assessed fairly with his neighbor and it then follows that each township and city will carry their fair share of the load. It is only by using common assessment methods and practices that this will be brought about."

What Is Your Opinion?

Editor's Note: The following editorial appeared in the Leelanau Enterprise-Tribune. Possible Courier readers wish to express their views on these governmental issues. Results will be tabulated by the Courier and forwarded to our repreentatives in congress.

A U. S. Senator, in a recent newsletter, listed the legislative proposals he intends to work for in this new session of Congress.

These legislative aims; all of which have "appeal," would cost billions of dollars. The Senator makes no mention of how these additional costs would be met. He even suggests tax cuts.

What are these proposals the Senator plans to promote? Here are the costlier items expressed in his own words:

(a) Further improvements in the level of Social Security benefits and eligibility requirements.

(b) Raising the minimum wage to $1.25 an hour.

(c) Adoption of a significant public works program to construct public housing, federal buildings, dams, etc.

(d) Passage, over another Presidential veto if necessary, of the area redevelopement bill to aid areas hit by chronic unemployment.

(e) Passage of the Community Facilities bill to permit cities and towns to borrow funds at low interest to contruct necessary local public works projects.

(f) Expenditure of $2 billion over a two-year period to assist the states in schoolroom construction.

All of these bills were introduced during the past session of Congress. Most of them died when the gavel banged to end the session.

Although all of these proposals might seem desirable, we believe the American taxpayer is in a mood to start saying "No, we can't afford it!"

Here we are, on the national level, bowed down under the weight of a $280 billion debt including a $12 billion deficit for the current fiscal year. Social Security tax rates already have been advanced well-ahead of schedule. New increases in federal gasoline taxes and in postal rates are predicted for this year.

On the state level we face a $100 million deficit; payments to our universities have been suspended; and a state income tax is staring us in the face.

We have learned the hard way that we cannot spend ourselves out of a depression or recession, any more than a family can solve its financial problems by going deeper into debt. All we do is postpone the agony.

The proposals made by this Senator are not new. As we have pointed out, they were made during the past session of Congress and, for the most part, turned down.

Members of Congress who sent out questionnaires last year to the people back home learned that the clamor for new government "services" and "benefits" were coming mainly from pressure groups . . . not from the individual American citizen, one-third of whose income already is going for taxes.

The danger is that most of these people don't take the time or effort to write their elected officials, so these same officials, deluged by mail from pressure groups, assume that we want the government "to do more and more for us."

The fallacy is that WE ARE THE GOVERNMENT. The only source of income is our own tax dollars . . . now being spent at the rate of nearly $80 billion a year. We realize that, particularly at this time of year, when we are settling up with "benevolent" Uncle Sam for income tax — and about 90 percent of the income tax is paid by people with incomes comparable to those of people in this county.

Believing that the American press is a fundamental expression of American opinion, we are printing below, in table form, the proposals this Senator and other lawmakers have pledged themselves to promote, asking you, the reader and taxpayer, to express your opinions by a simple check of "yes" or "no" as to whether you want these things badly enough to pay for them.

Results of this survey will be reported in this newspaper and forwarded to members of Michigan's Congressional delegation. Copies of this editorial are being sent to many other Michigan newspapers in the hope that they too will attempt to get an expression of reader opinion to submit to Michigan's congressional delegation.

Please take a moment to check your opinions, not as a Republican, Democrat or Independent, but as a citizen and taxpayer, then mail this questionaire to the Leelanau Enterprise-Tribune, Leland, Michigan.

DO YOU BELIEVE THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT SHOULD: (Yes) (No)

(a) Provide further increases in Social Security benefits ( ) ( )

(b) Raise the minimum wage to $1.25 an hour ( ) ( )

(c) Adopt a significant public works program to construct public housing, federal buildings, dams, etc. ( ) ( )

(d) Pass an area redevelopment hill to air areas hit by chronic unemployment ( ) ( )

ATTEND CHURCH SUNDAY

ODDS 'N ENDS

BY FRAN MARTIN

FROM FLORIDA two copies of the special Orange Bowl edition of the Miami Herald. With all the beautiful pictures and all the news about the big New Year's Day event. Each year, it seems, the festivities get bigger and bigger. It's always fun to read these papers and look at the pictures, especially after you've seen so many of them on TV. We think one of the copies came from Bill Graves in Fort Lauderdale but we didn't recognize the printing on the other copy but to two thoughtful people, both of whom we hope will read this, our sincere thanks for bringing us a bit of Florida. And how about sending a little of the Florida sunshine and warmth. We could do with a bit of both.

* * *

IT'S BEEN COLD these last few days — so cold that Little Traverse Bay is frozen over and there's more than a little ice between the points, North and south, that is. Gee, the big lake hasn't frozen over this early in we can't remember when. Now maybe all you people away from here will believe us when we tell you what cold weather we've been having.

* * *

IF YOU'VE BEEN listening to the news out of Chicago you know that there are several oil tankers and other vessels caught in the ice in southern Lake Michigan. The Sundew pulled out at mid-afternoon Sunday to go about her winter duties. If there isn't any Sundew report this week it's because the ship got underway before our sailor correspondent, Warren Toussaint, could get his report written. As he said the other day, they'd been doing all sorts of inside work that had to be done so he didn't have anything too exciting. Now he'll have plenty to write about.

* * *

TALKING ABOUT the Sundew brings to mind the party the Chamber of Commerce gave Saturday night for all our Coast Guardsmen and their wives. The fellows all showed up in their dress blues and it turned into the kind of party we feel real proud to have had a part of. U. S. Steel came through with beautiful favors which their public relations representative, Dick Allgire, once editor of the Petoskey Evening News, and Norm Hoeft of the Bradley Transportation Line and L. J. Patterson of the Michigan Limestone Co. were on hand to present to the Coast Guardsmen, their wives, the members of the Chamber of Commerce and their wives as a "Thank You" for the jobs both did during the time of the Bradley disaster in November. We thought it was pretty wonderful of the company to ask to take part in this event whose prime purpose was to honor the U. S. Coast Guard personnel stationed here. We're sure we speak for everyone when we say we're happy they wanted to join in honoring these fine people who are so much a part of our community.

* * *

WE HAVEN'T seen it but we're told it's really something. A picture of Charlevoix's beautiful harbor on a calendar distributed by the Master's Boat Co. of Chicago. Phil Lawrence told us about it. He noticed one of the pictures on the calendar and then did another 'take' for he recognized it as a local scene. Charlevoix should be real grateful for such wonderful publicity, despite the fact that the picture did not carry a cutline.

* * *

AVOCADOS, anyone? That's a question asked us last week and naturally we said 'yes' for fresh avocadoes, especially this time of year, are a rare treat. The Mark Crosses, just home from California, shared this bit of fruit with us after bringing several all the way from the west coast. We enjoyed them, the avocadoes, that is, and many thanks for remembering us.

SUNDEW REPORTS

We have been hearing and seeing a lot about the biggest wedding of the year but the really big wedding took place Saturday night between the City of Charlevoix and the U. S. Coast Guard.

The engagement was too long. The shy bride not only was cautious about taking the big step but almost didn't make it to the wedding. Relatives higher in authority almost cancelled the wedding at the last minute.

Though we are at present many miles away, the talk is still going on about the wonderful party. A big 'thank you' from the Coast Guard to the Chamber of Commerce, the people of Charlevoix, Bradley Transportation Co., Michigan Limestone Co. and the U. S. Steel Corp. This event will be the talk of the Guard for years to come. We are just beginning our ice breaking operations for the winter months but the 'ice' has been permanently broken in Charlevoix.

If you didn't hear from us or see us around it was because we had to leave Sunday afternoon for Muskegon. We arrived here early Monday. Our stay here is indefinite.

Most of the past week was spent cleaning and painting aboard ship. The bridge was completely done over as was the crew's berthing space. We can now sleep peacefully to sleep under a clean white ceiling and light green walls. The painting of the berthing compartment made it necessary for the crew to find other places to sleep. You had to walk cautiously to avoid stepping on someone while the work was going on.

John Coppens was left behind in the hands of the nurses at the Charlevoix hospital when we left Sunday. We hope his recovery will be speeded up. All the holiday leaves have expired so we are back to full strength. Couldn't ask for a calmer, more beautiful night on the way to Moskegon. Wonder what the wives did with the dinner left uneaten when we left so hurriedly Sunday. We saw an engagement and wedding ring combination in its neat little box but so far no definite word from its owner on a date.

Call Republican Convention to Elect Delegates

Flea Market Has Offering For Everybady

The Paris Flea Market looks as if all the attics of the world had suddenly been emptied into a small quarter of the French capital.

Visitors have called it a bargain hunter's paradise — or a glorified city dump. Whatever it is, the Flea Market has become one of Paris's greatest attractions. Anybody wanting anything — a German helmet of the Franco-Prussian War, Sevres china, a stuffed eagle, a bust of Socrates, or secondhand false teeth — can probably find it in the Flea Market, if he locks long enough.

Municipal authorities are reported planning to take over the market area to build apartment houses, but so far the Flea Market's 3,000 shops are still operating at the old stand near the Porte de Clignancourt on the northern edge of the city.

The Flea Market (Marche aux Puces) was established in the latter part of the 19th century, the National Geography Society says. Ragpickers — who comb the city's trash cans every morning —made their headquarters in a collection of rough shacks inside the northern walls of Paris. Their daily gleanings furnished the mart with its stock in trade, and their reputation as carriers of vermin gave the Flea Market its name.

Thrifty French housewives got in the habit of going to the Marche aux Puces for odd items hard to find in more prosaic shopping centers — a new wheel for the baby carriage or a porcelain doorknob to match the wall-paper in the guest bedroom.

Foreign travelers discovered the place shortly after the turn of the century. They found it amusing, and told their friends. Canny Paris antique dealers, quick to recognize a good thing, moved in. Some came first to buy stock for their shops on fashionable downtown streets. Soon they had established branches. Now the market offers what is probably the world's [illegible] collection of [illegible] antique furniture, [illegible] and [illegible].

The thousands of merchants in the Flea Market esteem a shrewd bargainer. Except for very cheap objects, a dealer does not expect to get his asking price. As one merchant explained, "If I want 300,000 francs, I start at 325,000. If I say 5,000, I mean 4,000."

But a customer has to be shrewd to get a dealer down to his last price, as an American couple found during their visit. Wanting to buy a Luis Seize cylinder desk, they carefully planned their bargaining strategy in pig Latin on the off-chance the shopkeeper might know English.

They got the desk — for about $50 more than they would have paid in the most expensive shop in Paris. As they left, the shopkeeper said: "Oodgay eyebay. Anymay anksthay."

Adventures in Understanding

Notes from a northerner's diary

By Harold E. Kohn

The Peril of Sticking to the Facts

Not long ago I purchased some highly technical books on animal life because I wanted to find out some things that the average naturalist has been unable to tell me. Some of these books remind me of the scholarly preacher who was disliked by a ten-year-old boy who found him singularly tiresome. When the youngster was questioned as to his evident discomfiture during the learned reverend's preaching, he replied, " I don't like to listen to him. He answers too many questions nobody ever asks." So with these books. They will never be best sellers. They answer too many questions about animals that virtually nobody asks.

Concerning a red squirrel for instance, its hind foot is from 40 to 57 millimeters long and its skull length from 42.9 to 48.7 millimeters. The bristly long hairs known as vibrissae, growing on the lower face of an adult female mule deer vary from 12 to 38 millimeters in length, and project at an angle of about 45 degrees above the horizontal at about 35 degrees from the longitudinal axis of the head and paralleling the slant of the eye. These facts may represent some truth concerning red squirrel and deer, but they leave me somewhat unaffected. They answer questions I have never asked. The drama of squirrel and deer life lies less in minute measurements than in the way they live and solve their problems — how they communicate with their kind, how well they hear, see and smell, how they run and groom themselves and avoid or conquer their enemies, how they fraternize, play, rest, feed and reproduce their kind, and how they keep warm with temperatures diving far below zero. These are facts about red squirrels, deer and other animal neighbors with which I want to become much more familiar. And then, beyond the facts, I am glad to have a deep-knowing about some animals with which no statistics could compare. I know what it is to have a red-squirrel treat me like a part of the forest, running up one of my arms, across my shoulders and down my other arm as I sat on a log in our woods on a wintry day. And I know what it means to have wild, spotted twin fawns stand near me, unafraid, as they browsed on apple twigs on a rain-swept late summer afternoon at Hidden Brook.

"Let's stick to the facts" people say as they seek out the truth. But what we usually mean by "the facts" is represented by hard bone dry statistics, vital to the whole truth as a skeleton is to the whole person—and bearing about as much resemblance! Jack Webb, who plays the part of a solemn detective on a current television program, exemplifies the attitude of fact-mindedness, frequently demanding of a witness "I want the facts, Mam, just the facts." If Mr. Webb got exactly what he asked for his program would be the dullest in the field of entertainment. As it is, luckily for Mr. Webb's show, the actresses and actors ignore Mr. Webb's plea for "facts" alone, and respond with anger, confusion, wonder, fear and other elements that make for drama. Even a detective looking for material evidence of a crime, fingerprints, footprints, a gun or a knife, regards his search a failure until he also finds a motive, which is a non-material thing, occupying no more space than a wish and having no more weight than a dream.

(If it is argued that a motive is also a fact, the answer is that a motive is not what Americans in common everyday speech mean by a fact. They have in mind a thing having statistical implications, usually something occupying space and having weight. It is with this limited definition of the word "fact" in mind that I write.)

Facts are wooden-headed marionettes. Their behavior depends upon who pulls tho strings and speaks for them. If the manipulator is stupid the facts act and speak foolishly, but if the handler is wise the facts will speak sound sense and even profound wisdom. For instance it is a fact that between 1947 and 1952 television sets in the homes of America increased about 10,000 per cent. If you project this figure upon the next ten years you arrive at the ridiculous conclusion that by 1969 there will be 40 televison sets per family. Yet projection of figures is a common statistical practice that many people accept without blinking an eye, believing it a sure way of arriving at the truth.

Again, we make our puppet facts kneel before the great god, Average, and serve him. Yet Average is a false god and stupid, too, feigning a wisdom it does not possess. Take a simple case of wages. The owner of a small business is reproached for paying low wages. He replies that the average worker in his plant is well paid getting $9,966.66 per year. And he is right. But a statistical breakdown shows the wages distributed as follows:

1 secretary	2,200
10 Shop Workers	15,000
	(or $1,500 each)
12 Workers Receive	$117,200

The average wage is a good one—as the owner says—$9,766.66 per year. But only the owner receives that much!

An uncommonly dull quartermaster might discover that 300 men in the army barracks wore shoes averaging size nine. Yet it would be possible for 75 of the men to wear size seven, 75 size eight, 75 size ten and 75 size eleven, with nobody at all wearing size nine. But the average size would be nine, and if 300 pairs of shoes size nine were ordered everyone would have the wrong size! The value of averages depends upon who figures them, what the computer is trying to prove and how the figures are handled.

Our statistic-awed generation would do well to recognize that it is perilous to "stick to the facts," if we mean by facts only those material things that can be counted, measured and weighed.

While we have more fact-collecting apparatus than any other generation in history our facts have not made up appreciably better people. While newly found facts have poured beneficial gifts upon the twentieth century world, they have also dropped incomparable destruction upon us, giving us develish means for annihilating ourselves. If we stick to the facts now, being attached only to our newly found and highly efficient scientific contrivances, we are a doomed race. Our salvation will be in sticking to something bigger than our statistics and computed strength. We had better be loyal to our God, and to the welfare of all mankind.

Moreover we need to move beyond our love for facts to a wise use of the facts already known to us. Some time ago a report appeared in the New York Times dealing with a United Nations investigation of economic help to Bolivia. The Times reported that the reason for the lack of economic progress in that South American country lies not in ignorance of what Bolivia needs, nor even in technical know-how. The great problem is that the government was unable or unwilling to act upon such knowledge as it possessed. The United Nations mission discovered that the recommendations made by experts and going back 40 years, had collected in vast piles in Bolivian government archives. Substantially the same remedies had been recommended by all the studies, but virtually nothing had been done about any of them. Bolivians had the facts. They stuck to them. That was their trouble. It is our problem too. We know our eating and drinking habits are unhealthy, but we persist in them. We know we should get more exercise or diet but we don't do it. We know strict budgeting would help solve our financial difficulties, but we do not bother budgeting. The newspapers keep us well informed on the statistics of automobile "accidents" and the authorities have emphasized that most cripplings and deaths occuring on the highway are avoidable, but we continue to drive carelessly. We know that no war in history has been prevented by preparations for war, but we spend more for making war than we spend making peace.

We must advance beyond our absorption in facts to an accomplishment of some worthwhile purposes with those facts. Facts are like lumber, nails, brick and mortar, shingles and sashes—not to be merely admired, but to build with. They have meaning only as they belong to some planned structure—lumber and bricks belonging in a home, medical facts belong to the alleviation of suffering, political facts making for better government and for world order and peace.

Again, we should recognize that the most important facts are not mathematical or statistical and seldom verifiable. They are invisible and for the most part inaccessible to close and exact scrutiny. This is true with "historical facts." The big ones are not the numbers of soldiers in an army or the trajectory of the cannons, but the motives and passions of men that prompted them to march and to fight. We do not understand military history at all if we know only the statistics of the campaigns. Why were the campaigns organized at all? Why did Caeser, Napoleon, Americans, North and South, Germany, Japan, Russia, France, England and the United States do what they did? What was in the minds of their leaders? What were their thoughts, anxieties, greeds, and hopes? These matters lie beyond mathematical analysis and documentary proof. Yet they are the weightiest components of history. By sticking to "the facts" we could not understand the history of the race at all.

Again, it will pay us to see that "the facts of life" are not as important as the way we look at them and interpret them. The entire future of the world will be influenced by whether our world leaders and their followers view scientific advances as improved means of destroying enemies or serving world need. Or, see this truth applied in a more personal realm. Here are two handicapped persons, partially disabled physically. Talk to one and she "sticks to the facts" of her handicap repeating over and over again exactly where she hurts, how many pills she consumes a day, how expensive her medicine is, who has called on her and especially who has neglected her. The other patient interprets her trouble in the light of the good she still finds in life, the faculties she can still employ to good use, the surprising kindnesses of friends and doctors and nurses. One patient stubbornly "sticks to the facts," the other builds beauty and blessing around them.

Finally, the best things in personal life cannot be understood by factual analysis alone. Sticking to "the facts" stifles understanding. Who knows the sea best, the chemist who analysis a test tube of sea water in his laboratory or the sailor who, with Masefield, loves

"a tall ship and a star to steer her by,
And the wheel's kick and the wind's song and the white sail's shaking,

Who knows a baby best, the physiologist who can describe in fairly accurate measure how much carbon, phosphorus, sodium, iron and all the rest, a ten pound baby's body contains—or the child's mother? We know more by loving than by analyzing.

Stick-to-it-iveness is a quality that is beneficial or detrimental depending upon the value of the thing to which it is attached. One can stick to his little, mean prejudices or to his low standards and be the worse for his loyalty. Or one can be attached to ones good friends, to the beautiful and to the highest truth he knows, and above all to the God who holds all other loyalties together, and he will be the better for his loyalty.

Stick to the facts? Rather, hold true to those highest values of which the facts are but dim shadows.

Charlevoix Blasts Harbor, Before Losing To Gaylord

Bowling News

BY DES

Freedman No. 2 started off the second round in fine style by beating their co-workers the Freedman No. 1 team. I'm not sure if No. 2 team won the points or the No. 1 team gave them away as they never hit in the 700's. For the winners Harry Pearsol was high with a 496, while for the losers John Swanson had a 491.

* * *

Puff's also jumped off to a good start as they got hot and bowled high series of the night 2692. You might know they'd be bowling against us (Airport Inn). Ed Lemeke was the big anchor for Puff's as he had a 557 series including a 202 game. Puff followed up with a 538. The other three men although not hitting 500 or better were well over their averages. The Inn had a pretty good series too but not enough to master Puff's. Andy Anderson was high for the Inn as he rolled a 588 series with a 203 game. Des was second high with a 560 including a 205 game.

* * *

Moonlight Gardens stayed right near the top as they won three points from Sinclair. This was also a high scoring affair as 7 of the 10 men hit 500 or better. For the Moonlight Lyle Ance was high with his 536 series—200 game. Grov Geneit was next with his 519 series which included a 223 game. Lyle Miles also came through with a 508. For the losing Oilers, Tip Riley rolled high game of the evening, a 231 as he compiled a 524. Ken Cellner had a 521. I see they brought Bobbie Gill out of retirement. Bob came through for them as he rolled a 510 series. Meg came in with a 500 right on the nose (60 pins back Meg.)

* * *

Lake Construction jumped on Brown Motors for three points to start the second half. Ron Wojan led the Lakers with his 512 series. What happened to John. Must have been one of those nights or else he went back to that hook—probably just one of those nights. I see Steve was back in the line-up — did you get that cigar, Hank? For Browns who seemed to have there troubles, Frank Ochs was high with his 445 series.

* * *

Hess Furniture stayed right near the top as they won three points from Swanson Gravel. One of the reasons Hess won is probably because they had 5 men there this time — that and the fact the Itch is throwing a lot better ball the past few weeks. "Charcoal Charlie" (that's Itch) was high as he rolled a 202 game and ended up with a 527 series. Hess' might have been able to take all 4 points if their new man Red Kleckner could have bowled a little more than his 114 second game. For the losers, Bob Ferguson came bouncing right back with a 205 game in a 529 series to be the only man on the squad to do much of anything.

* * *

The only teams to play to a draw 2-2 were Browe Electric and Neff's Groceries. Browe's won the first 2 games and then fell apart in the third as Neffs won that game plus total—Wait a minute—I don't know who figured he totals but I just checked and I've got Browes coming out on top—2196-2153. So instead of a split we'll give Browes a win 3-1. I don't know how they did it—Ted was high (?) with his 430 series—I see now Big Bergman was high for the losers with his 501. Everybody else was under 430. How come they didn't bowl like that against us last week.

With all 13 players in uniform seeing plenty of action, the Charlevoix Rayders rolled over the Harbor Springs Rams Friday night by a score of 80 to 20.

The Rayders romped into a 24 to 4 first period lead before adding 21 points in the second period to make the halftime score 45 to 11. In the third period Charlevoix dumped 18 points, despite the fact that the line-up was changing often. With a 63 to 17 third period advantage at the three quarter mark, the Rayders continued their scoring attack as their hosts scored only three points.

Charlevoix lost Joe Beaudoin in the third period when he injured his ankle. Coach Don Carey said Tuesday it was doubtful if he would play at Mancelona this week.

Starting for the Rayders were Beaudoin, Steve LaBlance, Ron Vandenberg, Bill Poquette and Dave Schuchard. Charles Coleman, Jim Ladd, Bud Balch, Dick VanRaaphorst, Bruce Pease, Ralph Brock, John Martin and Stan Smith joined the line-up in the second period and saw action throughout the remainder of the game.

Getting the Rayders off to a 24 to 4 first period lead were Schuchard with four field goals, LaBlance with four free throws and a bucket, Beaudoin with three and Vandenberg with two field goals.

Terry Burns and Gary Moulton each had field goals for the Rams.

Schuchard continued to pace the scoring in the second quarter with seven points on three field goals and a free throw. Poquette contributed two field goals, VanRaaphorst five points, Coleman and Beaudoin two each and Vandenberg a free throw.

The Rams had their best period in the second when they scored seven points including four by Jack VanHoven, two by Gary Stutzman and one by Francis Lauer.

With a 45 to 11 halftime lead, Coach Carey continued to play the entire bench but despite this the team rolled up 18 points including nine by Vandenberg, three by Schuchard and two each by LaBlance, Coleman and VanRaaphorst.

In the final quarter Coleman scored three field goals, Brock five points, Ladd two field goals and Pease one double pointer.

Pellston Dumps East Jordan 36-34 As Gaylord Nabs Charlevoix 42-39

The Pellston Hornets, after a tough game with East Jordan successfully defended their first place standing Tuesday night by edging the Jordanites 36 to 34. Grayling kept Boyne City out of the win column by defeating them 50 to 48 in a sudden death overtime after the regulation game had ended 44-all and the first overtime had resulted in a 48-48 tie.

Charlevoix dropped to a third place tie with East Jordan and Mancelona after the Rayders had lost to Gaylord by a score of 42 to 39 and the Ironmen had rolled over Harbor Springs 68 to 35.

* * *

The Charlevoix Rayders, playing without regular forward Joe Beaudoin who is benched with an ankle injury, lost to the Gaylord Blue Devils Tuesday night by a score of 42 to 39 after leading throughout most of the game.

The Rayders will be put to a second big test this week as they travel to Mancelona to take on the Ironmen now tied with Charlevoix and East Jordan for third place.

If Beaudoin is back in the line-up the Rayders will have an excellent chance over the Mancelona five. Both teams have identical records of three wins in five games. The winner will keep possession of third place in league standings so with so much at stake both teams will be up for the meeting. This alone should make it close one.

In their meeting with the Blue Devils Tuesday, Charlevoix jumped into a 15 to 10 first period lead which they increased to 24 to 15 at the half. Despite the fact that they were outscored 14 to 11 in third period the Rayders still held a 34 to 29 advantage going into the final period.

However, the pace of the game began to tell on the local five as the pressing Blue Devils slowly whittled the Rayders lead to shreds. With 2:35 minutes remaining in the game John Burnison dumped in the tieing basket. A pass interception which resulted in a basket by Bob Burnison game Gaylord the game as time ran out. Roger Walker added one point from the free throw line after the final whistle had sounded.

Ron Vandenberg paced the game with 20 points followed by Bill Poquette and Dave Schuchard with five points each, Bruce Pease with four, Jim Ladd and Dick VanRaaphorst with two points each and Steve LaBlance with one. Roy Wolf had 11 and Bob Burnison 10 for Gaylord.

* *

Pellston continued to pace the action in the Northern Michigan Class C league Friday night by rolling over Boyne City 52 to 50; Gaylord edged Mancelona 40 to 39; East Jordan dumped Grayling 43 to 36 and Charlevoix defeated Harbor Springs 80 to 20.

Pellston 52: Boyne City 50

At Boyne City the defending champions romped into a 12 to 10 first period lead which the Pellston Hornets cut to shreds by outscoring their hosts 21 to 9 to take a 31 to 21 halftime advantage. Pellston continued to lead 39 to 31 in the third period but the Ramblers caught fire and cut the lead to two points as time ran out.

Barry Anderson continued to pace the Hornets with 18 points followed by Gary Speneely with 15 points. George Shiotelis had 19 for the Ramblers who outscored the Hornets 17 to 15 in the field goal department but lost the game on the free throw line.

Gaylord 40: Mancelona 39

After trailing Mancelona thruout the game by as much as seven points, the Gaylord Blue Devils came from behind in the final 61 seconds of play to defeat the Ironmen by a one-point margin as they put on a full court press which flustered the less experienced Mancelona five. With 61 seconds remaining Bob Burnison and Johnny Burnison each scored a field goal to cut Mancelona's lead to one point. In the final 12 second Terry Cremeans took advantage of a bad pass to gain possession of the ball and score as time ran out.

Roy Wolf paced the game for the victors with 11 points as his team trailed 15 to 7 at the quarter, 19 to 17 at the half and 35 to 28 going into the final period. Jerry Patrick had 11 points for the Ironmen.

East Jordan 43: Grayling 36

Though Grayling was able to hold Mike Schenck to seven points, the East Jordan Red Devils jumped into a 10 to 7 first period lead which they increased to 21 to 18 at halftime and 29 to 24 going into the final period.

JVs Win Two Games

Charlevoix's little Rayders had to come from behind Tuesday night to win over the visiting Gaylord Reserves 31 to 26.

The visitors jumped into an eight to three first period lead which they increased to 17 to 12 before the local five got back into the game in the third period with 12 points for a 24 to 23 third period edge.

In the final period Charlevoix outscored Gaylord seven to three for the victory.

Scott Supernaw had 15 for the Rayders followed by Jim Dennis and Henry Wagner with six points each and Stan Martin with four points. Other starters were Barry Pierce and Don Nowland. Jack Dresheck had nine for Gaylord.

* * *

The Charlevoix Reserves roared to a 41 to 24 victory over the Harbor Springs Reserves Friday night in their first easy win of the current season.

The local J-V's racked up a 12 to 4 first period lead which was increased to 20 to 7 at halftime and 39 to 16 going into the final period when Coach Terry Rice emptied the bench and the Rayders managed only two points.

Supernaw who had a total of 14 points for the game scored three in the first period, Nowland added five, Wagner three and Martin one to account for Charlevoix's 12 points in the first period when Harbor Springs scored two field goals.

In the second quarter Dennis scored four points and Wielinga and DeYoung a field goal apiece to give the Charlevoix quintet a 20 to 7 advantage after the young Rams had scored only three points.

Charlevoix's big third period netted them 19 points including 11 by Supernaw and a field goal each by Pierce, Nowland, Martin and Dennis. Harbor Springs had four buckets and a charity shot.

In the final period, with the line-up changing constantly, DeYoung scored the only field goal of the period to give the Rayders a 41 to 24 victory after their hosts had managed three field goals and two free throws.

Grange Approves Tax Committee Proposal With Reservations

A key farm organization in Michigan, the Grange, has signified it is basically in agreement with the package tax program announced in December by the Conlin Citizen's Tax Committee.

Meeting recently in Muskegon, the Michigan State Grange executive committee declared that it was "the best solution yet offered to provide a more equitable taxation and to alleviate the state's financial crisis."

The Grange reports it has long favored a graduated state income tax — one of the main points of the two year study by the tax committee.

While giving approval of the program in general, the Grange executive committee rather questioned the merits of the $9 sales tax rebate on the grounds that costs of returning the rebate would be considerable, and such costs would necessarily cut total revenues.

The Grange report states it does not favor the proposed tax increase on insurance premiums collected by out-state companies from two to three per cent, nor a new tax on premiums collected by domestic companies.

The Grange expressed further concern that a state income tax be not wholly an added tax, but rather that it will help to relieve the heavy burden of taxation upon real estate for school maintenance and construction.

"Years ago, in a predominately rural community, taxation of real estate was as fair a means of taxation as could be had," state Grange Master Brake said, "but no longer is ownership of real estate a measure of abiblity to pay taxes. Wherever urban centers are spreading out into the countryside — and that is almost everywhere in southern Michigan — farmers are being over-taxed for the construction of schools. It can't help but be that way with the present tax system.

"Example can be found in almost every school district in Michigan of farmers who pay far more school tax than non-farmers with the same income."

In reviewing bills proposed for education expected to come before the state legislature this year, the executive committee went on record against one which would permit the Michigan Department of Public Instruction to order any school district to consolidate within three years or forfeit state aid. It also opposed one which would provide a pool for school fire insurance.

Grange Offers State-National Sewing Contest

Teen-agers, mothers and grand mother are being offered an opportunity to test their skills in the national sewing and crochet contest announced this week by the Michigan State Grange.

The contests will give teenage girls a chance to gain experience in these valuable home arts. Mothers and grand mothers also will find competing in one or both of these contests interesting, challenging and rewarding.

Prizes are to be awarded to state and national winners in three age groups (junior, youth and adult) in the sewing contest and by classes of article in the crochet contest.

One need not be a Granger to enter but must be sponsored by a member of the Grange. Rules of the contest may be obtained from the home economic chairman of each local Grange. Professions in the sewing field are not eligible.

The crochet entry must be completed any time in the year ending Aug. 31, 1959. The sewing contest runs from Feb 1 thru April 30, 1959.

With Alaska's admission to statehood, a bleak plain below Two Top Peak in western South Dakota is the United States' new geographic center, the National Geographic Magazine says. A spot near Lebanon, Kansas, still marks the theoretical balance point of the 48 contiguous States; a place near Devils Lake, North Dakota, that of the entire North American continent.

Copperheads are the most widely distributed and in many places the most abundant of poisonous snakes in the eastern U.S.

Soil Conservation District Awards Certificates to County Farmers

Each year the Charlevoix Soil Conservation District presents conservation awards certificates to landowners who have done the most toward completing their soil and water conservation plans.

Max Damoth, East Jordan high school superintendent, has been instrumental in developing a school forestry program for the 200 acres of school owned property. He has coordinated the efforts of the school board, East Jordan high school forestry committee, Future Farmers of America, Soil Conservation Service, Extension Service, Michigan Department of Conservation and Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee in establishing the forestry plans for each of the five parcels of land. The forestry areas will be a guidepost for accepted forestry practices in the Soil Conservation District and will not only aid the kids but adults as well.

Ed Shanahan, RFD, Charlevoix owner of 2052 acres has adopted a grassland-commercial beef program with sound conservation practices. Certain woodlot areas have been developed into a sugar hush. Ed has been instrumental in introducing conservation farming to the urban people thru Civic Clubs, personal contact, and organized tours.

Len Cosier, RFD, East Jordan, has applied varied conservation practices on his 240 acre dairy farm. As a member of forestry committee of the East Jordan high school, Len has donated his time and use of machinery to the school on many occasions without cost, in the interest of conservation.

Harold Clarke, RFD 2, Charlevoix, has applied varied conservation practices on his 150 acre dairy — cash crop farm. Has overcome many obstacles in respect to water prohlems. Has developed an irrigation program for his cash crop acreage. Soils information obtained from his pond site has aided in the development of ponds with similar soil conditions in the Charlevoix District.

These conservation certificates will be presented to these winners by a Charlevoix Soil Conservation District director at the District annual meeting, Wednesday, January 21, at the Boyne City high school in an evening program.

He received his first newspaper experience on the Harbor Springs newspaper and later on a Petoskey publication before coming to Charlevoix in 1888 to publish the Charlevoix Journal which had been purchased from Charles Strang, son of 'King' Strang who had headed the Mormon colony on Beaver Island. He changed the name of the newspaper to the Charlevoix Democrat and later to the Charlevoix Courier. At one time he also owned and published the Niles Daily Sun.

In 1910 he sold the Charlevoix Courier to DuBois and Usher and devoted his time to fraternal work, first as Grand Chancellor and later as Grand Secretary of the Knights of Pythias. He held the latter position until retiring in 1944.

In 1956 he was made an honorary chief in the Ottawa Indian tribe at Harbor Springs and given the name of "Ni-kan-sa-na," meaning "our friend".

He is survived by three sons, Victor H. of Detroit, Will E. jr. of Dearborn and Charles H. of Charlevoix; six grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Shriners have taken every precaution to assure their charges of a safe and enjoyable trip on a chartered train. A doctor and nurse will be aboard each train along with two Shriners assigned to each coach in the train. Michigan's Factories, Farms and Stores Depend on Trucks

Manufacturing, farming, the retail business—all have one thing in common: each needs transportation facilities.
And, since the motor truck provides fast, flexible, direct service unequalled by any other form of transportation, more tonnage is shipped by truck in Michigan each year. (Nationally trucks haul more than 3 times as much tonnage as all other systems combined!)
Every truck you see on the road is working—working to help keep Michigan's economy humming, to help keep employment and sales high. There isn't a corner of the State that isn't served daily by trucks. And factories and shopping centers can be located anywhere and be assured of efficient truck service so long as they're on the road.
You see how vital trucks are to Michigan.

ODDS 'N ENDS

BY FRAN MARTIN

WINTER in all its glory (?) continued to cover the north in a big way. Temperatures were down around zero over the week end and it snowed — not a lot but enough to limit visibility a good part of the time. But then, it wasn't as bad here as it was near the Michigan-Indiana border where South Bend had 17 inches of snow and everything stopped, except the snow.

* * *

WE NOTICED while watching the races from Hileah that a number of people were wearing fur jackets and other warm garments seldom seen in the deep south, so it must have been a little cooler there than usual. Someone did say it was down to around 50 degrees. What's that compared to zero? But then, it is supposed to be warmer there.

IT'S CHERRY PIE baking time. As this is being written Charlevoix's to be represented in the county contest by Marion Kay, Richardson and Jeanette Novak. If these gals don't win some recognition, well, we'd just like a taste of the winning pie (cherry pie being one of our favorte foods). Saturday Jeanette did a bit of practicing and as a result we were on the receiving end of one of her 'practice' pies and was it lucious. To better it, the winning pie's going to have to be something pretty special.

DID YOU happen to be watching "Queen for a Day" from Chicago Friday? If you were, you know that a former Charlevoixan appeared on the program. Though she wasn't named the queen for the day, she did receive all sorts of lovely gifts. She was Mrs. Howard Burman, the former Evelyn Ager who now lives in McHenry, Ill. Her parents, the Will Agers, were watching and got quite a thrill out of seeing their daughter on television.

HAVE BEEN watching college and pro basketball, and can those fellows play ball. The pros, especially are masters of the round ball and whether you like the game or not, it's a joy to watch them.

There have been times this season when it's been a joy to watch our little ole Rayders, and then, there have been other times However, we're hopeful that our guys are going to get with it and stay in that title race. They have their work all cut out for them this week with Pellston Friday night and Boyne City Tuesday. The latter haven't done much as far as wins are concerned but they're capable of upsetting just about any team, so it's not going to be easy going for anyone. How about it, Rayders, take your vitamins, mind your training rules and follow the straight and narrow so you won't get sick or have any more injuries. Let's come up with a few wins and stay in that race.

* * *

DID YOU happen to see the Bob Hope show the other night. In the event you didn't it was snatches of movies taken on his recent holiday tour. Now he hasn't always been one of my favorites but when you see films of his trip, bringing a bit of home to our service personnel overseas at Christmas time. Then you can't help but admire him and the performers who made the trip with him. And when you see the pictures of those young faces who are our protectors around the world then you can't help but feel as though we're in good hands, and be mighty proud of our kids.

COULD IT BE that the robins were given the wrong info regarding the winter weather? That's the question a lot of people are asking, especially during the past week when a large flock of the birds was seen at various places on the north side. Mrs. Charles Hamlin was the first one to tell us about it and a couple days later Mrs. Don Mungeson gave us a similar report. So won't you please put lots of good food out for these and our other feathered friends.

Girl Scout troop 5 met Monday.

We got a catalog. We made invitations for our mothers. We had a treat which Patty Cross had brought. We collected dues and had attendance. After a goodnight circle we went home.

Voice of Our Readers . . .

Editor of Courier:

Department Commander John M. Carey of the American Legion is urging that all veterans in Michigan write their state senator and representative on behalf of the Veterans Trust Fund.

The transfer or loan of this Fund is proposed in the minority report of the State Citizens Tax Advisory Committee as an aid to the immediate relief of the state's fiscal problem, alleging that "the obligation to veterans can easily be met by appropriations from the General Fund." Such an arrangement would be entirely unsatisfactory to the veteran.

As the Veterans Trust Fund is an emergency fund, its usefulness depends on the speed with which the veteran in need or other trouble can get assistance. Commander Carey believes that nothing should be done with the Veterans Trust Fund unless it be upon the recommendation of the State Commanders Group of nationally chartered orgahizations and their Legislative Committee. The voice of Michigan veterans should be heard in this matter.

The following is a typical letter received by Supervisors and City Assessors and especially by City and Township Treasurers after the yearly tax bill has been sent out.

Dear Supervisor or Treasurer:—

Would appreciate it if you will advise me as to when and before whom I must appear to apply for a reduction of my taxes, which are beyond my ability to pay.

Signed: Taxpayer

Dear Taxpayer:—

You ask me what you should do to have your taxes reduced. The law reads "you may call on the local Board of Review held the 1st Tuesday after the 1st Monday of March in regard to the explanation of the assessed valuation of your property.

The Board of Review will inform you that the valuation set on your property has been equalized according to the State Assessors Manual used by all Assessors, on the amount of the percentage of the County equalized valuation as determined by the County Board of Equalization of that portion of the States Equalized valuation as set by the State Tax Commission. Then it would be informative to you to visit the local school board and inquire why they needed more money than that raised by the 15 mill limitation law as set by the State Tax Commission. You should also inquire thru the County clerk, the same answers regarding the cost of Welfare, County and State Hospitalization, Sheriff's department, Civil Defense and many other services rendered by the County. The County clerk should remind you of a voted tax for a bond issue of $300,000 for the new Medical Center building, payable at the rate of $60,000 per year until paid. Having done all this, I ask you how the Board of Review can reduce your taxes?

Respectfully,

William M. Sanderson
Supervisor, Eveline Township

Guild Notes . . .

At the regular meeting of the Women's Guild of the Charlevoix hospital, the library cart committee reported that a gift of pocket books and Humpty Dumpty books for children had been received from William T. Downs for use on the cart.

The library cart is one of the service offered to the patients by the Guild. Books and current magazines are taken through the hospital three days each week. In addition, small items are stocked on the cart for the convenience of the patients. It is stored in a convenient place so patients may visit the cart at any time for reading material or sundry items.

Mrs. Ralph Hamilton of the favors committee has asked Guild members to make tray favors for the many holidays in February. All members are asked to attend to assist in this project.

A clock for the nursery has been ordered in memory of Mrs. Henry Hilton. Relatives and friends contributed to the memorial fund and asked that something special for the hospital be purchased.

Mrs. E. D. Hawley of the gift and memorial committee reports that one contribution has been received in honor of the Rev. Robert J. Yonkman's ordination.

Mrs. Hamilton has expressed her appreciation to Mrs. Harold Totten, Mrs. R. G. Bennett and Frances Milner for decorating the Christmas trees in the lobby and solarium at the hospital. An evergreen which had been sprayed white was trimmed with red lights and ornaments and placed in the lobby and a pink tree with multi-colored lights was placed in the solarium. There were also Christmas trees at the nurses stations.

Miss Milner was in charge of purchasing and wrapping gifts for the patients trays.

Tray favors and corsages for the nurses were supplied by the Charlevoix Garden club.

The Guild still has plenty of candy for sale. You might keep this in mind when planning that Valentine gift. Call Mrs. James Hiller, candy chairman, who will be happy to fill your orders.

Farm Bureau Group Guests At Way Home

The Northern Lights Community Farm Bureau met recently at the Dawson Way home.

A discussion of the monthly topic on "Property Taxation in Michigan" was led by Herbert Boss. One of the group's conclusions was that a new card system being used in some areas in connection with state equalized valuation might be beneficial in actually equalizing the property taxes paid by different individuals.

Mrs. Boss reported on the County Farm Bureau Women's Committee held last month. The name of the district chairman, Mrs. Vernon Vance of East Jordan, was submitted to the state advisory council as a delegate to the convention of the Associated Country Women of the World to be held in Scotland next summer.

At the business meeting reports were given from the county board and by Dawson Way, the package reporter; the secretary and treasurer's reports were approved as read and the possible organization in the county of a Farm Bureau Young Peoples group was discussed. The aims and objectives of such a group were outlined and it was decided each community would be contacted to determine the need of such a group.

Five of the six families in the group were present for the meeting at church the chairman, Tom Wieland, presided. A social hour and refreshments followed.

Adventures in Understanding

Notes from a northerner's diary

By Harold E. Kohn

A Mere Matter of Degree

Although we do not often stop to think of it the terms "life" and "death" do not necessarily represent a clear-cut difference. When is a creature alive? When is it dead? It is easy to say when the creature is a human being, or a dog or a chickadee. Our dog, Lass, bubbles over with life, bounding over these snow-swept acres today as if an excess of energy is burning holes in her veins and it must be spent. There is no doubt that she is very much alive, as are the chickadees that twist and dart about our woods edge, chiming sweet elfin music. And when their time comes to be gathered to the dust, dog and chickadees will all be clearly, unmistakeably dead.

But among the simpler animals it is nearly impossible to detect a difference between life and death' Take, for instance, the bear animalcule, the merest morsel of protoplasm. It lives in water, which protects it from rapidly changing temperatures, from harmful ultraviolet rays in sunlight, and from the more mischievous effects of gravity. While water remains around it the bear animalcule is intensely active, rushing about at breakneck speed, capturing and absorbing its food and performing all the functions of its microscopic existence. But if its water environment evaporates, as it sometimes does, the animalcule dries up too, withering into a tiny particle of cellular dust. To all appearances it is dead.

Days pass and weeks and months. Then the bit of dustlike substance is picked up by a passing breeze and transported to a nearby pond where it is dropped into the shimmering water. Floating there for hours, its tissue becomes thoroughly soaked. Then slowly, ever so slowly, the bear animalcule begins to move. Moments pass and its movements become more vigorous. Soon it engulfs and consumes a particle of food, and resumes all the other functions that a part of living

In spite of all its deathlike appearances the animalcule has not actually died, but has retreated into a much lower degree of living and then, when the proper conditions are met, the molecular morsel is quickened into a fuller expression of life.

Life is sometimes dormant and then again vibrant; sometimes subtle and again conspicuous, sometimes delicate and again rugged and tough. Animals and people are not only alive, but more or less alive, and the degree to which they are alive is important.

In fact whenever we investigate life's various experiences with discernment we see that "degree" has high significance. An expresson commonly used by many of us is, "It's merely a matter of degree." What do we mean "merely"? Are degrees negligible trifling matters? A person lightly excuses himself of some moral failure, saying "we all have our faults. It's merely a matter of degree!" The word "merely" is supposed to signify that the extent of wrong-doing is inconsequential. But it is important. There is a wide gulf of moral difference between the person striving for godliness, who slips and falls and arises to march on toward his goal and that other person who, when he stumbles, and falls, lies there and wallows contentedly in his sin. Even those who alibi their misdoings on the grounds that morality is a relative matter and sinning is but a matter of degree are false to their own argument, for they dare not carry sinning to an ultimate degree. Do you personally know anyone with easy-going attitudes toward morality who dares to sin wholeheartedly, imaginatively, without any restraints whatsoever, and sin in every direction and at every opportunity? Such determined sinning would be utterly self-destroying — and soon. The difference between the inadvertent failures of human nature and the determined transgressors of the laws of God and man may superficially appear to be a matter of degree But it is the difference between clumsily stepping into a pond or drowning in it, the difference between life and death.

Pick at random from lifes diversities any number of experiences and see how much degree really matters.

Two cars meet in the darkness on a highway. One driver politely dims his headlights. The other leaves on his brights. The one driver, blinded by bright lights, runs into a bridge abutment and is killed. Still, the difference between bright and dim lights is only a matter of degree.

Most of my friends have good vision, a few have "perfect" eyesight, and a very few are nearly blind. The quality of their vision is but a relative matter — a matter of degree — but how consequential to them whether they can see objects clearly in broad daylight, or can only discern shadows moving about in a hazy, unreal world.

A prisoner is free to move about in his six-by-six-foot cell You are free to move about all over America. As far as physical freedom is concerned you both have some. The degree makes a real difference, doesn't it?

A few days ago a Michigan man was found frozen to death a few paces from his parked car. It was only a matter of degree of temperature, but how serious a matter to him, his widow and his children.

Your dearest loved one has a normal body temperature of 98.6 degrees Fahrenheit. When he is ill you watch his temperature closely and anxiously. If it reaches 105 degrees you know he is very sick indeed, and if it should soar as high as 109 and linger there for hour his chances of survival are very slim. Yet, it is "just a matter of degrees!"

Nearly everyone on some occasion finds fault with our way of existence here on earth, its hardships, frustrations and pains. But then, too, there are the faultfinder who make a hobby of complaining. They fuss and fume daily. Faultfinding may be "only a matter of degree," but what a difference a few degrees make

All of us have some faith, in something. The farmer has faith in the value of plowing, sowing and cultivating. The miner has faith or he would not sink his shaft. The explorer has faith or he would not launch his ship. The devout has faith or he would not whisper his prayer. Of first importance is what we believe in, and of next importance is how much we believe. What one of us does not need a stronger faith in God? Yet "stronger" and "weaker" are but words denoting "a mere matter of degree."

We are placed here on earth to add what we can to the world, not to get all we can from it. How much we add is "merely a matter of degree," but how important a matter it is.

"Life is like a ladder," as Roger Bahson put it. "Every step we take is either up or down." And how important it is how far up we go — or how far down.

No one ever became extremely wicked all at once.

Every great and Godlike person has become so gradually— by degrees.

The "mere matter of degree" is one of the most important matters in the world.

BY DES

Away we go in the second week of the second round, and look who is still on top — Freedman No. 2. The boys stayed right on top by taking 3 points from a pretty fair team too — Puffs — although Puffs did only have 4 men. You can see the reason Freedmans won though as they had 4 men in the 400's. Most of the time their gang is in the 3's. Harry Pearsol was again high as he had a 477. For the losers, Puff came in with a big 574 series including a 222 game. Ron Cunningham took the spotlight tho as he rolled high game of the evening with his 242.

Well the Inn ran into it again (I think ran out of it would be better suited). This time it was Hess Furniture. Again it was "Charcoal Charlie" leading the way with his 482 series. I see Red Kleckner was trying to beat his low of last week — and he did it —111 this time. For the Airport, there's not much to write about; I'm sorry to say. I could mention that Hank beat Red's low as he rolled a 104—but that wouldn't be very nice. I finished up with a 564 series including a 212 second game.

Browe's stayed in a tie for second place with Hess as they took 3 points from Moonlight. I see they moved big John Sladek into the anchor position to take over for the absent Ted. John came through for them as he led the team with a 458. For the Gardenaires (Boy that's a fancy name) it looked like they really had their troubles. Only one man in the high 400's and that was Grover Geneit with his 493—What happened to Doc — 398!

Neffs held on to a tie for fourth position as they won all 4 points from Brown Motors. Dick Bergmann came in with the only strong series as he rolled real consistent and ended up with a nice 565. For Browns it was Frank Ochs again.

Swanson's moved up into the top six as they won 3 points from Freedman No. 1 bunch. You'll never guess who was high man for Swanson's. It was Ed himself as he rolled a big 208 game in his 496 series—Nice bowling Ed! Cuz — or nephew, or brother-in-law or whatever he is to that Swanson team couldn't let Ed steal all the show so he rolled a 210 last game. For the losers, Gene Richards came in with a 508 beating out "ole reliable" John Swanson by 6 pins.

Lake Construction & Sinclair fought it out neck & neck right down to the wire and finished up with a 2-2 deadlock. The Lakers taking 2 games, the Oilers 1 game and total. Only one man for the Lakers over 500 and he barely made it. That was Ron Wojan with his 502. The Oilers only had one man over the mark also and that was Clipper Kenny Cellner with a 554 series including his 216 game—Another 80 pins Meg!

Rayders Dump Ironmen; Late Free Throws Win It

Close First Half Friday Full Sked Tuesday To Open Second Round

This will be a big week for the teams of the Northern Michigan Class C league as they complete the first half of the 1958-59 schedule Friday and open the second half of the season with games scheduled for Tuesday.

Friday will find the Pellston Hornets defending their first place standing against Charlevoix on the Rayder hardwoods, East Jordan traveling to Gaylord to take on the second place Blue Devils, Grayling hosting Mancelona and the cellar dwellers, Harbor Springs and East Jordan tangling on the latter's court.

On Tuesday East Jordan will travel to Mancelona, Gaylord will host Grayling, Pellston will entertain Harbor Springs and Charlevoix will meet Boyne City in a return game to be played here.

East Jordan will be out to dump Gaylord when the Jordanites invade Blue Devils territory Friday.

The two teams have similar records, both teams having been defeated by Pellston by two point margins while the Jordanites have also lost to Mancelona. The latter loss was in the opening game of the season. Since then the Red Devils have shaped up into a fairly well balanced team which, Friday held Pellston to a 38-36 win. If the Red Devils can keep their heads when the Gaylord quintet puts on the press which has given them five wins to date than they will have a fine chance of upsetting the second place outfit. The Blue Devils depend on the press to upset their opponent and to tire them so they cannot fight back in he closing minues of the game. If the Jordanites are good enough to control the game and beat the Blue Devils at their own game than the picture may be a bit different as the second half of the season gets underway.

The Grayling-Mancelona game may also develop into a battle from start to finish with the Vikings trying to upset the fourth place Ironmen.

The Vikings have wins over Harbor Springs and Boyne City, the latter in a sudden death overtime, while Mancelona has won over East Jordan, a team that handily defeated the Vikings last week, Boyne City by a one-point margin and Harbor Springs.

The teams are pretty evenly matched despite their records and this could be the week for the Vikings to start using their height to advantage and upset the Ironmen.

After Friday there will be only one cellar dweller as Harbor Springs and Boyne City battle it out this week.

Boyne City will have a definite edge in the meeting having lost four of its six games by one or two point margins while all of Harbor Springs' losses have been decisive ones. Last week, however, the Rams showed some of their old spirit when they held Gaylord to a 7 to 7 first period tie and then went ahead 25 to 21 before the Blue Devils pulled away for a 19 point victory. The show of strength is credited to Ken Garver, only regular from last year's regional championship team, who has returned to the line-up for limited action after recovering from a knee injury suffered during the football season. Garver is an excellent leader and his presence seems to have given the team the spark it has lacked all season. Though they will still lack experience, the Rams can be expected to give the Ramblers a good game

TUESDAY GAMES

The East Jordan-Mancelona game will highlight the action Tuesday with the Jordanites a strong favorite to win in the return meeting between the two teams. In the opener the Ironmen had everything their way as they rolled over the Red Devils 52 to 34. Since then the East Jordan outfit has moved into third place with four wins in six games while Mancelona with a three and three record is in fourth place.

The Red Devils should add another win to their growing list unless the Mancelona quintet comes up with some new tricks.

In their first meeting Gaylord dumped Grayling 54 to 36 but things are expected to be a little different this time as the Vikings, in fifth place with two wins in six games, try to get on the victory train to open the second half of ther schedule.

The Vikings, though they have plenty of height, are hampered by the youthfulness and inexperience of their team members who have a tendency to falter under fire. The Blue Devils, with a seasoned outfit, depend on the pressure to 'throw' the opponent. They then move in for the 'kill.' The Vikings, however, with six games behind them will not be as gullible as they were in the season's opener and can be depended on to give the Blue Devils a better game though the latter will probably come up with a win.

Though Pellston may not win by as large a score as they did in December, the Hornets will remain in the win column when they take on the Harbor Springs Rams in a return game on the Hornets floor Tuesday.

The Pellstan Hornets edged the Grayling Vikings by a score of 38 to 36 to maintain their lead in the Northern Michigan Class C league Friday night while Charlevox was defeating Mancelona 36 to 33 and East Jordan was dumping Boyne City 41 to 34 to keep their third place standings intact. In the fourth game Gaylord defeated Harbor Springs 64 to 45.

The Charlevoix Rayders got back in the win column this week by edging the Mancelona Ironmen 36 to 33 after the host team had knotted the score 29-all in the final minutes of play.

The Rayders got off to a slim 8 to 7 quarter lead, increased it to 20 to 18 at halftime and 29 to 25 going into the final period before the Ironmen fought back to tie the score 29-all. Several trips to the free throw line in the hectic final minutes gave Charlevox the three-point victory.

Bruce Pease, Steve LaBlance, Ron Vandenberg, Bill Poquette and Charles Coleman started for the Rayders who were without the services of Dave Schuchard who had been battling a flue bug all week. Joe Beaudoin, recovering from a sprained ankle, saw only limited action n the final period. Jim Ladd and Stan Smith also joined the line-up.

Pease, Vandenberg, Poquette and Coleman each scored a field goal in the first period to put Charlevoix ahead 8 to 7 after the Ironmen had dumped in three field goals and one charity shot.

With Pease dumping in five points, Vandenberg four, Coleman two and Ladd one the Rayders contnued to lead the Ironmen 20 to 18 at halftime. Mancelona had four field goals and three free throws.

In the third period the Rayders managed to outscore the host team 9 to 7 for a four-point lead as the game went into the final period. Poquette accounted for three points, Pease and Ladd for two and Vandenberg and Coleman for one each. Mancelona had three field goals and a free throw.

Mancelona got back in the running in the final period, scoring eight points to seven for Charlevoix. At one point near the end of the period they knotted the score 29-all and again a 31-all before the Rayders pulled away for the victory by a three-point margin.

Poquette scored the Rayders' only field goal while Pease and Vandenberg scored two and Beaudoin one free throws in the final period.

Pease with 11 points was top scorer for the Rayders followed by Vandenberg with nine. Jerry Patrick had 12 for the Ironmen.

Though they won the Hornets stayed only a jump ahead of the aggressive Vikings nine to four at the quarter, 16 to 14 at the half and 29 to 24 at the three-quarter mark. In the final period the Vikings outscored them 12 to 9 to trim the Hornets' victory margin to two points. Barry Anderson continued to pace his team with 20 points. Frank Gross had 12 points for Grayling.

The Hornets won the game on the free throw line after they were outscored 13 to 11 in the field goal department. They connected on 16 of 25 free throw attempts while collecting 15 personal fouls. The Vikings hit on only seven of 18 free throws. They also had 18 personal fouls.

Rayders Host Hornets In Game Of The Week

The Charlevoix Rayders face a tough schedule this week as they take on the first place Pellston Hornets Friday on the local court, and then host the Boyne City Ramblers Tuesday.

In a third place tie with East Jordan with four wins and two losses (East Jordan 51-49 and Gaylord 42-39), the Rayders are hoping to be at full strength for the first time in two weeks when they take on the top team in the loop.

Joe Beaudoin who missed the Gaylord game saw limited action against Mancelona Friday after nursing a sprained ankle since the Harbor Springs game Jan. 9. Dave Schuchard has been having a bout with the flu bug and did not dress for the Mancelona game. Coach Don Carey, however, is hoping to have them back in the line-up for this crucial meeting.

If Charlevoix can dump the Hornets they will have a chance at the title before the season ends. This however, is a feat no other loop team has executed this season though several have come close.

Pellston is blessed with experience and several lads who have come through in great style for Coach Francis McMahon who has gained renown for his ability to get the most out of his team. Barry Anderson, a forward, is the Hornets chief scoring threat though others have contributed their fair share in this department. They also have plenty of height.

Charlevoix has looked good at times but thus far has lacked the punch to be a real good team. Though they are aggressive on occasion they lack the initiative needed to control the game.

If they will play the type of ball they have displayed on rare occasions and stay healthy they have more than a slight chance of upsetting the Hornets and remaining in the race for the title.

Boyne City will play here Tuesday and the Ramblers will not be a 'push-over' in the second meeting for they are an aroused team. Until Friday they had lost all their games, six in all including a non-loop game with Petoskey, on the free throw line after outscoring their opponents from the floor. They will be hampered this week, however, by the loss of their only returning regular, George Shiotelis, who will be benched indefinitely with an ankle injury.

Charlevoix came through with a two-point victory in their earlier meeting and will have to hustle Tuesday if they hope to keep ahead of their old rival.

Harbor Springs Rams, sparked by veteran Ken Garver who is back in the lineup for the first time this season, gave the second place Gaylord Blue Devils a real scare Friday as they held the high flying Devils to a seven to seven first quarter tie and then went ahead 25 to 21 at halftime Gaylord, however, got back in the game in the third period, scoring 24 points to 12 for the Rams to go ahead 45 to 37 going into the final period. During the eight minutes Garver was in the game he scored five points for the Rams who held the Devils scoreless for the first five minutes of the game.

John Burnison poured in 25 points for the victors. Terry Burns and Gary Moulton had 12 points each for the Rams.

The young Rayders trailed Mancelona 15 to 10 at the quarter and 27 to 22 at the half before outscoring their hosts 14 to 7 to take a slim 36 to 35 advantage going into the final period.

Mancelona dumped in five field goals and five free throws to go ahead 15 to 10 in the opening period after Supernaw and Nowland had each scored three points and Dennis and Martin had added one field goal apiece.

Both teams scored 12 points in the second period with Supernaw accounting for seven on three field goals and a free throw, Martin scoring one field goal and Nowland, Wagner and DeYoung one free throw apiece. Mancelona kept pace with the Rayders, scoring four field goals while collecting another four points from the free throw line.

Charlevoix caught fire in the third period scoring 14 points while holding Mancelona to seven including two field goals and three charity shots. Supernaw, Nowland and Martin each connected for two field goals and Pierce added two charity shots to go ahead 36 to 35 as the game went into the final period.

Charlevoix continued its scoring attack in the final period as Supernaw scored six points, Dennis four and Pierce, Martin and Wagner two each for 16 points. Mancelona was held to eight points on three field goals and two free throws.

From the Side Lines . . .

It seems that everything that is good has been said about this team of ours at one time or another leaving us with nothing to say that is constructive

• •

For this reason it is best that we make this a very short item rather than get carried away and get into trouble with coaches, players and friends.

• •

Checking with my source of information, one Inky Fingers, I learn a very interesting fact, this being that Pellston defeated the Rayders last in 1945 in District play on the Rayders home court by the score of 25 to 19 in overtime play.

• •

This game was lost much the same way as the Rayders have lost this season, that being "uncontrolled basketball" in the closing minutes of play. Games of this type are heartbreakers but never-the-less are lost even though very close.

• •

Players, coaches and sideliners will be going into this game with the hope of being the first to take the Hornets apart, we stand a chance, it's true, so until Friday evening take care—see you on the sidelines.

telephone lines

by LES JOHNSON, Manager

ALEXANDER GRAHAM BELL was deeply interested in the hard-of-hearing. And so is the company that bears his name. That's why we're so pleased that a telephone company invention, the transistor, has had such a beneficial effect in the manufacture of hearing aids. For the same reason, we don't charge the hard-of-hearing for the installation of special phones. And, to make quite sure that an instrument really does make a customer's telephoning pleasant and easy, we allow a free trial period before we charge the normal monthly rental.

. . . THE SCIENCE OF LINGUISTICS . . . man's basic medium of communication, is a study of more than 5,000 languages of the world. Here are some linguistic facts presented in "THE ALPHABET CONSPIRACY."

Speech, rather than the written word, is the basis of language.
The world has more than 5,000 languages which are grouped into dozens of major families.
Babies the world over speak the same kind of "language," using the same basic speech sounds.
The first successful machine to imitate the sounds of human speech was invented about 1780.
In some languages meanings are transmitted by signs or sounds, in addition to speech.
Dialect geographers can locate a person's home after hearing him pronounce only 30 words.
Some modern machines operate in response to other spoken words, others even "talk" to each other.

CORDS GET PERMANENTS. "Spring" type telephone cords—the kind that can't twist and catch on things—eventually lose their neat tight curls, just like a lady's hair. When this happens, they're not thrown away. Like a lady's hair they get a permanent wave. (They get it when the telephones come in for repair.) Around one million cords get the full beauty treatment each year—washing, rewinding and heat setting. $400,000 is saved by this annually. It helps keep down telephone costs.

THE FOLLOWING STORY is vouched for by a highly respected newspaper. A parakeet, name of Jerry, flew away from home and didn't stop until he reached Shawnee, Kan., thirteen miles as a parakeet flies. The man who found him was wondering what to do next when Jerry chirped up loud and clear: "Call Mary . . . Jackson 3-4312." The man, more from idle curiosity than anything else, dialed the said number. Believe it or not, but the person who answered was none other than Mrs. Mary Neal, Jerry's worried owner.

Smart looking? You bet! And comfortable, too!

Sure, styling is important in a new car. You expect a new car to be sleek and smart – but not at the expense of comfort. Yet in trying to design a car as low and modern looking as the Swept-Wing Dodge, some '59 cars have practically designed out the people. Not Dodge. It's designed around you. It's easier to get into (no protruding door posts), easier to get out of (no high door sills to trip over), more comfortable to sit in (there's room to spare). All this and Swivel Seats, too!

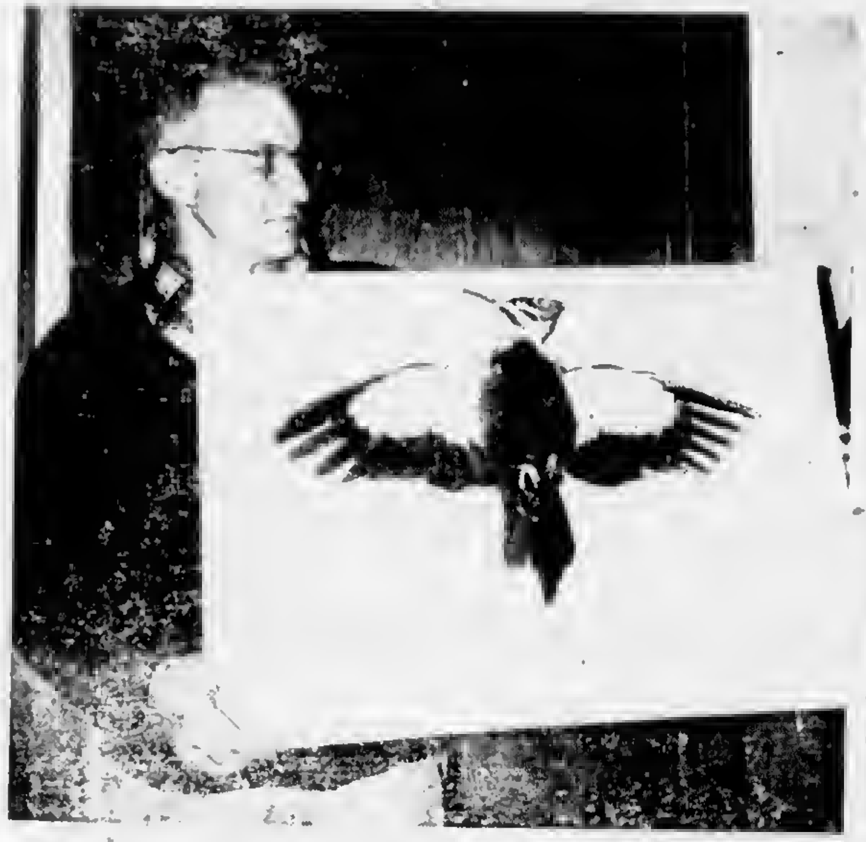
No Luck at Window Crashing



We'll never know why the above woodpecker wanted to get into the Charlevoix hospital but he tried it last week and died in the attempt. There is nothing unusual about a woodpecker or any other of our commonly known birds crashing into a window but this woodpecker is not a species commonly seen in this area, according to Ralph Price who says he has only seen four Pileated Woodpeckers in his life.

Holding the mounted bird for a picture is Amos Jackson, maintenance employee at the hospital.

The Pileated Woodpecker is about the size of a crow. This particular specimen had a beak two and three-fourth inches long and a wingspread of 16 inches as mounted in the picture. He is a black and white bird with a flaming red crest.

This species is found throughout the wooded areas of North American, according to bird authorities, and seldom swings out into the open spaces except when going from one locality to another for food. He is noted for his great strength in chipping out holes in tree trunks when digging for adult beetles and grubs. He is said to whack away with such terrific force that the sound would be taken for a woodsman chopping in the distance.

Almost any hole in a tree may be the work of some member of the woodpecker family but the Pileated Woodpecker hews out a rectangular hole that looks like topless boxes and rips off heavy strips of barks that could not be removed by smaller species.

SUNDEW REPORTS

Our stay in Muskegon was of short duration. While moored there we had some time to look over the Milwaukee Clipper which is busy during the winter months hauling cars across Lake Michigan. We also had time for liberty.

Tuesday morning we left for Grand Haven. Two tankers wanted to leave there and we had to break a channel for them. It was only a short run down the lake so most of the morning was spent in breaking ice in the Grand River.

It was quite warm at Grand Haven so most of the ice we loosened drifted out into the big lake. We stayed at Grand Haven Wednesday, leaving for Chicago early that evening. While at Grand Haven we had a minor rescue operation. "Dewie" (the mascot) fell over the side into the icy water but managed to hang on to a cake of ice until Chief Roderick Bassett could pull her out. She was wrapped in blankets but shivered for nearly two hours. She seems none the worse for the experience.

Chicago's size is always impressive when you approach it from the north or south but the approach at night from the east with its thousands of lights stretching for miles is a magnificent sight. The temperature was near zero as we moored just ahead of the Woodbine at Navy Pier so the men who handled the lines were not impressed with Chicago at the moment. The Woodbine left for her home port, Grand Haven, shortly after our arrival. Later on Thursday morning we shifted from the end of Navy Pier to the foot of Grand ave. and moored just behind the cutter Arundel.

We stayed in Chicago until Saturday morning when we received orders to proceed to South Haven to aid the Woodbine which was stuck in the ice. The crossing was a bit rough. The ice did not extend far into the lake but several days of west to northwest winds had jammed the ice against the beach. We did not proceed too far when we found ourselves in the same situation as the Woodbine. Most of Sunday was spent in an attempt to break out but a shift in wind really loosened the ice and we released ourselves.

We then stood by until the Woodbine was clear and then proceeded to St. Joseph to clear ice. However, the ice conditions were worse than at South Haven so we returned to Chicago, arriving early Monday.

SUNDEW SCUTTLEBUTT . . .

"Dewie" has proven herself an excellent sailor. She has shown no ill effects from her maiden voyage. She is growing like a weed . . . The pay checks arrived just as we departed Chicago. After we got them we could not cash them so we have probably set a record for possession of pay checks. One consolation in being away from Charlevoix, we had an opportunity to re-new acquaintances with former shipmates now serving in the Chicago area. Almost didn't get this report mailed in time. Another day or two in the ice would have prevented that. Looks as though we have another unofficial ship's photographer. He is Ernie Pelon who took numerous pictures in Chicago and South Haven.

Grange Master Opposes More Gasoline Tax

A position against any further increases in the Federal Gasoline tax was voiced today by William J. Brake, Master of the Michigan State Grange.

"Highway users are already contributing to the Highway Trust Fund, through special automotive excise taxes, to the amount of $2 billion a year," Mr. Brawke stated. "In addition, they are paying in to the General Fund other general and special taxes, and there are signs that taxes on highway users are approaching the point of diminishing returns."

Mr. Brake pointed out that a further increase in the Federal gasoline tax would lead to serious restrictions upon the ability of Michigan to secure funds for its own highway improvements.

"Therefore, the Grange reaffirms its opposition to further increases in automotive excise taxes for any purpose whatever," Mr Brake, said.

Mr. Brake stated that the Federal Highway Program should be brought more in line with the available money to finance it.

City's Maple Trees To Produce Syrup For Kiwanis Project

The processing of maple syrup in downtown Charlevoix this spring will be a novel and interesting attraction to both residents and visitors. It will be the forerunner to Charlevoix's first maple syrup festival scheduled for April 17-18-19 and sponsored jointly by the Chamber of Commerce, the Kiwanis club and maple syrup processors in the area.

The project to set up an evaporator in the city and tap maple trees on the city streets is sponsored by the Kiwanis club and is to be carried on with the aid of the Charlevoix Sea Scouts as a benefit program, according to Edward Shanahan, chairman of the committee.

Cost of equipment necessary for the operation is estimated at $1,000 with another $500 necessary for seasonal operating expense, Mr. Shanahan said. Cost of the venture has been underwritten by various members of the Kiwanis club.

Major equipment for the project will include an oil heated copper evaporator, storage tanks for sap, gathering tank, sap buckets and spiles. Mr. Shanahan estimates 1,000 trees will be tapped this year. Tapping, collecting sap and similar work is to be done by the Sea Scouts and the processing operation will be done by experienced adults.

The city council has granted the sponsors permission to set up evaporating equipment in the open area on Clinton st., opposite the north end of East Park. It is planned to have the installation completed and ready to operate when the sap run starts early in March. The season usually lasts three or four weeks.

Students Unhurt In School Bus-Truck Collision

Ten school children and a bus driver escaped injury Monday morning when the bus, driven by John Sladek, 25, collided with a 1½ ton truck driven by Conrad Klooster jr. 28, on a blind corner 1½ miles west of US 31 on Richardson road at the Charlevoix-Antrim county line.

The bus was making a turn to the west while traveling in the center of the road around a corner which had eight-foot snowbanks on each side of the road. Klooster, approaching the curve from the opposite direction, did not see the bus until it rounded the corner. He applied his brakes and skidded into the bus doing approximately $200 damage to the bus. The truck received only minor damage, according to Deputy Sheriff Philo Sumner who investigated the accident.

Both vehicles were traveling at a low rate of speed at the time of the accident.

No one was injured. The school children were transferred to another bus and brought to school. The damaged bus was towed to Charlevoix.

Hold School Here Despite Storms

An old fashioned blizzard which dumped approximately 14 inches of snow on northwestern Michigan Thursday and Friday closed all but the Charlevoix public schools last week.

The snow, blown about by winds up to 35 miles an hour Wednesday night and Thursday and lesser winds Friday, blocked many side roads and made driving hazardous on trunk lines.

Since Charlevoix schools were having semester examinations, the Charlevoix road commission devoted its efforts to opening roads so that high school students could attend school.

Five Districts Plan Spring Scout-O-Ramas

Five district Scout-O-Ramas will be conducted within the Scenic Trails Council, Boy Scouts of America, during March and April, according to Richard H. Harwood, president of the council.

Sites of these special events will be Alpena, Petoskey, Manistee, Traverse City and Cadillac.

Scout-O-Ramas are booth-type expositions of the skills of Cubbing, Scouting and Exploring and have been produced successfully in all the major cities of the nation.

It is estimated that 4,500 Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers will exhibit with live demonstrations all of the Cub Scout achievements and the various forms of handicraft. Boy Scouts will let the public see how the requirements for the various merit badges can be met while the teen-age Explorers will show how they fit into the program.

Scout-O-Ramas have four major objectives — to give the public a better chance to see what the boys are doing to teach Scouts to learn more about their skills and thus add value to their program; to earn funds for their units by the sale of tickets from which they receive a commission and to purchase needed equipment for Camp Grelick from remaining funds.

Tickets will be sold by scout units in the various districts.

How Gullible Are We?

How gullible can we taxpayers be? There seems to be no limit when some of our law makers tell us in alarming terms what the country must do to remain on the face of the earth and how much more money we must spend to perpetuate this, that, and the other project so necessary to the future safety and progress of America. (Obviously too many votes hinge on these programs.)

Next the taxpayer and voter is lulled by criticism of this or that proposed tax increase, and he goes overboard for lower taxes. It's an old axiom that "you don't get something for nothing," and that is truly applicable to any service rendered by federal, state or local governments.

Newspapers are flooded with so-called "news released" from members of the state legislature and members of the state legislature and members of congress and the one that prompts this tirade came from a member of the United States senate in which he takes issue with the budget presented by the President.

First he states the budget must be mapped out on the basis of "what we must do to keep the nation strong and free." (Patriotic approach). Next he asks if we can "afford to fall further behind in our ability to deter the Soviet Union;" "can we tolerate another prolonged period of recession." He further worries us about unemployment and a possible sub-standard school system. (Good scare approach).

Next he goes on to state that national needs can not be squashed into an arbitrary mold known as the national budget. (What are needs and what are necessities and what progressive business does not keep its needs within its potential ability to pay?)

Then he changes his approaches with the statement, "Yet, the budget proposes that taxes go up." He cites a ~~1½~~ cents increase in the gasoline tax and a one cent increase postal rate for a letter. (pocket book appeal)

Finally he suggests that we "close the gaping loopholes in our tax structure." (Good point, but what has he done about it?)

Yes, I think we're gullible to flowery promises that the government will provide us with an utopia and at the same time make us pay for it and believe we are getting something for nothing.

Between 1948 and 1957, the Department of Agriculture finds, expenditures for food per person rose 18 percent. By way of comparison, per capita disposable income increased more than twice as much—38 percent—in the same period.

ODDS 'N ENDS

BY FRAN MARTIN

HOW ABOUT the weather last week? If those of you away from Charlevoix wonder why this is a main topic of conversation than you should be in northern Michigan this winter. It all started last Wednesday afternoon. About a foot of snow fell during the night Wednesday and what with a gale wind out of the northeast there was snow piled every place. That day Charlevoix's schools were the only ones in the county that were open. The same was true of areas all through the northern half of the state. Friday was a little better but not much. The wind went down late Friday night and though it's been cold the weather has been clear. Ice fields come and go in Lake Michigan. As this is being written there are gale warnings up again at the Coast Guard station. This is one winter when you can't win for losin.' This will be one winter that will long be remembered . . . like the blizzard of '88 we're always hearing about from old-timers.

* * *

WEATHER OR NO weather the kids were scheduled to take off Monday for the Shrine Circus in Grand Rapids; the entire seventh grade, the crippled children of the community as well as those who attend the school for the retarded children. A caravan of cars was scheduled to leave here early Monday for the trip to Traverse City where they were to board the train for the trip to Grand Rapids for the circus. Since carnivals and circuses are our ideas of heaven we envy these kids just a little bit. Imagine, a day at the circus!

* * *

WE HOPE you've been generous with food for the birds during the recent storms when it's been pretty tough for our little feathered friends. Mrs. Marie McCall phoned the other day to tell us about a flock of birds in a mountain ash tree at her house. From the description they sounded like grosbeaks. Someone else told us they had seen a flock recently. And the cedar wax-wings which are so pretty and well-mannered—there are several flocks of those around, we're told. Every now and then a big old saucy blue jay will show up just to show that he's still the boss. This is the time of the year when one appreciates the birds.

* * *

HAVE YOU NOTICED the many sea-gulls around recently? Don't know what there is that attracts them to an area over Lake Michigan but as they fly by against the background formed by the gray sky they look so white and graceful and down-right beautiful.

* * *

WHEN WE WERE grumbling about the weather the other day someone said 'where else could you find such beauty? And remember this snow could be sloshy and gray.'' Which is all too true so when you're a bit unhappy about it, think of that angle, won't you?

* * *

A NOTE THE other day from Mrs. Angus Lietch in Groton, Conn. who writes that the weather in the east has been very good—nothing like ours—with only a little snow and average temperatures. Not the kind that hovers around zero as ours has for the major part of more than two months.

* * *

ONE DAY LAST week when a Chicago newspaper had bold headlines telling of the weather, snow, cold, traffic halted, etc., someone had placed, right in the middle of the front page, a picture of a beach scene in Chicago, taken at the height of the summer season. The caption over it read: Cheer up . . . This is just around the corner.

CHARLEVOIX has lost two good friends in recent weeks, and so have we. They are Will Hampton, one of the grandest people we ever had the privilege of knowing and Bill Jenkins, who passed away earlier this month in Bedford, Ind.

Mr. Hampton once owned and edited the Charlevoix Courier. We never knew him until recent years but many are the tales he told us of Charlevoix in its infancy . . . the crusades the Courier, then the Democrat, waged for this or that. He could bring yesterday into being with words and we loved our afternoons with him. Though he left newspapering long ago he still loved it. He was not generous with his praise but when you were lucky enough to be on the receiving end it really meant something. His passing has ended another era in the history of our wonderful community.

Though Mr. Hampton and Bill Jenkins probably never knew each other they had one thing in common—they loved Charlevoix. A quiet, unassuming person, Bill was a better listener than a talker, and you never knew what was going on inside htat head of his. He loved to fish and had been coming to Charlevoix for some 20 years. In recent years he lived aboard his cruiser. When the weather was good there was never a night that he didn't cruise out into Lake Michigan to watch the sunset. It was a ritual with Bill and his charming wife. Bill, as we said, was a quiet guy who wasn't too generous with his friendship, but when he accepted you it was for keeps.

Charlevoix is a better place because they passed through . . . as the lives of many people are finer because they knew them.

New Manager Assumed Duties at U. S. Fish Cultural Station Here

Meet John W Wege, new manager in charge of the U. S. Fish-Cultural station here. He fills the vacancy created by the transfer of George Roff to Neosho.

Mr. and Mrs. Wege and their two children, Kathleen, 11, and Gary, 5, arrived Jan. 15 and now make their home at the hatchery residence on Palmer st.

A native of Pella, Wis., Mr. Wege attended high school at Shawano. He has served ten years with the U. S. Wildlife Service and three and a half years as manager of a commercial trout farm in Wisconsin. During World War II Mr. Wege served four and a half years with the U. S. Airforce. He comes to Charlevoix from the U. S. Fish-Cultural station at Manchester, Iowa.

Mr. Wege expressed appreciative satisfaction with the plant here and said it was his first experience in working in a plant where the fish tanks were indoors and protected from the weather. He made contrast with his experience of last year when they were stripping trout eggs bare handed in sub-zero weather.

He is very anxious to have local people as well as out of town visitors visit the hatchery here and get first hand information about the project and its operation.

At the present time the hatching tanks are filled with lake trout eggs which are in the process of hatching. Feeding tanks are filled with two year old lake trout which will be planted in Lake Superior, Lake Michigan and some inland lakes this year The Fish-Cultural station here is, without doubt, one of Charlevoix's most interesting attraction for visiors.

Excerpts of Letters from R. S. Wilsons in Africa

Mr and Mrs Robert S. Wilson returned early in December from a trip to South Africa where the former, a retired vice president of the Goodyear Rubber Co., had inspected Goodyear operations on that continent

Despite a busy schedule both Mr. and Mrs. Wilson found time to write of their experiences The letters follow in part, appearing not in the chronological order but rather in the order of importance

"Had we known as much about Africa south-of-the-equator as we do now, we couldn't have planned our trip better.

"We started in Kenya and drove down to the Amboseli Reserve amidst the Masai tribe.

"Then the Rhodesias where copper, lead, asbestos and other minerals are building beautiful new and modern cities and where a new group of business men and statesmen are trying to solve the racial problem.

"Then the Union of South Africa where the Afrikaaners, the descendants of the Boers, are applying by extreme theory of race relationship . . . the Apartheid . . . and are working hard at it. It is not a policy of suppression, it is a policy of development, but along lines which they lay down.

"Then the Belgian Congo, where great sums are being spent on the education of the native and where he is being upgraded into all kinds of white-collar jobs. Then Ghana which Mary (Mrs. Wilson) has described so well.

"When I had spent a week in Kenya, I wise-cracked "The only solution to this racial problem is a thousand years." After the full tour, I think that was more than a wise-crack.

"The native African was, in 1870 when Livingstone explored where the Jews were in the time of Ur of the Chaldees, where the Picts and the Scots were in the time of the Roman invasion. Think of the centuries between the Romans and the Magna Carta; think of the centuries of development of any of our Western countries.

"Yet what Africa needs is a thousand years. And I have a great [illegible] for [illegible] who are honestly trying, according to their own lights, to help the Africans compress that thousand years."

As Mr. Wilson writes: It's too rapid for comprehension. You feel as if you're at the movies, the scenery 'sets' and the people are 'extras' especially when you walk out of a plane at 5 a.m. in Kano, Nigeria. Those black 'boys' in white tunics with red sashes . . . surely some movie director dressed them up.

"Those very very British, very very trim and slim young men in white shorts and white knee-length stockings, white military hats with lots of 'scrambled eggs' on them. They aren't really employees of BOAC, in fact, are they real or are you under the influence of that sleeping pill?"

The Wilsons were met in Nairobi by the Goodyear distributor and taken to his home. After a bath and tea, their hostess said if they weren't too tired it might be a good time to go to the game preserve. Late afternoon it was possible they might see a lion so off they went to the National Game Reserve

Mr. Wilson reports: "This is an area of several thousand acres of veld (prairie) grassy land, mostly with open clumps of thorn apple trees and other native trees but all of them thinly dispersed. There is no fence around the Reserve. Why don't the animals leave it? Because they are safe there and they're smart enough to know it.

"Up to this point Mary and I had our tongues in our cheeks. Obviously this place was too near town to see anything more than a mangy deer or two. The giraffe we saw threw us into a state of excitement — there he was, over there, bending his long neck down to feed off the top of the thornapple tree Mary's camera started firing.

"Then a big wildebeast or gnu (or half buffalo-half horse), then two or three zebras, then a [illegible] Kudu deer that appear to have [illegible] sets of horns because their ears stick out so horizontal to their heads. Then all sorts of deer. I don't remember the names of them all.

"Lots of giraffes, on one occasion 10 in a herd — enormous beasts, running with that slow-motion run.

"Now on ahead, a very unusual sight. A big male ostrich doing strange shimmy dance, wings outspread, black with beautiful white feathers as edging, shaking in a rhythmic movement, while the big red hen performed a hopping sort of dance and the long neck swayed rhythmically up and down. Just then the big male folded his wings and walked away. Up from the ground where we hadn't seen her, rose an ostrich hen, brown like the color of the veld. She started to follow the mister, shaking her wings now in similar fashion and raising and lowering her head in a sort of bewitching come-hither way. Mary and I wanted to stay and watch this strange courting but Gilfillen, an unimaginative man, drove on."

They also spotted a freshly killed gnu and close-by three lions sleeping off their feast. Their host said that as long as he had been in Africa he had never seen a scene like this as close as this.

TOURISTS and travelers crossing the Mackinac Bridge are creating a boom for Michigan's northern resort areas.

To determine if predictions were accurate, the state highway department conducted an interview-survey among 9,439 motorists who made the crossing last July and August.

* * *

THE TREMENDOUS drawing power of the bridge is probably best illustrated by the fact that cars from 40 of the 49 states crossed the bridge during a 24-hour period," said Highway Commissioner John Mackie

Four came from Alaska, which had not yet become a state, and one from the Canal Zone.

TWENTY-FIVE percent came from outside Michigan, 60 percent of that figure from Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio. Abuut 15 percent came from Eastern Canada.

Survey results showed that one out of every three vehicles came from other states through the lower peninsula of Michigan.

EVERY MICHIGAN county was represented, with Wayne county (Detroit) having the largest number of trips, 1,011; Kent 227; and Genesee County 148.

The survey showed that 1,825 trips were northbound for Sault Ste. Marie, but only 157 headed into Canada, while 687 were scheduled to run the east-west length of the Upper Peninsula to Wisconsin.

Mackie said the state's $1,250,000,000 highway construction program will have completed an expressway from the southern border of Michigan to the bridge by 1962.

"I fully expect the ease and speed of travel will increase traffic in the straits area by as much as 50 per cent over this year," he said.

* * *

REPUBLICANS now control the legislature, for whatever advantage or disadvantage they can enjoy or suffer during 1959.

Even impartial observers were surprised at the developments in the first week of the session.

The 55-55 split in the House was upset when one Democratic member underwent surgery. So, Republicans organized with a one-vote edge, 55 to 54.

Democrats, on the surface striving for control of the House for the first time since 1937, immediately made certain Republicans would have to assume responsibilty for its record.

* * *

THE DEVELOPMENT came as the state faces a desperate cash shortage and the need to pass a new tax program

Dissension and strife in the House carried over to the Senate where Republicans, with a 22 to 12 majority, nailed down almost unprecedented powers in one of the hottest debates ever heard.

* * *

THEY ELIMINATED 15 Democrate committee assignments. Then they changed Senate rules to allow them to impose their views on the Senate regardless of how Democrats voted on any issue.

Republican philosophy was ably summed up by Senator Frank D. Beadle (R-St. Clair), who said, "If we're going to be blamed for everything anyway, we want the control."

* * *

OBSERVERS SAID the House and Senate controversies in the first week of session crystalized Republican and Democratic delegations into strict party camps to a greater degree than ever before.

However, the House cannot pass a bill without at least one vote from the opposing party camp. In the Senate it is easier for Republicans.

Party leaders are aware that getting a bill through the Senate is only half the battle and the victory will be hollow for Republicans if the House kills it.

Unless legislators work along lines of principal rather than party, it could develop that nothing of consequence would become law.

SCHOOL AID is expected to be a major issue.

Senate leaders already have proposed guaranteeing public schools state assistance computed at $190 per student, the same guarantee made last winter.

The promise fell $30,000,000 short last year and the schools have borrowed more than $50,000,000 against next year's state aid to keep their doors open this year.

Schools and their administrators believe that the $190 still isn't enough, even if the state could make good on its promises. Democrats figure that $220 comes closer to reality if the state wishes to assume responsibility that previously has been considered to that of the local government.

SUNDEW REPORTS

After our return to Chicago from Grand Haven on Monday the weather turned bad. Low temperatures and blizzard conditions remained throughout the week. We stayed in Chicago until Wednesday afternoon when we got underway to assist a tanker stuck in the ice off Calumet Harbur in South Chicago. Upon reaching the area we too became stuck in the ice. In the morning the wind had shifted to the southwest and the ice loosened enough to enable the tanker and the Sundew to free ourselves. We started to return to Chicago when another tanker requested assistance in entering Indiana Harbor. We finally returned to Chicago Thursday afternoon.

We departed Chicago at 7 p.m. Friday for Kewaunee, Wis., to break out the river and dock facilities there. We departed Kewaunee at 8 a.m. Saturday but after two hours had to return to assist a tanker which had gone aground near the Kewaunee breakwater. We crossed the lake Saturday afternoon and anchored in the bay at South Manitou island.

Probably don't have to mention it but we returned to Charlevoix Sunday afternoon. The water tower was a welcome sight after being away two weeks. On a clear day the tank is visible about 12 miles out.

Everyone enjoyed liberty in Chicago. There is a USO there where free tickets are available for movies, hockey games and other events.

SUNDEW SCUTTLEBUTT . . .

Cigars will be on tap the first of February when Sam Novak is advanced to Boatswain's Mate First. Congratulations.

John Coppens returned to the ship after a siege in the local hospital. Gerald Shumake SA was detached while we were in Chicago. He is now attending engineman school in Groton, Conn. One consolation in being away was the wide choice of TV programs in the southern Lake Michigan area.

Ball Point Pen refills — 3 for $1.00 while they last. Designed for most makes of pens. Courier.

This Week With Class 'C' Teams

Action in the Northern Michigan Class C league Friday will find Charlevox traveling to Grayling, Boyne City hosting Gaylord, Mancelona at Pellston and Harbor Springs at East Jordan.

The Charlevoix Rayders roared over the Vikings 65 to 53 in their first meeting but now that Grayling has racked up four wins including one over Gaylord they are expected to be a tougher advisary.

The Vikings have the tallest team in the loop and the outfit has learned to use their height to advantage and not be disturbed by a press in the final minutes. It was this that gave them their win over the Blue Devils Tuesday night.

Charlevox with a five and three record will have their hands full when they invade Viking territory. The game will be close.

The Boyne City Ramblers who haven't a single win to their credit are a much better outfit than their record shows. They are a team that could give any team a bad night. Gaylord romped over the Ramblers 47 to 35 in their first meeting. However, the Blue Devils will have to work much harder this time as the Ramblers are just about due for a victory.

The Pellston Hornets with a perfect record of eight wins in loop play are well on their way to a title. Mancelona, hampered by the loss of Fred Moore with a back injury and Glenn Collins because of marks, will be no match for this title bound outfit.

The Harbor Springs Rams gave Pellston a good game the other night and, hungry for a win, can be expected to be at their best when they visit East Jordan. With the return of Ken Garver this outfit seems inspired. The Jordanites will have to be at ther bets to halt the Rams who are seeking their first win.

Judge William T. Downs Named Co-Ordinator for Youth Conference

Probate Judge Wm. T. Downs, East Jordan, has been chosen by the Michigan Youth Commission to serve as one of eleven regional conference coordinators in Michigan for the 1960 White House Conference on Youth.

Judge Downs will coordinate the gathering and evaluating of data throughout a ten county area in northwest Michigan needed for presentation at a May, 1959 regional conference. This information will then be incorporated and forwarded in a finalized Michigan report for the White House Conference to be held in Washington in March, 1960.

An appeal for volunteers to serve as discussion leaders, pollsters and workers to conduct local surveys has been issued by the Judge who says volunteers are needed in the following counties: Emmet, Charlevoix, Antrim, Kalkaska, Grand Traverse, Leelanau, Benzie, Manistee, Wexford and Missaukee.

"The Youth study involves such topics as: responses of children and young adults to present social trends; the effects of television program viewing on youth; detailed lists of every youth facility in every community and numerous detailed information which can only be provided by the individual citizen," said the Judge "Anyone over the age of 15 can help in this area study and we especially seek help from those in the 11 to 25 year age group," he said.

Results of the 1960 White House Conference, primarily a citizen's group with a minimum of public agency and professional guidance, will be utilized in attempting to improve local services to youth; in the better understanding of motivating factors of our youth; improvement in our educational approach and as a basis for formulating any needed legislation by the state and federal governments, according to Judge Downs.'

Given Sentence For Non-Support

Harold Blain, 50, a former resident who has been living in Port Huron, was sentenced to 11 to 12 months in the county jail for non-payment of child support at a special term of circuit court held at Bellaire with Judge Charles L. Brown presding.

Judge Brown is expected to be here for a special term of court Jan. 29 and 30.

Petoskey Firm Named Winner In Ad Contest

Fochtman Motor Co., Petoskey is one of three auto supply distributors in their size bracket in the United States named a winner in the 1958 advertising award contest sponsored jointly by the Automotive Advertisers Council and the trade magazine, Jobber Topics.

The bronze plaque award will be presented to L. W. Fochtman, president of the firm, at an award breakfast to be held in Chicago Feb. 18. The prize winning entry was prepared and submitted by Jerry B. Tippett of the Fochtman Motor Co. advertising department.

The advertising competition, conducted annually, attracts entries from many of the nation's best rated auto suppliers, jobbers and distributors. Judging is handled by a committee composed of factory advertising managers and marketing executives identified with national trade associations of the automotive aftermarket.

Porcupines kill or stunt young trees by gnawing into the inner bark and cambium layer, which are vital to the trees' growth, the National Geographic Magazine says.

Adult Education Classes May Be Discontinued

Interest in the Adult Education classes offered by the Charlevoix high school is lagging according to Supt. R. G. Bennett who said Wednesday that unless more persons enrolled in the various classes being offered the program would be discontinued.

Several people have enrolled in a variety of classes but there are not enough to offer any one subject. Among those in which interest has been shown are typing and bookkeeping, welding, painting, upholstering, journalism and physical fitness.

Residents of the Charlevoix school district interested in enrolling in any of the above mentioned classes or in taking any other subject are asked to call the school office LI-7-6583 to enroll.

Will Pay $17,000 For Non-Prodncing Farms in County

Considerable interest has been shown in the Conservation Reserve program in Charlevoix county this past fall. A total of 51 farmers asked for maximum payment rates for their farms with a total of 35 of these farmers asking for a contract. Out of this number about 27 farmers have signed or will sign a contract placing all or part of their farms in the Conservation Reserve in 1959.

These 27 farmers have offered about 1,400 acres, taking these acres out of production for periods ranging from 3 to 10 years, with most of the contracts being for 5 years. Payments coming annually to these 27 farmers will amount to approximately $13,000., with payments being made each fall, usually in October.

Practice payments being made to these Charlevoix county farmers for the establishment of seeding practices will be in the neighborhood of $3,300.00. A suitable cover must be established on any Conservation Reserve land which is open or would be subject to erosion if left with the existing cover.

These 27 farmers include but 2 farmers who placed only part of their farms in the Soil Bank, all the rest of them going in all the way so that no farming will be carried on at all on their farms.

There are now 45 Charlevoix County farms in the Soil Bank, including those whose farms have been placed in the Soil Bank in one of the years 1956, 1957 or 1958. These 45 farmers will receive a total of approximately $17,500.00 each fall for their participation in the Conservation Reserve.

Schools were closed last Thursday on account of snow. Temperature from zero up to ten all week.

The teen-agers are enjoying skiing. Not having hills handy, the young men use their horses and long ropes to pull the skiers along.

Many of our summer visitors ask and, I quote, "What do you do all winter?" At the present time we have a Civic meeting, and March of Dimes Party planned for this week.

Our program for the first week in February consists of a pantry shower at the convent and a St. Francis of Assise Party given by the Third Order Members. The purpose of this is to raise funds for the erecting of a Shrine on the spot Holy Cross church was moved from. The Shrine will overlook the cemetery.

Local Resident Escapes Tuller Fire

Two local residents escaped series injury in a fire which did extensive damage to the Tuller Hotel in Detroit Saturday morning.

Miss Margrett Milner, a teacher in the Detroit school system who is a permanent resident at the hotel, made her way to safety in the last elevator which brought residents from upper floors.

Al Nahem who operates the Lee-Mors Linen shop here during the summer months, made his way down the fire escape from the ninth floor after a telephone call to his room had informed him of the fire in the nearly 800 room hotel.

Both were taken to the nearby Hotel Statler.

The Ironton Extension Group will meet tomorrow (Friday) at the home of Mrs. Earl Kroll.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Moerland and son Timi and Mr. and Mrs. James Barnt spent a very novel Sunday afternoon and evening. They donned snow shoes and pulling o toboggan looded with supplies, snowshoed across the lake and into the woods where they found a sheltered spot They dug a clearing in the snow and built a fire and had a winter picnic. I guess you'd call it a snow shoe cookout and it sounded like a wonderful time.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Meyers were guests for dinner at the Burl Walkers on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Werth and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Werth of Flint were here lost weekend to attend the funeral services of their father. Mrs. Alvie Werth and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hubble and family are in Flint for a short stay.

Rayders Loss To Pellston, 53-44 First Since Districts In 1945

The Charlevoix Rayders were downed by the league-leading Pellston Hornets by a score of 53 to 44 on the local floor Friday night after the Rayders had led for three quarters.

The highly touted Hornets trailed the local quintet 11 to 4 at the quarter, 25 to 19 at halftime and 37 to 33 at the three-quarter mark before the Rayder offense as well as its defense collapsed in the final period. Pellston got back in the game in the last quarter by outscoring Charlevoix 20 to 7 with half their points being scored from the free throw line.

Starting for Charlevoix were Joe Beaudoin, Steve LaBlance, Ron Vandenberg, Bill Poquette and Dave Schuchard. Jim Ladd joined the line-up in the first period and Charles Coleman and Stan Smith saw limited action in the final period.

Schuchard got the Rayders off to an 11 to 4 first period lead with four field goals. Beaudoin added two free throws and Vandenberg one as Barry Anderson and Ken Parkey each scored one field goal for the visitors.

Pellston started to hit in the second period scoring 15 points including five by Bill McClutchey, four each by Anderson and Bob Ford and two by Gary Spencely. Vandenberg started to hit in the second period, sinking a total of four field goals. Schuchard added three more to give Charlevoix 14 points.

Though the Hornets outscored them 14 to 12 in the third period the Rayders still held a 37 to 33 advantage as the quarter ended after Beaudoin, Vandenberg and Schuchard each had scored four points. Pellston had five field goals and four free throws.

The visiting Hornets took control of the game early in the final period, going ahead 39 to 38 with two minutes gone in the quarter. From then on they led by a slim margin before wrapping up the game from the free throw line as the Rayders fouled in an effort to regain possession of the ball.

Spencely scored two field goals and four free throws; Ford one field goal and four charity shots; Anderson two field goals and one free throw and Lucius Cabinaw one gift shot to account for the Hornets 20 points. Charlevoix's scoring was confined to three points each by Schuchard and Vandenberg and one by Beaudoin.

Both teams had 18 field goals but Pellston hit on 17 of 32 free throw attempts while collecting only 14 personal fouls while Charlevoix made goon on only eight of 19 attempts while committing 22 personal fouls.

Schuchard paced the game with 21 points, 14 of which were made in the first period. Vandenberg had 16 and Beaudoin 7 to account for all of Charlevoix's scoring. Anderson and Spencely shared scoring honors for the victors with 14 points each. McClutchey with 12 and Ford with 10 were next.

East Jordan Over Mancelona; Harbor Springs Scares Pellston

The Grayling Vikings upset the second place Gaylord Blue Devils by a score of 54 to 50 Tuesday night while East Jordan was dumping Mancelona 58 to 41; Charlevoix was edging Boyne City 54 to 47 and Pellston was defending its league lead by dumping Harbor Springs 48 to 41.

The Charlevoix Rayders got back on the victory trail Tuesday night by dumping the Boyne City Ramblers 54 to 47 on the local hardwoods.

Charlevoix got off to a 14 to 10 first quarter lead which they increased to 24 to 16 at halftime and 39 to 33 going into the final period when the visitors caught fire and cut the Rayder lead to 49 to 45 before Charlevoix pulled away for the victory.

Joe Beaudoin, Jim Ladd, Ron Vandenberg, Bill Poquette and Dave Schuchard started for the Rayders. Charles Coleman, Steve LaBlance and Bruce Pease also joined the line-up.

Joe Beaudoin dumped in three quick buckets, followed by Vandenberg with five points, Schuchard with two and Ladd with one to put the Rayders ahead 14 to 10 after the Ramblers had hit for five field goals.

Charlevoix stretched its lead to 24 to 16 at halftime after Vandenberg had scored two and Beaudoin, Schuchard and Poquette one field goal each. Boyne City was limited to three field goals in a quarter in which no fouls were called.

The visitors had their best period in the third when they outscored Charlevoix 17 to 15 on five field goals and seven free throws. Vandenberg scored five, Schuchard and LaBlance three, and Ladd and Poquette two points each.

Vandenberg with nine points, and Beaudoin, Ladd and Poquette with two each kept the Rayders in the game in the final period despite the fact that Boyne City managed to close the gap to four points with one minute remaining. Boyne City dumped in six field goals and two free throws in the final quarter.

Vandenberg paced the game with 23 points followed by Beaudoin with 10; Schuchard with seven; Poquette with six; Ladd with five and LaBlance with three points.

Denny Milhrandt had 14 for Boyne City.

Playing at Gaylord, the Vikings got off to a 13 to nine first period advantage only to have the Blue Devils knot the score 23-all at halftime. A seesaw battle followed hut Grayling managed to pull away 40 to 33 going into the final period. Roy Wolf set the pace for the game with 22 points for Gaylord. Frank Gross had 14 for the victors, who lost Roger Horning and Jack Hull via the foul route late in the final period. Gaylord lost Bob Burnison and Roger Walker with three minutes remaining.

Grayling won the game on the free throw line where they connected on 16 of 33 attempts while scoring 19 field goals and collecting 20 personal fouls. Gaylord, on the other hand, had 20 field goals, 10 of 26 free throw attempts and 22 personal fouls.

Mancelona, handicapped by the loss of regulars Fred Moore with a back injury and Glenn Collins who is ineligible, was no match for the East Jordan Red Devils who rode rough-shod over the Ironmen 19 to 14 at the quarter; 37 to 22 at the half and 48 o 34 going into the final period. Rod Chase, who had 12 points for the Ironmen, went to the bench with five fouls midway in the final period and Jerry Bingston and Jerry Patrick followed him late in the game: Larry Hayden had 17 points for the victors.

The last place Harbor Springs Rams gave the league-leading Pellston Hornets a few bad moments as they outscored them 17 to 16 in the field goal department. The Hornets, however, made up the deficit on the free throw line where they hit on 16 of 25 attempts while collecting only six personal fouls. The Rams were successful on only seven of 10 attempts and had 18 personal fouls.

Pellston got off to a 15 to 9 first period advantage which they increased to 30 to 18 at halftime and 37 to 30 going into the final period when the Rams got hot and cut the Hornet lead to four points before Pellston took the game.

J-Vs Post Sixth Win

The Charlevoix Reserves defeated the Pellston Reserves 51 to 34 to run their victory string to six games as the first half of their schedule drew to a close Friday.

In the game which they controlled all the way, the local five romped into a 12 to 7 first period lead which they increased to 27 to 14 at halftime and 45 to 21 going into the final period. The Charlevoix attack slowed down in the last period as Coach Terry Rice emptied the bench.

Starting for the little Rayders were Jim Dennis, Sam Supernaw, Barry Pierce, Don Nowland and Stan Martin. Henry Wagner, Lee Wielenga, Terry DeYoung and Tony Duerr joined the action in the first half and before the game was over Bruce Bartlett, Perry Smith, Darrell Somerville, Tom Martin, Ted Tunison, George Majors, Don Berg, and Merritt Clark had gone into the game.

Supernaw with three field goals and the same number of free throws paced the action in the first period as the Rayders went into a 12 to 7 lead after eight minutes of play. Martin added two and Dennis one free throw. Pellston had three field goals and one gift shot.

Charlevoix continued to pace the game with 15 points in the second period including four by Martin, three by Wagner and two each by Dennis, Supernaw, Nowland and DeYoung. The visiting Hornets had five free throws and one lay-up shot for seven points as they trailed 27 to 14 at the end of the first half.

Martin and Supernaw shared scoring honors in the third period with three field goals apiece while Dennis, Pierce and DeYoung added one apiece for 18 points, all of them from the floor.

Pellston again had seven points this time on two field goals and three free throws.

Perry Smith hit for two field goals and Wagner had two free throws to account for the Rayders' six points in the final period as the line-up changed continually. Pellston, taking advantage of the Rayders' inexperience, scored five field goals and three free throws for their best period.

Supernaw with 17 points topped the scoring for the Rayders. He was followed by Martin with 12. Jerry Coulter had 11 and Dennis Steele nine for the visitors.

Bowling News

BY DES

The Freedman No. 2 team kept up their pace as they took 3 more points this week. Now I suppose you want to know who from—well it was the Airport Inn. We kept up our pace too—we're averaging not quite one point a week—we've got company though! This was a close match though. One game was decided by 7 pins and the total by only 4. For Freedman's, Harry Pearsol came in on top with his 428. For the Inn, I got hot the last two games with a 212 & 201 to end up with a 566. Soupie found out where to put that finger (finally) and rolled a 206 game in a 528 series. Harju & Felix was battling it out for last place honors with Dick beating Hank by 10 pins with his 388.

Browe's moved up into a second place tie by splitting 2-2 with Sinclair. The total on this series was decided by 11 pins. Browe's didn't have anybody going strong except their 131 spot. (I thought we had it bad going 126). Ted was high with a 460. For the Oilers—three men over the mark —Ken Cellner with games of 204-201 in a 560 series (better get a new ball more often Ken). Meg with a 201 game, 553 series and Bob Gill with a 506.

* * *

Puff's moved into a tie for second as they won 3 points from Lake Construction. Puff rolled a real nice series, high for the night, a 605 including a 234 game. Ed Lemcke came through with a 228 game in his 538 series. For the losing Lakers, nothing too strong to show and John Wojan came in high with a 490

* *

Moonlight heard that Hess has a sale going and decided they could use some, so they bought 3. And I mean bought— they only hit their team average once and every man ended up under his average. Nice work if you can get it. Harold "Hog" Muth came in high as he rolled his average almost to the pin—Hog had a 482 (Come to think of it maybe this was the first time he bowled —if it is, then it would seem logical that he would hit his average) For Hess' it was Jess' — 447. They had Herbie down for a 485 hut it didn't look quite right to me so I retotaled — 385 — sorry Herb.

Swansons stayed right in the running as they won 3 points from our comoany — the Browns. Wilson Taylor led the way for Swansons with his 513. Ed Swanson had another nice game this week of 190. Ed got a taste of those high games last week and I guess he kinda liked it. For Brown's it was Frank Ochs again as he had a 455. Harry Elzinga would have had a nice series for himself had be rolled that second game up where he had the other two instead of pins lower—96!

* * *

The Freedman No. 1 team finally broke out of their slump as they won 3 points from Neffs. Cal Peters being one of the main reasons as he rolled his high series of the year, a nice 591 including a 211 game. Johnny Swanson took the limelight for high game though as he rolled the high of the evening with his 241. John ended up with a 581.—Say Pat Curtis was in the 100's every game. His low being 117. That helped the cause too seeing as how his average was 20 pins under that. For the Neff boys, "Big" Bergmann kept up his fine bowling as he rolled a nice 565 series including a 202 game. Howard Struthers finished up with a 536 series.

Song of the week for the Inn —"Blues (Inn) The Night" Tuesday night that is!

Here's an interesting note — If the 5 men that roll on the Airport Inn Team in the Petoskey league had been bowling together tonight they would have compiled a 2865 total That's pretty fair bowling!

Number 7

Charlevoix's little Rayders handed the Boyne City Reserves their first defeat of the current season Tuesday night when they dumped the visitors 36 to 29.

Charlevoix jumped into a 10 to three first quarter advantage which was trimmed to three points, 15 to 12 at halftime, before the Boyne JV's knotted the score in the third period. The Rayders, however, managed to go ahead 24 to 22 going into the final period when they pulled away for the seven point victory.

We found it difficult to understand why the Rayders insist on playing three quarters of a ball game. Or why they insist on playing only three quarters of a ball team. It seems this is what has been happening. Most of the games lost this season have been lot in the final quarter when the Rayders seem to run out of steam.

But we must admit the first half of the Pellston game was something to see — darn shame it didn't end there.

Taking Boyne City, the holders of the cellar post seemed to be somewhat of a task; what with Grayling coming up this Friday and having toppled Gaylord for their second loss of the season. Charlevoix will have another toughie to handle.

A factor to be considered is that Charlevoix has never beaten Grayling on their new floor, and where do we play this week? That's right, Grayling! Oh, well best of luck to all.

First Half Ends Pellston In 1st Gaylord Second

Pellston with a record of seven straight wins in league play continued to lead the pack as the first half of the current schedule drew to a close Friday. The Hornets dumped the Charlevoix Rayders 53 to 44 for the first time in 14 years to protect their league lead.

In other action the Gaylord Blue Devils continued in second place with a six win-one loss record after dumping East Jordan 43 to 38 and Grayling moved into a fourth place tie with Mancelona after trimming the Ironmen 49 to 36.

Gaylord 43; East Jordan 38

Gaylord pulled another game out of the fire by connecting on the free throw line after both the Blue Devils and East Jordan had scored 16 field goals. The visiting Jordanites romped into a 13 to 7 first quarter lead but the Blue Devils snapped back with a 21 to 19 halftime advantage as they started to hit. They continued to pace the game as they went ahead 31 to 27 at the three-quarter mark.

Bruce Walker was top scorer for the victors with 11 points as the Blue Devils hit on 11 of 24 free throw attempts while collecting 18 personal fouls. Mike Schenck had 12 points for the Red Devils who scored on six of 20 attempts while collecting 19 personal fouls.

Grayling 49; Mancelona 36

In a game marked by repeated fouls and trips to the free throw line, the Grayling Vikings rolled over the visiting Mancelona five 10 to 4 at the quarter; 26 to 16 at halftime and 35 to 22 going into he final period.

Though Grayling won by a 13 point margin, they scored only 12 field goals. However they hit on 25 of 49 free throw attempts and had 24 personal fouls. Mancelona, with 31 personal fouls had 11 field goals and scored on 14 of 32 attempts.

Grayling lost Jack Hull and Roger Hatfield midway in the third period and Roger Horning midway in the final period via the foul route. Mancelona lost Chase, Fred Moore and Walt Klein late in the final period

New Kiwanis President Receives His Gavel

Kiwanians Told Why Insurance Costs Are Higher

"Accident down, costs up — why?" The why was explained to the Kiwanians at the weekly dinner meeting in the high school cafeteria Monday evening by George E. Jones jr.

After reviewing the excellent traffic safety records made in Michigan in recent years, Mr Jones said the public is often misled into the belief that these records should be a basis for lower automobile insurance rates. He pointed out, however, that other factors had more than offset the lower accident rate.

He noted many of these factors such as the increasing cost of damage repairs on the newer model cars, the increase in the personal liability coverage which resulted in a more generous attitude on the part of juries and courts in personal damage suits These and many other factors he cited have added up to higher automobile insurance costs.

Mr. Jones who is an insurance company claims attorney appeared as a representative of the Michigan Insurance Information service, a public service organization of 13 Michigan casualty insurance companies.

Darrel Dinwiddie was officially received as a member of Kiwanis. He was presented his pin by E. D. Hawley.

Arrangement for the speaker was made by the Rev. Fred McNeil, program chairman.

Conservation Dept. Offers Pine Seedlings

More than 15,000,000 young trees were placed on sale by the Conservation Department this week and orders are being accepted for the spring planting season

Sales are directed to private land owners at approximate production costs for such reforestation purposes as forest plantings, erosion control and farm windbreaks.

Trees are not sold for ornamental plantings or resale with roots attached

Furthermore, each purchaser must agree that not more than 40 percent of the stock will be cut for Christmas trees and that the stand will not be reduced by Christmas tree harvesting to less than 600 trees per acre, uniformly distributed.

Blanket orders from agencies or organizations that intend to redistribute the stock to a number of land owners are not accepted.

Prices vary according to stock species and age. No orders are accepted for less than 500 plants and not less than 100 of any class will be sold

All applications must be submitted to the Department's forestry division, Lansing 26, on the regular stock order form. Order blanks may be obtained from the forestry division.

In filling orders, trees are shipped from the nearest nursery where stock is available unless the purchaser directs otherwise. Ordinarily stock is shipped from April 20 to May 30. However, these dates may vary somewhat with weather conditions.

News is the plural of the word "new." The Greeks' word for it was "nees" and it became in Anglo-Saxon "neowe" and later in middle English "news." It is akin to the French "nouvelles."

County Farmers To Receive $20,000 For ACP Program

The Charlevoix County ASC office has announced that the 1958 ACP program is now ended and almost all of the payments due farmers have been made. There are still a few applications in the office, pending more information or completion of the practice in the spring. Total payments for 1958 will amount to approximately $20,000.00.

There was a total of 137 farmers signing up for the Agricultural Conservation Program for 1958 with a total of 106 farmers completing one or more practices for which they received payments. This is against a total of 175 farmers who signed up for ACP practices in 1957 with 151 of them completing practices and receiving payments. The 137 farmers requested a total of 284 separat practices to be completed in 1958.

Remember that the Agricultural Conservation Program is strictly voluntary and help to complete the necessary conservation practices on your farm is given only upon request from the farmer.

ACP Program For Charlevoix Is Announced

The Charlevoix County ASC office announced today the opening of the 1959 ACP program for the county. Sign-ups are now being taken in the county office. Within the next two weeks a summary of all the practices available to Charlevoix county farmers will be mailed to every farmer in the county.

Special emphasis is being placed on the Tree Planting practice No. A-7. This may be the year for all farmers to plant at least 1,000 trees. Water and weather conditions appear to add up to a good planting season for trees. Any farmer who is interested should contact the county ASC office as soon as possible and request approval of the practice. Technical assistance is being given by the district forester who will check the site and make recommendations for species, planting, etc.

The Walker Quickie practice has been eliminated from the county program for 1959. However, there are other practices that will make a good substitute for the Walker Quickie and anyone who was interested in carrying out the quickie practice would do well to look into them.

Fertilizer for permanent pastures is again available through purchase order which may be presented to the authorized vendors in the county.

Although there are several minor changes in the program for 1959 it remains substantially the same as in former years. Come into the office and we will help you to make plans for conservation practices to be carried out in 1959. New location in the Federal building.

A Community Job

Continuing employment is the goal of everyone in a community.

Employment is important to every family and to every phase of community life. When men and women are working they feel secure and this is reflected throughout their town.

With the number of workers continuing at a high level, business generally is prosperous. It means a pleasant attitude for the entire community.

Industrial development of a town becomes a personal project with everyone who is employed. They can evaluate the importance of having steady work. They can realize the need for everyone in the town to have work. The meeting of home payments paying obligations, supporting their families is important to every family.

There is always a need for employment as children grow up and the population increases. In any industrial development program, everyone has a part. For each there is the responsibility of "talking up" the community and expressing an appreciation of present industry which provides work and industrial payrolls which make the wheels of commerce turn.

Through cooperation of everyone in a community, the attracting of new industry or the encouraging of present industry to expand locally is possible. That will mean continued employment for those at work and employment for the next generation.

Necessity for such cooperation in adding impetus to local industrial development programs is stressed in an industrial development advertisement, sponsored by the Michigan Press Association and the Michigan Economic Development Department, which appears today in the Charlevoix Courier.

Appreciation

How many of us in Charlevoix walk down our main business street and cast our glance to the east and fully appreciate the beauty that is ours to enjoy both summer and winter? The yacht basin in Round Lake edging our main street is just one of the many beauties of Charlevoix we accept so casually.

A visitor, on the other hand, is inspired by the beauty we take for granted. He wants pictures to send to friends in order that they too may share in his enjoyment of our scenic beauty.

Occasionally we are jolted into the realization that where we live is rightly referred to as "Charlevoix the Beautiful." The jolt this time comes from a full page advertisement in this week's Saturday Evening Post. Nearly a third of the ad carries a full color picture of the Charlevoix yacht basin lined with beautiful yachts. It's a common summer sight to us but to the million or so persons who will see this ad, it will be an impressive sight.

Unfortunately those people won't know where the picture was taken because the advertiser, Detroit Diesel Engine Division of General Motors, had no reason to give Charlevoix a plug. Many of our past visitors, however, will recognize the scene and call the attention of their friends to it.

American medical colleges had a record enrollment of 29,473 students in the 1957-58 academic year. Sixty of the 85 operating medical schools reported major construction projects, costing $47 million, in the planning, beginning or completion stages.

Wildcatters are pressing a relentless search for oil on the African continent, says Petroleum Week, and some of the problems they face are deadly snakes, ferocious bees that attack on sight, lions and World War II mines. So far, production has been modest, but possibilities are termed enormous.

BY FRAN MARTIN

IT'S SPRING YET? There are those who were hopeful that the beautiful season was just around the corner but only because they were seeing not one but a whole flock of robins. Mrs. Bob Winchester was the first to report them, then Mike LaSchivia at the Lifeboat station and more recently several youngsters who saw them in the vicinity of the school. One poor little robin was seen over on the south side by the Walker Mileses, standing on first one foot and then the other. A few days later there was one sighted near the jail. Sheriff Glenn Rose wouldn't believe it so quick-like got out his binoculars and sure enough, there was the robin with a breast so red there was no mistaking him for something else. Then Mrs. Carl Johnson saw one.

* * *

BUT SOMEWHERE along the way the robins tuned in on the wrong channel. The long range forecast for February follows the pattern set earlier, below normal temperatures and more snow. How it can snow when it's so cold we'll never know. As this is being written in below zero—how far depends on how far you are from Lake Michigan. But at zero it's mighty cold.

* * *

SPEAKING OF THE cold reminds us of ice which brings to mind Carol Heiss, the wonderful skater. There's a grand story about her in a recent issue of the Post. Fred Tyler called us to bring it to our attention and mentioned that she had summered on Lake Charlevoix. It's a real interesting article, especially if you've had the privilege of meeting her.

* * *

WE'VE HEARD that there's a bobcat at Ironton, or have you heard? Now we haven't heard it but we understand that last summer and fall its screech (for that's how it always sounds to us) was heard several times. Later in the fall one of the residents of the area, Mrs. Ed Lemcke, saw these big tracks in the sand and soil along Lake Charlevoix but everyone thought she was making it up. More recently her husband saw a track in snow where it was 'frozen' in. He couldn't believe his eyes so he cut out a piece of the hard snow and took it to the Conservation department at Boyne City where the officers not only identified it as that of a bobcat but about the biggest one they'd ever seen. So, if you hear a mad scream late at night don't be alarmed, it will just be the bobcat exercising his lungs, which is enough to make your hair stand on end

* * *

WILL YOU BE my Valentine? You will, aw, you're sweet! With Valentine's Day just around another week we thought we'd get to you early before you're spoken for.

* * *

THE SUNDAY AFTER Valentine's Day is going to be a big one for former Charlevoixans now living in the west. It's the date of the big Charlevoix-California picnic—a time when all former residents living within driving distance of Glendale meet at Brand Park lodge at noon for a get-together. We're told it's great fun and everyone has a whale of a time talkin' about Charlevoix and all the people they know back here. So, if your ears are burning that day 'cause someone's talking about you you'll know who 'tis. We'd like to take this opportunity to send a great big hello to everyone we know or heard about through the years. We often talk about you all back here too.

* * *

Broken Rainbow Foretells Storm

An unusual winter sight, a broken rainbow in the southwest, at 5 p.m. Sunday evening is reported by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Blood.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Daugherty also witnessed it.

According to Mr. Blood who looked up its meaning, such a rainbow in the winter foretells a storm.

Some viruses attack bacteria A virus, which looks something like a tadpole when magnified tens of thousands of times, uses its tail to penetrate a bacterium's outer coating. Acting as a living hypodermic needle, the virus sends material into the bacterial cell. About 20 minutes later, the cell bursts, yielding perhaps a hundred duplicates or near-duplicates of the original virus.

I'VE GOT A JOB
I've got a job and that's important to me; to my family and to my community. When I'm working, I'm happy. It gives me a feeling of security.
Other men in our town need jobs too. They have to support their families, pay their taxes, meet home payments and pay other obligations. That's why it's up to everyone of us to do all we can to keep our present industry and to attract new plants. We can let our own industry know we appreciate it and we can tell others about the advantages our town offers.
If we all work together, we can do it. Then I'll still have my job and you'll have yours and there will be good jobs for our youngsters when they are ready to go to work.

Davenport-Robinson Vows Exchanged Saturday at Methodist Church

Margot Grace Davenport, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Davenport, became the bride of Karl E. Robinson at an impressive candlelight ceremony solemnized at the First Methodist church Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Robinson of Petoskey are the parents of the bridegroom.

Arrangements of white gladioli, mums and snapdragons and gold mums and lighted tapers in candelabra formed a setting for the double ring service read by the Rev. Frederick McNeil in the presence of 150 guests. Martha Prendergast of Owosso, at the organ, played traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Lee Moerland, who sang "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee" and "Whither Thou Goest."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a ballerina length gown of white Chantilly lace over tissue taffeta for her wedding. The gown was fashioned with a fitted bodice, Sabrina neckline and long tapered sleeves. An apron of lace fastened with a large satin bow in the back fell over a bouffant skirt of tiny tulle ruffles. A tiara of Eucharist lilies secured her fingertip veil. She carried a Colonial bouquet of Eucharist lilies and frenched white carnations.

Mona Davenport, as her sister's only attendant, wore an emerald green taffeta sheath dress styled with a scoop neckline, short sleeves and an over-skirt forming an apron effect. Her accessories were green and white and she carried a colonial bouquet of gold and white mums.

George Robinson of Petoskey assisted his brother as best man. Jerry Hamilton of Flint, Dean Davenport jr of Petoskey, brother of the bride, and Clark Ketchum, also of Petoskey, seated the guests.

A reception followed in Harmony Hall of the church. A tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bouquet of pink tea roses centered the refreshment table which was decorated with white tapers. Assisting were Angela Schroeder, Mrs. Dean Davenport jr., Carol Duerr, DeeAnn Geneit and Mary Jean Dunnebacke of Midland.

The bride is a graduate of the Charlevoix high school and attended Central Michigan College where she was a member of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority. The bridegroom, a graduate of the Petoskey high school, is a veteran of two years service in the U. S. Marines and is currently enrolled at Western Michigan University.

Wedding guests were present from Onaway, Harbor Springs, Mt. Pleasant, Flint, Grand Rapids, Midland, Saginaw, Pinconning, Alma, Royal Oak and Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Wilson returned early in December from a trip to South Africa where the former, a retired vice president of the Goodyear Rubber Co., has inspected Goodyear operations on that continent.

The following are excerpts from letters written by the couple to relatives and friends while they were away. This is the second installment.

Off on a safari in a station wagon-like vehicle with four-wheel drive and an opening in the roof so that one can stick his head out and take pictures. Mrs. Wilson writes:

"And how do you put it all down on paper when all your life you've seen elephants in parades and lions in cages and you have thought of the far-away land they come from . . . and here you are and you suddenly are the stranger in a cage (and glad of it). Instead of the elephant being on display, there he is flapping his ears, pulling his big wrinkly leg up over a stump and he's comfortably at home.

"The lion walks over to the branch and rubs his or her head on it just as Willie (my cat) might do at home. I never saw anything as cute as those lion cubs, about the size of Zuber's big Springer spaniel dogs. They rubbed faces with their mother and then popped over to their grandmother to give her a little love and were welcome.

"Before I forget, I just must say that our cook was cook for General Smuts in the 1914-18 war. During the second world war when General Smuts was here in Africa, he sent for old Savasi and had him come and cook a meal for him. He's at least 80 years old and John, the white hunter, says he probably has four wives, all a Mohammedan is allowed.

"This wife buying is a good business. A man will buy all the wives he can afford, usually get them at about 14 or 15 years old. The wife works for him and bears many children. The girls he sells and makes money (I find that sometimes they come back to Paga and then there is a real storm). The boys he keeps because they can tend cattle for him.

"They raise no food, living on blood and milk which they mix together and meat. Some buy meal but not many. Needless to say, the wife wears out at about 25."

On to North Rhodesia where the Wilsons found cities of new modernistic buildings, wide paved streets, fine stores and new hotels . . . the one in the capital, Uusaka, "can't be beat anywhere for beauty, comfort and service" Mr. Wilson comments.

And Victoria Falls . . . "You see the spray long before you get to the falls and the roar grows louder and louder and finally you get just a peep at the wall of white foam. A little farther you cross a high, high bridge and off there to the right is the highest, longest torrent of white you have ever imagined. It falls into a deep, deep gorge. All I could think of was to get off that bridge and go at this thing kind of easy . The river is a mile wide at the falls and it goes over a cliff about 350 feet deep.

"We rented raincoats and rain hats and walked the mile in what they call the "rain forest" so close to the edge of the cliff opposite the falls that it rains here constantly. We stuck close together, yards back from the edge. But the constant roar and beat of the big rain drops . . well, I'm glad I did it but no more, thanks."

From Johannesburg, the Wilsons had an opportunity to go into the wild animal country to "shoot" with their cameras. They made a four-day safari into the Kruger National Froest, a park of a million acres. Mrs. Wilson writes

"Nairobi was far more exciting but with its heat and dust and animals at the door of your hut . . . well, once was enough. In this Kruger deal you really can drive over lovely smooth roads (no roads in Nairobi . . . just find your own route on the Reserve) in your comfortable car. The rest camps are all protected by high fences and you must either be out of the park or within the high barricade by 6:30 p.m.

"About all you need to do is watch carefully, keep your car windows rolled up when you see lions or monkeys, keep your car filled with gas and food in your car if you plan to cook your own food. It's fun to fix your own food. At each cooking spot is a native boy to build your fire and wash your dishes. He even fixed hot ashes for me to make toast for toasted cheese sandwiches."

Smiley Tries a "Treasure Hunt"

They're already pouring foundations for Smiley Roberts' new store, now that the old house on the place has been torn down in record time.

"Those wreckers sure did a fast job," Smiley explained with a chuckle. "Of course, I helped speed things up myself.

"Someone found a letter behind a rafter. Gave me an idea. I put $30 in an envelope, hid it, then 'discovered' it right under their noses. After that, the boys worked so fast I gave them that thirty dollars as a bonus!"

From where I sit, some things —like being a good neighbor— shouldn't require "special inducements." That's something we should all want to do just automatically. When you visit my home, for example, I try to be a good neighbor by serving you your favorite beverage— be it coffee, tea or a glass of beer. Extend the same courtesy to me, and I'd call that a "bonus" of good neighborliness.

Grayling Upsets Traverse City St. Francis 55-50

The Grayling Vikings upset the Traverse City St. Francis powerhouse 55 to 50 to headline the activity in the Northern Michigan Class C league Tuesday night.

In two other non-loop meetings, Gaylord lost to Cheboygan 59 to 52 and Boyne City bowed to Petoskey 71 to 66.

Grayling jumped into an 11 to 8 first period lead over the Gladiators who were never able to come back as the Vikings led 25 to 22 at the half and 41 to 33 going into the final period. Roger Hatfield had 15 points for the victors. Jim Youker scored 12 for Traverse City.

At Gaylord the Blue Devils rolled to a 17 to 15 first quarter lead and held on 31 to 30 at halftime before Cheboygan took command of the game to go ahead 44 to 41 at the three-quarter mark. Del Jewell had 20 points for the Chiefs. Roy Wolf connected for 15 for Gaylord.

John Rigg paced the scoring for the Petoskey Northmen as they led the Ramblers 12 to 6 and 29 to 14 at halftime. Boyne City came back to score 52 points in the last half but their efforts were in vain as Petoskey won by a five-point margin.

Council Approves Appointment of Three Firemen

The Charlevoix city council, at its regular meeting Monday night, approved the appointment of three new volunteer firemen. They are Jess Penn, Richard Wells and James Whitley who were named to succeed former members who are no longer residents of Charlevoix. The city now has 14 volunteer firemen who work under the direction of Fire Chief John Curtis and Assistant Fire Chief Patrick Martin.

Approval was also given the appointment of Norman D. Ance, J. Lawrence Feindt and Hugh Mayne as election commissioners for the Feb. 16 primary election and the April 6 general election.

All applicants for the jobs of election inspectors for the forthcoming elections were approved. Other vacancies will be filled by appointment.

Bills totaling $9,633.56 were approved and ordered paid.

An intensive study and evaluation of our soil, water and natural resources is scheduled to begin this month in Charlevoix County. A committee of Charlevoix County conservation, agricultural, civic and educational leaders, with U. S. Soil Conservation Service Soil Conservationist Bill Grimm, as Chairman, will hold their first meeting January 29. This group will examine what has been accomplished conservation-wise and will recommend from which land our future agricultural production must come to provide food, clothing, homes and recreation for our rapidly expanding population.

This Charlevoix County study is our part of the nationwide study of Conservation Needs that the U. S. Department of Agriculture is now supervising all over the country.

An undertaking like this must be based on sound facts. To obtain these facts about Charlevoix County soils and land use, a soil survey sampling method was used. A soil survey was made on thirty eight sample areas uniformly distributed over the county. These sample areas were examined by walking over the land and making an accurate map of the soil types, slope, erosion and land use. The soil survey of these sample areas gives an accurate county-wide statistical picture of the soils, their erosion and drainage problems, and the way our land is being used at present. Part of the job of this committee is to determine how the land can best be used in the future.

Some imoortant information which the County Committee will obtain through this study is:

1. The amount of our land which has already been treated with adequate conservation measures.

2. The changes in land use that can be expected by 1975.

3. The amount of conservation measures still needed to maintain and protect the land, our greatest natural resource, for the future.

4. The water management problems that can be solved as cooperative watershed projects under U. S. Public Law 566.

SUNDEW REPORTS

When the ship is not underway there isn't much operation activity to report. Most of our time while in port is spent in cleaning, repainting and holding extensive drill for fire, collision, abandon ship, etc. This is also a good opportunity for the crew to take leave and several men have done just that.

Joseph Eardly came directly to us from boot camp at Cape May, N. J., but was here for only one week He was transferred on Friday to the hospital in Detroit for surgical treatment.

Our students, L. John Deardon and Richard Waggoner, returned from Groton, Conn., wiser in the ways of handling aids to navigation: John Coppens also returned to duty after surgical treatment at Charlevoix hospital.

The engine room crew spent the greater part of this week over-hauling the starboard main engine. It was taken completely apart, all parts cleaned, clearance checked and replacements made as needed.

Our television set has been repaired and we have also been receiving quite a few films. For those who don't care to take part in the winter sports there is now some enertainment on board.

SUNDEW SCUTTLEBUTT . . .

Our thanks to those responsible for clearing the dock and the parking area of snow . . . Our yeoman, Jim Wypych, received orders to report to Alaska sometime in April . . . Bill Tomac EN1 was transferred to the C. G. Cutter Mackinac which is based at Cheboygan where his family is residing . . . Drop in and see the basketball team perform on Wednesday evenings at the school.

• Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ranger returned home Monday evening from a three weeks vacation trip to Abeline, Tex., where they visited their son and daughter-in-law, Lt. and Mrs. A. A. Ranger, and in St. Louis, Mo., New Orleans, La., and other points of interest.

• Mrs. Phillip Lemieur has returned home from a month's visit with relatives in Detroit.

Adventures in Understanding

Notes from a northerner's diary

By Harold E. Kohn

Some Thoughts of Pain

One of the chief limitations of all members of the animal kingdom is that they have many of man's experiences without man's attempts to understand them. Death is one example. Pain is another.

The wily weasel roams our land all year round hunting its prey, and now in ermine garb stalks snowshoe rabbits and whitefooted mice. It deals out death without knowing what death is, and finally the weasel dies without knowing it is dying. For life and death, although they are experienced by weasels, rabbits and mice, are not pondered by them, weighed on some delicate scales of logic, tested for doctrinal orthodoxy, or debated at learned forums. They live but do not try to understand life. They die without wondering about the significance of death.

So with pain. A woman slicing bread cuts her finger and it "hurts" and she is much aware that it pains her. A man pounding a nail hits his thumb and everyone in the room hears the shout of anguish, and hours later at the dinner table they laugh at his clumsiness, and he relates how it happened, and shows the discolored appendages, and tells, half ashamed, how much it pains. But part of his problem is in knowing that it hurts, in embellishing the momentary anguish of the hammer blow on his thumb with memory and with concern. A hunting dog, on the other hand, will rip his ears on brambles or barbed wire, yelp with the pain, and then, forgetting all about it, carry a retrieved pheasant to his master with eyes shining with mixed triumph and worship. Pain was felt, but not pondered nor understood. So a weasel can inflict suffering or receive it without knowing its meaning. All animals can, and this is one of their severest limitations that they can have man's experiences without savoring them.

Several years ago, in the state of Ohio, a child was born who did not cry. Air had to be forced into its lungs because the youngster did not make the initial lament that signifies a baby's joining the race of men. As the child grew older there were signs indicating that it was the victim of a rare condition: it could feel no pain. When she was accidentally pricked with a diaper she did not protest. She never cried when she bumped her head or fell or burned her hand.

Doctors were consulted and they warned the parents that their daughter was afflicted with a dangerous malady. Feeling no pain she could contract an infection and be unaware of it until it had spread too far to stop. A growth could begin and progress to an incurable stage without giving any outward sign of its presence.

Ordinarily we think a painless existence would be ideal. But it would be perilous, for pain can be a friendly thing, like the swinging red light and lowering gate at a railroad crossing when a train is coming. It shouts "Caution!" at us.

But pain is more than a warning to the mind that something is wrong in the body. Pain is a memento of our finiteness, reminding man as it does no other creature that his body is a temporary kind of thing, filled with imperfections and sharing the fate of every living organism. It is perisbable. It is a reminder we need. For in our facing up to the brevity of our time here we are apt to make a maximum effort to make our days count. It is because our hodies are here so briefly that we attempt to leave behind us some signs that we were here at all. So we seek to perpetuate the best that we know of goodness, truth and beauty in our children who inherit the earth from us. We erect buildings, monuments and statues that have a firmer hold on time than we have. We print words and paint pictures and establish charities that outlast us.

Pain, that flashing memorandum of our temporal finiteness, recalts to us, too, how limited are our opportunities to do good. "I, like all other human beings, have but a short while here" the aches and hurts suggest to us which also means "All other human beings, like myself, have only a little while to spend here. We are all in this thing together, all time-limited, all merely passing through this valley. Life is too brief to hate, to be mean, to be small." As Henry Amiel put it, ". . . We have not too much time for gladdening the hearts of those who are traveling the dark way with us. Oh, be swift to love! Make haste to be kind!"

If we will have it so, pain will stimulate the growth of gratitude. We learn to appreciate health through the lack of it. Probably no one ever relishes health until he has experienced illness, no more than one can thoroughly appreciate honesty and truth until he has seen shame and hypocricy, or be profoundly grateful for freedom until he has been denied it, or savor joy until he has encountered disappointment. The person who boasts he has "never had a sick day," hardly knows what health is, because he has never experienced in his own flesh and bones and nerves the anguish of suffering. He is to be pitied. He likely finds it impossible to "enjoy good health," consciously and with exhileration for he has never experienced the difference between pain and painlessness.

Pain can make us better people just as well as it can make us worse. It can sweeten as well as embitter us. Or to be more exact, it brings out whatever is already in us. Pain is a revealer. It does for us what cutting does to a diamond in the rough. If there are flaws there, cutting accentuates them. If beauty is there, cutting enhances it. But even a diamond of high quality will remain dim and lusterless until it has been cut many times by an expert. Then the many facets will catch, reflect and glorify the light. It is not only the quality of a diamond or its size that gives it value, but the cuts it receives. The big question then, as Shakespeare said, is this: "In sickness let me not so much say, am I getting better of my pain, as am I getting better for it?"

One of the most important lessons tife has to offer is this: it is not so bad to simply suffer pain. What is worse is to endure pain without making something good of it. It is wasteful to possess it, like a "diamond in rough" and not to cut and polish and make a gem of it.

Bowling News

Freedman No. 2 suffered their first losing night of the second round but held on to their slim margin of first place as Sinclair took them for 3 points. Meg was high for his Oilers as he rolled a third game of 212 and came in with a 536. Louie McKenzie was next high as he had a 524 series "Bantam Ben" Wallace just made the mark as he had a 501. Kenny's new ball wasn't working and the best he could muster was a 419—I don't feel so bad now. For the losers Harry Pearsall was high man with a 447. Jack Niswander had the high game for the team though as he had a nice 175 game.

Swanson's moved into a three way tie for third as they won 3 points from Browe Electric. Bob Ferguson led the Swanson congregation as he just missed the 500 mark by 1 pin, coming in with a 499. For Browe's, Bob Ouderkirk took over the limelight as he led the team with his 457. Ted would have been leading the team as usual except that he got off to a bad start in the first game as he only had a 104.

• • •

Neffs got in that tie for third place as they won all 4 points from a 4 man Hess team. For Neffs it was "Big" Bergmann coming in on top with his 509 series. Bernie Ward was second high as he rolled a 502. For Hess it was Ed Culbertson holding down the anchor spot and having the only series in the 400's. Ed had a 460. Red's getting down closer to that 100 mark all the time. Only 5 more pins to go Red and you'll be under. Keep trying kid, I know you can make it.

• • •

Moonlight makes up the final third of the trio tied for third. (That's a lot of t's isn't it?) They accomplished this by also winning 4 points. Their victim was Lake Construction. For Moonlight it was Grov Geneit rolling 3 consistent games and ending up with a 548. For the Lakers who had a real poor night, Mike Black was high (high?) with his 441. What happened to the Wojans? I know what happened to John that first game — 98 that's what! I'd like to confer my apologies to Har Harold "Hod" (HOD) Muth —Captain Sir! And also Mrs. Muth. I was going to blame it on Nick for not being able to read my writing but that didn't seem too plausible. You have to admit though that Hod and Hog do sound quite abit alike. Please accept my most humble apology and I hope I didn't give you a new nickname by my mistake.—(heh-heh)

• • •

Well the Airport team unlike the Freedman No. 2 bunch finally had a winning night. It happens to be their company in last place too—the Browns. The Airport didn't have anything to yell about except a 528 for Hank—and believe me that's worth shouting about. The rest of the team was pretty sad, but after the first game Browns were sadder. Only one man in the 400's for Browns and that was Norm (Head Pin) Empey. Norm had one nice game of 198 and ended up with a 476 series. About the only consoloation of the night for me and my 463 was beating Kenny's 419—Oh yes, and Meg wanted me to be sure and tell you he was up on me in total pins — we've got a little bet going.

• • •

Song of the week for the Inn—"Blue Skies." For awhile I thought it was going to be "All By Myself." I guess it was for me although I did beat Harju's 376.

• • •

P. S. All that talk about a 3 way tie for third was wrong. Actually Swanson and Moonlight are tied for first while Swanson and Neff's are tied for third

The Charlevoix Rayders retained their third place standing in loop play Friday night by dumping the Grayling Vikings 54 to 40 in a game which saw the local five trailing until early in the second half.

The highly-touted Grayling quintet jumped into a 13 to nine first period lead which the Rayders trimmed to two points, 24 to 22, at halftime. Early in the second half Charlevoix knotted the score from the free throw line and then edged to a 36 to 31 advantage going into the final period where they outscored their hosts 18 to nine for the lopsided victory.

Starting for Charlevoix were Joe Beaudoin, Jim Ladd, Ron Vandenberg, Bill Poquette and Dave Schuchard who paced the scoring with 23 points. Steve LaBlance and Dick VanRaaphorst saw action in the second quarter and Bruce Pease joined the line-up in the third period.

Roger Hatfield with five field goals got the Vikings off to a fast start, assisted by Roger Horning who added one and Jim Robertson who scored a gift shot. The Rayders, in the meantime, were held to four points by Schuchard, three by Vandenberg and two by Beaudoin.

Charlevoix came back with 13 points in the second period including four field goals and two charity shots by Schuchard, two points by Beaudoin and one by Vandenberg. Grayling had five field goals and one free throw to hold a 24 to 22 halftime lead.

Charlevoix started to connect in the second half, taking the lead early in the period. Schuchard added five, Vandenberg four, Poquette and Pease two each and Beaudoin one point for 14 points as the Vikings attack slowed to seven points on three field goals and one free throw.

In the final period the Rayders put the game on ice with 18 points including six by Poquette, four each by Vandenberg and Schuchard and two each by Beaudoin and Pease.

From the Side Lines . . .

Things started out in the same old fashion but before too long it looked like coach Carey found the right ingredient, mixed properly and served hot as the Rayders came out of the clash with a 54 to 40 win.

It would take only a couple of win of Friday nights type to give the Rayders the needed drive to finish out the season with all wins. IF Pellston gets knocked off the top of the list (there are three teams in the conference that could do it) the Rayders still have the chance to take top honors.

We have picked up a few bits of conversation at ball games from our side lines coaches that the Rayders may be a team being groomed for tournament play. IF this is the case we will be seeing the Rayders really take shape during the latter part of the season when they reach the peak of perfection.

The Pellston Hornets kept their record clean Friday night by dumping Mancelona 68 to 44 while East Jordan was edging Harbor Springs 63 to 49; Gaylord was dumping Boyne City 65 to 50 and Charlevoix was rolling over Grayling 54 to 40.

Pellston 68 Mancelona 44

A surprised Pellston five found themselves trailing the visiting Mancelona Ironmen 17 to 15 at the quarter and 28 to 23 at halftime before they caught fire in the third period to blank out the deficit and go ahead 44 to 33 going into the final period.

Barry Anderson continued to pace the Hornets with 26 points while Jerry Patrick had 15 for Mancelona. The Ironmen, playing without regular Fred Moore who has a back injury, were hampered further by the loss of his replacement, Terry Meeder, who suffered a torn leg ligament early in the game. There is a possibility he will be benched for at least a month.

East Jordan 63 Harbor Springs 59

With Louis Kraemer of East Jordan and George Coveyou of Harbor Springs each scoring 27 points, the meeting between the two clubs developed into a battle in the final minutes of play as the Rams trimmed the Jordanites lead to four points as time ran out.

The Red Devils romped into a 14 to 10 first quarter lead which they increased to 34 to 22 at half time before the rejuvenated Rams took over to cut the Jordanites' third period advantage to seven points, 53 to 47. In the final period they continued their torrid pace which was halted abruptly when Coveyou went to the bench with five fouls with little more than a minute remaining.

Gaylord 65 Boyne City 50

The Gaylord Blue Devils had no trouble defending their second place standing against Boyne City as they led the Ramblers 16 to 11; 33 to 21 and 52 to 31 by quarters. John Burnison set the tempo for the game with 25 points for Gaylord. Tom Christiansen had 12 for Boyne City.

Rayders Meet Red Devils In Fight For Third

There's another big week ahead for the teams of the Northern Michigan Class C league as all eight teams take to the hardwoods Friday and again on Tuesday.

Two big battles are seen for Friday as Pellston travels to Gaylord to take on the second place Blue Devils and Charlevoix battles it out with East Jordan on the latter's floor for possession of third place. On other games this week Boyne City will play at Mancelona and Harbor Springs will host Grayling.

The Gaylord-Pellston meeting promises to be an interesting one for if the Hornets can get past the Blue Devils, currently in second place with only two losses in nine games, they will be well on their way to their first title in loop history.

In their first meeting the Hornets edged the Devils by a four point margin (48-44). Gaylord's only other loss was an upset by Grayling by the same number of points last week. In other games both teams have rolled over all other loop opponents.

The Hornets, carrying a perfect record of nine games into the meeting, will be favored not only because of their record but because of their height advantage over the Blue Devils who average less than six feet while the Hornets have plenty of height, especially in the forward and center positions where it is needed most.

The Blue Devils have depended almost entirely on speed and a constant oress plus aeeuracy in shooting from outside to keep them in the running.

Coach Francis McMahon of Pellston has molded a well balanced team that thus far has remained cool under pressure and this may stand the Hornets in good stead when they challenge the Blue Devils on the latter's floor this week.

The Boyne City Ramblers may make their way into the win column for the first time this week when they take on the shorthanded Mancelona Ironmen.

A Pellston last week the Ironmen made an excellent showing the first half before falling victim to the Hornets by a 24-point margin. In this meeting they lost the services of Terry Meeder who had joined the line-up, replacing Fred Moore who has been benched with a back injury. Coach Jake Schurmann said Monday that it was doubtful if Moore would be able to play. Since Meeder may be lost for the remainder of the season, Tom Moeke, a sophomore, may be given the nod. This plus the fact that though the Ramblers have no victories to their credit they have come close several times in upsetting top teams may be what Boyne City needs to get into the black for a change.

The Harbor Springs Rams who have shown new life in recent weeks may also choose this week to rack up a victory over Grayling. The Vikings have four wins to their credit but with the Rams becoming a serious threat to all comers the latter could come up with a win. One thing to the Rams advantage is their cracker-box floor which may hamper the Vikings who use one of the largest floors in the loop.

Favored teams should come up with victories Tuesday night when Gaylord invades Mancelona, East Jordan travels to Grayling, Pellston entertains East Jordan and Charlevoix entertains Harbor Springs.

Gaylord edged Mancelona 40 to 39 in their first meeting in the last minute of play but since then the Ironmen have floundered Discouraged by the loss of key players through injuries, they lack the punch to make them the threat they were earlier so the Blue Devils should retain their second place standing.

The meeting between East Jordan and Grayling will probably be the closest game of the night with the Red Devils trying to repeat their earlier performance and the Vikings determined to halt their march. The Jordanites, however, with their record should be favored to win.

In an earlier meeting Boyne City held Pellston to a 52 to 50 win on the Rambler floor However, it is doubtful if the Hornets will allow such a thing to happen a second time so they should keep their record clean despite any hopes the Ramblers might have.

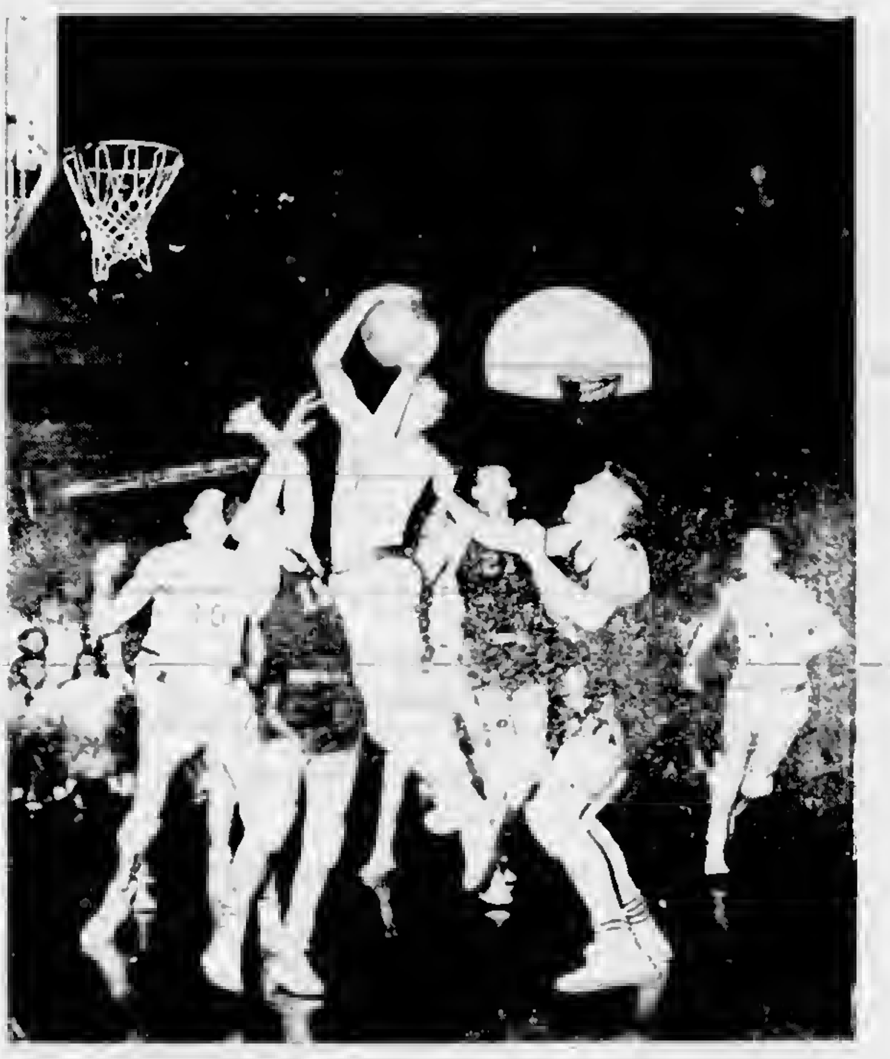
Dope Sheet

The Charlevoix Rayders will face two tough opponents during the coming week when they take on East Jordan Friday and Harbor Springs Tuesday.

Possession of third place in loop standings will be at stake when the Rayders travel to East Jordan Friday to take on the Red Devils who handed the local quintet their first defeat of the season by a 51 to 49 score in December. The Rayders will be out to avenge the earlier loss and may do just that if they play four quarters of the type of ball they are capable of playing.

On Tuesday Harbor Springs will come to town. Now the Rams are in the loop cellar but with the return of Ken Garver have shown promise of making their way out of last position. In their first meeting the Rayders dumped them 80 to 20 but it is doubtful if they can repeat this score tho they should come out of the game with a victory.



Dave Schuchard (0) comes down with the ball after a scramblbe off the backboards in the recent Boyno City-Charlevoix game. In the background can be seen Poquette and Vandenberg ready to assist (Nos. 24 and 10 respectively). Charlevoix beat Boyne City 54 to 47 for the second time this season.

State Traffic Fatalities Drop To January Low

With an assist from the frigid temperatures, the new year began auspiciously trafficwise in Michigan with a reduction of 31 per cent in highway deaths in January as compared with the same month a year ago, according to the State Police provisional report.

There were 65 fatalities in 60 accidents, or 29 fewer than 94 deaths in 84 accidents in January of 1958.

It was the lowest death toll of any month since the war year of 1943 when there were 59 fatalities, also in January, and this was a period of gas rationing and restricted travel. Likewise, it is the lowest monthly toll since records were first computed in 1933.

The cold weather and snow and icy conditions were largely credited for the sharp reduction in the monthly toll. Travel was not only cut down, but drivers were much more careful.

Despite Michigan's continuing reduction in deaths, however, there were warnings of rougher times ahead.

Make Plans to Study Juvenile Problems in Area

The first area meeting of the Little White House Conference to study and evaluate youth problems was held at Northwestern Michigan College in Traverse City Sunday.

Five counties were represented at the meeting where ground work plans were laid for introducing the value of projects to the public, generally stimulating interest and setting plans for an area conference to be held in May.

Louis R. Hooper, children's worker in Charlevoix and Emmet counties, will assist William T. Downs, Charlevoix county probate judge, in editing the conference reports and making inventory of available agencies.

Emphasis will be on citizen's help and thinking as President Eisenhower feels that grass roots feeling is all-important in all White House conferences. National agencies will stand by for research, but actual plans for the 1960 White House conference will be formulated by lay thinking.

In Traverse City Sunday for the first area meeting were Mr. Downs and Mr. Hooper.

Donaldson and Boss Offer Only Contest In City Primary

Voters in the city and in Charlevoix township will cast their ballots Monday to nominate party candidates for the spring election. Most townships, complying with the new election laws, have scheduled party caucuses for either Saturday or Monday to name a slate of candidates for the spring election.

In the city primary there is only one contest on the Republican ticket. Frank Boss, second ward alderman, is opposed by Richard Donaldson, a newcomer in local politics who made his first bid for public office last year when he opposed Ray L. Kipke. There was a tie vote and Kipke won the nomination when lots were drawn. There were no candidates for nomination on the Democratic party in the city.

Other candidates whose names will appear on the Republican primary ballot are E. James Hiller, mayor; Hugh Mayne, clerk; Nelle A. Hammond, treasurer; Clare L. Staley, first ward alderman; Edward P. Hansen, third ward alderman; Ivan Phillips, first ward supervisor; Ted R. Miller, second ward supervisor and Jesse Smith, third ward supervisor.

Charlevoix township has a three-way contest for the office of trustee on the Republican ballot. Edward P. Zeitler is opposed by Dale E. Boss and Ernest E. Paul. Other candidates on the ballot are Clarence R. Rabach, supervisor; Kathryn B. Smith, clerk; Rose Bergmann, treasurer; Clayton A. Smith, justice; Marvin Sugden, board of review. No candidates filed for nomination on the Democratic ballot. Both Democratic and Republican primary ballots will be available and voters wishing to vote a Democratic primary may write in their candidates. Voters must, however, vote on only one primary ballot, either the Republican or the Democratic.

Other townships in the area have set specific times for both Republican and Democratic caucuses as provided by the election laws of 1958. In Norwood township the Democratic caucus is scheduled for one p.m., Monday at the township hall. The Republican caucus will follow at two p.m.

Both Republican and Democratic caucuses in Hayes township are also scheduled for Monday at the township hall. Republicans will meet at two p.m. and Democrats at 7:30 p.m.

Marion township caucuses will be held Saturday at the township hall at 8 p.m. No definite time has been established for the party caucuses but each party will be alloted time for its caucus that evening.

The 1958 change in election laws has resulted in considerable confusion, particularly in some townships, regarding the nomin-

Stage Is Set For Annual PTA School Fair

Fair time is fun time and there will be plenty of fun for everyone at the PTA fair to be held at the Charlevoix school Saturday night.

The popular event will feature booths and other entertainment of every description designed for young and old alike.

The fair will open at 5 p.m. with a creamed chicken and chili supper in the high school cafeteria. At the same time all the booths including food booths operated by the Kiwanis club and the JayCees will open in the gymnasium.

From 5 o'clock on there will be all sorts of entertainment beginning with the crowning of the King and Queen of the fair. A kangaroo court at 7 p.m. will be followed by a variety show featuring a square dancing exhibition by the children of St. Mary's school; a skit, "Ain't it pitiful?" by a song and dance team, Mrs. Lee Moerland and Mrs. Warren Toussaint, accompanied by Mrs. Leonard Burns and songs by a high school quartet.

There will be two cake walks and another kangaroo court during the evening. And as though that weren't enough there will be movies, games, a square dance in the band room and a Valentine dance for the teen-agers in the cafeteria . . . name it and you'll find it at the PTA fair this week end.

Eighth grade students are selling concession tickets. The boy and girl selling the most tickets will be crowned king and queen of the fair with the runners-up being named to the court. So buy your tickets from eighth grade students.

Plan now to have your supper at the school and then remain for a full evening of entertainment including a fabulous midway at the PTA fair is the invitation issued by Mrs. James Coleman and Mrs. Karl Schultz, co-chairman of the event. Proceeds will be used to purchase equipment for the new school.

Big Lake Trout Landed by Ward

There are still prize lake trout in northern Michigan waters and Bernie Ward jr. proved it Monday night by taking a 13½ pounder from Torch Lake. Police Chief Joe Smith gave him an assist in the 45 minute struggle to land the big one that had a 19 inch girth and measured 33 inches long

Mr. Ward was fishing with a tip-up, using a six pound test leader. He said the trout apparently took the bait and spit it out but got hooked in a gill fin. The trout was entered Tuesday morning in the Petoskey big fish contest.

County Road Crews Aid School Buses in Delivering Students

Wednesday dawned clear and beautiful after one of the worst 'flash' blizzards of the season hit northern Michigan at mid-morning Tuesday, dropping approximately eight inches of snow in a four hour period.

All but main trunklines were blocked by snow blown about by winds up to 30 miles an hour out of the northeast.

The storm hit the entire north country shortly after 10 a.m. Tuesday. Visibility was cut to zero by flying snow and in a short time roads were becoming blocked.

The Charlevoix county road commission advised schools to send their buses home at noon. Before they could transport the students to their homes, all but a few buses became stalled in snow drifts and county road commission snow plows were dispatched to their assistance. In some instances, the students were taken to their homes by plows.

In Charlevoix the last bus made its rounds at 4:45 p.m. The driver, Bradford Foster had started along his route at noon but rather than become stalled along the way had returned the children to school where they were cared for and fed until a snowplow was free to accompany the bus.

When the storm continued late Tuesday all schools in the county were ordered closed Wednesday.

All major highways and county roads were passable Wednesday morning and all township roads by noon Wednesday.

From the time the storm started Tuesday morning until the wind abated after 10 p.m. Tuesday night approximately 10 inches of snow had fallen.

This condition prevailed over a major part of the state extending from Grand Rapids north to the Straits and well into the Thumb area of the state.

The temperature dropped to three degrees above zero and a wind approximately five miles an hour was blowing out of the northeast as northern Michigan residents went about the job of 'digging out.'

The storm forced the postponement of the four basketball games scheduled for Tuesday night. The East Jordan-Grayling game was postponed until Feb. 17. The Charlevoix - Harbor Springs game as well as those between Gaylord and Mancelona and Boyne City and Pellston were re-scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 24.

Among the area men who are making the trip are C. W. O. Byron D. Stockwell, S. F. C. William P. Riede, unit advisor to the 310th, Sp5 Charles F. Bricker, Sp4 Nathaniel Herriman jr., SP4 Lawrence P. Funeral Services Held Monday for S. Edgar Smith

He was widely known throughout northern Michigan for his trotting horses which he raised and raced at county fairs in the area. He attended the Baptist church.

He is survived by his wife, the former Mrs. Evva McGhan, whom he married in 1943; a brother Jesse Smith of Charlevoix; three sisters, Mrs. P. R. Ross of Charlevoix, Mrs. C. F. Clark of Detroit and Mrs. A. W. Knowles of Bellaire and two granddaughters.

Socialism Admitted Flop

"Britain's 13-year-old experiment in socialism, it now appears, is being written off as a failure. Private enterprise emerges stronger than ever."

Thus speaks U. S. News & World Report in a detailed feature article. These and other such findings come from highly authoritative sources, including a parliamentary committee, industrial and management organizations and other experts. Matters have even reached the point where the Labor Party, which carried the banner of full socialism for so long, is changing its stand.

In general terms, the magazine sums up certain facts that have emerged. One is that effiency in the nationalized industries has tended to be lower than in comparable private industries. Another is that nationalized enterprises have higher running costs, for the reason that their managers aren't under the same pressure to keep in the black as are private enterprise managers; the government picks up the tab for losses. A third is that prices in nationalized industries are kept artificially low for political reasons, bear no relationship to costs, and the result is higher taxes. And, surprising as it may seem to some, labor relations have been no better in nationalized enterprise than in private enterprise, and in certain fields they have been much worse.

As a specific example, U. S. News describes what has happened in coal, one of the basic enterprises socialized by the Labor Party between 1946 and 1951. More than a billion dollar has been poured into the mines to modernize and maintain them and the coal labor force has been increased by 11,000. Yet the mines produced less coal in 1957 than in 1951. There have been constant deficits, amounting to $75 million over a 10-year period. And labor troubles have been rampant, causing huge production losses.

On the other hand the steel industry—which was returned to private hands after a brief period of stato ownership—provides what U. S. News terms "a striking contrast." Production has greatly expanded, a profit has been earned and prices have been reduced. Wages are high by British standards and labor relations have been excellent.

Other socialized enterprises have had a melancholy history. The Commission which operates railorads and other commercial transportation showed a $425 million deficit in the 1947-57 period. British Overseas Airways Corporation dropped $75 million. The government-owned cable and wireless service just managed to break even. And the deficits don't include government assistance for capital-investment programs. Meanwhile, private enterprises have been prospering, have paid their own way, have financed expansion and improvement out of earnings and by private investment, and, as a rule, give better service at lower cost.

This, in brief outline, is why socialism has produced a vast amount of expensive disillusionment in England. The effects promise to be far-reaching indeed. The U. S. News article ends: "One result is that political lines are being redrawn.

"In effect, more and better capitalism is the new campaign slogan of Britain's Labor Party. Old-fashioned socialism is quietly being ditched."

Pertinent Comments

BERNICE, LA., NEWS-JOURNAL: "There have been . . . attempts in recent years to curtail freedom of the press. The idea behind this action is that an ignorant public is much easier controlled than well-informed citizenry. Certain government officials, in most cases appointive rather than elective, have taken it upon themselves to decide what is good for us to know and what is not, in regard to their particular departments. Constant alertness is the only defense against this constant sniping at our heritage—constant alertness and the proper exercise of the voting right."

ATTEND CHURCH SUNDAY

BY FRAN MARTIN

THESE ROBINS who decided to spend the winter here are driving the populace mad. We've lost track of the number of calls we've had on these crazy mixed up birds who to our way of thinking, certainly got a bum steer on the weather because no one, fish, fowl or human, would stay in this country this swinter.

* * *

AS IT CONTINUED to snow last week we were almost wishing we could leave this cold country. But when Sunday dawned bright and clear we were glad we were here (not that we had any choice in the matter). Of course the temperature was well below zero, depending on how far you were from the big lake but with all the ice there certainly it's not doing too much to keep the temperature up. Anyway, it was four below zero at our house at 8 a.m. Good weather for ice, we'd say.

* * *

SPEAKING OF ICE, we were amazed the other day to read that the daily formation of ice followed by a heavy snowfall was raising havoc with fish in small inland lakes which are comparatively shallow and in areas off-shore and in other areas where there are lots of islands or shallows. Seems that sometimes the ice freezes to the bottom or cut off the oxygen supply needed by the fish. Hard to believe when you live near deep likes like Michigan or Charlevoix and Round Lake, but what about the smaller inland lakes in the area.

* * *

DON'T FORGET the Primary election next Monday. There's only one contest, that in the second ward. But regardless, it's important that you go to the polls (which will be open from 7 am. to 8 p.m.) and put your little 'x's' in the right places.

* * *

GOING SOMEPLACE? Had company recently? Then why not tell us about it. It's been pretty slim pickins this winter. So, if you're planning on taking a trip, having guests for the weekend or giving a party we'd appreciate it if you'd give us a ring.

* * *

DON'T KNOW when they'll be wearing 'em, perhaps not till tournament time, but you should see the Rayders beautiful new uniforms. They are rich maroon with white trim, just enough to set off the darker color. We saw them the other day when the Varsity squad was having their picture taken for the tournament book.

* * *

AND SPEAKING of the Rayders, they came through the other night with a beautiful win over East Jordan. They have their work cut out for them during the next three weeks with each game as important as the next one. If Charlevoix is to finish right up there they've got to win 'em all, which is going to be tough, 'cause everyone's gotten better as the season's progressed and everyone' playing for keeps.

Festival Quartet To Appear on Concert Series

When the Festival Quartet plays in Petoskey, Wednesday, Feb. 18th at the Petoskey High School Auditorium under the auspices of the Northern Michigan Community Concerts Association the audience will have the priviledge of hearing four top-flight solo artists who have joined in chamber music for the sheer love of it. Associated closely in the summer activities at Aspen, Colorado where they were performers and members of the faculty of the Aspen Festival, these famous musicians decided to carry on into the winter season and form the first "all-star" piano quartet since Harold Bauer's.

Today, Victor Babin is the quartet's pianist. Born in Russia, he made his fame in Europe and later in America as the "husband" half of the two piano team, Vronsky and Babin. His compositions are also widely known.

Szymon Goldberg, the distinguished violinist, studied with Hubermann's teacher in Poland, and has played concerts all over the World. He and his wife were interned by the Japanese for three terrible years during the war, but both have resumed their careers and are happy in today's activity. Mrs. Goldberg is a sculptor. Mr. Goldberg also conducts, and directs the new Netherlands Chamber Orchestra.

William Primrose, Scottish born, was a violin prodigy before he turned to his real love, the viola. A close friend of the Bauer Quartet's viola player, Tertis, Primrose finds enormous satisfaction in ensemble playing, although he is celebrated as the world's greatest exponent of the solo viola, and has done much to enrich it's repertoire by commissioning new works.

Nikolai Graudan, cellist, like Victor Babin will leave a partner-wife for the duration of the Festival Quartet tour. With his wife, Joanna, the musician has toured all over the world. The attractive couple make up the only cello and piano team professionally before the public.

The Festival Quartet has a noble repertoire on which to draw, for some of the most beautiful Chamber music works of the masters have been written in this form, all too neglected. It's tour extends for over two months completely booked by special invitation. Admission to this concert is by membership in the Northern Michigan Community Concerts Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Wilson returned early in December from a trip to South Africa where the former, a retired vice president of the Goodyear Rubber Co., had inspected Goodyear operations on that continent.

The following are excerpts from letters written by the couple to friends and relatives while they were away. This is the third installment.

While touring the Kruger National Park "We had the great thrill of seeing a lioness stalking her prey within 25 feet of the car. She was moving cautiously, head alert, her great muscles moving so smoothly as she picked up her feet and put them down slowly. She veered off the road so we lost her but that thrill was almost worth a trip to the park

"They say that the female does all the killing and, of course, they only kill for food. The male will only kill if he is alone and almost starved. When the lioness kills, she gorges herself, giving the male a good cuff if he dares to come near, and then off she goes to clean herself and sleep. It is only then that he is allowed to eat. Then when he gets through the cubs get theirs.

"There are lots of giraffe in the park and we were told that where it was necessary to string electric wires near the rest camps, the wires had to be strung very high. At first they had some trouble with the giraffe getting their heads tangled up in the wires.

"At the "Hippo Pool" where we got out of the car and were walked down the hill about 50 yards, accompanied by two armed guards, we really saw about nine hippo disporting themselves in the water, climbing over each other and bellowing, and the little ones doing the same with others of their size.

"From the car we watched crocodiles sunning themselves on the sand. One old fellow with his pink mouth wide open (we could see well with our power glasses) was waiting for the little black birds to come and pick his teeth. I though they were joking me, but no, it's true. They do pick his teeth and when he's had enough, he slowly closes his jaws and out they fly. He never hurls them."

The drive from Peitermaritzburg to Durban was a memorable one not only because of the beautiful mountain scenery but for a visit to a Zulu village. The Goodyear district manager who was traveling with the Wilsons was brought up on a cane farm and had a Zulu 'nanny.' He and his brothers spoke Zulu before they spoke English.

"The wives appeared, about three of them, with babies . . . cute healthy, little laughing kids, all boys . . . no trouble identifying them. A troop of little boys beat on some skin drums and wailed to the beat while a flock of older girls danced for us. There in that bright sun with the grand hills in back of them, the weird wiggles by the girls and the weird music by the boys . . . the Chief and the complacent mothers looking on, their black skins, the yellow huts . . . the least I can say is that it certainly was as strange a world as the world of elephants and lions I had visited."

"Bob and I unpacked, walked on the beach, laughed at the rickshaw boys, decked out in unbelievable head gear and beads and strips of fur. They try by every means to entice you into their rickshaws for a ride but we resisted and took pictures.

"They are packed along the street like the carriages by Central Park in New York . . . only those horses and drivers are old and sedate. These boys dance and sing, even dance as they haul you. The traffic cops laugh and stop traffic for them . . . they jump up in the air and going down hill will tilt their passengers back until they face the heavens, while the boys ride on the shafts of the cart."

Mr. Wilson writes of Johannesburg:

"Johannesburg is a big city, a million or more. It's a raw, uncouth city. But remember, it's only about 50 years old. And most of it has been built since the war. Gold has tripled in price since pre-war days. And the world still absorbs all they can dig out. They have to dig out and process anywhere from 25,000 pounds to 140,000 pounds of ore for one pound of gold, depending on the richness of the mine.

"Out of the million people in Joburg, 600,000 are natives. Even the people here in South Africa admit that natives are underpaid. The streets are not wide enough, the sidewalks particularly. The badly clothed natives in such numbers give the city a rather shoddy appearance in the downtown streets. The suburbs, the white residential areas, are beautiful. Flowers grow here like they do in California. The people are friendly, natural. Their attitude toward Americans warm."

At Kimberly the Wilsons visited the diamond mines and heard stories about the early digging days. Mrs. Wilson writes.

"It takes digging out and washing 20,000,000 pounds of earth to produce one pound of diamonds . . . that's worse than the maple syrup business where it takes 50 gallons of sap to produce one gallon of syrup. Of course that one pound of diamonds is worth about $30,000.

"Now all the machinery here in the big mines is most modern and the dirt is all handled in the DeBeers Mine on Goodyear belts and I'm sure Bob and the company man who works this job saw every foot of it."

SUNDEW REPORTS

We spent most of the week inside with activity on deck limited to removal of snow. We were moored to the dock all week.

We had some visitors though. A group of young people from Ironton made a tour of the ship. We thought Dewie would go crazy. She is still a pup and with all those children about she didn't know how to act, jumping all over them. Most of the children's questions about the ship were answered.

Two new men reported aboard for duty. Harold Ellis SN, reported from the Training Station at Groton, Conn. His home is in Barberton, Ohio. He had previously been stationed aboard the Mackinac. His height is needed by our basketball team. We also welcomed Richard Marble RM3 who enlisted in the Coast Guard Feb. 2 after seven years prior service in the Navy. His wife and child are currently residing in Coleman near Midland. He hopes to move them to Charlevoix in the near future.

Both main engines are back in operation so the engineering force has begun painting in several areas aboard ship.

SUNDEW SCUTTLEBUTT . . .

We have always heard stories about these northern winters but you don't have to prove it. It seems we are shoveling snow off the ship every day. But not everyone is fighting the snow and cold weather. Several have decided to join in the winter sports activities. Ice skating and tobogganing are now the favorite pastimes. Several men have taken leave while we have been in port. John Massey's leave isn't a pleasant one, however. He is caring for his brother who was injured in an automobile accident in Sheboygan, Wis.

Seventy percent of the tide-raising force on earth comes from the moon. The rest is derived from the more massive but distant sun.

Christmas Tree Growing Told in New Bulletin

Two bulletins that cover vital factors in profitable Christmas tree production have just been received in the Charlevoix county extension office, announces Ed Rebman.

The two publications, both written by extension specialists and researchers at Michigan State University, are entitled "Shearing and Shaping Christmas Trees," and "Christmas Tree Insect Control." A copy of either is available for the asking at the county extension office located at Boyne City.

Quality of Christmas trees is going to be of increasing importance to growers, point out the bulletin writers. More trees are being imported each year to compete with home-grown trees. Insects must be controlled to give a high percentage of marketable trees. Also, some growers have lost as much as 80 per cent of their potentially saleable trees through insect damage.

The insect bulletin describes insects and mites, gives control methods, gives dosage rates and warnings about the use of the materials and describes the equipment needed. The bulletin is well illustrated with photographs of insects and of the damage that they do.

Shaping and shearing of trees are other steps to improve quality of trees. Lester E. Bell, extension specialist in forestry who wrote the bulletin, points out that shaping and shearing will not only improve the quality of all trees in the plantation but will make many other trees marketable that would otherwise be culls.

Covered in this bulletin are what shape of tree is best, what tools are needed, when to shape trees, dates for shaping, how to This bulletin also contains many illustrations to help the grower, shear and shape and controlling growth of pines by de-budding.

Michigan Winter Queen Crowned

Michigan Winter Queen Sharon Herrmann, 23, began her reign Saturday evening in Petoskey, following her coronation at the 32nd annual Winter Sports Ball here. The statuesque beauty was chosen by Judges Jimmy Pooler, Detroit Free Press; Tom Farrell, UPI, Grand Rapids; and John Meagher, Capital Airlines, Chicago — and won over a record 22 candidates from throughout Michigan.

Queen Sharon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Herrmann, Grand Rapids, received her crown from U. S. representative Victor Knox. She was sponsored by the Grand Rapids Ski Club. Sharon is employed as a secretary for the Zurich American Insurance Co., G. R. She is a skiing and skating enthusiast, also enjoys swimming, water skiing and dancing. Runner-up in the contest was Pat Zaucha, 20, of Royal Oak, sponsored by Walloon Hills Ski Club.

In 1922, the first balloon tires were introduced on U. S. Cars. The tire and tube Industry in 1957 increased its investment in newspaper advertising by 39 per cent over the previous year.

Court Decrees 33 Crewmen Of Bradley Dead

Death certificates were ordered issued Monday for 15 crewmen whose bodies are still missing from the Nov 18 sinking of the freighter Carl D. Bradley in a storm on northern Lake Michigan.

The order issued by Probate Judge William T. Downs followed a hearing in the case as prescribed by Michigan law

Two men, Elmer Fleming and Frank Mays, survived the sinking which took the lives of 33 other crewmen. Eighteen bodies were recovered from the stormy waters of Lake Michigan on Nov. 19.

Dr. L. E. Grate, Charlevoix county coroner, was among those called to testify at the hearing Monday. He said he served as coroner at the time of the disaster and listed accidental drowning as the cause of death for the bodies of the 17 crewmen whose bodies were identified through personal effects and by relatives.

The eighteenth body was recovered by a merchant vessel and taken to Milwaukee, Wis. where a death certificate was signed by the Wisconsin board of health.

Norman O. Hoeft of Rogers City, manager of the Bradley Transportation Co. whose home port was Rogers City, confirmed that those still listed as missing were aboard the ship at the time of the disaster.

Chief Warrant Officer Joseph Etienne, commanding officer of U. S. Coast Guard Group Charlevoix, described the search and rescue operation conducted by the U. S. Coast Guard from the time the 'Mayday' message was received late in the afternoon of Nov. 18 until the operation was called off because of weather conditions two weeks later. He described the search by surface vessels including the cutters Sundew and Hollyhock, the latter from Sturgeon Bay, Wis., the patrol boat from the local lifeboat station, merchant vessels in the area, aircraft and beach patrols for survivors, bodies and ship's effects.

The Bradley, home-bound from Gary, Ind., broke up in a storm 12 miles southwest of Gull island off Charlevoix late in the afternoon of Nov 18 a short time after the ship had radioed its home office in Rogers City that it was [illegible] despite [illegible] storm out of the southwest. Within minutes the 'Mayday' message, requesting assistance and giving the ship's location, was picked up by short wave radios. The search and rescue operation described by Mr. Etienne followed.

MICHIGAN'S Newspapers produce results for the state in ways which are most always obvious to the casual observer. Some of these were apparent at the annual convention of the Michigan Press Association held last week at East Lansing.

* * *

Weekly newspapers were on the receiving end of a hat tipping from Gov. G. Mennen Williams, who appeared briefly on the program. He urged all newspapers to devote their efforts to informing the public of facts and factors in the crises in state finances. He added it would be "nice" if his ideas were supported in the press, but much more important that newspapermen see to it that the public is fully, fairly and impartially informed.

Then he remarked:

"The weekly newspapers, everywhere I went (during the last campaign) seemed to be more alert in covering the local political news than I have ever experienced before. They covered Democratic meetings with full stories and frequently with pictures. I'm sure they did the same for Republican meetings, and this is as it should be. The campaign coverage by many weekly newspapers in 1958 certainly deserves public commendations, and I am glad to give it to them.

* * *

PROMOTION. of the state's farm products by Michigan newspapers was accomplished at a gala affair called the "All Michigan Dinner."

Only food produced in Michigan is served, except for coffee. Many agricultural groups cooperate by sending the finest possible samples of their products.

In addition to the meal, each table setting included a supply of what has come to pe called "loot." These are samples made available by ag groups and food processors.

HERE'S THE MENU for this year's dinner: tomato juice, cole slaw, green beans, baked potatoes, cherry pie with ice cream. Sounds simple, but there are very few states which can boast agriculture activity to match it.

Entree was called "Billionaire's Beef." This meat already available to the public, was developed by MSU over the years to be exceptionally tender and tasty.

* * *

"LOOT" INCLUDED some brand new products. A cherry sauce made and canned in Traverse City shows promise as an improvement over sauces already on the market, especially those served with fowl.

A new powdered drink, orange in color and promoted for breakfast, is entirely produced in Battle Creek. Pre-cooked beans, which if accepted by the housewife, will help sell an important Michigan product, were given as samples. New cereals, baby food, sausage and crackers were also present. Excellent samples of familiar products demonstrate clearly that when it comes to apples, mushrooms, potatoes, sugar, honey, skimmed milk, frosting mix, and even baby evergreen trees, Michigan can meet or beat similar products from any state.

The "All Michigan Dinner" is presented with cooperation of the Michigan Department of Agriculture. This year's banquet was the 18th. During the last 18 years, virtually every new food product in this state has taken its place one time or another on the "All Michigan Dinner" table.

ANOTHER MICHIGAN newspaper activity which received attention during the publishers' convention is the Industrial Promotion campaign co-sponsored by the state Economic Development and MPA.

Walker Cisler, president of Detroit Edison and one of the state's best known businessmen, spoke for the Economic Development Commission. He presented retiring president Robert S. Marshall, publisher of the Ogemaw County Herald in West Branch, a plaque in appreciation of his newspaper's participation in the program.

Similiar plaques were mailed to all 316 Michigan newspapers which took part in the campaign. The industrial promotion promotion program consists of 26 quarter page ads to be printed at two week intervals for a year. To purchase the space used in these messages, an advertiser would have to pay more than a quarter million dollars

* * *

Mr. Prior said more facts should be dug out and presented to the public about the effect of such spending internationally. He stated that world financiers are losing faith in U. S. currency, that our products are being priced out of the world markets, that higher taxes and wage increases not matched by productivity increases make our economy weaker.

* * *

AT LEAST ONE State Department operates at a profit to the taxpayers of Michigan. Although government units are not designed to do such, it is refreshing to know in all the present financial darkness, the escheats division of the Attorney General's offide brings into the treasury much more money than it costs to operate. Other state offices do too, but people might naturally think of tax collectors without even hearing of the escheats operation.

Briefly, escheats staffers are concerned with bringing to the state property abandoned for more than seven years and inheritances where there is no proper heirs

TWO OF 14 divisions of his office, according to Attorney General Paul L. Adams, bring in 40 times the cost of their administration. The same two divisions bring in seven times as much revenue as it costs to operate all 40 of the divisions

In dollars and cents, these two brought in $780.374 last year Cost of their operation was $112,600 It cost $780,370 to operate the entire Attorney General's office.

Adventures in Understanding

Notes from a northerner's diary

By Harold E. Kohn

On Being Good Tenants

One thing mingling with nature teaches us, that no one of us really owns the earth. We are only tenants here. The Texas rancher pasturing cattle on ten thousand acres and the resorter glorying in a small spread of Lake Charlevoix frontage are alike temporary occupants, with only a brief lease on the land, here by the grace and permission of the Owner.

Black stumps wearing wooly white caps stand everywhere on these snow-clad acres and they remind me of the relative tenure we hold on the land. Man's occupancy, at its longest, is short when compared to the three-hundred-year-tenancy of some white pines whose charred remains are momentoes of the faded glories of primitive forests. And man's stay of three-quarters of a century seems long beside a deer's brief life-span of a mere eighteen to twenty-five years — at best. And a whitetailed deer is a grey old Methusaleh in comparison to a white-footed mouse whose longevity is a mere three years. But a mouse would seem like an immortal to a May-fly whose adult life is less than twenty-four hours long.

So the races of plants and animals and men rise and fall, and the tenancy of the earth passes from one generation of pines, men, deer, mice and May-flies to another. We are like renters who move in with our baggage of fears and hopes of whims and purposes. We stay awhile and then move on while the Owner keeps watch to see what care we take of the premises.

We Americans ought to be better tenants of this continent. Our record as occupants of this great land is not good. When our forefathers landed here North America was a vast area of inestimable natural wealth and they began at once to waste it, as their offspring do yet.

At one time about half of the continental United States was covered with forest — over more than a billion acres. But hardwoods were destroyed to clear the land and lumbering rapidly demolished the sweeping stands of virgin pine. With the vanishing forests went the game, and natural flood-and-erosion control. We have destroyed about twenty-two times as much primitive forest as we have saved. And still, each year, enough wood is wasted by forest fires set by man's carelessness to build thousands of homes. We have been reckless renters. We must do better.

Once an estimated sixty million buffalo roamed the Plains Region and provided the choicest food to be found on the continent. The Indians used the hides of cow and calf buffalo for making clothing and tepees and the neck skin of bulls for arrow-proof shields. Glue was boiled out of tendons and hoofs. Spoons and ornaments were made of the horns. The buffalo was synonymous with "life." But ignorant and greedy white man almost annihilated the millions of buffalo of the West in a matter of fifty years. Where once Colonel Dodge drove for twenty-five miles along the Arkansas River through an almost solid herd of buffalo, now none of the great shaggy beasts can be seen. And the virtual extermination of the buffalo is but a symbol of our American vandalism. The Labrador duck and passenger pigeon are utterly extinct, and the whooping crane, pine marten and many other game birds and animals seem doomed to follow their dim trail to non-existence. Sportsmen must practice the common courtesies of tenants. We do not own America. We are but tenants here and the property should be left in as good condition as we found it.

Everyone is living on borrowed money — literally everyone, the richest as well as the poorest. We have it but for a time and then, at last, our lease runs out as it must on all material things. Then the Owner of all lets others use it for awhile. Benjamin Franklin once asked the barbed question, "If riches are yours, why don't you take them with you to the other world?" The best we can do with money is to use it with a consciousness that it is not ours, but Gods. It is but placed in our care for a time.

We inhabit time, but it is not ours. If it were ours we could keep it. We buy watches that we hope will "keep good time," but no watch ever keeps time. The best a watch can do is make a feeble attempt to record time as it passes. Time comes to us and we use it or misuse it and it then returns to its Owner.

Is this not one of the secrets of good living — the recognition that all earthly things are for our temporary use — the land, money, time, even testings and grief? We are trusted with them. When at last they go back to the Owner they should show that we have benefited by their use and that they are better for the care we have given them.

Born as a French fur-trading center in 1764, St. Louis became the crossroad of America's westward expansion. Today it ranks as the queen inland port of the Mississippi, the National Geographic Magazine says.

Which Industry Now Betters the Living of 3 Out of 4 Michigan Families?

...Here Are Some Surprising Facts About The Trading Stamp Industry

So far, whenever our nation's economy has needed expansion, a new industry has sprung up to help the country go ahead.

The automobile industry, employing millions, was followed closely by the development of radio and radio broadcasting to make more millions of jobs. Then came the airplane industry, air conditioning, plastics, television, frozen foods, to change our lives some more.

The trading stamp industry, while not new, belongs to this expansion group and has been one of the fastest growing of all. Today it betters the living of more than 3 out of 4 Michigan families who save trading stamps.

Obviously, an industry affecting such a large proportion of Michigan's population must bring far-reaching benefits for Michigan's economy. And it does. In 1957 the trading stamp industry bought $9,816,000 worth of products from Michigan's manufacturers. In one way or another, it provided employment for 1,016 Michigan people in many different industries.

The people in the trading stamp industry, its merchandise and redemption stores, its warehouses and transportation and all the activity that goes on within it are integrated economically everywhere within our state.

Thus it seems plain that the trading stamp industry along with the 1,690,000 Michigan women it serves has become, like other expansion industries, a living, vital segment of Michigan's economy.

CHEVY'S NEW HI-THRIFT 6

More miles are back in a gallon of regular-grade gas—up to 10% more—and Chevy's new Hi-Thrift 6 engine puts them there. It also gives you more "git" in the speeds you drive the most.

Here's an engine that always seems able to coax extra miles out of a tank of regular-grade gas. In fact, if you're one of those drivers who keep tab on things like gas mileage, you'll soon see for yourself that this new Hi-Thrift 6 gets up to 10% more miles a gallon.

Another thing you'll like about this 135-h.p. 6 is the extra pep it gives you for passing and climbing hills. This is due to higher torque at normal speeds.

It may be hard to believe anything that looks and moves like this '59 Chevy can be such a stickler for economy. But—whether you pick the Hi-Thrift 6 or a vim-packed V8—this is just one more reason Chevy's the car that's wanted for all its worth. Stop by your dealer's and see.

Explorers Scouts Plan to Attend West Expedition

The Scenic Trails Council will send an expedition of Explorers Scouts to the Philmont Scout Ranch at Cimarron, N. M. in July.

Four members of Ship 211, Albert Arvilla, Tony Genia, Stanley Martin and Darrel Somerville, are among the 18 Explorers who have made reservations for the Expedition next July. Three of the four Charlevoix boys are being sponsored by the Kiwanis Club. Funds for the fourth have been received from a Boy Scout fund raised through the Community Chest.

Philmont is a 127,999 acre National Scout Ranch which lies across the Sante Fe trails. The expedition will be about 20 days. Philmont is not the only highlight of the trip The Explorers will travel by train, visit places of interest in Chicago with a side trip to Colorado Springs, Colo., where they will stay at the U. S. Air Force Academy. While there they will also visit Pikes Peak and the Garden of the Gods.

The promotion of council activities, such as the Philmont expedition, is made possible thru the generous contributions received from the various Community Chests and independent fund drives within the 18 county area.

Irwin R. Van Dusen, 59, former local resident, died unexpectedly in a Detroit hospital Tuesday following a brief illness.

Funeral services will be held at a Roman Catholic church in Detroit at 9 a.m. Friday with burial in a Detroit cemetery.

Born in Charlevoix July 16, 1900, Mr. VanDusen was a graduate of the Charlevoix high school and served three years in the U. S. Marine Corps immediately following World War I. He had resided in Redford and Detroit for more than 35 years. He had been employed by the Fruehauf Trailer Co. for many years.

He is survived by his wife, the former Lucrella Trombley whom he married at Monroe; a son, Donald, of Detroit; one daughter, Mrs. Don (Jean) Zuelkie, also of Detroit; five grandchildren; his father, Orton Van Dusen who is spending the winter in Zephyrhills, Fla., and two sisters, Mrs. Robert Cummings of Royal Oak and Mrs. Clarence Murray of Charlevoix.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray plan to go to Detroit to attend the funeral services.

This Week With Class 'C' Teams

Northern Michigan Class C cage teams will resume their schedules Friday after a blizzard forced postponement of Tuesday games until later in the month.

Charlevoix will play at Gaylord, East Jordan will host Pellston, Mancelona will invade Harbor Springs and Boyne City will entertain Grayling.

Possession of second place will be at stake this week when the Rayders travel to Gaylord to take on the Blue Devils. In their first meeting the Blue Devils downed the Rayders 42 to 39 after trailing until the final minutes. Since then the Blue Devils have been downed by the Grayling Vikings 54 to 50 while the Rayders have lost to the league leading Hornets.

In their first game with Gaylord, Charlevoix played without regular Joe Beaudoin. The local quintet is expected to be at full strength when they take on Gaylord this week.

This could be a close game with the outcome a toss-up.

The East Jordan-Pellston game will be an interesting one as the third place Jordanites try to upset the league leading Pellston five. However, it is doubtful if the Red Devils are strong enough to play the role of 'spoiler.'

Mancelona will travel to Harbor Springs to take on the Rams in a game which may see the latter move out of the cellar. They have shown great promise in recent weeks and this may be the game they've been waiting for.

Grayling rolled over the Ramblers in their first meeting but the Boyne City outfit has shaped up into a pretty fair team and may break into the win column for the second week in a row when they take on the Vikings.

Tuesday will find East Jordan playing at Grayling and Boyne City entertaining Harbor Springs in games which were postponed because of weather.

Pellston will play at Cheboygan and Charlevoix will host Petoskey in regular scheduled games for this date.

Orville Phelps, 87, Dies in Illinois

News of the death of Orville Phelps, 87, at Carmi, Ill., Saturday has been received by his sister, Mrs. George Meggison.

The body will be taken to Webster, N. Y., for funeral services and burial.

A native of Norwood where he was born Aug. 29, 1871, the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Phelps, Mr. Phelps moved to Charlevoix with his parents in 1871. He left here as a young man to work in Chicago. He had lived in various Illinois cities since then. He had been in failing health for the past 10 years.

He is survived by a son, William, of Hoboken, N. J., and one sister Mrs. George Meggison.

The port of Byblos in Lebanon exported papyrus in ancient times, the National Geographic Magazine says. Greeks called the scrolls "biblia," the origin of the word "Bible."

ation of candidates for township offices. Section 343 of the law states: "There shall he a township caucus for each political party in every organized township in the state, as hereinafter provided. The chairman of each party committee elected at the preceding caucus shall issue a call designating the hour and place for the party caucus to be held in said township, which caucus shall be held on the third Monday or the Saturday preceding the third Monday in February preceding the April election, as determined by the township board at least 20 days preceding the caucus, for the purpose of nominating candidates to be voted for at such township election, and he shall forthwith transmit to the township clerk a copy of such call."

Township clerks in some cases have been at a loss for methods of procedures because party chairmen have failed to comply with the law and in some cases party chairmen have not been elected.

There is some speculation as to just what constitutes a political party and how the statute is to be interpreted in townships that nominate of slates of candidates designated as "Ticket No. 1" and "Ticket No. 2."

Education Versus the Elements

Dependable transportation of Charlevoix school students has been a major problem this winter. Heavy snows and questionable road conditions have made bus schedules irregular during storms. Classes have been disrupted and students rushed home by bus when there were indications the roads would become blocked by snow. Charlevoix county road crews and equipment have been taxed to the limit in an effort to keep highways open, particularly the roads traveled by school buses.

Coping with the unpredictable conditions has been a nerve racking experience for school authorities, bus drivers and county road crews. While all have assumed their full share of responsibility in providing safe and dependable transportation, the final decision in each emergency has rested with the superintendent of schools. He is expected to take every precaution to insure the safety of students riding school buses to and from school. To do this will necessarily cause inconvenience and uncertainties in various localities from time to time, depending on conditions that are uncontrolable.

A [illegible] of the transportation record of the Charlevoix school system clearly indicates that every safeguard has been taken to avoid mishaps that might jeopardize the life of a child. Few of us would want to assume that responsibility in the face of the hazardous conditions that have prevailed this winter. Residents of the Charlevoix school district have every reasonable assurance that the safety of their children will be the first consideration when school routine and bus schedules are disrupted.

We believe the community as a whole will agree that a commendable job has been done.

In appreciation of the efforts of the Charlevoix Junior Chamber of Commerce in behalf of the families of the 33 men who lost their lives in the Bradley disaster in Lake Michigan Nov. 18, the Rogers City JayCees Monday night presented the local organization with a certificate of commendation.

As the time of the disaster, the local JayCees headed by Don Brown started a Children's Disaster Fund for the more than 50 children left fatherless by one of the most tragic of lake disasters in recent years. A total of $5,854.94 was collected for the children and turned over to the disaster fund established in Rogers City, the home port of the Bradley as well as the home town of the major part of the crew of the ship. Two men, Elmer Fleming and Frank Mays, survived the ordeal.

A delegation of Rogers City JayCees visited the local club last week. Wallace Peltz, president of the Rogers City club made the presentation to Mr. Brown.

The commendation reads thusly: "It is beyond the power of mere words to express the gratitude and heartfelt appreciation of our community for the acts of kindness you performed in the 1958 Rogers City ship disaster.

"Your actions prove that you recognize and understand that service to humanity is the best work of life."

Teachers Host District MEA Winter Meeting

Charlevoix teachers were hosts Thursday to 72 members of the Charlevoix county district of the Michigan Educational association at a dinner and business meeting held in the high school cafeteria.

Kai Erickson of Escanaba, field reprsentative of the MEA, outlined proposed new policies and plans by which the association will pursue its objectives of better schools for Michigan.

The dinner was prepared by a committee of parents of Charlevoix seniors under the supervision of Mrs. Fay Davis. Members of the Senior class served.

Surveyors Meet In Traverse City

The annual winter meeting of the Michigan Society of Registered Land Surveyors was held in Traverse City last Thursday and Friday.

In Traverse City for the meetings were Mrs. Lawrence Feindt, Charlevoix county surveyor, Mr. Feindt, Mrs. Walker Miles, T. R. Miller and Gregory A. Shadko of the Michigan Conservation Department.

King and Queen Win A Crown

Producers to Plan Maple Syrup Festival

Maple syrup producers from Charlevoix, Emmet, Antrim, Cheboygan, Otsego, Kalkaska and Grand Traverse counties have been invited to participate in a Maple Syrup Festival planning meeting tomorrow (Friday) at 1:30 p.m. in the city hall at Charlevoix, according to Edward K. Shanahan, chairman of a Kiwanis committee co-sponsoring the event to be staged here April 17-18-19.

Purpose of the meeting will be to organize and solicit co-operation of all interests in the area in promoting the spring festival. Serving on the originating committee are: Mr. Shanahan, Tom Symons, secretary of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce; Blanche Smith, representing producers; Dean Davenport, C of C. program chairman: Robert Somerville, leader of the Charlevoix Sea Scouts, and Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent.

The Maple Syrup Festival will mark the close of the syrup making season during which the Charlevoix Sea Scouts will benefit from a syrup making project sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix. Evaporating equipment will be set up on Clinton st. opposite East Park and syrup will be processed from sap taken from trees on the city's street.

During the festival merchants and producers will be urged to co-operate in the promotion of th sale of maple syrup from this area. Surveys of this area indicate that these counties in northwest Michigan have a production potential equal, if not suoerior to most areas of comparable size in North America.

Chairman Shanahan draws attention to the fact that the only area in the world where maple syrup and sugar are produced includes the northeastern states of the United States and the southeastern provices of Canada. While adulerated maple products have a wide demand, there is every reason to believe that a sizeable market can be created for the pure syrup and sugar that is comparatively unknown outside of the producing areas.

For many years the older producers of maple syrup in the area have had their regular customers among the resorters who visit here each summer. Surpluses have been placed in local retail outlets but no concerted effort has ever been attempted to get wide distribution for local syrup.

This year's Maple Syrup Festival may well be the beginning of a program to gain widespread recognition for the quality syrup made in Northwest Michigan and thereby encourage more farmers to capitalize on one of the area's natural resources.

Cub Scouts to Observe 49th Anniversary

"Mardi Gras" will be the theme of the annual Cub Scout Blue and Gold banquet to be held at St. Mary's school hall at 6:30 p.m. tonight (Thursday).

The 60 Cub Scouts who make up the seven local dens will be joined by their parents and members of the sponsoring organization the Kiwanis club, and their wives for the event marking the forty-ninth birthday anniversary of scouting.

A program will feature the presentation of awards by Uno Suomela, awards chairman and a brief entertainment period. There will also be group singing.

P.T.A. Stages Second Annual School Fair

The second annual PTA fair held over the weekend was successful not only from an entertainment but a financial point of view according to Mrs. James Coleman and Mrs. Karl Schultz, co-chairmen.

The fair which featured entertainment of all kinds for the entire family attracted one of the largest crowds to ever fill the gymnasium as well as the other parts of the school building utilized during the event.

Financially the event was equally successful, netting more than $1,000. The exact amount is not known since some bills remain to be paid.

One of the highlights of the fair was the coronation of the king and queen of the fair. Cynthia Cunningham was named queen and Dale Brackner her king. Members of the court were Lorraine Boss, Judy Hess, Herbert Cummings and Dewey Bruce. The eighth grade was in charge of ticket sales. The top salesmen from the class were named the reigning royalty with the runners-up serving as members of the court. Dale Sanford and Dewey Bruce tied for the honor. In the run-off Dewey won by a very slim margin.

In announcing the results of the fair Mrs. Coleman and Mrs. Schultz would like to express their appreciation to the many parents, teachers, students, organizations and clubs which joined together to make this event the success it was. "Such full hearted cooperation from so many people certainly proves that the people of Charlevoix are interested in their children and their schools." Mrs. Coleman and Mrs. Schultz said.

Thomas Bacot, 94, Pioneer Resident Died Here Monday

Thomas Bacot, 94, pioneer resident of this community, died Monday at the Charlevoix Hospital where he had been a patient for a week. He had been in failing health for several years.

Born in Sheboygan, Wis., Dec. 22, 1864, Mr. Bacot came here at the age of 12 years with his parents, the late John and Catherine Mohr Bacot, who settled on a homestead in Hayes township. He was a retired farmer and gardener-caretaker. He was a member of St. Mary's church.

Surviving are his wife, the former Mrs. Margaret Allard; a brother, John of Grand Rapids and a sister, Mrs. Ann Hummel of Detroit and several nieces and nephews.

Donaldson, a newcomer to politics, polled 97 votes as compared with 67 for Boss who had served two terms in the office.

This was Donaldson's second try for the nomination. Last year he ran against Ray L. Kipke in an election which resulted in a tie. Kipke won the nomination in a draw for the post.

The lack of contests in all but the second ward resulted in [illegible] smallest votes in recent years with only 233 voters out of approximately 1,500 [illegible] voters casting their ballots in Monday's election.

Other candidates who were nominated without opposition and the number of votes each received as well as the names of write-in candidates follow:

Mayor: E. James Hiller, 233 votes including 29, 166 and 37 votes in the first, second and third wards respectively; Harold Dutcher, Walter Hoffman and Ray Kipke each received one write-in vote in the second ward.

Clerk: Hugh Mayne, 195 including 27, 132 and 36 in the three wards. Don Brown and Clifford Riley each received one vote in the second ward.

Treasurer: Nelle A. Hammond, 211 including 37, 138 and 36 in each of the three wards.

First ward, alderman, Clair Staley 28 votes; supervisor, Ivan Phillips, 25 votes; justice of the peace, John Connolly, 1 and H. E. Paddock, 4; constable, John Swanson, William Fochtman, Herbert Campbell, Kit Carson and Louis Edwards, one vote each.

CHARLEVOIX TOWNSHIP

Dale Boss won the only contested nomination in the Charlevoix township election Monday. He defeated Ernest Paul and Edward P. Zeitler in the contest for trustee on the Republican primary ballot. Other candidates nominated on the Republican ballot were: Supervisor, Clarence Raboch; clerk, Kathryn B. Smith; treasurer, Rose Bergmann, justice of peace, Clayton A. Smith; board of review, Marvin Sugden.

There were no candidates who filed for the Democratic ballot although there were two write-in votes, not a sufficient number to place the candidates name on the spring election ballot.

MARION TOWNSHIP

Today's Paul Bunyans

Like Paul Bunyan, the combined strength of the people of a community knows no limits.

Every school child knows Paul and his great blue ox, Babe. They know of his great exploits in Michigan's lumber camps and of the winter of the blue snow. They can tell you how he took time off from lumbering to make some of the natural wonders of the United States.

Just as Hercules, his name has entered our language [illegible] great accomplishments.

Paul Bunyan characterizes our state. But, what he did is legend.

His feats, however, have a counterpart in fact. The people of Michigan have many of the characteristics attributed to Mr. Bunyan. They can, by combining their efforts, do anything their community needs for sound development and the greater prosperity of its residents.

This has been demonstrated many times in a number of Michigan communities. Schools have been built. Hospitals have been erected. Parks and playfields have been established. Municipal improvements such as sewers and water mains; better streets have been built. New industries have been attracted and present ones encouraged to expand locally. All this has been possible because the efforts of a community have been combined. These have been feats, in facts, which outshine the exploits of Paul Bunyan, in legend.

What can be done on a community-wide basis is stressed in an industrial development advertisement, sponsored by the Michigan Press Association and the Michigan Economic Development Department, which appears today in the Courier.

As Others See Us

We who live in Michigan may be more or less complacent about the situation in our state government. Now and then it might be to our advantage to see ourselves as others see us. With that in mind we offer the following editorial, "Michigan Shows What Happens," which appeared Feb. 11, 1959 in the Norfolk (Neb.) Daily News.

—Editor's Comment

The State of Michigan might be called a guinea pig by which we are able to test the effects of too free spending.

Its experience is significant because it has been for several [illegible] of influences that have moved [illegible] Williams, a pro- [illegible] for five [illegible]

[illegible] such that, in order to [illegible] Williams had to appeal to his [illegible] a deficit this year estimated at [illegible] the juggling of funds was not enough to put the state on a basis to pay its help.

The story of how Gov. Williams has brought the state to this critical financial condition is too long to tell here. But the important fact is that it is the same welfare program that the Williams-Reuther cult is now trying to wish on the Federal government, that has drained the state's treasury.

Walter Reuther is at the head of one of the groups that is demanding greatly expanded and expensive projects for Washington to finance.

Listing what has happened in Michigan, U. S. News and World Report says, "All these problems have combined to add to the state's financial worries. New business enterprises are slow to come to Michigan . . . Thus, the people of Michigan, one of the wealthiest states in the U. S., now find their government broke."

Our representatives in Washington who would head the government there in the same direction Michigan has been traveling, might well study where that path has led one of our richest states.

OBERLIN, KANSAS HERALD: "In early 1959 the face (of Russia) softened, assumed a faint smile in the person of Anastas Mikoyan, who has been traversing this land handing candy to babies and speaking platitudes. Outwardly, the appearance is very warm and very human, sometimes winning. There are [illegible] who take heart from it and wonder if world peace is not possible after all.

"But a moment's logic warns us that the various faces of Russia are reflections of a single mind."

A HUGE SUCCESS, we're told the PTA fair held at the school over the weekend. There probably isn't any other event in which so many people participate and which attracts so many other people. They came and they went and if you stayed long enough you saw just about everyone in town, which speaks well for all those who worked so hard to make it the success it was.

TO THOE OF YOU interested in basketball there are only three games remaining, so if you haven't seen this Rayder outfit recently you'll have a chance to see them in action Friday or Tuesday night on the home floor or at Pellston on Feb. 23 in the final league game of the season.

And speaking of Pellston, they have grabbed themselves a share of the league title. We'd like to offer our congratulations. Since we couldn't have the title we're happy it's gone to a team that's never held that honor before. There's a grand coaching staff up there, headed by Mac McMahon, and they've done a grand job. As far as league history's concerned, the Hornets have never had any recognition. We're happy they've finally come into their own. We think it's a good thing for a league when the honors are passed around, and who knows, maybe next year it'll be our turn.

DID YOU HAPPEN to see all the little kids on their way home from school Friday with their bags and boxes of Valentines. Boy, what a big deal—they were grinnin' like mad and so happy with all the many Valentines they'd received, especially the ones from the special Jack or Jill. Who has more fun than kids, we'd like to know?

THIS WAS BROUGHT to our attention the other day. We have not had an opportunity to check with the fellow with the original idea. You know, we've had all these reports of robins traveling in flocks. The only time we've ever seen more than a couple robins together at one time was when they were getting ready to leave for the south. Capt. Roy Ranger, so we've been told, doubts that these flocks of birds are really robins. He thinks they are probably grosbeaks which could well be mistaken for robins if one were not familiar with the [illegible] birds which do [illegible]. They have much the same shape and coloring. So next time you see a flock of robins, how about running for the [illegible] However, there are a [illegible] robins which are usually [illegible]

Conservation Department Cuts Operating Cost

Michigan's Conservation Department — faced with a Game and Fish Protection Fund deficit of $34,731 at the onset of the 1958-59 fiscal year — has again tightened its budget belt in hopes of restoring the Fund to the "black" for 1959-60.

This latest cost-reduction effort amounts to a saving on savings since restricted Department programs were previously self-imposed early in 1958.

Game and fish programs, law enforcement and administration will absorb the cutback of an estimated $323,635.

The bulk of the savings — $102,630 — will be sought by leaving vacant positions unfilled. Reduction of contracted services, [illegible] is expected [illegible] another $47,570 [illegible] replacement of equipment [illegible] $11,033.

Other cuts include: research, $29,721; public fishing sites, $23,250, and lake and stream improvement, $25,835.

By ELMER E. WHITE

TAXPAYERS and citizens are still the important ingredients of government.

Those are the dual positions of the voter, the man who ultimately has the last word because he pays to be governed and served and he decides who will do the job for him.

The role of the Michigan citizen as a voter becomes important every two years on a statewide level but the role of the voter [illegible] often obscured.

* * *

SOME REPUBLICANS and Democrats would like to place the proposed income tax and a proposed sales tax increase directly in the voters' hands April 6. If this happened, the role of the citizen again assumes the cloak of the voter.

The decisions for which the voter elected legislators and administrators to make are then made by citizens themselves.

IT HAS HAPPENED many times in Michigan's recent history: civil service in 1940, the original sales tax, oleo margerine and dozens of others.

All were sizzling hot issues before the legislature but neither party wanted to take the onus of placing them in the lawbooks.

* * *

GOV. WILLIAMS has proposed a state income tax.

Republicans in the legislature prefer a flat rate, perhaps two percent, to his graduated income tax version, which, they claim would hit the middle-income groups hardest.

Democrats are committed to go along with Williams, realizing that many of their own supporters will be affected.

Republicans, in effect, proposed the income tax first, because it came from a report of eminent researchers working for the legislative tax study committee.

* * *

VAST CHANGES [illegible]

[illegible] Gov. Williams [illegible] proposed a state income tax and [illegible] were [illegible] the [illegible].

One Democratic legislator said it would be the "fairest of all" taxes and then spent days denying he meant it as an endorsement of a tax on personal incomes.

* * *

SINCE SHORTLY after he first took office, Williams has proposed a corporation profits tax. Republicans answered with a business activities tax.

Williams objected, but it became law. He charged that the tax was levied whether a corporation made any money or not. His tax, he said, would be based only on profits.

* * *

HIS PLAN now indicates Michigan will have both.

Joined with the income tax [illegible] is a corporation profits tax of five mills, seven mills on utilities. Two other business taxes would be all but repealed but the business activities tax will remain.

Business and industry already have attacked the governor's program. They say that the extra burden of taxes will further damage Michigan's economic climate.

But both parties agree that the state will need a large new tax if it is to continue the services and expand some of them to cover a growing population.

The need is indicated by the $110,000,000 deficit.

"OUR NEEDS WILL never break us, but our wants certainly will," said Sen. Clyde Geerlings, Republican from Hope, in a talk to the Rotary Club of Detroit.

He thinks the state should raise rates to some of the people receiving benefit of state services. He suggests that there could be a [illegible]. He questions the wisdom of state college and university tuition rates, pointing out that students pay some $250 per year, while it costs the taxpayer about $1,000 per year per student.

Sen. Geerlings agrees that the Michigan citizen is the one who should set the policy for state services, how extensive the services shall be, how they shall be financed.

* * *

CITIZENS' LETTERS to legislators plead for economy. Administrators say they have trimmed operations as far as possible and claim waste is at a minimum. Legislators charge that waste is widespread in state government.

* * *

THE EMERGENCY, officials say, results in part from the fact that about two-thirds of the state's revenues are earmarked and placed beyond the control of the legislators.

Restricted funds include gas and weight taxes for highway construction, two of the three cents of the sales tax for schools and parts of the tax and profit on liquor.

As the crisis reached a breaking point the treasury had $49 [illegible] could touch a [illegible]

* * *

OBSERVERS expect the legislature to [illegible] until July.

If it does, it will be one of the longest in recent history. If needed decisions are made, it will be one of the most decisive.

CHARLEVOIX PUBLIC SCHOOL
Minutes of School Board Meeting

February 16, 1959

Present: Lieberman, Smith, Martin, Freedman, Boss and Bennett, Supt. Absent: None.

The meeting was called to order at 8:10 p.m.

Minutes of the meeting of February 2 were read and approved.

It was moved by Martin and supported by Freedman that bills in the amount of $1,459.76 be approved and ordered paid. Carried: 5-0.

It was moved by Smith and supported by Lieberman that a resolution be adopted requesting permission of the Municipal Finance Commission to borrow $9,800 in anticipation of the collection of the next fiscal year's taxes—notes therefor being dated April 1, 1959, and due and payable January 15, 1960. Motion carried and resolution adopted: 5-0.

The question whether school should be closed for a short period, the question of additional transportation for the side roads until it is practical for the buses to go through, and planning ahead for the period of time when the Spring thaws will create a new difficulty, were all discussed at length.

Arrangements were made for a representative of the Board to attend the Citizens Conference on Education at Lansing, February 28.

The current financial picture was discussed and tentative budget planning, including teacher's salaries, was anticipated.

The T. V. for Education Planning Conference, at Central Michigan College, being scheduled for the near future, was discussed and a representative of the Board to attend was considered.

The lay-out for the new high school on the new grounds was gone over and discussed at length, with decisions to be made very soon.

The P.T.A. was congratulated on the success of the Fair, Saturday, February 14.

The meeting was adjourned at 10:35 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,
Albert H. Smith, Secretary

Two Waive Examination in Justice Court

Robert L. Sowles, 21, of East Jordan and Leonard J. Peaine, 17, of St. Ignace waived examination in justice court on charges of breaking and entering in the nighttime and were bound over to the March term of circuit court.

They were returned to the county jail when they failed to furnish $500 bonds set by Justice John Connolly.

Peaine first demanded examination and later waived examination.

A third youth involved in the series of breakins was taken to Traverse City Wednesday for evaluation tests at the out-patient [illegible]. He is currently under the [illegible] probate court. Sowles and Peaine are charged [illegible] Fred Lecker last Wednesday [illegible] worth of groceries. The trio also broke into [illegible] Ellsworth taking [illegible]. A total $594.95 was recovered from Sowles and Peaine and returned to the owners.

They also took two bags of coal from the East Jordan Co-operative. They were attempting to steal a battery from a parked car in East Jordan when Night Patrolman Jerry Rogers stopped to question them. All three attempted to run away. Sowles and Peaine were caught. The 15-year old East Jordan youth got away but was apprehended by the State Police at Cadillac late Thursday and returned here.

Peaine and the East Jordan youth hitchhiked from St. Ignace last Tuesday and stole a car at Boyne City belonging to Hilda Johnecheck. They then went to Sowles house in East Jordan before starting their rounds of breakings and enterings the following night.

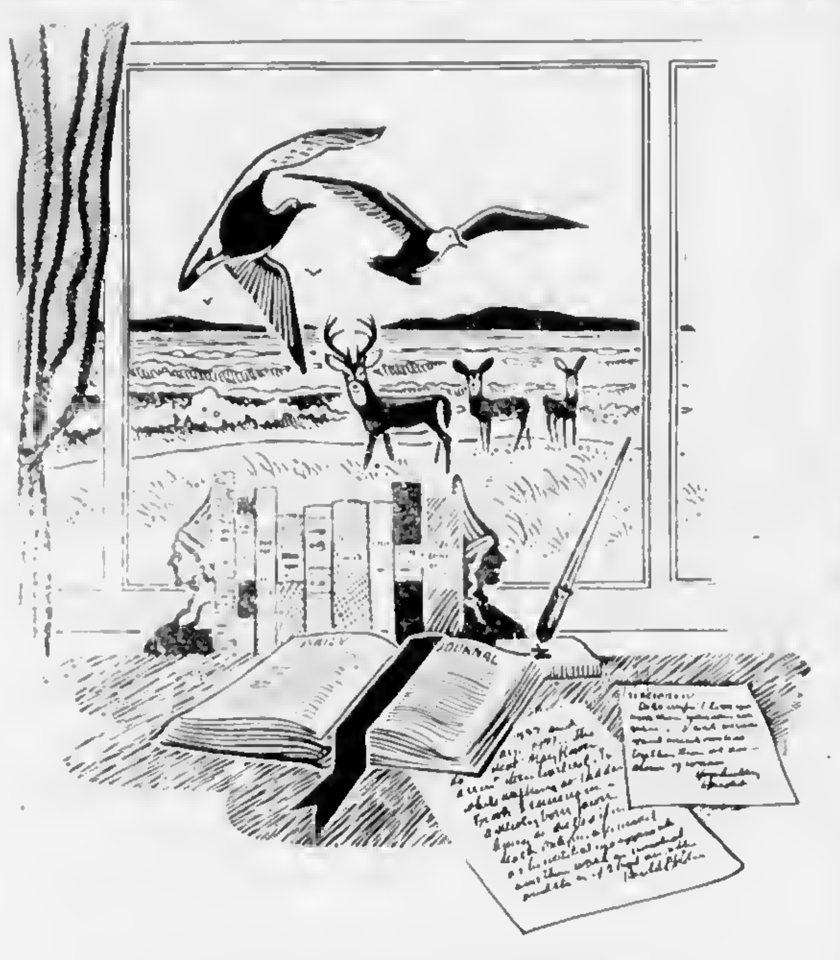
Adventures in Understanding

Notes from a northerner's diary

By Harold E. Kohn



A Reason for Writing

More than five years have passed since first these weekly columns of mine began appearing in the Charlevoix Courier, and not once have I mentioned why they are printed here at all. Why does a man take the time and spend the effort putting into writing the thoughts that come and go while he is afield or the reflections that bemuse him after he has returned to his fireside to review the day's adventures? Is it because writing is fun? Sometimes, but not always. Often it is plain drudgery, especially when one is bone-tired from fishing or cutting brush, or climbing hills. But there is simply no alternative to writing about an experience while it is fresh as early evening air and [illegible] alive and full as a [illegible] call.

[illegible] person write because [illegible] many skilled at hand[illegible] words? Not necessarily. At [illegible] the writer himself is never [illegible] with his composition; and often brutally assails himself for what he has allowed to [illegible] print. And it would be as accurate to say that a man is skilled because he writes as it is to declare he writes because he is skilled. Indeed a person must do some writing before he can know whether or not he has "the art." Robert Benchley once said, "It took me fifteen years to discover I had no talent for writing, but I couldn't give it up because by that time I was too famous."

Is money the chief motive for writing? Well, hardly! Thousands of books are published in America each year and only an armful are "best sellers" and big money makers. Many of the authors could have earned more money per hour hauling garbage in Chicago at the current hourly wage paid garbage collectors.

Is it the desire to create? Possibly. A search for prestige? That urge may prompt some writers. There are as many shades of motivation for writing as there are authors. But wherever writing is an art, rather than a mere trade, this basic impulse is certain to underly all the rest -- the desire for sharing the fruits of one's thought.

Writing is somewhat like sculptoring, painting and composing music. They spring not from the creative impulse alone but from the desire to share with one's friends and with an ever widening circle of one's kind th[illegible] [illegible] come into [illegible]. The sculptor molds a form to be seen by eyes other than his [illegible] [illegible] for his own enjoyment. The sculptor shares with others the work of his hands. The painter intends that the product of his imagination and brush will be appreciated by other minds. The composer of a violin adagio hopes it will be played from many a concert stage by skilled and sensitive artists, that other hearts may thrill in response to the melodies that first danced in the composer's brain. Writing, like sculptor, painting, and musical compositions, may seek to give permanence to a transient thought or mood. But it does more. It aims to share that thought or mood with as many receptive people as possible. Like all the other arts, writing is a share-the-wealth program

Henry David Thoreau once said, "To enjoy a thing exclusively is to exclude yourself from the true enjoyment of it." He would have understood the feelings of a certain lady of modest circumstances who was peacefully doing the week's mending when a telegram arrived informing her that a distant cousin had left [illegible] her to his half-million dollar estate. Much of the thrill of such news is in telling others about it, and the little lady dropped her mending, rushed to the telephone, and cried, "Hello, operator! Operator! Quick, get me anybody!"

Some such urgency to share is fundamental to sculptoring, painting, composing, writing, preaching — and all the other arts. If the essays in this series come within shouting distance of "the arts" it is because they are motivated by the desire to share with anyone who pauses to read them some quiet and reflective moments I have spent afield. Here you will find such meditations upon life's major and minor meanings as have been excited by a killdeer's plaintive cry in springtime, the sight of spotted fawns bounding through a fern-carpeted forest glade at twilight on a summer's day, the distant piping voices of migrating warblers on a frosty autumn night or the vast silence of a cedar thicket on a wintry day when soft snowflakes swirl and spiral soundlessly to earth, spreading an extra blanket over the sleeping Northland.

These reflections, once mine, are now yours because I believe the stingiest hoarding of all is not that of amassing and concealing money, but that of hiding joy and inspiration. What I have is yours.

May you enjoy your share as I have mine.

New Minister Installed at Barnard Church

The Rev. Charles Stoppels was installed as minister of the Barnard Reformed church at a special [illegible] ceremony held [illegible] Thursday evening.

THE TRUTH ABOUT PAUL BUNYAN

In our great north woods era that wonderful Michigan hero Paul Bunyan could do anything needed around the logging camps, anything at all. That's legend.

Today the people of any Michigan community, planning and working together, can do and can achieve anything their community needs for its sound development and the greater prosperity of its citizens. That's fact.

Like Paul Bunyan when he had Babe the Blue Ox at his command and every logger in the camp behind him, the people of a community can do anything when they work together.

And that's the truth about Paul Bunyan.

Join hands with your local industrial development organization and the Michigan Economic Development Department to help your community prosper.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Lucky to Have "Noisy Neighbors"

A recent news item about an Air Force base and the townspeople nearby illustrates a point I've made for some time.

Most of the local people had the same complaint—the roar of jets was irritating—so a group of them petitioned the Air Force to move the base.

Then the Air Force invited the petitioners to the base to show them how vital it was to their defense. The people soon decided jet noise was really a welcome sound—and all petitions were dropped.

From where I sit, jumping to conclusions—without knowing all sides of a question—is something people ought to avoid. It would make living together a lot easier. On little things, too—like your preference for tea or coffee and mine for beer. Understanding the other fellow's point of view will make traveling a lot smoother in this "jet" age of ours.

This Ever Happen To You?

Ever have your car break down on the highway in the dead of night, miles from the nearest town or service station?

If you have, the chances are that it was a truck driver who came to your rescue. For up and down this great State of ours, with its miles upon miles of fine roads, the truck driver has rightfully earned a reputation as the gentleman of the highway.

He is a safe driver — he is a courteous driver — and he is a chivalrous driver, the man who brings you everything you eat, wear or use.

Chesty Robin Chirps New State Slogan

Michigan's proud and chesty robin, the state's official bird, has gone to sea.

Having stood astride the huge towers of the Mackinac bridge in 1958 when he proclaimed "It's Great to Live in Michigan," the jaunty, red-breasted bird, has taken up a new position and adopted a new slogan which he will sing this year.

As central figure of the official Michigan Week emblem, the robin for 1959 wears a sailor cap as he proudly points to Michigan and the St. Lawrence Seaway as it stands out on the globe of the world.

The robin's new look was recommended by the Michigan Week promotional materials committee of which Paul Penfield, advertising manager of The Detroit Edison company, is chairman.

Before the year ends, and especially during the sixth annual Michigan Week, May 17-23, the proud robin will proclaim the new slogan "We're Proud of Michigan" before millions of people in his own state and throughout the nation and foreign lands.

He will be pictured in newspapers and magazines, on television screens, in all types of advertising, on such promotional materials as posters, placards, decals, stamps, place mats, book matches, counter cards, retail store streamers, etc.

Materials are now in production and will be made available to all local and county Michigan Week committees at cost.

Ann Moore, charged with allowing a dog to run at liberty without a license, was ordered to pay $1.00 fine and $2.00 costs. Summons was issued by the sheriff's department.

The following were ordered to pay $5.00 for the minor traffic violations mentioned below: Roy Peron, 17, no valid operator's license; Jerome Whitley, 34, ignoring a stop sign; James Frye, 18, of East Jordan, improper registration plates on motor vehicle; Clayton Sarasin, 28, no license plates on trailer. SUNDEW REPORTS

Last Wednesday we got underway for Leland, Mich., where a fisherman wanted to get his nets in but couldn't break through the ice. After clearing some lanes in Round Lake for the commercial fishermen we ran into real heavy ice which also was windrowed. Within 6.5 miles of Charlevoix we were beset in heavy ice. We never did make it to Leland. As it turned out the wind shifted and cleared the harbor there without any help from anyone.

Meanwhile, back near Charlevoix we had to sit and wait for a change in wind direction to help free us. Frequent checks during the night showed we were being pushed with the ice by the wind.

Thursday morning found us north and west of Charlevoix. Inasmuch as the icebreaker Mackinaw was not far away and she had to get in the ice to pick up her helicopter we planned to wait until she got in the vicinity before attempting to break out of the ice field we were trapped in. However, just prior to her arrival we broke free and headed for the Charlevoix area to await the arrival of the Mackinaw. She had ordered to proceed to Detroit so we took over her job in this area. We moored at the lifeboat station Thursday evening and got an early start Friday morning.

Ice conditions in Lake Michigan are the worst in years. With the wind shifting almost every day the ice has stayed loose in deep water but the shore ice is so heavy wind had little effect in breaking it up. On our way home Sunday evening we had to back down and ram ahead several times before reaching the Charlevoix breakwater.

Jack Young SA left to attend Radarman School in Groton, Conn. Several other men will be leaving in the near future. We wish them all the success in their studies.

Paul Prey SN required hospitalization last Thursday but came back aboard when we pulled in Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Wilson returned early in December from a trip to South Africa where the former, a retired vice president of the Goodyear Rubber Co., had inspected the Goodyear operations on that continent.

The following are excerpts from letters written by the couple to friends and relatives while they were away. This is the fourth installment.

"Belgium has spent tremendous amounts of money and, of course, they could afford to for they have taken tremendous amounts out. The whole Congo is fabulous in its wealth of minerals, copper, diamonds, cotton, rubber and palm oil. The money that has been spent here has gone mostly into education and hospitals.

"They have tried to advance the native in many ways and when he does advance and is fit to be given responsibility, he gets it — in recognition by the government. In other words, his standing and his right to vote in the community are advanced as he advances himself. The government does not recognize segregation but it really does exist but surely not as we have seen in other parts of Africa."

French is the only language spoken. The people are busy and healthy and there is no play made for tourists. Mrs. Wilson writes:

"I don't know what I expected to find in the Belgian Congo — wild men and pygmies! Certainly not the most modern, pretty and comfortable hotel we've called 'home,' certainly not good-looking dress shops and more good-looking, well-dressed people than we've seen in all of South Africa, and I've saved the best until the last — wonderful food."

The next stop was Accra, Ghana, the province which was given its independence about 18 months ago and which is run by the natives. The wife of the U. S. Ambassador to Ghana was on their place and there was quite a welcoming party to meet her. The Wilsons were introduced around and Mrs. Wilson remarked to her husband that the Ambassador looked too good to use on a little country like that. Mr. Wilson and the company man who met them explained that he had to be good. "This country is a tremendous experiment, the natives governing themselves. It's the first such thing in the world and all the world is watching. The Ambassador has to say and do the right thing. He can't be a second guesser."

The Wilsons were entertained at luncheon at the hotel. Mrs. Wilson said she took quite a liking to the wife of the head of the Chamber of Commerce and almost got up enough nerve to ask to visit her home. She said she had four children, a big house and all her relatives and his relatives living with them. I found this to be true.

"If they work for the government they are provided with houses — whereupon all their relatives move in, sometimes three or four families to a room. They may have a college degree (there is a fine university in Accra for the natives) but they don't so quickly leave behind their tribal customs. If one in the family has food and shelter they all have.

"That must be taken into account when you hire help. There must be an understanding as to who is to live with your help. If you do not have this agreement, you better look out — the floors in the house you provide for help will be filled with your boy's family. You must close your eyes to the fact that he'll sneak in a wife or two and some babies, no matter what your agreement."

The hairdresser at the hotel, in a whisper, warned Mrs. Wilson about some native women who were standing in the corner just looking. "Sometimes, she said, they stand so close she can hardly work. They never hurt anyone and are very polite but since independence, the papers have repeatedly said that the country belongs to the people. The hotel was built by the government. Since then they come at will.

"At first they took away all the towels and every rug in the place . . . everything loose. The employees were in on the deal and got their cut. Now there are new employees who have had the way of life explained to them.

"I have never seen anything like the buses in this town, only used by natives. They are small and open. They are jammed with people piled in and sitting on each other. Bicycles and cages of chickens or anything they can't get inside are piled on top."

Mrs. Wilson was invited to the American Ambassador's home for coffee. She writes: "In the past I have been laughed at, at times when I have commented on my feelings on getting back to American soil and I guess I'll just have to brave some scathing and admit that as I drove up to that house and saw the American flag I had a catch in my throat and almost a prayer of thankfulness in my heart for being who I am. 'There were about six of us women in that small air-conditioned room with the door closed. There was American furniture around us and idle talk of home. I think we all hated to break it up. Those moments must be few and far between for those wives of the staff over there."

Everywhere I go it seems to me there is tension. Everybody, including the natives, trying too hard, trying to make it all work. I personally believe it's been tried too soon but I do believe that wise old Britain saw it had to be and said "Here's the country to try it on.'

Next in line was Ed Swanson rolling 3 nice games of 176 or better and ending up with a 555. Stub Swanson was the other man over the mark as he came in with a big 226 game in his 517 series. For the Airport Hank Felix was high with a 528. Dick Harju followed with a 511 and then Soupie with a 503. And to think we had to spot Swansons 92 pins. Freedman No. 1 also jumped up a few notches as they took all 4 points from a 3 man Hess team. Johnny Swanson was going for a 179 triplicate but could only manage a 176 last game — John ended up with a 534. Cal Peters finished with a 517. For Hess, [illegible] Penn was high man with a 455. Either Hess's are going to have to get a team or the league is going to have to get a sponsor [illegible] it's not much fun rolling against 3 or 4 men.

'Cat Hunting for Sport

King-sized are the thrills of bobcat hunting especially when the day's reward compares with this successful hunter's. Bobcat season runs from December 15 through March 15 in the lower peninsula where the 'cat is treated as a game animal. In the upper peninsula the bobcat is classified a predator and hunted year-round both for sport and a five-dollar bounty.

Michigan's sole wild survivor of the cat family — the bobcat — is the prime target of an adventurous group of hunters, especially during the winter when hunting is open throughout the state.

Increased interest in winter hunting and a decreasing bobcat population have brought protection to the 'cat in the lower peninsula. Nearly 40 percent of bobcats treed or brought to bay are purposely allowed to escape for breeding stock in this region, according to completed questionnaires returned to the Conservation Department by hunters.

Approximately 700-800 bobcats are bountied annually in the upper peninsula. Abundance of 'cats in this region attracted more than 25 percent of the lower peninsula's hunters across the Straits last year.

Bobcat hunting, itself, is invigorating whether for bounty, sport or both.

Hunters must be well prepared and equipped to carry out their quest. Warm but light clothing, a pair of good snowshoes, an able weapon, enduring stamina and well-trained hounds are listed by many as the essential ingredients for a successful hunt.

Two dogs are usually considered the right combination; too many dogs are liable to confuse the trail and cause delay.

Following the dogs means plunging through miles of swamp and seemingly impregnable thickets. Sometimes the 'cat is shot on the run, sometimes he is treed and sometimes he eludes his pursuers.

Whether victorious or empty-handed, most bobcat hunters consider the thrill of the chase an adequate reward for their efforts.

Sea elephants, the largest of seals, may grow 20 feet long and weigh more than 5,000 pounds. A monstrous snout distinguishes the male. Relaxed, the hollow proboscis droops several inches below the mouth. When the bull barks, the appendage swells with air.—

Dedicate Week to 4-H Club Boys and Girls

More than two million American boys and girls will receive national recognition during National 4-H Club Week, Feb. 28 to March 7. Last year 182 girls and 115 boys in Charlevoix county carried on 4-H projects. Directing the activities were 42 women and 19 men who gave of their time and ability to benefit the youth and community.

Charlevoix has the greatest number of students enrolled in the county 4-H Clubs to date this year, according to Mrs. Clare Brown, county extension agent in home economics. Four active clubs are in town and in rural areas making up this number.

Mrs. Abe VerWys, Mrs. Clifford Riley, Mrs. Barry Wood and Miss Mary Lou VerWys lead clothing, foods, entomology and jr. leadership clubs in Charlevoix. There are 23 members. Increased interest in 4-H Club work has been brought about during the last three years due to the use of home ec room at the High School for club meetings.

Mr. and Mrs. William Parsons are the community club leaders for the Norwood 4-H Club. Other leaders are Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Parsons, Mrs. Stanley Lord and Robert J. Cook in Norwood. This year 21 members have signed up for projects in clothing, handicraft, photography and automotive mechanics. This is the first time this project, automotive mechanics, has been offered in this county. The project emphasizes care of the automobile and safety.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Smith are the community leaders of the Barnard 4-H Club. Miss Marilyn Richardson and Ruth Ann Smith also are leaders in this club. Fifteen members are enrolled here in clothing, handicraft, electrical, tractor maintenance and conservation hunting projects.

Mrs. Richard Zipp of the Murray community is leading a 4-H Club in bird study and Mrs. Stanley Wiklanski has a clothing and personal improvement club in that community.

Although Achievement Day has been set for April 9 and 10, with concentrated effort, a member could still enroll and complete projects for the year.

Mrs. Brown says that too often people think of 4-H in terms of clothing, cooking and cows, but 4-H Clubs have projects in all phases of homemaking such as child care, safety, home improvement, good grooming, crafts, outdoor cooking and snacks. Other projects could include entomology, gun safety, conservation, bird study, domestic pets and wildflowers, as well as tractor maintenance, all farm animals and gardening.

And, if you have not been in 4-H or working with 4-H for the last few years, you will be amazed at the new bulletins and leader outlines. These bulletins are written especially for and in the language of the age member that usually take these projects. Also, they may be set up lesson for lesson to help the leader. These new bulletins are not yet available on all projects but e-

"Life begins at 40" is a saying that held little comfort for the nation's highway taxpayers yesterday, Feb. 25. Yesterday marked the 40th anniversary of America's first gasoline tax.

Oregon started the big take with a "one cent a gallon" levy and three other states followed suit. By 1929 every state had a gasoline tax, and by then the average take had climbed to 3.8 cents per gallon. The federal government saw the light in 1932 and got into the picture.

The first year of this "penny tax" cost the motorists in [illegible] million dollars. Now it is costing highway [illegible] a whopping 1.6 billion [illegible] national rate of 8.[illegible] cents per gallon amounts to [illegible] 11% "sales tax" on gasoline.

In 40 years motorists have paid about 52.8 billion-dollars ($52,800,000,000.) in state and federal gas taxes. The yearly tax take in the states now totals more than three billion dollars plus a yearly federal take of 1.6 billion dollars. It now looks as though the government may put the squeeze on the motorist for another 1¼ cents per gallon and some states are eyeing the same field. This money is not all for road building and maintenance either. A tidy amount is going into general funds.

So we hope you have had a Happy "Gas Tax" Birthday.

Why Cease Our Vigilance . . .

Educators in some institutions of higher learning are taking exceptions to the National Defense Education Act of 1958 which provides for loans and fellowships to qualified students or teachers. One requirement of an applicant for the federal benefits is an oath of loyalty to the United States. this appears too acceptable to most educators.

The second provision, however, requires the applicant to swear he has never belonged to any organization on the Attorney General's list of "tainted" organizations. Some educators maintain the second provision questions the loyalty of the applicant.

Any loyal citizen of the United States should be proud of the fact that he has never been duped into a tainted organization. If he has been a sucker (most of us have for one racket or another) and disassociates himself when he discovers the mistake, he should be more than ready to have an investigation clear his record.

Honor and individual freedom have been instilled into us as part of our heritage, thus making us an easy mark for the Communistic ideology, that, the objective justifies any strategy. A loyalty oath would mean nothing to a person with that philosophy. He knows his oath is honored until such time as he might be apprehended as a traitor. Even then, there is a chance the Supreme Court might recognize his actions as within his constitutional rights.

The person who has belonged to an organization on the subversive list lays himself open to perjury the minute he takes an oath denying it. He certainly is not entitled to government benefits unless thorough investigation proves beyond doubt that he was unknowingly duped and that his future loyalty to democracy is unquestionable. Many loyal citizens have been victims of Communist strategy. Those victims who claim to have an honorable character should welcome an opportunity to clear their record.

Dr. Clarence B. Hilberry, president of Wayne University, is quoted in the Detroit Free Press as stating, "There is a good chance that this requirement (referring to membership in a "tainted" organization) will be repealed by the present Congress because of the strong sentiment against it within the academic community."

It is to be hoped that Senators and Congressmen representing Michigan will fight to the finish any legislation that will further protect the operations of Communist workers in our midst. In this particular case it would have the appearance of covering up for those students and teachers who are afraid to look their loyalty in the face.

SOME TIME AGO the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce received an inquiry from Richard Van Orman of Winston, Oregon, who is looking for some of his forebears — a certain Pete Van Orman or Vanornum and a Mary Vanornam who lived here between 1908 and 1912. He doesn't know what the Pete Van Orman did for a living at that time. He's also interested in any offspring these people might have had. We have heard that name some place but can't remember where. If you know anything about these people won't you let Mr. Van Orman of Star Route Box 350, Winston, Oregon know about it.

PELLSTON [illegible] Charlevoix wasn't far behind. Someone called to tell me it was 23 below and we wouldn't believe it so we gave the Coast Guard lifeboat station a ring. It was only 16 below there, so we took a look at our own thermometer and found it was 22 degrees below the old zero mark. Guess it ranged anywhere down to 30 degrees below, depending on where you were. But as cold as it was, it just didn't seem that cold tho the phone wires were singing, the snow was squeaky under foot and just about everyone had trouble getting cars started. So help us, it was colder the next night when it was 20 above and a brisk wind was blowing out of the southwest

WHEN IT COMES to weather, we've had it and we mean just that. Over Charlevoix-way we've only had 85 inches of snow but over east, Boyne City-way, there has been 135 inches and that's official. But for those who aren't here to see, practically every inch of it's still here.

* * *

BUT SPRING can't be far away despite the snow and the cold, for on every sports page there's news of spring training here and there, proposed trades and this and that baseball player inking his contract. And come another six weeks or so there'll be the cry of 'Play Ball' as the first ball of the season is thrown out. But right now that seems an eon or so away.

* * *

THEN THERE'S basketball tournaments. It's hard to believe the season's practically over. All teams will play regular scheduled games Friday and then the tournaments. At this time we don't know whom our little ole Rayders will be playing but we sure wish 'em lots of luck next week.

* * *

OH YES, and another sign of spring that shows up every year at this time via the mails. What else but the seed catalogs? Sometimes we think these companies send out their catalogs as a spring 'pick me up' . . . 'cause they always seem to arrive when all hope of spring is gone. Then the seed catalog, and again we hope that before too long, but gee, this year we've just about had it. Don't think even a seed catalog will do any good.

ELSEWHERE in the Courier is a story about the South American which will make two stops here in June while on chartered cruises. And not even that gives us hope.

A LETTER this week from an old friend of ours, and we mean all of us, Mrs. Charles Pontius, former resident now living in St. Petersburg with her husband and daughter, Deanie. One of their reasons for going south was Deanie's health which Mrs. P. reports is very much improved. The brown-eyed angel goes to school every morning and is able to ride her bike and play like other children. That's good news to all their friends, we know. She also sends their regards to friends here along with an invitation to stop in if you're down St. Pete-way. Incidently, they're all coming "home" that is, to Charlevoix this summer so we'll all get to see them then which will be good

MANY THANKS to Bill Graves for the newspaper clipping and news from Fort Lauderdale. Sounds like Florida's having another of its fabulous winters, which is good after last year.

ONE OF Charlevoix's grand old citizens, George Glados, observed his eightieth birthday anniversary Sunday. He received what we think is a pretty wonderful gift, an overseas call from his daughter, Mrs. Clair (Mary Ann) Loomis who's on Guam with her husband who is stationed there with the Navy. The call came as a complete surprise to both Mr. and Mrs. Glados who were thrilled by the call from half-way around the world. Mrs. Glados said the connection was perfect and you could hear without any trouble. They're still floating on Cloud Nine, and we can't blame them any. Incidently, the call came through Saturday night which was Sunday noon on the far-Pacific island.

THE U.S.C.G. CUTTER Sundew was in full dress Monday in honor of Washington's birthday anniversary. Many people commented on it and really appreciated the efforts of the crew who did much to brighten a dull day with the countless pennants and flags flying overhead.

MANY OF THE northern Michigan residents who've succumbed to the winter sport of skiing. The latest to throw in the sponge and join he forces is Herb Schofield, we're told.

WE'RE ALWAYS thrilled when we see youngsters work together, whether it's on a basketball floor, a baseball diamond or a sand lot. That's one reason [illegible] the Cub Scout Blue and Gold [illegible] last week. About [illegible] youngsters and their parents plus members of the sponsoring organization, the Kiwanis club and their wives and the Cub Scout committee and their wives gathered for the co-operative supper. None could have been prouder than these kids as they escorted their parents to their tables, or when they came up to be presented with awards. Again we are grateful that Charlevoix has so many wonderful people who will give their time and efforts so that our kids can have this terriffic program. The Den mothers and their assistants as well as the Cubmaster and his committee certainly should have the praise and gratitude of every parent. We were thrilled to be a part of such a grand event.

It took four years of intensified study to open two brittle corroded copper rolls containing portions of the Dead Sea Scrolls, the National Geographic Magazine says. An English scientist contrived a special saw which sliced the copper with delicate incisions only six one-thousandths of an inch wide.

WHAT'S IN IT FOR ME?

What's in it for me, you ask, if a new industry locates here or one of our present plants expands?

A better chance at a better living.

An industry payroll dollar is a wondrous thing. It comes into our community from outside as our industries make and sell their products in competition with other industries in other places. It gets bigger as it starts its journey through the community. It passes through many hands, touches many people. You would have to be a long, long way away not to have some of it rub off on you.

Increased economic security for you and your family . . . greater opportunity for you and your children . . . are in the industrial expansion of your community, every time.

4-H Club Girls to Attend School Of Instruction in Modeling

Miss Dorothy Erler, State 4-H club clothing specialist from Michigan State University, will hold a modeling school for all county 4-H club clothing members at 8 p.m., March 5, at the Charlevoix high school gym. Miss Erler will show the girls correct modeling posture, how to walk when modeling their 4-H garments, how to carry their accessories and to remove their coats and jackets in a style revue. Then the girls will be given an opportunity to practice modeling under Miss Erler's supervision.

The 4-H style revue is traditionally one of the largest county events in 4-H where every 4-H clothing member models the garment she has made, before the public. This year the Charlevoix county 4-H dress revue will be held on April 10 at the Charlevoix high school gym with approximately 100 4-H club girls, and a few brave boys, modeling. The 4-H club leaders in charge of this year's dress revue are Mrs. William Parsons, Mrs. Clifford Riley, Mrs. Abe VerWys and Mrs. Ivan Parsons of Charlevoix.

Dress revue pins are given to outstanding 4-H club members in the dress revue. These pins are awarded by judges on the following basis: how appropriate is the style of the garment for the figure type of the model, does the color of the garment suit the model, is the fabric suitable for the style of the garment, how well does the garment fit the model, how well is the garment made, how well does the model perform on stage? It is the last, but very important factor on which Miss Erler will help the girls.

Charlevoix county may send one dress revue winner to State 4-H Club Week in July to represent our county at the State 4-H Club Style Revue. Miss Erler is in charge of this style revue. Here the girls are given a strenuous week long course in modeling, ending in the State 4-H Club Style Revue at the M.S.U. Auditorium.

From this revue, 35 girls will be asked to return a month later for more modeling instructions and practice during State 4-H Club Show. Again they hold a style revue in the auditorium. This time one girl is chosen to represent Michigan at the National 4-H Congress in Chicago, and the 10 girls are sent to Detroit to model their garments at the Michigan State Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cartier Mark Sixtieth Wedding Anniversary

Wednesday marked the sixtieth wedding anniversary of one of Charlevoix's oldest couple, Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Cartier.

However no formal observance was held because Mr. Cartier remains in serious condition at the Charlevoix hospital and Mrs. Cartier is confined to the Howard nursing home.

Mr. and Mrs. Cartier, natives of Chatham, Ont., Can., were married at Adrian, Michigan, Feb. 25, 1899.

In June, 1901, Mr. Cartier came to Charlevoix, then a booming lumbering and fishing community, worked at a local tailor shop during the summer and that fall returned to Chatham for Mrs. Cartier and their two sons, Harold and Claire.

The next year Mr. Cartier opened his own tailor shop on Bridge st. In the early 1920's he added a dry cleaning business and continued to operate the business until 1954 when he retired.

Mr. Cartier, as a businessman, was always active in civic affairs and served several terms as second ward alderman, was a director of the Charlevoix hospital board of directors, the park commission and the Chamber of Commerce. For many years he was a director of the West Michigan Tourist and Resort Association. He was local correspondent for the Grand Rapids Press from 1922 to 1946.

Mr Cartier was born in Chatham Dec. 7, 1872. He is a member of St. Mary's church.

Mrs. Cartier, the former Hannah Scafe, was born in Chatham Sept. 1, 1880. She is a member of the First Congregational church.

They have three sons, Harold of New York City and Dover, N. J., Dr. W. Claire of Grand Rapids and Stanley of Atlanta, Ga. and one daughter, Mrs. Willis A Cross jr. of Grand Haven. They also have 12 grandchildren.

4-H Achievement Day to Be Held Here April 9-10

The spring 4-H Achievement Day for 1959 will be held at Charlevoix, according to Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent. The dates for this year's event are Thursday and Friday, April 9 and 10 at the Charlevoix high school auditorium.

Exhibits from 4-H Club members from all over the county will arrive after school on Thursday. Judging of these exhibits will start during the evening and will be completed during Friday morning. The exhibits will be open to the public all day Friday, April 10.

One of the highlights of the Spring 4-H Achievement Day is the Dress Revue program. This will be held on Friday evening in the Auditorium. A committee of Mrs. Clifford Riley, Mrs. Abe VerWys, Mrs. William Parsons and Mrs. Ivan Parsons are working to make plans for this dress revue.

This is the last of a series of letters written by Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Wilson while the former, a retired vice president of the Goodyear Rubber Co., was on a tour of the company's operations in Africa. The letters as printed in the Charlevoix Courier are excerpts of those written to family and friends while on the tour last fall.

The Wilsons flew home from Accra, Ghana, to Lisbon, Portugal, to London and then home. About Lisbon Mrs. Wilson writes:

"After the sunshine and shadow and struggle and tension we've seen, it seemed almost un[illegible] now substantial and [illegible] little [illegible]

Mr. W[illegible] some thoughts on the economic and industrial [illegible] Africa.

"South Africa is one step behind Europe and North America in the three-step process of the Industrial Revolution. These three steps are broadly: first, the introduction of power and power machinery, steam, electricity and internal combustion engines. These forms of power multiplied men's output per man hour of labor. This step or era was marked by the first group of industrial giants, those who most rapidly fitted new and improved machinery to the newly available power. These first industrial giants shared very little of the increased wealth their machine operators.

"The second step of the Industrial Revolution was introduced by men who saw the opportunity of sharing productive wealth with machine operators thus creating a vast new market for the products of the machinery. It was during this period and largely as a result of this second step in its own country that the U. S. A. became a world leader.

The third step is now in the process of development. The machine operators through the unions are taking a greater and greater part in the formulation of [illegible] of the [illegible] Industrial Revolution.

"To the extent the Union leaders limit the year by year increase of output per man hour, to that extent they will slow up the raising of the standards of living throughout the world. To the extent that they work together with capital for the better use of better machinery, they will advance the standards of living.

"South Africa is well advanced in step one of the Industrial Revolution. Modern machinery is in evidence in mining, manufacturing and agriculture. They are feeling their way very fearfully into the second step. Here the problems of racial relationships complicate vastly the process.

"Not only racial relationships but fundamental technical skills, I. Q. capacities and social kindergarten-ship. Beyond that, of course, the industrial leaders see the problems that will come, if and when they pass beyond the second step and into the third step. Time is what they need above everything else. They will [illegible] into the second step [illegible] time, patience and wisdom are [illegible]."

Round Table To Be Held in Petoskey

The Northern District Boy Scout Roundtable for February will be held at the Sheridan school in Petoskey at 7:30 p.m. tonight (Thursday).

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Smith Observe Fifty-ninth Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Smith, pioneer residents of this community, observed their fifty-ninth wedding anniversary at their home Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith were married at St. Francis church in Petoskey Feb. 20, 1900 and have always resided here since then.

Mr. Smith, a Great Lakes sailor since boyhood when he worked as a cabin boy, continued to sail for a short time following their marriage before establishing a draying business here which he operated until the early 1920's. At that time he became manager of the Ayers Boals farm in Hayes township, a position he held [illegible] Mr. Smith [illegible] Two [illegible]

Mrs. Smith, the former Catherine C. Haggerty, was born in Berea, Ohio, Aug. 5, 1874, and came to Hayes township with her family at the age of nine years.

They have one son, John, of Petoskey and four daughters, Mrs. H. E. Bingham, Mrs. Hugh Mayne and Miss Mary Smith of Charlevoix and Mrs. Fitch Tooley of Boyne City. They also have nine grandchildren and several great-grandchildren.

Michigan's Biggest Flower Show Soon to Open

The Michigan Flower Show for 1959 will be by far the biggest in its history. This year the show, which will run from February 21 thru March 1st, is located in the Detroit Artillery Armory (near Northland) which provides more than twice the space available in previous years at the Michigan State Fair Grounds.

The Michigan Flower Show is sponsored by the Michigan Horticultural Society. It is also supported by such organizations as the Allied Florist Association, The Association of Landscape Nurserymen, Detroit Department of Parks and Recreation, Michigan Department of Agriculture, Michigan State University, Southeastern Association of Landscape Nurserymen, Landscape Association of Michigan, The Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority and a number of other botanical organizations including garden clubs representing Michigan communities.

In addition to the exhibits of previous years, an important innovation is a giant exhibit by the Michigan Section of the Professional Golfers' Association and the Michigan Section of the Golf Greens Keepers Association. A full size putting green, sand trap and golf nets will be a part of the exhibit with the professionals giving exhibition shots and the greens keepers holding clinics on turf building and maintenance.

The Catholic Church and the Detroit Council of Churches, which includes practically all other creeds and denominations, are cooperating in outstanding exhibits. The theme of the show is "FAITH AND FLOWERS". The various floral interpretations of this inspirational theme are breathtaking in their beauty and scope.

Such organizations as the Detroit Department of Parks and Recreation, the students majoring in horticulture at the Michigan State University and scores of others provide a wealth of beauty and variety never before equalled in a Michigan Flower Show.

In its final report it says that 63.9 per cent of the second Hoover Commission's recommendations have been adopted and are being put into effect. Mr. Hoover estimates the eventual economies resulting from these recommendations at upwards of $3 billion a year. He adds that economies totaling $7 billion can be traced to the first Commission's report.

Whether the election should be held every two years or every four years may be debated, but some formula must be established whereby a single party will be responsible for the leadership of both the executive and legislative branches of the Government.

LEESBURG, FLA., DAILY COMMERCIAL: "Intead of shaking our heads and muttering about the foreign complainers, maybe we should pay more attention to the friends we have abroad. Among the best of them are the doughty, resourceful Dutch people. Not only are they generous in their appraisal of Americans, but they are deeply appreciative of the help we give, of whatever kind. And many of them go to great lengths to demonstrate how they feel."

CRIPPLE CREEK, COLORADO, GOLD RUSH: "A tax expert received a call from a woman who asked, "How much tax is due on $75,000 income?" About $41,180, not counting deductions, she was told. Autos On Ice Court Danger Say UM Labs

Ice fishermen who drive their automobiles over frozen lakes can be flirting with danger, even if the ice is "thick."

Information supplied by the Meteorological Laboratories at The University of Michigan indicates that a vehicle moving across ice produces a traveling wave of ice all around it.

The ice is pushed down or deflected most beneath the vehicle. Moving progressively away from the car there is a point of no deflection, then an upheaval of the ice, and finally a gradual return to normal.

Of course, the deflection and upheaval amount to less than an inch of change. But under certain conditions — say, when the water isn't very deep — this flexing will break the ice and put the car in the water.

For instance, cars traveling over 15 miles per hour on ice three or more feet thick can create dangerous flexing if the water is less than 10 feet deep.

If two cars are traveling over the ice in the same direction, they should stay far apart. Under certain conditions and distances the ice wave caused by one vehicle can be increased — with an increase in danger — by the second vehicle. For somewhat the same reasons, cars should not be parked too close together.

The U-M meteorologists have a few words to say, too, about how the ice is formed. As the water in a lake cools, it becomes denser and goes to the bottom, exchanging places with warmer and lighter water. This keeps on until all the water is about 34 degrees.

At that temperature the maximum density of water occurs, and as the liquid cools further, it becomes lighter instead of heavier. The water on the surface stays there and continues to cool. In natural lakes, it might cool to one degree below zero before it freezes.

Raynard Escapes, Loses in Chase

Any one lose a beautiful red fox?

This particular fox got involved in the chase last week and lost. Milton Richardson of Norwood shot the animal while hunting south of Charlevoix. When he started to remove the pelt he discovered Raynard was wearing a collar which appeared to have had a name plate attached at some time or other.

Milt says it's too late to do anything about the fox but he'll gladly return the collar if the owner calls.

Garden Club To Hold 'Guest' Day

Jack Hood of Roscommon, educational consultant for the Michigan Conservation Department, will be the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Charlevoix Garden club to be held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Ranger at 2 p.m. Monday.

His subject will be "State Park."

This will be 'guest' day for club members who are urged to bring one guest according to Mrs. R. G. Bennett, vice president, who will preside at the meeting.

Mary Therese Oleksy Honored with Party

Life Changes, But Gypsy Still Travel On

Today's dark-eyed Gypsy may live in an automobile trailer rather than a horse-drawn wagon. He may have abandoned his horse-trading ways for mechanics.

But despite the efforts of many governments to settle him down, he cannot resist the open road.

The number of Gypsies in the world is estimated between five and six million. Although some have established homes, others still roam through Europe, the Americas, Asia, and Australia, the National Geographic Society says.

Often they halt for the winter, but after the festival of St. George on April 23, when spring greens the roadside, they travel, as their kind has traveled for 2,000 years.

Swarthy of complexion, with black hair and [illegible] came from. They brought with them no history or literature when they first entered Europe in the early 15th cenury.

They were thought to be Egyptian (hence "Gypsy"), or Persian, or Tartar, or a lost tribe of Israel, or perhaps the people of legendary Atlantis. Modern scholars traced their origin through their language, Romany, a name derived from the Gypsy word "rom" meaning man and tribe. It was found to be closely allied with a branch of Sanskrit, and to be almost identical to that spoken by scattered tribes in India.

It is now believed that the Gypsies left their Indian homeland before the Christian era and migrated to Persia, where they were welcomed as musicians — a talent they still exploit. They also were expert gold workers and horse trainers.

Eventually, as has often happened since, the welcome wore out. They wandered through Syria and Armenia northward into Georgia and Russia. One band entered Turkey. Large numbers moved into Romania, Hungary and the Bohemian region of present-day Czechoslovakia. Others sailed to Crete.

Gypsies gradually spread thru Europe and reached England. North America felt the wheels of Gypsy carts in the early 19th century. Curiously, scholars say that the purest form of the Gypsy language now is spoken in Pennsylvania.

SUNDEW REPORTS

We remained in Charlevoix all last week. Our activities were limited once again to cleaning and painting. During the buoy season when everyone is busy working long hours every day, the routine cleaning cannot be done. While moored we have the time to catch up and keep the ship properly cleaned.

Three new men reported this week. Two seamen, who have returned to active duty after previous service in the Coast Guard, came from Cleveland. Jim Marbee SA hails from Janesville, Wis., and has served on the east coast. John Kinnunen, SN, spent several years in the Pacific. His home is Chicago. Our new yeoman is Waldemar Rosiwski YN2. 'Ski' reported in from Marquette, Michigan, after previous service at Norfolk, Groton, Miami and Cape May, N. J. His wife Barbara is remaining in Marquette until April or May when she plans to join him here.

Our television equipment has been completely overhauled with installation of a new antenna. With television combined with the movies we have been getting lately, there has been plenty of good entertainment during these winter months.

SUNDEW SCUTTLEBUTT . . .

The chiefs berthing compartment has been newly painted. Once the paint odor is gone it should be solid sleeping in there. There was plenty of manpower to get cars started that frosty morning last week. Spring was here for only one day. We understand it came on a Friday last year.

Notes from a nurtherner's diary

Always Ready

Anytime we walk through our woods these days chickadees scatter from our path. The gem-eyed, plump little bundles of black, gray and white feathers loaded with energy and cheer dart but a short distance and alight on the bare limbs of birches and poplars or the needled boughs of spruce and balsam from which they chime their clear, sweet calls, "dee-dee-dee-dee, chick-a-dee-dee." They play aerobatic stunts on every tree and shrub, hanging upside down, twirling around a twig, following-the-leader through the spicey cedars, then dropping to the wood's floor to embroider a new blanket of snow with the delicate stitching of their tracks

Among the small birds of the North chickadees are my favorites. I've often asked myself why, and I've concluded it is because of their jaunty optimistic air, their undiscourageable resourcefulness that enables them to find a "living" where other birds fail, their companionable spirit that prompts them te be on friendly terms with other living things — the deer in the forest, the fox on the hunt, and man on his saunter over a forest trail — and the courage that enables them to face the coldest, most blustery winter the North can hurl at them. But in addition to these characteristics, I favor chickadees simply because they are always here, in every season, perpetual reminders of the beauty and wonder of all birdlife, and this marvel above all others — their amazing preparation for the emergencies that will confront them in their short lives. These chickadees, like all birds, have bills adapted to the demands of procuring and using food. In the case of the black-capped carolers of our woods the bills are sharply pointed and strong, made for prying under bark and into small crevices for insects and insect eggs.

These birds are covered with feathers, one of the strongest structures in proportion to size and weight that we can find in any organism on earth — almost weightless so as to be no burden, yet strong to support a body in rapid flight.

For the energy consuming work of flight the chickadee, like most other birds has a heart that is always ready to supply every remote tissue of the body with freshly oxygenated blood. In proportion to the bird's weight the heart is large and strong. While in man the heart averages less than one percent of his weight, the bird's heart is much larger proportionately, varying from 19 to 22 percent of the total body weight in the hummingbird, for example. And while the average heart beat for adult men is around 70 beats per minute, and 80 for women, the heart of a sleeping black-capped chickadee beats 400 times a minute, and twice as fast when the bird is active.

Taken feature by feature a bird stands in strange contrast to man with all his civilized paraphernalia for making life easy, and with his accumulation of preparations for meeting life's emergencies. Resting just as it is on a frosty limb on this wintry day, the chickadee is ready for living or dying, for sleep, for feeding or for quick flight. Maybe this mixture of simplicity and readiness, this uncomplicated preparation for whatever faces it, is what charms me most about chickadees, because it hints at what life should be like.

When in school or college we ought never to "cram" for examinations, making lengthy, frantic preparations. We should be studied up to date, having steadily reviewed the most significant subject matter in our course so that no hasty, frenzied last-minute preparations should be necessary.

A person's "devotional life should keep him "prayed up" so that when emergencies come his prayers are not an agonizing cry to a stranger-God for unaccustomed help, but an acknowledgment of a dependency upon a Power that is well known and an affirmation of trust in one's Father. A healthy devotional life is one that keeps one always ready for lifes worst and its best, its gravest dangers and its most glowing opportunities.

Much of our human disquietude and apprehension when faced with the possibility of death is understandable and natural. We do not wish to leave the ones we love, and we dislike dropping our unfinished work. But there is a great difference between wishing death could be postponed for a time, and being panicked at its coming. Most terror of death stems from a feeling of unreadiness. We are not yet clean enough. We have not yet righted some wrongs we have done. There is forgiving yet to be done and forgiveness to be gained. We are not ready. A Vermont housewife demonstrated in her housekeeping a principle by which all of us might well live. When a city visitor exclaimed upon looking at her tidy rooms, "Does your house always look this neat?" she firmly replied, "Of course! I never go to bed without leaving my house in dying condition."

But a good "dying condition" means a good living condition, too. It means living so well that no matter the emergency, one is ready for it, engaging in such practices that one would not need to be ashamed to have any one of them be one's last earthly act. When John Wesley was asked what he would do if he knew that he would die on a particular night, he replied that he would eat his evening meal, preach at candlelight, say his prayers, and retire to sleep — exactly what the evangelist did every night. In the face of death he would follow the established pattern of his life. Such a spirit is in keeping with George Morris' poem on "My Mother's Bible,",

"In teaching me the way to live

It reflects the disposition of Bishop Thomas Ken's simple prayer,

"Teach me to live, that I may dread
The grave as little as my bed."

Readiness to die and readiness to live are two sides of the same coin!

Whatever measure of peace of mind we find here on earth will be discovered somewhere in this realm of readiness for whatever comes. A farmer, needing a hired man, interviewed several prospects. One tall, muscular, bright-eyed lad greatly impressed the farmer who thoroughly questioned the youth at last asking him what faults he had. The young man replied "Well, the last man I worked for complained I was terribly hard to wake up during a wind storm at night."

That gave the farmer pause, but he finally decided to hire the fellow in spite of his fault. A few weeks passed, and the lad's work proved most satisfactory. But then came a night when a strong wind tortured the area, whipping the trees in the orchard, thumping on the doors and banging on the windows of the farm house and awakening the farmer who called his hired man so that they could check on their equipment, and buildings and livestock. But the hired man would not awaken. The farmer pounded on the lad's bedroom door, but to no avail. He entered the room and vigorously shook the youth who groaned sleepily, turned over and slumbered on. At last the farmer gave up and went out into the storm alone. To his astonishment he found the hay stack was covered with water-proofed canvas anchored to the ground with tent stakes. Heavy stones weighted down the lumber pile. The doors to the barn, chicken houses, and tool sheds were all shut and locked. The farm was ready for a storm.

Sound sleep and sound living alike are possible when one keeps constantly strong so that no storms can take us by surprise

telephone lines

by LES JOHNSON, Manager

MORE AND MORE mothers are appreciating the peace of mind that comes from giving their children "phone home money" whenever they go out. One mother puts it this way: "Phone home money is as important for children as a handkerchief. Often they want to go somewhere straight from school. It's such a comfort to me to know they'll phone me first. And from the children's point of view, help is now always as near as a public call booth."

WILL MOM MAKE IT? Will she be able to rush from the shower downstairs to the phone before it stops ringing? Will she slip or trip on the way? And afterwards when the panic has died down, will you perhaps decide that Mom deserves a special gift — an extension phone in her bedroom, handy to the bathroom, so that she never has to rush again. Call the Business Office, Michigan Bell Telephone Company, for details.

TALKING OF bedroom extensions, we've just heard of a man who sprained his thumb when he stumbled, on his way downstairs to answer a nighttime phone call. Shortly after, he had a bedside extension installed. But guess what happened the very next time he had a late phone call —he was all the way downstairs and groping for switches and muttering to himself before he realized that there was now no need to stir from bed!

WITH ALASKA ONE OF "us," a lot of flag makers are going to be busy with needles, thread and extra stars. Talking of flags, did you know that the world's largest belongs to Michigan—or more exactly, to the J. L. Hudson Company in Detroit. Its vital statistics—height 104 feet, width 235 feet, weight ¼ ton. The oldest existing American flag can be seen at the museum in Old Bennington, Vt. The first flag to use the stars and stripes design was made by Betsy Ross in her cottage in Philadelphia (now a national shrine). The design was approved on June 4, 1777.

It's wonderful to feel cared for Little Joe got in a fight today. He's not hurt . . . but he is kind of scared about what mom will say when she spots his black eye. And he's sure glad his brother Tom is around. Everybody needs someone to turn to. And lots of people turn to Blue Cross-Blue Shield for protection. Of course it won't cover the cost of a steak for Joe's black eye . . . but whenever it's really needed . . . it's there. Joe and Tom deserve Blue Cross-Blue Shield health care . . . your family, too. And the new "M-75" medical plan gives you more protection than ever. You do have it, don't you?

PONTIAC NAMED CAR · OF · THE · YEAR

1959 MOTOR TREND AWARD
TO PONTIAC

"Pontiac with wide-track wheels is the best combination of ride... handling... performance and styling of any '59 car" —The Editors of Motor Trend Magazine

In making its annual automotive award, the staff of Motor Trend Magazine, leading automotive publication, tests and evaluates all new cars. Here are quotations from the April 1959 issue:

"The stability of the 1959 Pontiac is the outstanding automotive advance of the year. Everyone considering a new car should experience it."

"It's the best balanced passenger car in America. We firmly believe that in moving the wheels farther apart, to develop the widest stance of any American car, Pontiac has created an entirely new sense of balance and handling security."

"Pontiac's lines are clean, simple and beautiful. It has a fleet look, a trim appearance. The wide wheel design contributes greatly to its over-all integrated styling. Any comparison with narrower track cars readily shows the difference."

"For the economy-minded, an efficient new engine. The new 420E Tempest economy engine offers remarkable performance along with exceptionally high mileage while operating on regular grade gasoline."

"Pontiac is again tops in performance, based on our extensive road testing. Acceleration is outstanding, yet the engine is unusually quiet and smooth."

Your nearest Pontiac dealer will be glad to let you road-test this award-winning automobile on your own. You'll see why it's the year's most talked-about car!

THE ONLY CAR WITH WIDE-TRACK WHEELS

Wheels are five inches farther apart. This widens only the stance, not the car. Pontiac takes a better grip on the road, hugs tighter on curves and corners. Sway and lean disappear, ride is smoother, balanced, steadier. Handling is easier. You drive with a new confidence, a comforting security. Pontiac gives you roadability no "narrow gauge" car can offer.

Rayders Hold Second Spot In 'C' League

The Charlevoix Red Rayders racked up a 54 to 42 victory over Harbor Springs Tuesday night to remain in second place behind the new league champions, the Pellston Hornets.

The Rayders will travel to Pellston to take on the Hornets in their final game of the season Friday night. Until last week the Hornets seemed invincible. However Grayling upset them by a 58 to 32 score last week to hand them their only loop defeat of the season. Whether Charlevoix will be capable of dumping them again remains to be seen. If Dave Schuchard is back in the line-up after recovering from a kidney injury and everyone else is in top condition the Rayders have an excellent chance. It will be remembered that Charlevoix led the Hornets for three quarters in their first meeting before Pellston turned the tide and won 54 to 43.

In their game with Harbor Springs Tuesday Charlevoix, playing without Schuchard, held a one-point 9 to 8 first period lead before trailing 22 to 18 at halftime. However, the Rayders went ahead early in the second half for a 33 to 29 score going into the final period when Charlevoix outscored the Rams 21 to 13 for the victory.

Ken Garver paced the game with 26 points for the Rams. Ron Vandenberg had 21 for Charlevoix. Joe Beaudoin and Bruce Pease had eight each. Charles Coleman seven and Jim Ladd six for the Rayders. Stan Smith also saw action.

RESERVES BEAT HARBOR

Charlevoix's little Rayders added another victory to their growing list by dumping the Harbor Springs Reserves 45 to 22 Tuesday night.

Paced by Stan Martin with 17 points, the local quintet led the visitors 10 to 4, 22 to 9 and 33 to 17 by quarters before taking the game by a 23 point margin.

Sam Superraw had 10 points; Jim Dennis and Barry Pierce five each, Lee Wielenga four and Ted Tunison two. The entire squad, numbering 16 members, saw action as Coach Terry Rice emptied the bench.

Forage Institute To Be Held Mar. 5 At East Jordan

A Hay, Pasture and Silage Institute will be held next week, Thursday, March 5, at the East Jordan High School Auditorium, according to Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent. This event will begin promptly at 10 a.m. and run through to 3:30 p.m. This is a district event in that it will include farmers from Charlevoix and neighboring counties.

Farmers are asked to bring samples of hay and silage to this institute. Specialists from Michigan State University will be present with a pH. meter and will check the quality of silages. They will also determine the quality of the hay samples on exhibit.

Many times it is hard to tell whether or not a farmer has good quality roughage. The amount of grain and other concentrates to be fed to livestock depends on the quality of this roughage. By bringing samples to this institute and attending the program, farmers can tell the kind of quality they have and determine their grain mixture.

Several specialists from Michigan State University will be on hand to discuss different items, the growing, harvesting, storing and feeding of roughages. These include: Graydon Blank, animal husbandry specialist; Ed Longnecker, soils specialist; Robert Maddex, agricultural engineering specialist; Don Murray, dairy specialist, and Leyton Nelson, farm crops specialist.

The state's gross receipts of the fund for the fourth quarter of the calendar year 1958 amounted to $42,002,471.67, an increase of $467,810.67 collected in the same periods the previous year. The Secretary of State's collection costs for the period is reported at $1,200,037.50.

Week Dedicated To 4-H Members fort is being made to update all bulletins.

One of the biggest changes in 4-H Club clothing is to divide the clothing into the Young, Miss the Jr. Miss and Sr. Miss series, holding project requirements to the age of the member not to the number of years the member has been in 4-H. This is especially good for the ninth or tenth grade girl who wishes to join 4-H for the first time. She may or may not have had previous sewing experience. Under the old 4-H set up, this girl would be required to make and exhibit a garment according to first year requirements. This project may not be challenging for her to compete with her fifth grade sister as well as be embarrassing to her on Achievement Day when she would model with other first year members. Under the new program, a girl enrolls in the project for her age, thus she is doing much the same type of project as the other girls her age regardless of the number of years in 4-H work. However, if she has not had sewing experience previously, Mrs. Brown recommends that she should pick a very simple pattern.

Need $15,792 to Finance Program

Directors of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce appeared before the city council at its regular meeting Monday evening to present the Chamber's 1959 program and requested a city appropriation of $5,800 to help finance the advertising and promotions. Plans for remodeling the city-owned information building occupied by the Chamber of Commerce were also presented. The estimated cost of the project is $3,500.

The proposed budget to finance the 1959 Chamber of Commerce program totals $15,792.38, according to the figures presented by Secretary Tom Symons. The allocations are as follows: administration $8,342.38, advertising $3,500, publicity $250, special events programs $3,200, industrial promotion $500. It was pointed out that the maximum amount obtainable from membership is $10,200 and that the appropriation requested from the city does not exceed the amounts spent by the city prior to the time the Chamber was reorganized.

The delegation was told the request would be considered during the present preparation of the city budget. Mayor told the group, however, that the finance committee had anticipated the request and had suggested $4,000 for support of the Chamber of Commerce program.

None of the aldermen offered criticism of the program when asked by the Mayor for their comments. At the same time they did not commit themselves regarding the difference between the amount requested and the amount suggested by the finance committee.

In other action the council voted to advertise for bids on a new police cruiser and a one-half ton pick-up truck for the light department. Information regarding specification is available at the office of the city superintendent in the city hall.

Senior Band Gets 1 Rating At Festival

The Charlevoix high school senior band of 64 pieces, directed by C. A. Odmark, won the right to participate in the Michigan high school band and orchestra festival April 18 by winning a coveted first division rating at the district qualifying festival held Saturday at Petoskey.

This is the twelfth time in 13 years of district competition that the Charlevoix group has been awarded a top rating. Only other bands among the 12 that participated in Saturday's festival, Petoskey in Class B and Boyne City in Class C, were awarded first division ratings thus making them elegible for state competition.

The Charlevoix Reserve band of 51 pieces composed of seventh, eighth and ninth grade students was awarded a second division rating. The band was the only one entered in the Junior high division of the festival. A second division rating denotes "an unusual performance in many respects but not worthy of the highest rating due to minor defects in performance — a performance of distinctive quality."

The judges, Keith Stein, Oscar Stover and Russell Fruedewald of Michigan State University and Norman Dietz of Central Michigan College were unanimous in their praise of the performance of the senior band. Mr. Stein said "The band shows musical understanding and plays with most of the fundamentals of playing in good fashion." Other comments about the band were "Careful attention to problems of interpretation and tone control mark this band" and "A fine band . . . I have enjoyed your performance.".

Of the Reserve band the judges wrote "Play well together," "Fine appearance and group discipline," "Most outstanding strength is in mechanical facility and fundamental background" and "I have enjoyed your playing."

The festival in Petoskey in which 12 bands participated was one half of the district festival. The southern half of the district had its festival in Traverse City where only two bands, Traverse City in Class A and Elk Rapids in Class C, won first division ratings.

Plead Guilty to B and E Charge

Robert L. Sowles, 21, of East Jordan and Leonard J. Peaine, 17, of St. Ignace pleaded guilty to charges of breaking and entering in the nighttime when arraigned before Judge Charles L. Brown in circuit court here Monday.

Their cases were referred to the probation department for investigation. They will be sentenced later this week. Bonds were continued at $500 each. They were remanded to the Charlevoix county jail to await sentencing.

The pair broke into the Jordan Frozen Food Locker Co. plant East Jordan Feb. 11 and took between $275 and $300 worth of groceries. They were apprehended a few hours later by the East Jordan police while trying to steal a battery for a car stolen the day before at Boyne City.

Band to Launch Park Stage Fund Drive with Free Concert Sunday

The Charlevoix City Band, directed by C. A. Odmark, will appear in a public concert Sunday in the Charlevoix high school auditorium to officially open the campaign to raise funds for the construction of a new park stage in East Park. The concert is scheduled for 3:30 p.m. There is no admission charge but a free-will offering will be accepted.

A representative group of selections has been chosen for this concert including some of the old favorites so popular with audiences at the summer concerts in the park along with interesting new selections, Mr. Odmark announced. The program will be diversified with march music, selections from operettas and novelty numbers.

The fund for a new park stage was established last summer when a visiting resorter made a $100 gift to the City Band which decided the money should be used for a new park stage. A Chamber of Commerce committee was created to carry on the project. Since that time the fund has been increasing through contributions and memorial gifts from persons who have long been interested in having an attractive stage in keeping with the beauty of East Park.

Name County Chairmen for Michigan Week

The appointment of T. Howard Bray, superintendent of the Boyne City schools, to head the Charlevoix county Michigan Week committee has been announced by George Petritz of Traverse City, regional chairman.

County chairmen met recently in Traverse City with regional and state officials to help with the organization of plans for the observance of Michigan Week, May 17 through 23, in the Northwest region.

County "Michigan Week" organizational meetings are being scheduled for this month. At these meetings local committees will be appointed and preliminary plans made.

North Michigan Class C League Will Lose 27 Young Athletes

Twenty-seven young athletes whose names have become synonomous with basketball in the Northern Michigan Class C league will be playing their final prep school games when they appear in the forthcoming tournaments.

East Jordan is counting six players to be lost to the team thru graduation while Pellston, Boyne City and Harbor Springs will lose four each, Mancelona three, Charlevoix and Gaylord two each and Grayling only one.

At Charlevoix the losses will include two players who have been important to Rayders successes this season. They are Ron Vandenberg, a regular who has played in both the center and forward spots and has been a consistent scorer, and Bill Poquette who has alternated with other players at a guard position. An aggressive player, he has on a number of occasions this season pulled the Rayders out of a slump and put them back in the running.

Among the East Jordan players who will graduate, only one, Mike Schenck, is a regular starter. Others who have seen limited action throughout the season are Perry Bennett, Jack Gee, Louis Cihak, Loren Wykoff and Gary Cihak.

Harbor Springs and Boyne City will lose four regulars. The Rams' losses will include Ken Garver, an excellent center who has done much since his return at mid-season after recovering from a football injury, to hold his team together, Terry Burns, Gary Moulton and Bill Fowler.

Mancelona will lose two regulars, Rod Chase and Jerry Patrick and a second stringer and regular substitute, Terry Meder.

The new league champions, the Pellston Hornets, will lose only two regulars from this year's squad, Bill McClutchey, a forward and Lucius Cabinaw, a guard. Others who will graduate are Bob Ford, a regular substitute and Carl Anderson.

The Gaylord Blue Devils who finished in a second place tie with the Rayders will lose two regulars, John Burnison and Bruce Walker, both important cogs in the Blue Devil machine.

At Grayling where Coach Bruce Smith is in his second year of a re-building program, Roger Horning will be the only team member not returning. He plays a guard position and has done much to hold this year's squad together despite its youth and inexperience.

Accompanied by faculty advisors, Miss Lynn VanDien and Dick Hoffheins, the group is spending a week in northern Michigan where they are enjoying skiing at Boyne Mountain and side trips for the study of conservation and wildlife.

C. T. Symons, secretary-manager of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce arranged for tours of the Charlevoix Lifeboat Station and the U S. Fish and Wildlife Service Fisheries Station.

A New Park Stage

At last plans are taking shape for the financing and construction of an attractive and adequate park stage in East Park. Members of the Charlevoix City Band and many persons who regularly enjoy the weekly summer concerts in the park have long looked forward to the day when the unsightly and somewhat treacherous band platform would be replaced with a park stage designed to match the beauty of the park.

With the establishment of a fund for the project last fall, a Chamber of Commerce committee was named to plan the stage and organize a fund raising campaign for financing.

The "kick-off" for the spring fund drive will be a free public concert by the City Band at the high school auditorium. Here is an opportunity for Charlevoix to demonstrate, by attendance, its appreciation to the band.

The weekly summer concerts in the park have long been a popular entertainment feature in Charlevoix. Members of the bands give generously of their time throughout the year for rehearsals and concerts. The public should be equally generous in supporting the park stage project.

Why the JayCees?

There seems to be a question in the minds of some as to just what kind of an organization the JayCees (Junior Chamber of Commerce) is. What purpose does it serve in the community? Is it a branch of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce?

Fundamentally the Junior Chamber of Commerce is a service organization dedicated to projects for the betterment of the community. Its membership is composed of young men between the ages of 21 and 36, inclusive. Membership is open to all men in this age group who have a desire to give of their time and talent in the promotion of community service programs. The success of the organization throughout the nation seems to depend more on personal effort than on monetary contributions from members.

The recently organized chapter of the Charlevoix JayCees has done a commendable job on the projects it has undertaken, either as a JayCee project or by giving a valuable assist to other worthy programs.

There is talent and energy in the Charlevoix JayCee chapter and it is available to help make a better community. They say they are open to suggestions. Why not give them a lead?

ODDS 'N ENDS

BY FRAN MARTIN

HERE 'TIS MARCH and it's still winter, but have hope, all those who are sick of this white stuff. Easter's acomin' and before too long (we hope) winter will be a thing of the past and the brave little crocuses will be sticking their noses out of what little snow's left, the pussywillows will be heard purring their way out of their brown little coats and the first robin, that is, one which went south for the winter, will be heard chirpin' from the tree . . . no doubt saying, "Have heart, I'm back . . . can spring be far behind."

* * *

BUT TIL THEN we'll have on our hands the month that comes in like a lion and acts like an out-of-sorts feline for most of its 31 days. So just stay with us as tho' you have a choice. April with its showers that bring May flowers is only 25 days off.

* * *

TO CHEER YOU up we'll share with you a card we received from the Charlie Ashers. She's the former Hilda Roen now of Sturgeon Bay who writes from Hawaii that the islands are all the travel folders promise and more. Always thought we'd like to go to Hawaii for a visit. Think it's the fabulous colors of the exotic flowers that attract us, that and the trade winds instead of a gale out of the northwest and a little sunshine.

* * *

OUR CONGRATULATIONS to one of our gals who showered herself and Charlevoix with honors recently She is Lois Bergmann who was a candidate for the 1959 Winter Carnival Queen at Michigan Tech at Houghton where she's a freshman. She was runner-up in the contest. We understand that she had a wonderful time and as a member of the court was accorded all sorts of wonderful things.

* * *

CONGRATULATIONS, too, to our Rayders and Coach Don Carey who closed out the recent basketball season in second place. Now that we're going into the district tournament against Boyne this week, lots of luck. It looks like a good tournament and if you guys will put forth just a little extra effort, who knows. Stranger things have happened. If you remember, Harbor Springs finished in second last year and they advanced to the state semi-finals. So we're talkin' through our hat? Than just look back on the records. But all kiddin' aside, we're serious when we wish you luck. Again we say, you can go places if you really try.

* * *

LET TWO Charlevoixans get within "gettin'-together distance" and that's exactly what they'll do. George VerWys, who is in Philadelphia, had to go north to Boston on business for his company, and who's near Boston? Why, Tom Fessenden, of course, who's at M.I.T. So the pair of 'em got together, talked about their mutual interests, engineering and Charlevoix. Both report a wonderful reunion.

* * *

FROM NEOSHA, MO., a note from the George Roffs who left here earlier this year for Neosha where Mr Roff is in charge of the Fish Cultural Station. They write that they are enjoying the spring there with the temperature up to 61 degrees, but still miss the snow a little, at times. They also sent a clipping and a weather report from their daily newspaper, a story about robins and baby carriages and sunshine. They've extended an invitation to anyone from Charlevoix traveling in that area to stop in for a visit.

* * *

A WHOLE LEI of orchids to those bands of ours and their director, C. A. Odmark. As you know the senior band collected a first division rating and will be eligible for state competition. The Junior band earned a second division rating, which to our way of thinking speaks mighty well for the musicians and their director. After all, the judges were tough, only three firsts were given to the 12 bands participating.

* * *

IT'S GETTING ...on toward spring. How do we know for sure? Barney Englehart from out Camp Charlevoix-way brought us our first pussywillows of the year. Seems he's been watching them very carefully, just waiting for the first to stick their gray little noses out. So, can spring be far behind, After looking out at all that snow Tuesday morning, we wonder.

Martin-Young Vows Exchanged At Fort Belvoir

Gray's Hill Chapel at Fort Belvoir, Va., was the scene recently of the wedding of Frances E. Martin, daughter of Mrs. A. Jerry Greene of this city and the late John B. Martin, and Private first class Richey L. Young.

Freedman No. 2 kept right on going Tuesday night and stretched their lead to 5 full games. Brown Motors was the victim this time as the Freedman bunch won all 4 points. Lyle Smith was the top man for Freedmans with his 454. For the losers it was Norm Empey high with a 464. I can't remember right off hand but I'm pretty sure Kenny Balch must have set a new low with his first game of 80. Softball will be here pretty soon Ken.

Sinclair and Swansons stayed in a tie for 6th position by virtue of Sinclair's 3 point win over the gravel boys. Three men over the 500 mark for the Oilers with Louie McKenzie rolling his highest series of the year (of his life, I think) a nice 578 including a 239 game. Meg followed with his 205 game, 568 series and Tip next with a 522. For Swanson's, only Bob Ferguson had much of anything and that a 519

For the match between Airport and Browe — all I can say is that its a good thing Browns are in the league. Browes took us for 4. It's not that they were good, it's just that we were worse. Ted was high for his team with a 460, although Stan Hare pitched in with a 187 first game and Bob Ouderkirk came thru with a nice 197 third game. For the Inn — well it was pretty sad. I got lucky and hit a 204 in the third game for a 542 series, but besides that there is not much to comment on. Just because Soupie only had a 423 and Nick a 415 and just because Harju dropped a 140 pins from last week — well that's no reason you have to say anything about it — so I won't.

The cards weren't turned in to me for the second shift so I have to play the rest by ear. Lake Construction of Freedman No. 1 3-1. Neffs over Moonlight 3-1 and Hess with the Coast Guard taking over the team winning over Puffs 3-1. Dave Van Druemmel, a yeo at the depot rolled his first turkey (that's 3 strikes in a row to you non-bowlers) in a big 212 game. I imagine that hurt Puffs as he only has a 115 average. Dave was also high on the team with a 461. Credit for all this data goes to my informer on the 2nd shift Red (After the Lights Go Down Low) Kleckner also of the USCG.

Song of the week for the Inn: (song to the top teams) — "So Long It's Been Good To Know Ya'" This song is strictly for the Inn. Personally I like "Bese day Mucho."

school student and Uno Suomela, instructor of shop and drafting.

A brief description of the proposed park stage will be presented at the Sunday afternoon concert.

Serving on the Chamber of Commerce park stage committee which is organizing the fund raising campaign are Chairman Robert Miles, Secretary Mrs. Kit Carson, Rev. Fred McNeil, Dean Davenport, Harold Totten and Mr. Odmark. Contributions to the fund are accepted at the Charlevoix State Savings Bank and the Charlevoix County State bank, and by members of the committee. Memorial and honor gifts are acknowledged by appropriate announcements from Mrs. Carson.

The weekly summer concerts in the park have long been a popular entertainment for residents of Charlevoix and visitors. The 35 members of the Charlevoix City Band consisting of adult musicians and advanced high school band members rehearse weekly through the winter months preparing an extensive repertoire for the summer concert series.

Adventures in Understanding

Notes from a northerner's diary

By Harold E. Kohn

Tempestuous Weather and Turbulent People

When I arose at daybreak this March morning the earth was freshly spread with a new whiteness, large, soft flakes were still falling. Then, within moments, the sky changed its mood and began to weep copious tears, that splashed against my study window pane, driven by a low wind off Lake Charlevoix. Again the tempermental weather changed. Giant, fleecy flakes fell once more, soundlessly, white on white. Suddenly all was still. No more snow. No more rain. No wind. Nature lay waiting, quiet, a bit apprehensive. What next? A blizzard? Driving sleet? Pouring rain? A burst of sunshine?

March, the month of contradictions is here. There will be days of quick, unexpected wintry storms and blossoming crocuses days of mournful, howling winds and cheerful robin's song, days of sudden cold and surprising warmth, days when skies are alternately a threatening smoky gray and then again vivid blue and smiling. Streams will be icebound, and then leaping and laughing. Broken limbs in our woods tell the history of last winter's blizzards, and the faint lavender on the birches prophesies verdant leafy canopies shading forest trails.

In the month of March Nature is tumultous. She cannot make up her mind. One moment she craves springtime. The next she will want another taste of winter. She is vacillating, indecisive. We shall have real spring, when the tumult ceases and beauty sprouts and thrives everywhere, when Nature finally says "let's have spring" and means it, sticking to her decision. Then the warm sun will snip the bonds of ice that bind our lakes, ponds and streams and free the green earth from its white wrappings. Ruffed grouse, now hard pressed for food, will feast sumptuously on plentiful green leaves and succulent buds. Those deer that have miraculously survived this winter of deep snows, biting cold and scarce browsing will dine on choice delicacies of maple, witch-hazel, blackberry and willow shoots and sweetfern. Tulips will ignite gardens and yards with flames of red and yellow and beds of marsh marigolds will glow along our brook. Choirs of robins, thrushes, tanagers, oven birds and warblers will sing from their lofts in every Northland forest. From ponds and marshes myriad frogs will chorus their elfin music, chanting a traditional tune.

Much tumultous living is like turbulent March weather — due to indecision. When a high school senior cannot make up his mind whether to go to college, when a college student wavers interminably concerning choice of a profession, when a marriage partner vacillates between faithfulness to marriage vows on the one hand and promiscuity on the other, when a parent is sometimes too strict with his children and at other times carelessly lax and weak, when a person sings hymns and offers prayers like a saint on Sunday but acts like the devil during the week, — there is trouble. Such people have not made up their minds. However they cannot avoid making up their lives. They will go on living and acting one way or another just as throughout March we are bound to have some sort of weather. But the inner weather of a person's life will be stormy and unsettled until he learns to make decisions.

In a significant sense indecision is itself decisive. By "doing nothing" we always do something, and perhaps life's most serious decisions are made when we decide to do nothing at all, at least for the present. Probably no one ever determined "I will be ignorant." But many a person has postponed a decision on what to read or when to read until he found himself embarassingly ignorant on the important issues of his time. Few people have ever declared "I want my child to grow up without any religion whatsoever, and to live out his life without firm religious convictions or practices." But many a parent has encouraged a child to live in an atmosphere of suspended decision until the youngster's character was formed and his habits of feeling and thinking were established. This is usually done with the excuse, "Religion is too important a matter to decide for one's children. When they are old enough, they can make up their own minds." But the argument is fallacious. Education is important, too, but we do no allow our children to decide if they will go to school, or when, or on what days of the week. Eating is important too, but we plan their meals, and when, at the age of a few months they attempt to swallow pins and needles, tacks and screws, dog hair and dirt, we do not let them make "their own decisions." When at ten years of age they prefer only ice cream sodas for their entire diets, we do not allow them to make up "their own minds." The more important a matter is, the more imperative it is that our children are given some direction and taught to make proper early decisions. Children are garden-like growing places. We are foolish to "let them decide" important matters without careful guidance. Gardens that are not sown with seed, not prejudiced toward fruitfulness or flowers but allowed to "make their own decisions" grow weeds. So with children. A parent's indecision determines that weedlike ideas and moral standards will spring up in the lives of their youngsters.

If we are bound to live one way or another, and even our indecision determines our way of life for us, are there guides to help us make good choices? There are. Here, in abbreviated form are two principles for settling our spiritual weather, so that turbulent March can be followed by some springtime of the soul.

1. Our best decisions are made in harmony with our long range purposes rather than in conformity to our momentary whims and urges. The courting teenager will do well to govern his decisions concerning emotional involvement and "petting" in harmony with the kind of mate he wants to find and in accord with the kind of mate he wants to be — guiltless, with nothing to hide and no unpleasant memories to mar his most sacred moments. He asks himself how will this conduct affect what he will later want to do and be. So with everyone of every age, concerning every issue, we need to ask ourselves the traveller's question: "Will this attractive sideroad take me to my destination?" If it does not, it is foolish to take that road.

2. Our best decisions are made on the basis of our lasting responsibilities rather than our transient moods. Every life would be stormy and unsettled if it were governed by flunctuating feeling. But duties are steadier and more dependable. We sometimes feel loving and sometimes bitter, but treating others with mercy and tenderness is a responsibility that is not here today and gone tomorrow. Many a man whose eyes never got married when the rest of him did has been true to his vows because his lasting duty was more important to him than his wavering attention. The people who stabilize the world are those who can be counted upon to pay their dues, do their work, fulfill their promises, attend worship, and support worthy causes regardless of how they feel at the moment.

3. The simplest and clearest principle I know for making a decision is a very old one, an effective one, used by a few people for two thousand years—"What would Jesus do if he were in my place." And the rule is still as good as new, having suffered little wear

There are other guides to good conduct, sufficient to make a book, or a library, but there are enough to bring a degree of spring out of Marchlike turbulence. Try them and see.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Windy Gets "Collared"

A stranger walked into Pudge Barton's store the other day wearing one of those "Chesterfield" coats. When the boys saw the fancy velvet collar, they broke out laughing.

The stranger seemed to ignore them and went on about his business. He even pretended he didn't hear Windy's remark about the "big city" coat. Then, on leaving, he walked over to Windy.

"I gather you find my coat peculiar," he said. "Well, where I come from we're so peculiar we even extend a hand to strangers." With that, he shook Windy's hand.

From where I sit, the twist on the old adage is true: "clothes don't make the man." We ought to judge a man for what he is. That's tolerance, something we ought to practice every day. For example, you like coffee ... I like a glass of beer. That doesn't make either of us "different" or anything to laugh at.

Rayders Finish Season 10-4 For Second Place

The Charlevoix Rayders bowed to the Pellston Hornets 54 to 50 Friday night after a valiant try which saw them leading until the final quarter.

As a result of the loss Gaylord, who had won over East Jordan, moved into a tie for second place with the Rayders. Both teams had identical records of 10 wins and four losses.

Earlier in the week the Pellston Hornets had clinched their first title in league history. They finished the season with a record of 13 wins and one loss, the latter an upset by Grayling by a score of 58 to 32.

In the game Friday night Charlevoix took an 11 to six first period lead, was still ahead 33 to 29 at halftime and 42 to 41 at the three-quarter mark. Shortly after the final period got underway Ron Vandenberg collected his fifth personal foul and went to the bench. It was about this time that Pellston took he lead for the first time and remained ahead as time ran out for their thirteenth victory of the current season in league play.

Starting for Charlevoix were Joe Beaudoin, Bruce Pease, Ron Vandenberg, Charles Coleman and Dave Schuchard. Jim Ladd joined the action in the second period with Bill Poquette and Dick VanRaaphorst joining the action in the third period.

Schuchard scored two field goals, Pease three points, Vandenberg and Beaudoin two each to account for the Rayders 11 points in the first period.

Barry Anderson who had a total of 32 points for the game scored two field goals and Garry Spencely one to give the Hornets six points for the period.

Pellston dumped in 23 points in the second period to trim the Rayders' halftime lead to three points, 32 to 29. Anderson had five field goals and four free throws. Bill McClutchey seven points and Ken Parkey two points.

Charlevoix also had a good period scoring 21 points including four field goals by Schuchard, five points by Coleman, and two each by Beaudoin, Pease, Vandenberg and Ladd.

The Rayders had nine points in the third period as Coleman scored three and Beaudoin, Schuchard and VanRaaphorst two each.

Anderson had six points for Pellston followed by Bob Ford and Spencely with two points each and McClutchey with one.

With Vandenberg out of the game early in the final period Anderson pumped in four quick baskets assisted by McClutchey who had four and Spencely two, all from the free throw line for 14 points and the victory.

From the Side Lines . . .

With the High School Basketball Tournaments coming up we are wondering what will become of the Charlevoix county teams. As we go over the records we find our county teams have held their share of championships since the end of World War II, but as of the last two years the NMCCC representative in the higher tournaments, meaning Regional and State, have been two outsiders.

Just looking back to that year of 1945 we find some pretty interesting facts. As all the teams in the conference clash somewhere in districts or regionals only one can survive to the quarter-finals of the State Tourney. So we have gone back to see who was the last survivor of each year.

Pellston the team chosen most likely to become District Champ in Petoskey holds the 1945 spot. Following [illegible] have Charlevoix [illegible] [illegible] Boyne City [illegible] 1950-51; Charlevoix 1952 East Jordan in 1953; Charlevoix 1954-55; Boyne City 1956; Grayling 1957 and Harbor Springs 1958.

The conference has been Regional Champions in everyone of those years except 1945—Northport; 1946 — Manton and 1954 Marion. In 1950, 1951, 1952 and 1957 the runnerup was also a conference team.

And you know if your team wins a Regional Championship there are only seven other teams left in the State Tourney. These facts speak highly of the Northern Michigan Class C Conference.

So tonight we have two county teams battling it out to see who has the privilege of meeting the winner of the Pellston-Harbor Springs match which Pellston is the favorite.

This Week With Class 'C' Teams

Gaylord dumped the East Jordan Red Devils 55 to 47 Friday night to move into a second place tie with the Charlevoix Rayders who were downed by the Pellston Hornets 54 to 50. In other action Grayling moved into fourth place with a 48 to 44 win over Mancelona and Boyne City trimmed Harbor Springs 57 to 33 to move into fifth place tie with Mancelona. This leaves the Rams in the league cellar with one win in 13 games.

Gaylord	55
East Jordan	47

[illegible] East Jordan 11 to 11 at the quarter; 29 to 21 at halftime and 46 to 32 going into the final period behind the scoring of John Burnison who racked up 17 points for the game. Mike Schenck had 14 for the Jordanites.

Grayling	48
Mancelona	44

The Grayling Vikings held a 14 to 10 first period lead over the Mancelona Ironmen who came back to knot the score 25-all at halftime before trailing 40 to 34 as the game went into the final period. Though Jerry Patrick hit for 23 points for the Ironmen his efforts were not enough. Frank Gross had 15 for Grayling.

Boyne City	57
Harbor Springs	33

Paced by Mike Kane with 18 points, the Boyne City Ramblers led Harbor Springs 16 to six at the quarter, 31 to 17 at the half and 45 to 22 at the three-quarter mark before taking the game by a 24 point margin. Ken Garver scored 16 points for the Rams.

Carson Lumber Company Sold to Glenn Kinney

Sale of the Kit Carson Lumber company to Glenn Kenney of Detroit was announced Monday by Kit Carson who established the business here March 1, 1938. Mr. Kenney took over the business Monday.

The firm will continue to operate under the present name, Mr. Kenney stated. He says the business will continue to offer a complete line of builders supplies and allied products. Mr. Carsen plans to assist Mr. Kenney until he becomes more familiar with the local operations of the business. After that Mr. Carson says he will be retired and added, "If I get too restless I'll come back and go to work—for nothing."

Since its establishment 21 years ago, the business has expanded with the growth of the community. The first structure erected was a warehouse and office at the corner of Bridge and Carpenter sts. Later a second warehouse was built to the south of the first building and eventually the intervening space between the two buildings was enclosed to provide additional showroom space for appliances and builder's supplies.

Mr. Kenney comes here from Detroit where he and his family have resided the past eight year. While he is new to Charlevoix the city is not new to him. As a sales representative in the building suppliers field, he has made regular visits to Charlevoix. Mr and Mrs. Kenney and their three children, a son 9 and two daughters, one seven years and one eight months old, plan to move here as soon as they find suitable accomodations.

Secretary Hare Schedules Visit

Secretary of State James Hare accompanied by Ellis Wunch, Democratic candidate for the University of Michigan board of regents and Clair White, Democratic candidate for Wayne State University board of governors will visit Charlevoix Saturday afternoon.

The trio will arrive here about 4:30 p.m. Saturday, and visit the local Secretary of State office before going to the City Hall to meet with local Democrats and anyone wishing to talk with them.

They will then go to East Jordan for dinner before going to the American Legion hall there at 7:30 p.m. to meet with county Democrats and all persons wishing to confer with them.

Fashions in Flower Show to Be March 12

The fourth annual "Fashions in Flowers Show" will be held at the Perry Hotel in Petoskey Thursday, March 12, under the sponsorship of Florist Telegraph Delivery Unit 4 and the Little Traverse Florist Association, according to Frank J Novotny, president of the latter organization.

Paul R. Krone, professor of floral culture at Michigan State University, will be the commentator for the floral design clinic which will bring the newest in the use of flowers and to accessories to florists throughout the entire northern section of the lower peninsula north of Grand Rapids and the eastern section of the upper peninsula. In announcing the plans for the workshop, Mr. Novotny said this was exected to be the largest in the history of the organizations.

Among the top designers who will appear at the all-day meeting and workshop will be Norm Kessel of East Lansing, Ray Klinger of Lansing, Mrs. Don Schrieber of St. James and H. Moehring of East Tawas. A fifth member will be named later.

The floral arrangements made during the day by these designers will be displayed for the public at the hotel at 8 p.m. Thursday evening. There also will be a fashion show in which the arrangements such as wedding bouquets and corsages will be shown. Mrs. Novotny is a member of the fashion show committee which is headed by Mrs. Basil Murray of Petoskey.

Former Colonial Club Property Proposed for Community Center

The proposed use of the former Colonial Club property located on Meech st. as a youth center was the topic discussed at a public meeting held Tuesday at the City Hall.

Representatives of the majority of local civic, fraternal, veteran and other organizations were present to hear Mrs. Gregory A. Shadko and Mrs. James Coleman tell that it would be possible for the city to acquire the block-long and half-block deep property from the Michigan Conservation Department which represents the state of Michigan in the transaction for the "sum of one dollar and other considerations." They suggested that efforts be made to organize a group which would then acquire the large club house from the city and renovate it for use as a youth center as well as a meeting place for local organizations.

The proposal was discussed at length by those present. Methods of financing the proposed remodeling and renovating program also were discussed. As a result of the discussion a committee composed of Ralph Hamilton, E J. Edwards, Barney Englehart, Frank Novotny jr., Ivan Whitley and Hal Forbrig was named to make a survey of the buildings on the property. They will make a report on their findings along with their recommendations at another public meeting scheduled for 8 p.m. Tuesday at the City Hall.

The state of Michigan acquired the property recently for delinquent taxes when the former owner failed to exercise his re-conveyance rights within the alloted time (one year) allowed. The Michigan Conservation Department, representing the state, will now handle any transactions. If the city does not choose to acquire the property, it will be offered for sale at public auction at a later date.

Morweld Steel Gets $400,000 Navy Contract

Morweld Steel Products Corp., of Ellsworth has been awarded a $400,000 contract by the United States Navy for the manufacture of a small depth charge, Maurice Taylor, president of the firm announced yesterday.

Tooling operations for the building of the first samples were started immediately, Mr. Taylor said. Samples must be submitted to the Navy and approved before the plant can begin full production. This is expected to take up to ten weeks.

About 30 men will be assigned to production on this contract. Most of these men will be transferred from other department in the plant. Mr. Taylor estimates it will take 11 months to complete he order.

In a recent expansion program the company added 50,000 square feet of floor space to its plant, making a total of 70,000 square feet for the manufacture of its various products.

Last summer Mr. Taylor organized the Ellsworth Coach Co. and started manufacturing two models of low cost travel trailer homes. Morweld is also one of the major suppliers of leg brackets, flanges and valves to the fuel tank manufacturers. They also manufacture a highway guard rail.

East Jordan Man Given Sentence Of 3 to 15 Years

Robert L. Sowles, 21, of East Jordan, who had pleaded guilty earlier to a charge of breaking and entering in the nighttime, was sentenced to three to 15 years in Southern Michigan prison by Judge Charles L. Brown during the regular March term of circuit court here Thursday.

Sowles and a companion, Leonard J. Peaine, 17, of St. Ignace broke into the Jordan Frozen Food Locker Co. Feb. 11 and took nearly $300 worth of groceries. They were apprehended later that night while trying to steal a battery for a car Peaine and a 15-year old East Jordan youth had stolen in Boyne City the night before. Peaine, who pleaded guilty to the charge, will be sentenced later. The 15 year old youth is under the jurisdiction of probate court.

Taber to Return With New Series Of Travel Films

Globe-girdling Wallace Taber has been booked to appear here in person and present his recent color adventure films at the Charlevoix high school gymnasium Tuesday, March 31 under the auspices of the Charlevoix Rod and Gun club.

Interest is added to these adventure picture by Taber's personal comments and explanations. Few programs offered have more appeal to all age groups than these colorful travel adventure films taken by Mr. Taber.

Fred Cartier Retired Civic Leader Dies

One of Charlevoix's best loved senior citizen, civic leader and booster, Fred E. Cartier, 86, died Thursday at the Charlevoix hospital where he had been a patient for 2½ weeks. Until his last illness he had been in fair health.

Funeral services were held Saturday at St. Mary's church with the Rev. Fr. Laurin Buzynski OFM of Petoskey officiating. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Born in Chatham, Ont., Dec. 7, 1872, Mr. Cartier came to Charlevoix in 1900 when the community was a fishing and logging center. The following winter he returned to Canada for his wife, the former Hannah Scafe, whom he had married on Feb. 25, 1899, at Adrian, Michigan, and his two sons. In 1901 he established his own business, a tailor shop, which he operated until retiring in 1954. For nearly 40 years his shop was located on Bridge st. in the block where East Park is now located.

Though he retired from active

Vacant House Burns to Ground In Night Fire

A two-story frame house located at the corner of State st. and Carpenter ave. was completely destroyed by fire early Friday morning during the worst blizzard of the winter.

The fire had already swept through the frame building when it was discovered by Desmond Milligan who was returning to his State st. home from his employment at the Airport Inn.

The fire department, called at 3:15 a.m., devoted its efforts to protecting other dwellings from debris blown about by a wind estimated at 40 miles an hour.

Fire Chief John Curtis said the exact cause of the fire had not been determined but said he thought it was probably caused by a space heater which had been left burning in the house while it was being cleaned.

About 1906 they came to this country and lived in Chicago for three years before coming to Marion township where they lived until he retired a few years ago. His wife preceded him in death.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Walter Stier of Detroit; eight grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren.

Chamber Calls Mass Meeting Of Membership

The 1959 program recently formulated by the committees of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce will be presented in full at a meeting next Tuesday evening in the City Hall to all members of the organization, and other persons interested in promoting the community. President Norman Anct issued the call following a directors' meeting Tuesday evening at which plans were discussed for financing the program.

Although the program and budget of each committee was reviewed and approved at a recent meeting of the directors, it was decided by the directors Tuesday night that the entire membership should be fully informed of the projects for the year and the problems faced in financing them.

Each of the major committees has prepared a detailed report on its objectives along with an estimated budget necessary to complete them. The total budget amounts to $15,792. The directors believe this to be the most complete and comprehensive program ever presented to promote the community.

JayCees View Suggestions for Civic Activities

JayCee project suggestions were the main topics discussed at the regular meeting of the organization held Monday.

Don Brown, JayCee president, said that the response to the plea for suggestions was most disappointing. However, the three received were discussed.

One suggestion taken under consideration was the painting of municipal slips in the yacht basin in an assortment of pastel colors.

A third suggested that the JayCees dig out fire hydrants which were covered during the recent storm. This project was abandoned when it was learned that city crews have already done this.

However, it was suggested that the organization provide poles and special flags as markers another winter.

Plans for the Safety Driving roadeo on May 17 were completed. It is hoped the local winner will be able to participate in the state roadeo at Midland later in the spring.

Tentative plans for a Miss Michigan entry were also discussed but no decision made regarding this project.

Band Concert Nets $209 for Park Stage

Audience appreciation was two-fold at the concert played Sunday afternoon at the high school to officially launch the fund raising campaign for a new stage in East Park. While the attendance fell short of expectations, those present gave generously to the free-will offering which was reported to total $209 by Mrs. Kit Carson, secretary of the park stage committee.

The city band which includes both adults and advanced high school musicians presented an hour and a half concert under the direction of C. A. Odmark, Band director. Selections played followed the pattern of those presented at the weekly summer band concerts in the park. There was a variety of marches, novelty numbers and some of the old favorite selections that never lose their popularity.

Plans have been made by the park stage committee of the Chamber of Commerce to promote various fund raising activities during the next six weeks in order to have sufficient money to begin construction of the park stage this spring, according to Bob Miles, chairman. The next step in the campaign will be presented at a meeting to be held Friday in the city hall. Mr. Miles requests the Courier to extend an invitation to all organizations interested in a new park stage to have a representative at this meeting. He says that invitation includes all organizations in the Charlevoix area as well as the city proper.

At this meeting a plan will be presented which will enable all organizations to participate in a program to build the stage. Dean Davenport will direct and schedule the fund raising activities. He says, "What we need is a little help from a lot of people."

Mrs. Carson reports the fund, tion, totals $593.17. Memorial including the concert contribu- gifts and small contributions account for $171 of the total.

Draw Houghton Lake For Second Round of Regional Tournament

The Charlevoix Rayders, coached by Don Carey, defeated the Pellston Hornets 50 to 46 to capture the Class C district basketball title at Petoskey and to advance to the Class C regional tourney at Grayling.

This is the second time under the guidance of Coach Carey that the Rayders have upset a favored team to grab the district title. The last time was in 1957 when the Rayders defeated Boyne City 57 to 43.

During the regular season Pellston had defeated Charlevoix twice, 54 to 42 and 54 to 50.

Charlevoix advanced to the regional meet at Grayling where they were scheduled to meet Houghton Lake last night (Wednesday).

In the game at Petoskey Saturday, the favored Pellston quintet whose starting line-up was composed of Bill McClutchey, Barry Anderson, Lucius Cabinaw, Bob Ford and Gary Spencely jumped into a three to nothing lead before Charlevoix scored a bucket. A short time later the Rayders scored another field goal and from then on were ahead throughout the game until the final period when Pellston knotted the score 41-all and latter at 46-all the Rayders, however, came back to take the victory by a four-point margin.

The Rayders were ahead 15 to 5 at the quarter, 28 to 21 at the half and 39 to 34 at the three-quarter mark before the Hornets closed the gap with 4:05 minutes remaining. Charlevoix pulled away for a 46 to 41 lead before Spencely scored five quick points to make the score 46-all with 2½ minutes remaining. Charlevoix went into a successful stall before Joe Beaudoin dumped in a field goal. He was fouled on the play. He missed the free throw but Ron Vannenberg took the rebound and scored the basket which put the game on ice. With 10 seconds remaining Pellston had a chance to add a couple points from the free throw line but failed. Charlevoix was in possession of the ball under their

Charlevoix and Ubly Matched in Mayor Exchange

Charlevoix and the city of Ubly in the Thumb area of Michigan will exchange Mayors on May 13 during the fourth annual observance of Mayor's Exchange Day during Michigan Week.

More than 400 Michigan cities and villages are expected to participate in the exchange of mayors which is always one of the highlights of Michigan week.

Inaugurated in 1954, the Exchange between chief executives of cities and villages has proven a valuable means of getting communities of the state better acquainted with each other. These officials also have an opportunity to learn, first hand, of the problems of other communities and how their resources and facilities are applied to these problems.

Ubly is a community of approximately 750 located in Huron county in the Thumb area. It is located in the heart of a rich agricultural area. The village itself is the site of Nestle's plant, two grain elevator and an electric co operative.

Dumping Garbage On Highway May Lead to Penalties

Residents of the area are warned against disposing of garbage and trash along the highway.

Such an act is a misdemeanor and a violator may be fined and ordered to pay court costs.

There have been several instances of such violations in recent weeks when some residents found it more convenient to dispose of trash and garbage along the road rather than go to the city dump.

The road to the city dump was opened Wednesday. Residents are reminded that when it is impossible for them to drive to that area there is a garbage collection service available at a very nominal cost.

Winter's Worst Storm Blocks Most Highway Travel in Area

The worst storm of a winter marked by bad storms struck northern Michigan last Thursday, practically isolating the area through a major part of the week end.

Winds out of the southeast combined with approximately a foot of snow which fell during the night Thursday closed all but main highways.

All schools in the county were closed with the exception of Charlevoix's school where only students living in the city attended classes.

Drifts up to six and eight feet on many roads plus poor visibility as the result of flying snow made driving most hazardous all day Friday. Late Friday the wind shifted to the northwest with a velocity up to 40 miles an hour plugging even more roads.

Central Lake buses and cars returning home from the district tourney at Petoskey were stuck on US 31 north. A Charlevoix road commission plow was dispatched to plow them out.

Except in emergencies, the plows remained on trunklines and county roads in order to keep traffic moving.

Road commission plows worked all day Saturday and part of Sunday opening sideroads.

John J. Martin, superintendent of the Charlevoix county road commission said that the storm brought the total snowfall for the winter to 164 inches in the eastern section of the county.

Snow removal crews and equipment were taxed to the limit as the heavy snowfall which started in November continued this month.

By Monday all roads were open with many of them walled by snowbanks up to eight and ten feet in height.

Yankus the Yankee

It's gratifying to know there are still Red Blooded Americans ready to take a bold stand for the free enterprise system assumed to be guaranteed in the Constitution of the United States. Stanley Yankus made the headlines recently when he gave up farming because he had his fill of government controls.

This Cass county poultry farmer was fined $4.562 by the federal government for growing wheat in excess of his allotment. What recourse did he have? The government froze his bank account and garnisheed half of it

There is a serious note of warning to freedom loving Americans in Yankus' statement, "I figure I've been fined for being an honest, productive citizen. People who take money and handouts are respected but I'm a criminal."

Commenting on the case, Ben Kuroki writes in the Williamston Enterprise, "More and more the federal government is creeping in, in agriculture, in social security, in health and welfare, in just about any phase you want to name. All at the expense of the individual and his freedom!"

"Criticize British nationalism, criticize socialism, damn Communism! But watch out, folks, America is headed for the same thing, unless men like Stanley Yankus stand up to their convictions."

Pope John XXIII poses this question: "Why must the resources of human ingenuity and the wealth of peoples be turned more to producing arms, pernicious instruments of death and destruction, than to increasing the common welfare?"

●

A recent issue of the Congressional Record lists 2,422 farming firms or individual farmers who received $10.000 or more in 1957 for not planting crops on land they put into the government's acreage reserve program. Top single payment was $332,000.

ODDS 'N ENDS

BY FRAN MARTIN

NO ONE BUT no one thought it could happen but it did. We mean another snow storm. But come Thursday night and all of Friday and we had the storm to end all storms, we hope. All those big banks that have been forming since last November just served as a trap for the drifting snow which literally blocked roads so badly it was unbelievable.

On Sunday, with a major part of the roads opened we went for a drive on less traveled roads, mostly township roads where banks much higher than the cars were the rule rather than the exception. Out at Pavlik's hill it was at least eight feet high and packed so solidly that it's just like a white concrete wall along the road, or rather, right in the road. In places there were hunks of snow half as big as a car thrown back from the road. You don't believe us? We've got you there. We have pictures to prove it.

This winter's pretty apt to take its place with others such as the big snow of 88. One of our nephews said "Be sure and get some pictures of this so we will have them to show to our grandchildren." Let's hope we won't have another one like this until then.

BUT DESPITE the cold and snow we couldn't help but notice a few signs of spring. It's amazing how the buds on the maples are beginning to form. The same is true of the lilacs. And one sure sign of spring which our late friend, Fritz Bergmann, told us about, the willows turning almost a gold in color, especially in the sunlight. You'll notice that they look mighty pretty these days against that white stuff

* * *

OH. YES AND A BIT of that blue in Lake Michigan could be seen over the weekend. Maybe it will be blocked in 24 hours but the wind blew the ice out and when it's moving it's bound to break up. Of course, you may be dodging chunks of ice if you go swimming by July 4th but at least they'll be small pieces and not ice floes.

Someone got real clever the other day and started singing "I'm dreaming of a white Fourth."

* * *

CONGRATULATIONS to our lil ole Rayders and their coach, Don Carey, who came through in great style Saturday night to dump the Pellston Hornets. You know, Charlevoix had nothing to lose when they went into that game. They were the underdogs, they'd been beaten twice by Pellston and they just weren't supposed to win. But anything, and we mean ANYTHING, can happen in tournament play, and it usually does. So Charlevoix, playing the type of ball they are capable of playing, took an early lead, saw the score tied twice in the last period and went on to win by four points. We were happy that neither team lost players via the foul route because that would have been winning unfairly to our way of thinking. As it was both teams were at full strength and we still won.

* * *

NOW WE HIT the regional circuit. By the time you read this our scheduled game with Houghton Lake will be over. A newcomer to our tournament play asked if Houghton Lake had a good team. Our answer? From now on they're all good or they wouldn't be there. We figure once you go into the regionals it's pretty much a matter of luck. We're hoping we'll be making a trip to Grayling Saturday night for the Regional Finals, but if we're not, well, that will be OK too. In the event we do (and we're planning on it) lots of luck to those guys of ours. We'll all be behind you all the way. Who knows? Maybe we'll be following you to the quarter finals next week. But let's take them one at a time. That's the way you get there, you know.

CHARLEVOIX has lost a great friend, a booster the likes of which we'll probably never see again and a fine citizen. We speak of Fred Cartier who passed away last week at the age of 86 years. But those years meant little for he was always young at heart. Never once in all the years we knew him did we ever hear him long for the good old days or hear him try to sell anyone on the idea that "those were the days." He changed with the times and that's probably why he was at home with people of all ages. He had a faculty for collecting friends and keeping them. And never in all his years do we believe he ever made one enemy.

A lot o[illegible] deal to this man. We are among those many people. If we ever achieve any degree of success in this business of writing, a good part of it will be due to the man who had faith in us when no one else knew we existed — that is, in the news writing business. He shared with us some of the wealth of knowledge he'd acquired in his many years as a stringer for a Grand Rapids daily. We hope a little of it rubbed off on us because he certainly was generous with that as he was with everything he owned.

Always good for a story, he lived from day to day and enjoyed everyone to the hilt. Charlevoix's lucky that he picked it as his adopted home and we are certain that those of us who had the privilege of knowing him are better people for having known such a fine person. We shall miss his telephone calls, his stories of other days which he told with such zest and, at the end of a conversation on the phone, his "Thank you for the cup of tea . . . We'll have another one some day." The friendship he gave so generously through the years will be stored away among our treasures.

Famous Spanish Dancers to Appear In Concert Series

"Ole!" more exciting than a bull fight." That was the acclamation of one Los Angeles critic when he saw Lola Montes and her Spanish dancers who will appear in Petoskey Tuesday evening in the last of the 1958-59 series of concerts sponsored by the Northern Michigan Community Concerts association.

Lola Montes leads a company of seven brilliant and versatile dancers in a program of classical and folk dances and fiery flamencos from Old Spain plus exotic and comic native dances of Latin America. Presented in authentic costumes and accessories, each number is described as an eye-filling spectacle as well as a whirlwind panorama of the finest in Spanish dancing.

Miss Montes burst upon the dance world when she made a sensational debut with Carmen Amaya. Although only in her teens, she was immediately signed as a regular member of the troupe and toured with mounting success for many seasons.

Senorita Montes creates the choregraphy for many of her dance numbers and designs all of the costumes for herself and her company. Costumes are designed and executed from authentic originals, making the entertainment and colorful spectacle.

Admission is by membership in the Northern Michigan Community Concert association.

Adventures in Understanding

Notes from a northerner's diary

By Harold E. Kohn

Noticing the Size of Things

Looking at life clearly means seeing everything in perspective, noticing the relative sizes of things. The spiritually sightless and morally blind miss seeing what is plain to the perceptive—that in this world of variety everything has its own dimensions, and that we must distinguish between the large and the small.

What a dreary world this would be if our winter scene were composed of snowflakes, stumps, trees, and chickadees that were all exactly the same size. Snowflakes have their own dimensions. So do trees. And so does everything else in nature, and in life. Good living is based, in part, upon recognition of the relative magnitude of things.

Sir Edward Marshall Hall an eminent English lawyer, brilliantly planned a victory in a famous court case with the use of perspective. He represented Lord Beaverbrook who was being sued by Lady Terrington. The renown lady charged that Beaverbrook's newspaper, The Daily Express, had libeled her, criticizing the clothes she wore, and [illegible] for the injury [illegible] her reputation [illegible]. Sir Edward had timed the case [illegible] would fall on Armistice Day. Further[illegible] that the two minutes of [illegible] silence would interrupt his concluding remarks to the court. When the hour of eleven struck Sir Edward was delivering an impressive summation of his case. But he suddenly stopped. Everyone arose. All stood with their heads bowed for two minutes, feeling mixed sorrow for the heroic dead and gratitude for their immense sacrifices. Then the silence ended. The great lawyer continued his summation, but quietly now, and solemnly.

"Members of the jury," Hall said, "we have just commemorated our greatest national sacrifice. We have all suffered grievous losses from the war. Then he pivoted about and faced the plaintiff exclaiming, 'And now we turn from the painful remembrance of our heroic sacrifices to the trifling grievances of this lady." Lady Terrington's hurt vanity was set in perpective, contrasted with the sufferings of millions of Englishmen, and her wounded pride could not pass the test. She did not win a farthing.

How small our grumblings and complaints seem in contrast to the great woes of the world, the starvation in India, the political oppression of Red China, the perpetual terror in Soviet Russia, the pain in hospitals, the grief reciprocated daily by accident and [illegible].

How [illegible] the foolish [illegible] and absurd whims [illegible] when compared to the importance of a high and noble life-time purpose!

In a lifelong pursuit of education one will meet with a multitude of disappointments, but what do they matter when compared with a deepened understanding of God's world, of other people and of ourselves?

Temptations may be hard to bear but what is a moment's indulgence, or a day's foolish pleasure when compared to a mind free of secret regret or the fear of being found out, or of shame at having betrayed a trust?

There are abundant irritations in caring for a baby. But how much do they count when compared to the worth of that child, and what he may someday become.

The morning's burnt bacon is something of a minor catastrophe at breakfast, but is it really enough to cause one to snap at the children, to criticize one's mate and to embark upon the day with a mind leaning pessimism and filling with discontent.

Bagwell Says State's Crisis Arousing Voters

Boyne City — Paul Bagwell, titular head of Michigan's GOP predicted here that the April 6th elections would draw the heaviest outstate Republican vote in the annals of off-year elections.

Bagwell's prediction was made before a capacity crowd of 130 party workers in Northwestern Michigan who gathered here last Thursday for a testimonial dinner in his behalf.

The 1958 gubernatorial nominee said that Michigan's financial crises was creating an aroused citizenry who would use their votes to rectify the state's situation; bring industry back, and restore the rights of individuals to vote as they see fit instead of having their votes dictated to them by union bosses.

Bagwell said that when his '58 campaign advertising carried the slogan: "Michigan Is In Trouble" he was accused of waging a smear campaign.

"People are now learning the facts," he said. "My first prediction was that the state would have a 65 million deficit; then I raised that to 90 million; and then to 120 million. The truth is that it will be more than 130 million."

He added that rank and file union members were learning the truth; were tired of having their union dues diverted solely to one party without having a voice in its expenditure; and were swinging into the GOP ranks.

He asserted the prime hope of saving the state lies in restoring a healthy industrial climate wherein payrolls and industrial taxes would raise gross revenues so there would be no need for state income taxes.

Arthur K. Rouse, of Boyne City, the state's "Lone Republican" to be running for re-election on April 6th was also a guest speaker. He pointed out that as a member of the state board [illegible] MSU, he has seen the emphasis on that board shift from education to politics in the past [illegible] years when the 6-member board became dominated by members who owed their allegiance more to the unions than the Democratic party."

Delegations from Otsego, Antrim, Emmet, and Charlevoix counties attended.

The appearance of Halley's Comet in A. D. 66 was interpreted as a warning to the Jews of the coming destruction of Jerusalem. When the comet reappeared in 1066 it was believed to portend the conquest of England by the Normans. The comet last appeared in 1910.

Time has not [illegible] similarities of dogs and wolves, the National Geographic Society says in its new "Book of Dogs." Both species gestate in about 63 days, can crossbreed, and produce fertile offspring. Dogs and wolves fall prey to the same parasites and diseases.

SUNDEW REPORTS

Grand Haven

Ice, ice and more ice. We got underway Monday morning to aid several ships that were having trouble penetrating the ice in the vicinity of Muskegon. We labored long hours in an attempt to free the ships but again the winds and temperatures were against us. The same Southwest to West winds that have been prevalent in this area the past two weeks kept the ice close in shore and caused more jamming. As fast as we made a track through it, the wind closed the ice in behind us. It took hours to go just a few yards. After spending all day Monday bucking the windrows we finally secured from work to wait for daylight Tuesday before continuing the job.

We were not much more successful Tuesday. We gained a painfully slow few yards toward the channel entrance at Muskegon. Another long day with limited success. Wednesday, same routine. The ice breaker Mackinaw arrived on the scene about noon and made a track into Muskegon for several ships before heading in our direction. While close to us she took aboard her helicopter so everyone scrambled for their cameras. The dock at Muskegon was a welcome sight late Wednesday afternoon.

High winds on Thursday combined with no calls for assistance kept us in port all day. There was a fine bowling alley just a few blocks away from the dock area so most of the crew went ashore to knock them over. We had four alleys reserved and had a big afternoon of recreation.

Friday we got underway to check the ice field because the wind began shifting to the east. It is almost unbelievable how, in a few hours the ice can shift. The edge of the field was already eight miles offshore in the morning. We continued our survey before tying up at Grand Haven Friday afternoon.

Saturday we broke the ice away from the fuel docks at Grand Haven and also checked further on the ice in the lake. We again moored at Grand Haven. To the surprise of some crewmen, they found their wives waiting when we moored. They had driven down from Charlevoix despite the bad weather.

Sunday was just another work day. The tankers were trying to get into Grand Haven but could not make it. We succeeded in reaching them about noon and spent the rest of the day escorting them to Grand Haven.

SUNDEW REPORTS

March 2

After a long weekend because of Washington's birthday anniversary, we received orders Feb. 23 to proceed to the area of Grand Haven to attempt to clear a path through the ice into the river. Several tankers were attempting to enter the mouth of the river at Grand Haven but the ice was too thick.

We spent most of the afternoon on Wednesday trying to penetrate the field of heavy ice and when we were unsuccessful we went to Muskegon in the evening. We returned to the Grand Haven area Thursday morning but conditions had not changed any. Only a shift in the wind and mild temperatures will open up the harbor there. Friday we broke ice around the fuel docks in Muskegon and on Saturday we had to clear a path out of Muskegon to allow several ships to enter and leave Muskegon.

Just before leaving on Feb. 23 we had several inquiries about "that string of colored flags flying from front to back aboard the ship" on Washington's birthday. Full dress ship is the proper description of the display which is held only twice a year on Feb 22 and July 4. In addition to flags and pennants which run from the foot of the jackstaff forward to the mast thence to the foot of the flagstaff aft, the largest national ensign on board is flown from the flagstaff. This is one of the few times that two national ensigns are flown. In addition to the large one aft, another is flown from the mast along with the largest Coast Guard flag aboard. The flags and pennants do not spell out any words. They are in sequence to give a rainbow effect.

In order to go on liberty in Muskegon we had to walk thru the dock area where thousands of cars are sent by ship to Milwaukee. They all look inviting until you look at the price tags. Then you do not feel too bad about having to walk up-town.

SUNDEW SCUTTLEBUTT . . . George Laumgartner, SA, checked out Monday to enter Storekeeper school in Groton, Conn. Roy Peron, our boy from the Bronx, took leave and rode as far as New York with George. Looks as though some of the men are going in the real estate business when they get out of the service. Monopoly is now the fad. Six players and 16 kibitzers make for some interesting games even though they do get a bit noisy. Good liberty in Muskegon, with three or four theatres and one or two good bowling alleys. Hope the mild weather we are having here (at Muskegon on March 2) reaches as far north as Charlevoix.

Chevy showed the best brakes of the leading low-priced three in a test of repeated stops at highway speeds conducted and certified by NASCAR*. Chevy also won over the other two in a NASCAR economy run—with the highest gas mileage for 6's and V8's at cruising speeds of just over 55 miles an hour.

Here's a car that knows how to get the most out of a gallon. And it's the only car in its field to bring you hydraulic valve lifters in all popular engines—6 and V8. This means smoother, quieter performance for you.

There are many other advances just as fundamental as the efficiency of Chevrolet's engines and the dependability of its new brakes (with more lining area than any other low-priced car). But why not stop by your dealer's and let Chevy do its own sweet talking!

As we hit the mid-way mark in the second round we find that Freedman No. 2 is still holding on to the lead by 3 points. Their lead was cut from 5 points as they dropped three points to Neff. For the Neff Bros. team only one man over 500 and that was Gordon himself hitting the mark right on the nose. For the losers it was Harry Pearsol leading the pack with his 509.

For the Airport it was the same old story. Moonlight was the team that had the soft touch this week as they stayed in a tie for 2nd. The only one going strong for Moonlight was Dick Edwards in the third game as he rolled high game of the evening. 203. Also high series for his team 493. Doc and I were trying to see who could make the worst showing as anchor man and Doc won out with his 414. For the Inn — it was just a good thing we had the proprietor of the bowling alley rolling with us. Andy had a 516. For the rest of us they should have used our average — we might have split that way.

Browe Electric stayed right in the running only 4 points out as they won three points from Freedman No. 1. Oh oh — I see a mistake (on my part) Bob Ouderkirk had a big 223 game for himself — which is high for the evening. (Sorry Dick, I tried. I first checked these cards over out at the Inn and you know the lights aren't to bright out there. Better luck next week). Bob also had high series for the Browe [illegible] 582. [illegible] those old shoes? For Freedman only John Sear[illegible] over the mark with his 521.

Puffs stayed in 5th place and [illegible] as they rolled to a 2-2 draw. For Puffs it was Ron Cunningham coming through with a 512 series to lead the way. I believe Ron has only had 4 500 series all year and each one has been against Sinclair. Kenny Balch got off the hook for low game as Chuck Donaldson (a newcomer) rolled his first game of 64. It didn't take Charlie long to learn though as he came back with games of 112 and 133. For the Oilers it looks as if the boys had their troubles — all except Meg who rolled the anchor position as it should be rolled, a 563 series (high for the night including a 201 game. Another newcomer broke in with Sinclair. An oldtimer newcomer I should say. Bob Miller had a respectable 451 seeing as how it was the first time in a few years.

Lake Construction climbed up to an even 500 mark as they won all 4 points from Swanson's. For the Lakers it was George Bergmann leading the pack with a 473 series. I see Al Smith had a [illegible] of 111. To bad he couldn't have been there to roll [illegible] instead of using his average so he could get a patch. For the Swanson congregation [illegible] too much going as Larry and Stub tied for high honors with 129.

• • •

Brown Motors tried to catch [illegible] — and they did gain — but [illegible] have them by 2. Browns won 3 points from Hess Furniture. For the Browns it was Jorn Empey having a nice series of 527 to take the honors. For Hess it was Jess Penn high (?) with a 442. We don't have to feel so bad Doc. Itch was rolling anchor and he only had a 391. That will be the last of my 395 that I hear from him.

I'm running out of songs for the Inn. It's not that I'm running out of songs — it's just that I've got the same situation every week — always losing. I guess the appropriate song for this week would be "Moonlight Becomes You."

Charlevoix and Pellston advanced to the district finals Saturday night after defeating Boyne City and Harbor Springs in the semi-finals Thursday night.

Charlevoix trimmed Boyne City 53 to 36 while the Hornets dumped Harbor Springs 55 to 37.

With the entire squad of 13 players seeing action, Charlevoix jumped into a 14 to 8 first period lead over the Ramblers before going ahead 25 to 14 at the half and 38 to 22 going into the final period.

Ron Vandenberg won scoring honors with 17 points followed by Dave Schuchard with 13, Joe Beaudoin with 12, Bruce Pease with six, Jim Ladd and Bill Poquette with four each and Ralph Brock and John Martin with one each. The Pellston Hornets had no trouble with the Harbor Springs Rams as they led the league cellar dwellers 16 to 10 at the quarter, 28 to 21 at the half and 40 to 26 at the three-quarter mark.

Three Rayders Share League Scoring Honors

Three members of the Charlevoix Rayder basketball team which captured a district Class C title at Petoskey last week are among the top 20 scorers in the Northern Michigan Class C league.

They are Ron Vandenberg, senior center, who ranked second behind Barry Anderson of Pellston with a total of 224 points in league play.

In sixth place with 172 points in 12 loop games is Dave Schuchard, junior guard and in fifteenth place with 117 points is a junior forward, Joe Beaudoin, who scored this number in 12 games.

Vandenberg scored an average of 16 points per game for the season. In the recent district title game he came through with 22 points.

Pellston's Barry Anderson, a junior forward, was the top scorer in the league, dumping in an impressive total of 238 points in 14 league games for an average 17 points per game. In the final game of the season he scored 32 points against Charlevoix the most points scored by any loop player in one game this season.

In third and fourth places respectively are two members of the Grayling Vikings, Frank Gross, a sophomore who scored 193 points and Roger Hatfield a junior who had 185 points.

For the first time underclassmen dominate the list of top scorers with two of the top 20 sophomores and nine juniors. The remaining nine are seniors.

Last Minute Baskets Break Tie For Win

With Beaudoin and Vandenberg in the starting line-up were Bruce Pease, Dave Schuchard and Charles Coleman. Jim Ladd, Bill Poquette and Dick VanRaaphorst joined the action in the second period.

McClutchey scored a field goal and Cabinaw a free throw before the game was two minutes old. Beaudoin came back with a field goal followed by Vandenberg who put the Rayders ahead 4 to 3. Schuchard scored a field goal and Vandenberg and Beaudoin one free throw each to give Charlevoix an 11 to 3 lead before Ford added two from the free throw line for Pellston's five points [illegible] Vandenberg added four points and Beaudoin scored a field goal for 15 points as the period ended.

Pellston scored six points to cut the Rayder lead to four points before Schuchard, Beauduin and Vandenberg connected for field goals to put Charlevoix out in front 23 to 11. Pellston added five free throws and two field goals for 21 points as the half ended.

Vandenberg, Schuchard and VanRaaphorst combined their talents to score five points as the Rayders led 23 to 21 at halftime.

Pellston had made 13 trips to the free throw line to score eleven of their 21 points.

Charlevoix, on the other hand, had scored 10 field goals and eight of 10 free throws.

As the second half got underway Pellston trimmed the Rayder lead to 35 to 30 and then held Charlevoix to a 39 to 35 third period advantage. The Hornets had their best period in the field goal department, scoring six field goals and one free throw for 13 points. Charlevoix scored only 11 points on three field goals by Vandenberg and one each by Coleman and Beaudoin plus a free throw by the latter.

Though Pellston outscored Charlevoix 12 to 11 in the final period and tied the score twice, the Rayders, playing one of the steadiest games of the season, remained in control of the game and came up with the victory and the district title.

Spencely and Anderson scored three points before Beaudoin scored a field goal in the third period. Anderson added two more field goals, the latter coming with five seconds more than four minutes to tie the score 41-all. Vandenberg countered with a field goal and Schuchard with a field goal and a free throw for 46 points before Spencely was fouled and added one point. Twice in the action that followed he intercepted slow passes to go down the floor alone to score and tie up the game 46-all with 2½ minutes remaining.

Charlevoix went into a stall which they continued until Beaudoin came in for a lay-up shot. Pellston took the ball down the floor only to have it stolen. In attempting to score again, Beaudoin was fouled. He missed the shot but Vandenberg took the rebound and popped in the final basket of the game.

A Pellston player was fouled as he took the ball down the floor and went to the free throw line with 10 seconds remaining. He missed the shot and the Rayders were in control of the ball under their own basket as the final gun sounded.

Vandenberg paced the game with 22 points followed by Beaudoin with 11. Schuchard had nine, Coleman three and VanRaaphorst two.

Pellston's scoring was more scattered with Anderson scoring 14, Spencely 13, McClutchey 12, Ford four and Cabinaw three points.

The Rayders had 20 field goals to 16 for the Hornets and connected on 10 of 15 free throw attempts while colleting 18 personal fouls, 13 of which came in the first period. Pellston with only 12 personal fouls hit on 14 of 25 attempts.

Wyandotte Students on Tour

Michigan Mirror

By ELMER E. WHITE

CITIZENS WILL OBEY between 100 and 200 more laws next year.

These will be the successful bills from the estimated 1,000 legislators will sponsors in the week and months ahead.

The new laws will range from some obscure correction in the drain code to important, and perhaps vexing, revisions of the state's tax structure.

One member of the legislature is said to have come to a session pledged to vote "no" on everything simply because "the people have too many laws now."

Another this year sponsored a bill that has been defeated every time it appeared since he first introduced it 25 years ago. Someone suggested starting a "Quarter-Century Club."

* * *

STATISTICIANS curious enough to do the job once figured it costs $2,000 to sponsor a bill in the legislature.

The bill starts as an idea in the mind of someone who sees the need for more controls, fewer controls, better law enforcement or less, more state services or, maybe, for no reason.

* * *

THERE IS ALWAYS a number of bills legislators sponsor because a voter back in their districts asked them to and most of them die without fanfare or excessive sorrow.

It is then possible for the legislator to return home and soothe the voter who had the idea, thusly:

"Gee, I tried on your bill. I introduced it and fought like a tiger, but those other fellows just wouldn' go along."

* * *

PROPOSALS come to the legislature as ideas and are put into bill form by experts known as bill-drafters. It is a rare occasion when a legislator drafts his own bill.

Each bill must be read three times, though the first two times are within seconds of each other. This is immediately before it is referred to a committee for study. The third reading is just before a final vote.

* * *

USUALLY, A BILL is never completely read aloud.

Committees work on a bill, listen to the pros and cons. The committee vote is often the most important. Many bills never get out of committee to be considered on the floor.

When they do, they are placed on a debate schedule known as "general orders," or "special order on general orders," giving it a priority. After debate, it goes to third reading.

Third reading brings the final vote and, if it passes, the bill goes to the opposite house where the process is duplicated before it is sent to the governor's office for his signature.

* * *

MORE THAN 3,000 state employes will get an extra pay raise July 1.

It will be in addition to the seven per cent boost granted all employes under the merit system by the state civil service commission.

Reason for the extra increase involves adjustments in ratings and levels and the changes are being made generally in the highest and lowest classifications.

The cost will be between $157,000 and $230,000 a year.

CONSTRUCTION of a new 10-story state office building, estimated at $9,800,000, has apparently been shelved for this year.

The committee of legislators trying to arrange the project ran into trouble horrowing money, after insisting that the employes retirement fund wanted a too-high interest rate.

So now, construction of the office building and a separate home for the Michigan Supreme Court both are waiting for the legislature to act or a special bonding program.

North Paralyzed By Worst March Storm

Drifted Roads Still Isolate Rural Areas

The most paralyzing March storm experienced by residents of Northern Michigan hit the area Sunday bringing traffic to a halt, closing schools and plugging sideroads, many of which had not been opened Wednesday.

The storm started late Saturday with snow flurries. During a six hour period beginning at 6 a.m. Sunday four inches of wet snow was dumped on the area. A wind out of the east at the time shifted to the northwest late in the afternoon, cutting visibility to zero as it whipped snow which continued to fall. The intensity of the wind continued to increase until it reached more than 50 miles an hour at times.

By 7 p.m. the major part of the roads in the county were plugged. Charlevoix county road commission and city street crews were unable to stay ahead of the storm and all plows were called off streets and highways by 8 p.m. to stand by in the event of emergencies.

As the storm gained momentum roads, many of which were bordered by banks up to eight feet high, were drifted full. Twelve inches of snow fell Sunday and early Monday.

The wind decreased in volicity during the night and early Monday morning, men and equipment were back on the job trying to open main trunklines and county roads to traffic. A good portion of these roads were passable by noon but many were only one-lane trails.

Because so few roads on which rural students live were open, all but the Boyne City schools were closed Tuesday. Students who lived along highways which were open and in the city attended classes in Boyne City Tuesday.

The job of clearing roads continued Tuesday with men and equipment being taxed almost beyond endurance. It was impossible to open cross roads which joined township roads.

A huge drift, which available road equipment failed to pierce, kept the Barnard road closed until Wednesday morning when the road commission planned to bring in heavier equipment being used elsewhere until now.

All schools opened Wednesday on a limited basis with school buses traveling roads that were open and doubling back to go to other roads instead of cutting across country as they usually do. Families along the bus routes were called and told where their children could walk to meet the buses.

The huge drifts were not confined to the rural areas. Packed

Bell Telephone Asks Rate Increase

Michigan Bell Telephone Co has asked for a rate increase but its application to the Michigan Public Service commission named no specific amount.

In asking the Commission to review the company's financial results, the application emphasized the company earnings in the post-war period have been substantially below the level approved by the commission itself. Should the commission authorize a revenue increase, the company will then seek specific changes in local and long distance rates to comply with authorization.

Alcona Tigers Rally In Third Quarter to Win Regional Finals

The Charlevoix Rayders bowed to the Alcona Tigers by a score of 59 to 51 at Grayling Saturday night as the team representing a new consolidated school in eastern Michigan captured its first regional Class C title.

Alcona was scheduled to meet Crystal Falls, the upper peninsula Class C regional champs at Petoskey Wednesday. This is the fourth in as many years the Crystal Falls teams has represented the upper peninsula in the quarter-finals.

In the game at Grayling Saturday night the Charlevoix Rayders played an excellent first half, jumping into a 21 to 20 first quarter lead and going ahead 34 to 32 at halftime. However, in the second half Charlevoix cooled off and failed to score a field goal until 5 min. and 50 seconds of the third quarter had passed. The Tigers outscored the local quintet 14 to 6 in the third period to go ahead 46 to 40. Charlevoix got back in the game in the final period, scoring 11 points including two after the final horn but their efforts were not enough as Alcona won the regional Class C title by a score of 59 to 51.

Alcona went ahead by four points to open the game before Vandenberg hit for his first field goal with 6:20 remaining in the period. Schuchard and Coleman connected for field goals and Vandenberg for a free throw to knot the score nine-all. Alcona went ahead by one point on a free throw before Coleman put the Rayders ahead with a bucket. The lead changed several times as first one team and then the other scored. Charlevoix, however, went ahead 21 to 20 on a field goal by Schuchard as the period ended.

Vandenberg had scored nine points, Coleman six, Schuchard four and Beaudoin and Poquette one each.

Alcona had 20 points including five field goals by their top scorer, Gene Gunderson, seven points by his brother Gary plus a field goal by Lyle Schroeder and a free throw by Tom Miller. Bill McIntyre was the fifth member of the line-up which never changed throughout the game.

The tempo slowed in the second period but Charlevoix still continued to control the game as Vandenberg added three field goals and two free throws, VanRaaphorst three points and Schuchard a field goal.

As the second half got underway, the Rayders cooled off and scored only six points with their first field goal coming late in the period. Vandenberg added another plus a free throw and Coleman

Deer Herd at Camp Charlevoix Fares Well

There is one deer herd in northern Michigan that has fared well despite the deep snow. The herd yarded up in protected areas at Camp Charlevoix and throughout the winter months Barney Englehart, camp caretaker, has been snitching hay from the horses' supply every other day to feed the herd. The deer were quick to learn the feeding schedule and throughout the winter they have been wandering into the feeding area regularly in the late afternoon.

Hay for the project has been furnished by Ken Smith, owner-operator of Camp Charlevoix. Since Dec. 15 when the feeding program was started there have been 262 bales of hay hauled by a hand sled to the feeding area by Mr. Englehart. The deer prefer clover hay to alfalfa, brome or blue grass so Mr. Englehart endeavors to cater to their choice.

He says he doubts if any of the deer have died from starvation although dogs have been causing some trouble and it may be possible that some deer have been killed. He has noted three instances which indicated that dogs had attacked deer.

A Communion Service will also be observed at the First Congregational church at 8 p.m. Thursday.

At the Community Church of God a candlelight ordinance service will be the feature of the Thursday evening prayer meeting scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

The theme of the 8 p.m. service at the Assembly of God church Thursday evening will be "Which of the Three Gardens" with Mrs. Dawson Way, Clarence Way and Louis Drost as the speakers.

There will be no Maundy Thursday service at the Barnard Reformed church. However, Palm Sunday will be observed with special music with Mrs. A. Dale Stoppels of Grand Rapids singing "The Palms," Mr. and Mrs. Stoppels presenting a duet and the choir singing a special anthem, "There is a Green Hill Far Away."

The Bethany Lutheran and the Bible Baptist churches will not observe special services on Maundy Thursday.

A complete program of Good Friday services including the Union Good Friday service at the First Methodist church will be published next week. A program of Easter services will also be published.

Youth Center To Be Considered At Public Meet

A meeting of parents, teachers and high school students will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the community room of the city hall to discuss various phases of a plan to establish a youth center, Mrs. Greg Shadko has announced.

Mr. Shadko will review procedures followed in other communities where youth centers are in progress. The information will prove valuable to those interested in organizing a youth center in Charlevoix if the city is successful in acquiring the former Colonial club property for public use. It has been suggested that the property could also be used to advantage as a civic center to serve many of the organizations in the community.

James Graham, 87, retired blacksmith who has been a resident of this community for 60 years, was found dead at his home at 831 State st. Saturday morning by his niece, Mrs. Guy Stutzman.

Dr. Robert G. Martin, county coroner, who was called said that he had been dead for about 12 hours and that death was due to natural causes.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at the Winchester funeral home with the Rev. Frederick McNeil officiating. Burial was in Brookside cemetery.

Born near Morefield, Ont., March 28, 1871, Mr. Graham came to Charlevoix county at the age of 18 years. He had operated a blacksmith shop here until recent years.

Survivors include several nieces and nephews

Senior Citizens To Observe Birth Dates

Two senior citizens of this community will observe birthday anniversaries this week.

Mrs. George Meggison, a native of Charlevoix county, will observe her eighty-sixth anniversary Friday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, mother of Mrs. Dean Davenport who has resided here for several years, will observe her eightieth anniversary Sunday.

Trade Publication Reproduces Sport Page from Courier

The football page which appears weekly in the Courier during the season was given national circulation in the Mar. 14 issue of the Publisher Auxiliary, a weekly newspaper trade publication.

Accompanying a reduced facsimile of the full page the Auxiliary notes the advertising space has been cut to a minimum to provide more space for news and photos. Credit for the format this year goes to Nick Hamilton who made the layouts for the page each week and Don Brown who handled the advertising.

Funeral Services Held Tuesday for Robert Routley

Funeral services for Albert M. Routley jr., 38, former local resident who has been living in Adrian, were held Tuesday at St. Mary's church in Adrian. Burial was at St. Mary's cemetery there.

Mr. Routley died Sunday, March 8, at Herrick Memorial hospital in Tecumseh after a brief illness.

A native of Charlevoix, where he was born April 13, 1920, he had resided here until five years ago when he had gone to southern Michigan to live. He had been employed as a lineman with the General Telephone Co. He was a member of St. Mary's church in Adrian.

He is survived by his wife, the former Ginnie Marvin of Adrian whom he married on June 1, 1954; a son, Leroy, at home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Routley sr. of Tecumseh and two sisters, Mrs. William Ford of Weston and Mrs. Keith Reynolds of Charlevoix.

Officers to Shoot Deer Chasing Dogs in County

A warning was issued this week to dog owners throughout the county whose dogs are chasing deer.

Sheriff Glenn E. Rose said that any dog found chasing deer would be shot by conservation or sheriff's officers.

Last week five deer were killed by dogs in the Loeb district alone. Three of the deer, weakened by the short food supply, were chased on the ice of Lake Charlevoix where the dogs pounced on them and killed them when they slipped on the ice.

The deep snows throughout the area make it difficult for the fleet-footed deer to escape the dogs who can run on the top of the snow while the heavier animals sink through

Council Takes Steps To Acquire Former Colonial Club Property

A proposal to acquire the former Colonial Club property on Meech St., from the Department of Conservation as a possible location for a civic center or other public use was approved by the city council at a regular meeting Monday evening. No action was taken on a second issue to appropriate $5,500 to supplement the advertising and promotion program submitted by the Chamber of Commerce. Alderman Kipke, chairman of the finance committee, said, however, his committee would probably recommend to the council an appropriation of $3,500.

Interest in the two issues attracted more than 60 citizens, representing the Chamber of Commerce and other local organizations to the meeting which developed into a public forum. Mayor E. James Hiller briefly reviewed the city's tentative budget before opening the meeting to those who wished to express their views on the issues involved.

Norman D. Ance, president of the Chamber of Commerce, urged the council to give the Chamber some assurance as to the amount of the advertising and promotions appropriation. The extent to which the Chamber of Commerce program can be carried out this year will depend on the funds available from the city and from the membership. It is imperative that the program get underway immediately and any reduction in C. of C. revenue will necessarily result in curtailing the program to keep within the funds available.

Chamber directors opposed a suggestion by William VanRaaphorst, manager of American Mold Engineering Co., to have the electors vote on a millage proposition to finance advertising and promotion at the April 6 election. Richard Lyons objected to the city spending any money for these programs and said the businessmen should pay the entire bill.

Delegates present in the interest of acquiring the Colonial Club for a civic center were generally favorable to the action taken by the city.

Title to the Colonial Club property has reverted to the Department of Conservation for nonpayment of taxes. Mayor Hiller said the city had been negotiating with the department on a plan to acquire the property. He added, however, that after he and City Superintendent Hal Hill had inspected it, they did not consider the property worth the cost of the necessary repairs. He was not opposed to the city taking over the property for public uses providing the entire cost of repairs and maintenance were financed by organizations.

The city can get the property for public uses if the application is approved by the Michigan Conservation Commission. Mr. Hill was recently assured in a telephone conversation with the head of the land division that the application would be approved and formal application was made following action of the council Monday evening.

Under the agreement the city may use the property for public purposes but is restricted from selling the land to any private interests. It is understood the city will be permitted to make whatever disposition of the buildings deemed advisable. The land will revert to the state whenever the city has no further public use for it. In that event the land would be sold at public auction by the Conservation department.

Mayor Hiller appointed Harry Gebeau, Edward P. Hansen and Lee Moerland to a committee to handle the Michigan Week program and make plans for the annual Mayor Exchange Day. Michigan week will be May 17 thru May 23.

Bids for a car to be used as a police cruiser and a 1½ ton pickup for use by the electric department were opened. Bids were received from Parsel's garage, Brown Motors Inc. and the Charlevoix Oil Co. for the police cruiser. They were referred to the police committee and the City Superintendent for tabula-

ODDS 'N ENDS

BY FRAN MARTIN

JUST WHEN WE thought it couldn't happen again it did—probably the most paralyzing storm of a winter to end all winters. It all started late Saturday night. By six a.m. Sunday it started to snow in ernest. The wind which had been in the east shifted to the northwest and we were in the midst of just about the worst March storm we ever hope to see.

GEE, AND ONE of the things we had all lined up for our column this week were some sure signs of spring we'd observed Thursday and Friday. For instance, there was a big fat skunk sighted on our street Thursday night. And on Friday we heard a blue jay and a crow for the first time this year. We'd seen both of these birds earlier but they were keeping mum. Friday things must have looked pretty good to them because a jay was calling and the crows cawing. They won't be heard from for a while now. What is it they say about crows—their 'caws' have to freeze up three times before spring really arrives. Now we have one down and two to go, we hope.

* * *

AND ANOTHER sign of spring. Dick Fochtman called us Thursday and said he'd just seen something he knew we wouldn't believe. Seems he and Martin Elzinga were standing outside the south entrance of the school bus garage when they sighted something, (at first they weren't sure what), making its way the length of the football field, which, as you know, like everything else, is covered with a lot of snow. As it neared they realized it was a deer, probably chased into town by dogs. It crossed close by and made it's way toward the Belvedere. Probably one of many we'll be seeing this spring.

* * *

AND SPEAKING of deer, Sheriff Glenn Rose told us the other day that five deer were killed last week in the Loeb farm area, after being chased by dogs. We sure hope people who have dogs will keep them confined because they can certainly do a lot of damage to the deer, weak from a slim diet during the heavy winter, some does heavy with fawn. All of them with their tiny hoofs and slender legs sink into this deep snow and before too long become exhausted and thus become easy prey for dogs. All law enforcement agencies have threatened to destroy all dogs found chasing deer so if you thihk anything of your animals, won't you keep them confined?

UNTIL THIS weekend the kids were having a ball, playing in the water puddles or, shall we say, small lakes found just about every place once it started to warm up a little. There's nothing that is more a sign of spring.

A "WELL DONE" to our Rayders and Coach Carey. Playing against a team which could well be the next state championship team in Class C, the Rayders held their own for two periods before having a bad one which cost them the game. But it wasn't for lack of trying. Since they'd come farther than any of us dared hope we can only thank them for a good season and lots of good basketball which we hope will be repeated another year. Incidently, Alcona has one player, Gene Gunderson, who to our way of thinking is what we'd consider a coach's dream-come-true. That boy was mighty versatile, we thought, and did a terrific job especially in the scoring department where he accounted for 36 of his team's 59 points.

THE AGE AT which this younger generation starts school is, at times, appalling, to say the least. Why, only recently little Mark Gallagher, six months old son of the Jim Gallaghers had his first day of school. We're kiddin'? No, we're not. Seems the Homemaking class was learning the fundamentals of caring for a baby, and why use a substitute when you've got the real McCoy. No reason at all so when Kathy Gallagher offered the services of her young brother he had a ball, what with all the attentions from a bunch of gals who oohed and aaahhhed at him. Nothing like being the center of attraction and young Mark adored every minute of it.

Dear Sir:

Next to the time of paying tax bills this period of tax assessments, Board of Review sessions, and criticisms of assessors, points up some of the difficulties and misconceptions encountered in preparing an equitable roll.

One of the first premises to consider would be that the assessor does not create the load of taxation, this is the field of the various school boards, town boards, county boards, city councils, etc. The assessor provides the vehicle to carry the load.

Another premise, that is of more concern than the amount of our assessment, is whether or not we are fairly assessed with our neighboring owners. This is the job of the assessor—to spread the load evenly among property owners accordingly with the value of their holdings. This would be the perfect assessment roll.

[illegible] the old method of assessing from the seat of a buggy or Model T called "eye-ball assessing." This has given way to a person armed with some assessing tools, an assessing Manual, a tape, land value maps, economic factors, price schedules, assessment record cards. We feel that we are on the road to better assessing in Charlevoix County thru learning to use these tools.

It follows that if the township or the city were assessed perfectly and each owner was carrying his fair share, that then each township or city would be assuming their fair share of the total county load. How then is the share or per cent of the county total which each township or city must carry determined? This is done by the State Tax Commission by a sampling method wherein a definite dollar amount is determined for each township and each city—and here arises the term State Equalized Valuation.

Each supervisor or assessor must spread his taxes on this amount. Again if assessments were perfect, each owner would be assuming his fair share of this figure. The total is set and if one owner's assessment is lowered [illegible] other owner must assume a share of the amount taken off. Similarly, if any [illegible] ownership, say resort owners, factories, or ski developments are not assessed their fair share, than all other classes of ownerships, home-owners, farmers, etc. must carry a portion of this unequal assessment. The converse is of course, also true.

The tax base currently established for Charlevoix County is 40% of True Cash Value, determined as equitably as possible thru proper use of assessing methods, and from here it would appear that our Charlevoix County Assessors are honestly striving forward. The system may not be perfect and we probably have a long road yet to travel, but it can be called a signal improvement over the old "eye-ball method."

HOW DOES YOUR TOWN MEASURE UP?

An industry always takes the measure of a town before thinking seriously of locating a plant there.

Make your own check list and measure your town for yourself.

You might start by marking yes or no on each of the following questions: Does our town have good industrial sites?______; Financing available for plant construction?______; Modern and adequate schools?______; Attractive shopping facilities?______; Pleasant residential sections?______; Well supported churches?______; Good streets and highways?______; Progressive municipal government?______; Adequate public services?______; Widespread community spirit?______; Strong civic leadership?______; Wise zoning provisions?______; Good community planning?______.

SUNDEW REPORTS

[illegible] Mar[illegible] [illegible] old fashioned [illegible] and sleet storm. We [illegible] it was just winter getting [illegible] last licks.

We [illegible] from South Haven Sunday morning in moderate seas but just before reaching Muskegon we ran into the heaviest weather of the year. You tried to lash everything down but green water coming over the bow coupled with heavy pitching and rolling snapped turnbuckles on deck and tossed a 4½ ton sinker into the lake as though it were a [illegible] ball. Winds registered up to 60 MPH. The Sundew was [illegible] boarded for the first time this winter when some loose ice was picked up by the heavy seas and [illegible] up over the wheelhouse.

The beginning of the week started off easy enough. We stayed in Grand Haven all day Monday but had to get underway in the evening because the Milwaukee Clipper was stuck in the ice off Muskegon. We freed her in short order and moored in Muskegon that night. Tuesday morning the Clipper was once again stuck in the ice at the Highway 16 but we were able to free them and send both along their way to Milwaukee.

Wednesday and Thursday we [illegible] to get movement down the east [illegible] of Michigan to check the [illegible] between Muskegon and South Haven. We probed several place such as Holland and South Haven with no success and settled on St Joseph as a place to tie up overnight. Spent all day Saturday breaking into South Haven. We had to hammer away on the shore ice but with the aid of an east wind managed to break into the channel about 5:30 p.m. After remaining in South Haven overnight, we turned northward for Muskegon Sunday morning and into the aforementioned storm.

Ed Haley SA took a tumble down one of the ladders this past week but quick cooperation from several of the crew and the Muskegon Lifeboat station enabled Ed to receive prompt medical attention. At last report he had been transferred to the Public Health hospital in Chicago. He will be there for several weeks and we know will be glad to hear from his friends in the Charlevoix area during his convalescence.

SUNDEW SCUTTLEBUTT . . .

Several balmy days brought out moments of youth in several of us. Not only were baseball gloves and balls broken out but a homemade kite took to the air. There was a rumor it might be flown from the fantail while we were underway but as of this report results are negative. Several of the newer men had their sea legs initiated this week. Who says "thumbing" is only for the highways? Sam Novak went on leave to Milwaukee and hitched a ride back on the Milwaukee Clipper right to his front door. The sea stories were thick as we swapped yarns with the men of the Woodbine in Grand Haven. We thought we'd heard and saw all the stories about sailors but we hadn't. Three local lassies came down at 5 a.m. the other morning to see three eligibles from the ship before we got underway. As things look now we plan to be in Charlevoix around March 22 or 23.

Curley Tables His Motion

The other night at the Rices', Curley was shaking his head over "young people," his daughter in particular.

"Can't tell her a thing," said Curley. "She wants a dining room set for a wedding present, so I said her mother might let her have ours. Beautiful set, too, only she claims it's 'out of style,' can you beat that?"

"Now, Curley," said Mrs. Rice, "you ought to know better. My mother gave us that set when we got married and I told her the same thing!"

From where I sit, no two people have the same taste in clothes, furniture — or beverages, for that matter. But we should all have respect for each other's preferences. For example, maybe you like tea or milk. Me, I prefer a glass of beer. That shouldn't prevent us from being good neighbors. Let's not be so "set" in our ways that we can't live with our differences.

Give Your Child the Priceless Gift of Better Grades in School!

Wouldn't this be a precious gift! Better grades in school and all they mean ... the greater knowledge and understanding that grades reflect, of course, but much more than that ... the poise, social acceptance, reputation and opportunities that grow out of greater knowledge, understanding and ability.

Life is broader, deeper, more meaningful for those who learn more in school.

But is such a gift possible?

The answer is "yes" ... through a practical method that educators have proven effective.

When students type their notes and lessons, educators have found, they learn more and get better grades. Part of the reason is obvious: typing improves the looks of the work students hand in ... but that is the least important. Dr. John L. Rowe, of the University of North Dakota has found, through careful study, that typing improves spelling, teaches punctuation, increases vocabulary and reading skill, aids coordination in younger children and makes youngsters want to learn more. Most important of all, touch-typing actually helps them do more thinking in a given time when writing themes, etc., because thinking is slowed to the speed of writing and typing is much faster than handwriting.

"From elementary grades on through college," Dr. Rowe has determined, "nothing promotes the student's ability, capacity and desire to learn so much as the typing habit."

But isn't learning to type expensive, difficult ... and time-consuming?

Not any more. Dr. Rowe has learned to teach even third-graders how to touch-type, quickly. He and Norman Saksvig, world champion typist, have developed a recorded course of instruction, which anyone with a record player and a typewriter can use at home to become a touch-typist in just ten days.

This fascinating, magnificent recording is the gift you can give your child this Christmas. By the time school resumes, he will be ready for more and better learning. Best of all, typing is a real thrill for every child ... and great fun.

The substantial cost of recording this home typing course has been underwritten by Smith-Corona, the world's largest manufacturer of portable typewriters. 100 recordings have been sent to the Dayton area, to be given free, while they last, with the purchase of Smith-Corona portables.

When you choose a Christmas gift for your child or one dear to you, don't overlook this gift of touch-typing ... a door-opener to better grades, greater knowledge and, truly, to a finer life. Portable typewriters don't cost much—as little as $5.00 down and $5.00 a month—but one might well change your child's entire future..just..like..that.

Phone, or stop in soon, to reserve a typing course. You—and your child—will be glad you did.

Diamond Gift To Government Recalls Drama In Gem World

Fortunes of the famous Hope Diamond, long haunted by sinister legends, have taken a new turn.

The rare deep-blue stone is now the star exhibit of the Hall of Gems in the Smithsonian Institution at Washington, D. C. A gift to the Government from New York jeweler Harry Winston, the Hope presumably has left its past behind. But public viewers can still shudder over the tragic events with which it has been romantically linked.

In a National Geographic Magazine article earlier this year, the Smithsonian curator of minerals, George S. Switzer, recalled the Hope's traditional association with some dozen violent deaths. It was also present when disaster struck two royal houses.

The diamond is believed to have been originally part of the larger French Blue worn by Louis XIV. Stolen during the French Revolution's Reign of Terror, it reappeared in England cut to its present 44½ carat oval form. It was named for the banker Henry Thomas Hope, who acquired it in the mid-1800's.

Later, Sultan Abdul-Hamid II of Turkey bought the jewel to adorn a favorite wife. He lost his throne, as had a still more unfortunate previous owner, Louis XVI of France, who also lost his head.

In time, Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean of Washington took on the Hope with its burden of bad luck superstition. At her death, many years after, it went to Mr. Winston, whose exhibits of it for carity cast a brighter light on its dark history.

Though the Hope Damond has been valued at $1,000,000, it is by no means the world's costliest gem. The 128-carat, pear-shaped Niarchos — named for the Greek shipping magnate who bought it — is estimated to be worth twice that sum.

Flawlessly clear, the Niarchos has been described as the most magnificent stone discovered in South Africa. Winston's chief cutter, who shaped and polished it, called it the Ice Queen "because the rough stone would have been hard to spot in a bucket of ice cubes."

The biggest gem diamond ever found was unearthed in 1905 at the same Transvaal mine that yielded the Niarchos. Named for the mine's discoverer, Thomas Cullinan, it weighed 2,106 metric carats.

The Cullinan was presented to Britain's Edward VII, who chose noted cutter J. Asscher for the agonizing task of cleaving the stone into smaller gems.

"Asscher studied the Cullinan for months," wrote Dr. Switzer in describing the ordeal in the Geographic. "Finally, he made a groove on one edge, placed his wedge, and, perspiring freely, brought down his hammer. The steel blade broke instead of the diamond. Another went to a hospital.

When his nerves calmed, he [illegible] again. This time the stone [illegible] As [illegible] his doctor?"

Another storied [illegible] Kohinoor, which also is among the British crown jewels. Hindu tradition says it was worn thousands of years ago by a hero of the Hindu epic, the Mahabharata.

In Russia's diamond treasury is a tsarist momento — the 200-carat jewel known as the Orloff. From its size and shape some believe it may be the [illegible] Mogul [illegible] 1665, when [illegible]

A French [illegible] stolen it from the eye of a Hindu god in a Mysore temple. After various plots and acts of violence it reached Amsterdam. There, in 1774, an exiled Russian courtier, Prince Orloff, bought it to regain favor with Empress Catherine II.

a free throw as Alcona went ahead 46 to 40 on seven field goals including five by Gene Gunderson and two by brother, Gary.

Vandenberg scored a free throw to open the final period. Beaudoin contributed a field goal, his only one of the game, before Schuchard and Coleman added one each as Gene Gunderson found the hoop for seven buckets. McIntyre scored one free throw as the Tigers controlled the game throughout the period. Vandenberg was fouled as the game ended and scored two free throws after the final horn.

Gene Gunderson had paced the game with 36 points including 17 field goals. His brother, Gary, had 17 points to account for the lion's share of the Tigers total points. They had 26 field goals and seven out of 13 free throws. They also had 10 personal fouls.

Charlevoix's Vandenberg had 25 points. The Rayders scored a total of 20 field goals and 11 of 15 free throws. They had 11 personal fouls.

Adventures in Understanding

By Harold E. Kohn

In recent years there has been more slow, anguished death among the white-tailed deer of North America than at any time since white men reached this continent. Near the end of a long, hard winter deer die by the score, little by little losing their grip on life. Now, in March, having suffered one of the severest winters in modern history, these animal neighbors of ours have nearly used up their reserves of vitality, and many are surrendering the fight against malnutrition, cold and deep snow. Some weakened deer have been seen to stagger to fresh, emergency supplies of cuttings or baled hay only to sink in death upon the banquet, too exhausted to eat.

The white man is at fault for much of the whitetail's trouble. We have killed off the predators that kept deer at their host. We have slain the wolves, cougars and bobcats that once thinned herds of their weakest and their diseased members and held the deer population within bounds. The increasing number of abandoned farms and cut-over forest areas full of young-growth for browsings have made for ideal conditions, causing a mushrooming population growth. Unwise over-protective hunting legislation has been passed that is more concerned with sentiment and tradition than with the long-range welfare of the deer herd, with the result that while we sympathetically pass laws that confine deer hunting to a few days in late autumn and restrict the number and kind of deer that can be taken, at the same time we sentence thousands of beautiful animals to the long drawn-out torment of starvation.

In summary, deer were better off when their burdens were heavier.

We all are.

People seek freedom from the burden of work. They save toward the day of retirement and leisure. Retirement comes. They lay their burden down. Suddenly they are uneasy, at loose ends, and must either find new interests and new problems to solve, and even burdens to bear, or they sicken from boredom.

Many a marriage that has survived early financial reverses, the misfortune of losing children and the hurts of violent disagreements has later floundered. When the children are grown, when a satisfying income is assured and when the obvious adjustments have been made, life becomes too easy, and boredom sets in. And boredom is more fatal to marriage than any quarrel. Unless exciting, problem-solving projects are found upon which the partners can spend imagination and energy the permanence of the marriage is threatened. At such a time a burden can be a blessing.

We strive hard to make the long climb from the dangers of savagery toward a highly developed civilization free of primitive fears. We leave behind us the hazards of the hunt with stones and crude clubs, and wars with spears, stone axes and arrows. Then, having discarded those ancient burdens, we feel lost without the problems of the hunt and the risks of war, so modern man hunts for trophies rather than food and fights with weapons that kill thousands at once rather than a single enemy at a time. We plead for more labor saving devices and more leisure, but find little of lasting value to do with our free time and energy so that the new leisure has become one of the vast moral problems of our time — both with juveniles and adults. The psychologist, Henry C. Link, has put it pithily: "All the material advantages of our civilization conspire to make our lives easier and our characters weaker."

Some authorities on the origins of the fine arts believe that painting and singing may have begun among cave dwellers who were handicapped by physical burdens. A cave man crippled in a fight or by a wild beast was no longer an effective hunter. He developed other latent abilities. When the hunters returned home with fantastic stories of their prowess and strength, the cripple interpreted these tales on the wall of the cave, showing in brilliant color the end of the chase when bear and buffalo were dispatched by deftly thrown spears. And the blind man wove the record of pursuit into song, decorating the narrative with spangles of glory unknown to his more fortunate brethren. Without burdens to be born primitive art forms might never have developed.

Some burdens are necessary if we are to develop our strength, and many a person has discovered his hidden abilities while overcoming his conspicuous difficulties.

Frederic Chopin was undersized, his health shattered by a lung disease. Before he was forty the newspapers had several times falsely reported his death. Weak in body, Chopin found his real power in music, and while dying by inches he enriched the world with polonaises, Polish songs, waltzes, ballads, preludes. Had he been strong of body it is doubtful the world would have known his name.

Schiller, the German poet, did not find himself until he lost his health at thirty years of age. Before that he was doing fairly well producing dramatic works, but they lacked depth and showed a warped sense of values. Schiller needed his burden of sickness. When the first shock of declining health subsided, Schiller began his best work and earned the rank of being second only to Goethe in the order of German poets.

Alexander Pope, Sir Walter Scott, Eugene O'Neill, Francis Parkman, Marcel Proust, John Calvin, Florence Nightingale, Clara Barton, William Wilberforce, Robert Louis Stevenson, Beethoven, Pasteur and innumerable other benefactors of our race, were strugglers against vast physical handicaps and disheartening frailties. But they made beauty from life's blemishes. As Alfred Stieglitz, one of the world's outstanding photographers, has said, "All true art, like all love itself, is rooted in heartache."

If we do not have enough heartache of our own to produce beauty in our living, we can always take upon ourselves someone else's misfortunes. But a life without distress is a life without power of good. We need a load of trouble if we are to be at our best.

When the hurricane of 1938 hit New England it stirred up great floodtides that poured down Eastern river beds. White River Junction, Vermont, was particularly affected when the river suddenly rose dangerously. An important railway bridge in that railroad center was threatened by the raging waters and appeared about to be swept away. Seeing the peril, railroad officials ordered heavily loaded freight cars pushed out upon the bridge until the cars filled the double tracks across the structure. The great burden firmly anchored the bridge, so that the swirling river spent its wrath in vain.

Cribbage Tourney Is See-Saw Race

The Odd Fellow-Masons annual winter cribbage tournament has turned into a see-saw race with the Masons leading by 566 points at the end of the ninth round Thursday evening. The Masons trailed by 141 points after the eighth round.

The tenth and final round to be played next Thursday evening will determine the winner.

Barney Engelhart, playing for the Masons, had individual high score last week with 966 points. Robert Mitchell scored high for the Odd Fellows with 942 points.

You Pay Less

TRUCKS ARE VITAL to every industry in Michigan, and no service or commodity which affects your day-to-day living could reach you without trucks.

That is the basic way in which trucks serve you. But they benefit you in other important ways, too.

For example—latest available figures show that Michigan's trucks pay over $65,000,000 annually in State registration fees and gasoline taxes alone, plus several millions more in mileage taxes and special taxes levied on the larger vehicles. In addition, of course, trucks pay all the other taxes charged against any business enterprise in Michigan—real estate property taxes, personal property taxes, business activities taxes, sales taxes, intangibles taxes, franchise taxes.

All these millions in taxes the trucks pay go to support the general welfare, to help pay for modern roads, hospitals, schools and colleges, parks and playgrounds, police and fire protection.

So, you see, thanks to the trucks, you pay less.

'Collapse Day' In Michigan Should Be Lesson For U. S.

Michigan, the state of Walter Reuther and Gov. G Mennen (Soapy) Williams, was saved this winter by a group of public-spirited businessmen. The story of how they saved their state from ruin received little display in the nation's press. And yet it is one of the most startling and significant stories of recent years.

On Feb 15, the State of Michigan was dead broke. There was a $110 million deficit. The state has been unable to make payments to Michigan's universities since last November. The universities had been borrowing from banks in order to pay professors and keep the buildings heated and illuminated.

The people of Michigan looked forward to Feb. 15, using the term "Collapse Day." Fortunately, free enterprise came to the rescue. Manufacturing concerns in Michigan handed over to the state government more than $35 million in taxes from two to four months ahead of their due date. With this cash in the state treasury, Michigan was able to pay some of its bills.

This was an experience that should have given pause even to such wild-eyed "liberals" as Reuther and Governor Williams. Certainly, it should have shocked the taxpayers of Michigan.

With Michigan finances in shambles and the state deeply in the red, the public should have demanded strict austerity. There hasn't been any such demand, however. And Reuther and Governor Williams, like the Bourbon kings of France, apparently have forgotten nothing and learned nothing.

Instead of urging retrenchment and a return to financial sanity, Governor Williams has proposed a constitutional amendment referendum to raise from $250,000 to $50 million the amount the state can borrow without express vote of the people. He also has suggested that a veterans' trust fund of $50 million be made available for collateral. Furthermore, he has proposed heavier taxes on the element that saved the state—the private business firms. He has not proposed cutting public spending at all.

Persisting in this sort of folly, Michigan undoubtedly will face another collapse day. This time the businessmen of the state may not rush to the rescue. A great state may grind to a halt.

No one wants a thing like that to happen. Innocent people would suffer. But collapse day, if it comes, would be a warning to all Americans that government cannot borrow and spend its way out of hard times.

What Michigan needs — and the many other states that are attempting to live high on the hog — is drastic cutting of expenditures. For people who have come to expect the soft life to be provided by government, a policy of austerity would be a rough experience. But the only alternatives to austerity in a spendthrift nation are either bankruptcy or dictatorship. The nation of France chose both austerity and dictatorship. Is that what we want here?

Virtually every sort of governmental body in this country has become accustomed to wastrel ways. Millions of Americans expect government aid for everything from sewers to school lunches.

Those Americans who expect to live on handouts, must expect to obey the agency that distributes the dole. If state governments live beyond their income, they must expect to lose all authority.

The entire country needs to be told the facts such as they have been revealed in Michigan. Americans [illegible] themselves stand and look at the grim series of financial [illegible]

The "liberals" never run out of promises. But the taxpayers run out of money, and so do the state governments that operate on the basis of free-spending promises. The welfare state of the "liberals" is the twilight before collapse day.

Another lesson in the "spending" philosophy is taking place before our eyes in New York State. Governor Rockefeller is proposing a budget $240 million higher than the last one, even though a $424 million deficit is in prospect. He proposes to cover $277 million of this with new taxes. "Spend and spend, tax and tax, elect and elect."

Guild Notes...

Looking for something a little different in the way of an Easter gift? The Women's Guild of the Charlevoix Hospital suggests that you try some of the special candy sold by the Guild to support its nursing scholarship. You can get it at Williams Bakery or by calling Mrs. James Hiller, candy chairman.

Mrs. Karl Schultz, chairman of the sewing committee, is seeking people to make puppets for use at the hospital. Any child entering the hospital for treatment is presented with a "Perky, the puppet" upon admittance. When he is discharged he takes Perky home with him as a momento of his hospital stay. The Guild supplies the puppet faces and material. They're fun to make, sn if you'd like to do your bit to make a lot of children really happy won't you call Mrs. Schultz and offer to make a few puppets.

The Guild is offering its fourth annual nursing scholarship. If you know a girl who is interested in professional nursing tell her to inquire about it at the office of the high school principal where application blanks are available. There's a story regarding requirements elsewhere in this week's Charlevoix Courier.

At a meeting of the Guild held last Tuesday the group voted to purchase special flowers to brighten the planter in the x-ray department at the hospital. The Guild is also considering purchasing new dishes for the hospital. Samples have been ordered and will be shown at the next meeting.

Cancer Society Plans Annual Drive for Funds

To better acquaint the residents of Charlevoix county with the American Cancer Society which will conduct its annual fund drive next month, Mrs. Marion Jackson jr. of East Jordan, chairman of the county unit has prepared the following report which she calls "Know your American Cancer Society."

The ACS is a health agency dedicated to the task of saving lives through research, education and service.

The national headquarters is in New York, the state headquarters in Lansing and the county headquarters in East Jordan.

Mrs. Jackson is county chairman; Mrs. Ada Y. Golden of Charlevoix, treasurer, Mrs. Don Haig of Boyne City, secretary. Dr. A. F. Litzenberger is medical chairman for the county.

During the past three years the Charlevoix county unit has contributed $2,500 to the University of Michigan for cancer research; $500 to the Charlevoix hospital for a spot film device and $50 to the Michigan Tumor Registry.

The education program includes films on cancer which have been viewed by more than 2,000 persons, professional magazines on cancer sent to all doctors, dentists and hospitals in the county; Dr. Cameron's book "The Truth About Cancer" has been given to all libraries in the county and school program in which 252 high school and 1,717 grade school students participated.

The service program includes a loan to one cancer patient; drugs for one patient, other supplies to two patients and 11,657 dressings for 17 cancer patients.

The unit has offered two $300 professional nursing scholarships and is prepared to offer a third this year. Members of the nursing Scholarship committee are Dr. Litzenberger, Mrs. Keith Miles of Charlevoix, Mrs. Wilbur Robertson of East Jordan and Mrs. Marshall Behling of Boyne City.

Mrs. T. B. Reynolds of Boyne City is county fund chairman for the drive to raise a quota of $2,500. She will be assisted by the following area chairmen: Charlevoix, Rev. and Mrs. Robert J. Yonkman; East Jordan, Mrs. Ole Hegerberg; and Boyne City, Mrs. Paul Newcombe.

Fund campaign results for the past three years follow: 1956, $2,679; 1957, $2,962 and 1958, $3,115. Fifty per cent of money remains in the county; the remainder is forwarded to national headquarters drifts isolated the U. S. Coast Guard Lifeboat station and the residents of Palmer st. A bulldozer was sent to the area late Tuesday to open the street off Park ave. to the Lifeboat station and the fisheries station.

Drifted Roads Isolate Rural Road Areas

The road to the city dump which was opened with great effort last Wednesday following March 5 and 6 storm remained closed Wednesday.

John J. Martin, superintendent of the county road commission, said this was by far the worst storm in recent years. "If we should get another storm, which is possible at this time, sideroads will be blocked for a week. We have pushed our equipment almost to the breaking point now. If we should have a bad equinox storm, it will take days to dig out county and township roads."

As always happens, a number of emergencies have arisen thruout the county making it necessary for road crews to open roads which would have remained untouched until later. As one county employee said "The stork continues to fly, regardless of the weather." There have been several instances in the county where trucks have served as assistants to the stork. One was here in Charlevoix where Mrs. Patrick R. Martin was taken to the Charlevoix hospital by snow plow late Sunday rather than risk taking her during the night She gave birth to a son, Michael, Monday afternoon.

Many one story buildings including a section of the hospital, motels not in use and other buildings are buried with snow to the eaves of the structures. A car owned by the Arcade Cab Co. stalled on Park ave. late Sunday and by morning was drifted over. This happened to cars abandoned elsewhere on highways.

Thus far there have been few accidents, none of them serious, as the result of the storm. The fact that State Police and Sheriff's officers were not allowing persons to leave communities is credited with keeping the accident rate to a minimum. Many persons were stranded in towns or at farm houses along the highway. At Boyne Mountain 145 skiers spent the night at the lodge. Others enroute home were stranded in communities along their routes. In places like Mancelona, Kalkaska and other smaller communities between here and Grand Rapids all lodges were taken and residents opened their homes to stranded motorists. Food supplies in many communities were running low before trucks could deliver additional supplies.

As of Wednesday a record snowfall of 178 inches of snow had fallen in the eastern section of the county where the road commission makes its tally. It was well over 100 inches in the Charlevoix area.

Street commissioner Leo Allard issued a warning to residents of the area to keep their children back from the streets while they were being plowed. He said it would be possible to bury a small child with snow without realizing it or to strike a spectator with a piece of ice thrown by the plow.

In the event of another storm, residents of the community are told to call the city police or sheriff's office and assistance will be sent.

In the outlying areas they are asked to call the sheriff's office or the road commission office. If someone is ill and needs to be taken to a hospital or a doctor must be called, residents are asked to have the doctor call the road commission office and assistance will be rendered.

Director Odmark Judges at Festival

'Thoughts Afield'

New Book by Harold E. Kohn

The Rev. Harold E. Kohn's fourth book entitled "Thoughts Afield" will be published in mid-April according to a recent announcement by William E. Eerdmans Publishing Co. of Grand Rapids.

"Thoughts Afield" is a collection of 40 of the best articles that Mr. Kohn has written weekly for the Charlevoix Courier during the past five years. Under the sub-title "Meditations Through the Seasons" and in an informal warmly personal manner, Mr. Kohn shares with the reader his observations of the marvellous world of nature with its clues to what we are and can be and to the [illegible] of the Creator who is behind it all.

Sixty [illegible] crackling brush-and-ink nature drawings by the author [illegible] "Thoughts Afield." They [illegible] in size from small 'spot' drawings to double page spreads, are attractively placed on pages larger than those used in Mr. Kohn's previous books.

In "Thoughts Afield" many of Mr. Kohn's special interests and abilities have combined to produce what gives promise of being his finest book to date — his keen observation of nature, his warm concern for and sympathetic knowledge of people and their problems, his own deep religious faith and ability to make fresh application of religion in everyday life and his skill in producing sharply defined, realistically detailed, etching-like drawings.

Sample chapter titles include "What For?," "Effort Is Not Enough," "Carrying On," "One Way to Find Rest," "Unfinished Business," "One Shot," "How to Handle your Hatreds," "Pulls Upwards and Downwards," "The Brevity of Life" and "Softened Outlines."

Mr. Kohn's three preceding books, "Feeling Low" (1955), "Through the Valley" (1957) and "Pathways to Understanding" (1958) have been highly popular, all three having been chosen as book club selections. One chapter of "Pathways to Understanding" was printed in the December 1956 issue of Reader's Digest. It was considered of such universal appeal by the editors that they translated it into 10 foreign languages and included it in 14 of their overseas editions, an unusual distinction. Reprints of this article, "The Best Things Cannot Be Hurried" were requested by the American School in Paris, France, for study by classes.

The following are some comments taken from magazine and newspaper reviews of Mr. Kohn's books: "It has been a long time since I have been companioned by any volume that has given greater spiritual and intellectual enrichment" . . . "A mind-challenging and soul-enriching little volume" . . . "This book is a rare treat" . . . "a lucid literary style" "a fascinating volume of nature lore, coupled with spiritual wisdom" "the Rev Mr. Kohn is as adept with the brush and drawing pen as he is in the skillful and happy use of prose."

New Marine Club Plans Special Promotion Meet

Plans of the Charlevoix Marine club to attract more yachtmen and outboard motorboat enthusiasts to Charlevoix were taking shape at the regular meeting of the local club last Thursday evening, reports Commodore Phil Lawrence. He comments, however, the club is faced with the problem of to few members trying to shoulder to big an undertaking.

He points out the fact that outboard motoring has become big business and that Charlevoix is not prepared to attract these enthusiasts because the city lacks proper facilities despite the fact that our waterways are ideal for outboard motor-boating.

It is imperative that the local Marine club have more active membership support in order to set up adequate facilities to attract the thousands of outboard sportsmen who will be heading north during the coming seasons, looking for attractive places to launch their trailer borne boats.

The club will hold a special membership drive meeting April 2 to outline the possibilities offered in Charlevoix, he said. The Marine club is not an exclusive organization for men, he points out, and ladies can be equally valuable in promoting the marine facilities of Charlevoix. The special meeting will be held at 7 p.m. in the city hall.

Schools to Close For Easter Recess

The Charlevoix public and St. Mary's parochial schools will close at 2:30 p.m. today (Thursday) for the annual Easter recess.

Classes will be resumed at the usual time, 9 a.m., Tuesday, March 31.

Commission Puts Weight Limits On County Roads

Effective today (Thursday) weight restrictions will be applied to all county primary and local roads in Charlevoix county.

In announcing this policy, John J. Martin, Charlevoix county road commission superintendent also stated there is little doubt that during the forthcoming spring break-up many township roads will have to be closed to travel. Following a winter in which all snowfall records were broken, the melting snow in many instances will make dirt and gravel roads impassable.

He went on to say that it will be impossible to put heavy equipment over these roads for either travel or repair, thus making it difficult to keep them in repair. Residents of rural areas are cautioned to stock up on supplies to cover this period.

Maintenance of state highways and hard-surfaced roads will, of course, continue though at a minimum scale during the break-up period.

Williams Pastry Shop Reorganizes As Partnership

Michael S. Flanery will become an active partner in the operation of the Williams Pastry Shop April 1, James Williams who has operated the bakery here for the past five years.

Mr. and Mrs. Flanery and their eight year old son moved here from Indiana last week and reside in the former Helsig property on M-66 which they recently purchased.

Mr. Flanery has been associated with the bakery business for 15 years. He has been a baker in some of the larger mid-west bakeries as well as a sales representative for bakers' supplies.

Committee to Study Plans for Youth Center

An open meeting to discuss the possibility of obtaining the Colonial Club property for use as a youth center attracted more than 75 parents and high school students. The meeting was held at the city hall community room with Mrs. James Coleman serving as chairman.

Following the discussion it was decided to name a planning committee which would meet with contractors and plumbers in an effort to determine the costs of repairs to put the building in condition for use as a center. The committee will also meet and talk with groups in the area who already are operating successful youth centers in an effort to determine possible cost of maintenance and ways of operating such a center.

The committee will make a report of its findings at a meeting to be called early next month.

Named to the committee were Mrs. James Coleman who will serve as temporary chairman, Mrs. Lyla Arvilla, Mrs. Charles Ducer, Mr. and Mrs. Gregory A Shadko, Frank Novotny jr., H. B. Schofield, Barney Englehart, Robert Cook, Frank Olckey, Sandy Richardson, Ken Wojan, James VerWys, Steve LaBlance and Pete Phillips.

Another committee composed of Scott Supernaw, Steve LaBlance, Ken Wojan, Jim Ladd, Pete Phillips, Joe Brandon, Dave Bergmann, Jim Haggard and Jim VerWys will meet at the club house at 9 a.m. Monday to help Mr. Shadko clean the building which has been vacant since the 1947 season.

Plan Special PTA Program for Parents-Students

"Ten Commandments for Parents" is the theme of the Charlevoix Parent-Teachers meeting to be held at 8 p.m. next Wednesday in the band room at the high school.

The ten commandments to be presented at the meeting should lead to some extremely interesting discussion on the relationship of parents and students. Moderator for the discussion will be the Rev. Robert Yonkman.

Members of the Student Council have been invited to attend the program and present the "Student Code" adopted last year by the council. The PTA has arranged the program in an attempt to establish a more common ground for understanding between student, parents and teachers.

Plan Surveys for Public Fishing Sites in State

Plans for the survey and development of public fishing sites on a state-wide scale were discussed at a meeting of Michigan Conservation Department Public Fishing Site construction and survey crews hosted by Gregory A. Shadko.

Floyd Fanselow who is in charge of the program for the conservation department was present for the meeting.

Mr. Shadko said the the crews were presently engaged in the construction of three fishing sites in Antrim county including one at Eastport and others at Torch river on the sound end of Torch lake and on Elk lake and another in Leelanau county. They will be ready for use by early summer.

Snow Makes Way For Spring Flowers

Mrs. D. H. Wood has the distinction of receiving the first bouquet of spring flowers picked in her yard at 206 Petoskey ave. despite the snowbanks.

On Monday Mr. Wood presented her with a welcomed bouquet of colorful crocuses which has braved their weather to welcome spring.

Conventions for Summer and Fall Season Assured

Charlevoix will again be a popular location for conventions this summer and fall, reports C. T. Symons jr., secretary-manager of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Symons was in Detroit and Bay City last week to tell the Charlevoix story to convention prospects. He said it is very possible the city will get a few of the conventions he was shooting for, if not this year, next year.

While in Bay City he contacted Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kramer, owners of the Beach Hotel. They reported they had several conventions already booked for the summer and fall, and were still working on others.

Weed Control Is Topic of Meeting To Be Held Monday

A weed control meeting has been set for next Monday evening, March 30, according to Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent. This meeting will be held at the Court House at Charlevoix and will start promptly at 8:30 p.m.

Bob White, agricultural engineer from Michigan State University, will discuss equipment used in chemical weed control. He will cover such things as selection, operation, calibration and etc., of this equipment. Leyton Nelson from the Farm Corps Department will discuss the materials and time of application for various crops.

The average annual farm weed bill is $500.00 per year. This is more than the cost of insects and diseases put together. Farmers can cut their costs by keeping the weeds under control.

Fire Damages Farm Residence

Fire believed to have started from a defective chimney did extensive damage to the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pop early Monday morning.

The Charlevoix fire department which was called at 7:15 a.m. extinguished the blaze but not before it had done extensive damage to the second floor and attic of the two-story seven-room frame house located five miles southeast of here in Marion township.

Ten Commandments for Parents

"Ten Commandments for Parents" which will be the subject theme for the Parent-Teacher association meeting next Wednesday evening hits squarely at one of the glaring shortcomings in our youth training of today.

There is much to-do about the increase in juvenile delinquency and the general attitude youth has toward his responsibilities in life. Every conceivable kind of project has been undertaken to create conditions and a favorable atmosphere for the betterment of our youngsters.

That is all very commendale but all too often youth programs serve to direct attention away from one of the most important youth training centers — the home. We are nothing less than negligent when we expect the schools, churches and civic programs to assume full responsibility for youth training.

Many of todays so-called youth problems are in reality parent problems. That is a personal conclusion based on 11 years of experience working with juvenile delinquents. In too many of these cases the parent should have been held responsible for the delinquency instead of the boy.

"Ten Commandments for Parents" may well be one of the answers to the youth problems of today. Even the parent who thinks he has no youth problem may discover that he is really faced with a parent problem. The least he can do is join his neighbor at this discussion sponsored by the Parent-Teachers.

BY FRAN MARTIN

BY THE CALENDAR it's spring by the warmth from the sun there's a promise of better days, by the weather as this is being written there's a slight possibility of something better (tho' it doesn't have to be much) but by the snow on the ground it's still winter.

Don't ever remember a time when we've had such a continuous winter, from Nov. 25 until now, with last week's storm climaxing a long line of storms.

BUT THE WARM days and the bright sun which has so much warmth in it now are joining with March winds to cut the height of our snow banks—big banks which have become the rule rather than the exception. But now that Easter's almost here, let's hope we've seen the last of this Winter of Winters, 'cause we've had it.

* * *

THE SOLEMN DAYS of Holy Week followed by the glorious celebration that is Easter, should do much to give us hope when we need it most. We do wish that all of you will know the wonderful feeling of hope and well being that the season always seems to bring.

* * *

ONLY THE BRAVEST souls will blossom out with new Easter togs this season, which may be just as well. Or perhaps we should say a little easy on the outs. But snow or no, the youngsters will be awaiting a visit from the Easter bunny whose going to have a tough time making his rounds this year, what with all the short cuts still filled with snow. He'll have to get an early start if he's to complete all his calls.

* * *

THE BUNNIES are being given a big assist by the youngsters at school. We paid a visit to the lower elementary grades the other day and found that bunnies, Easter eggs, baskets and similar things are the main projects at the moment. And are they ever cute. Makes one wish he could he a kid again.

EVERY COMMUNITY has its unsung heroes, pepole who are always there when you need them most, doing their jobs to the best of their ability and asking no odds of anyone. We think the unsung heroes of the north country this Winter have been the crews of the road commission and the street department whose task has been the hardest in years.

No place in the north country, and we say this without reservation, have crews worked harder and done a better job than they have here. Last week when all roads were blown shut it was these fellows who stood, and some of them went out on emergency calls when they couldn't see where they were going. All of them were on the job early the next morning, and until all the roads in our county were opened late Saturday, almost a week later, our equipment was in operation around the clock. Every last man pushed every piece of equipment until it seemed as tho' they couldn't go another mile but they did until the job was completed. In their own domain the city street crews worked equally as hard.

NORTHERN MICHIGAN is always prepared for weather, but never have we had weather like this, and chances are we won't have another winter to compare for years to come. We hope that each and everyone of you is grateful for the job these crews have done. It's been a difficult one but they've taken it in their stride. We're mighty proud of them, the unsung heroes of the winter of '58 and '59

* * *

IT'S ALL OVER now but the re-telling, and after listening to the games the lucky people who saw the state tournaments at Lansing will have plenty to talk about until next year at this time. Alcona, the team that dumped Charlevoix in the regionals at Grayling, got past Crystal Falls without any trouble only to run head-on into the new state champs, Kazoo Christian, in the semi-finals. The next day the Kalamazoo team, in a terrific game, dumped the only '58 title holder left in the race, Muskegon Christian. But the game of games was the Lansing Sexton-Hamtramck game which the Lansing team took in an overtime after overcoming a 17-point gap at halftime to tie the score as the regulation game finished. Wonder if there was anyone sitting when the game ended in a fairy tale finish the likes of which one seldom sees, even in tournament play. Glen Lake was the only northern team to go to the top, while River Rouge steamed to the B title.

* * *

UNTIL A LITTLE of that white stuff melts and the track team can get on the cinders, sports will be confined to class basketball which is always interesting.

* * *

IN THE EVENT you should see a sizable ship coming through the channel flying a Coast Guard ensign and bearing the numerals "W 104" it will be the Sundew which has been gone from Charlevoix so long that we're afraid we'll no longer recognize it. It hasn't been around since Feb. 24, some four weeks Tuesday, and presently is working in the Grand Traverse Bay area, breaking up ice so a couple tankers can get to the docks at Traverse City, where, we understand, they are running short on fuel products.

Listened to an ice report the other day. We wonder if it will ever go away. Chances are you swimmers will be ducking ice cubes this summer

MRS. MIKE LaSchaiva told us the other day she'd spotted some black birds which have yellow beaks. They don't sound like anything we've seen in recent months so they could be a harbinger of spring.

Can't remember who told us about this but someone said they had spotted a flock of geese flying north better than two weeks ago. Crazy mixed up birds, we'd say.

Easter bunnies, hampered by the recent heavy snowfall and late spring, have been given an "assist" by the youngsters of the second grade in the Charlevoix public schools. Realizing that his job will be doubly hard this year because of these conditions, the pupils of Miss Frances Milner's second grade have made papier-mache baskets which they painted in beautiful spring colors. They later applied pipe-cleaner handles and lined them with grass in anticipation of a visit from the Easer bunny.

Sponsor Benefit Dinner to Send Band to Festival

A post-Easter dinner to raise funds to send the Charlevoix high school band to Battle Creek next month will be presented at the high school cafeteria Thursday, April 2 under the sponsorship of the Charlevoix Band Parents Association.

The high school band, directed by C. A. Odmark, will participate in the annual state band and orchestra festival at Battle Creek April 18. The band parents group is sponsoring the dinner in an effort to raise funds to underwrite the cost of hotel accommodations for the 64 piece organization.

The dinner on April 2 will feature baked ham and mashed potatoes and will be presented at the same popular prices as other highly successful dinners. Serving, cafeteria style, will begin in the high school cafeteria at 5 p.m. and continue until everyone is served.

Mrs. Robert Withers is general chairman of the dinner. She is being assisted by Mrs. George LaBlance who will be in charge of the dining room; Mrs. Fay Davis who will preside at the coffee urns and William Supernaw, Mrs. Robert Miller, George LaBlance and Mr. Withers who will be working in the kitchen. Mrs. Clifford Riley heads a committee which will be in charge of decorations. Band members will wait on tables and serve as bus boys. A group of band fathers have been organized by Versal Seymour, president of the association, and H. B. Schofield, to act as dishwashers.

Another feature of the dinner will be the introduction of this year's candy to be sold by the band parents association for the benefit of the band uniform fund. A table will be manned at the dinner where people will be given an opportunity to become acquainted with this year's candy promotion.

Senator McNamara Opposes Great Lakes Water 'Steal'

Maybe "steal" is too harsh a word. Let's say "purloin." Anyway, Chicago wants to drain another 7,500 gallons of water out of Lake Michigan every second for the next year, and we don't want them to.

If you want an exercise in mathematics, try multiplying that 7,500 gallons a second by 60 seconds in a minute, 60 minutes in an hour, 24 hours in a day and 365 days in the year!

This may be good economics for Chicago, but it very bad for Michigan and the other States bordering on the Great Lakes.

And with the St Lawrence Seaway scheduled to open soon, and our spending well over $20 million a year to deepen the Great Lakes connecting channels, this is no time to lower the Lakes' levels.

Also, the lowered Lakes' levels could have a serious effect on Michigan's great recreation industry, raising the spectre of muddy shorelines, and shallow bays cluttered with canes, rushes and cattails.

These are not idle or unfounded charges. The effects of the proposed additional diversion are attested to by the Army Corps of Engineers. As a member of the Senate Public Works Committee, I have studied the evidence first hand.

Chicago may have serious sewage problems. I don't doubt that it has. But I don't think that Chicago should seek to solve them at the expense of the rest of the Great Lakes States.

After all, the entire State of Illinois has less than 100 miles of Great Lakes coastline, while Michigan has more than 2,000.

We have a lot at stake in maintaining proper levels in the Lakes, and we should fight for our rights.

That is what I, and my fellow Great Lakes States Senators, have been doing in Congress.

On two occasions, Chicago's effort to get Congressional approval of the additional diversion has met with Presidential vetoes.

But Chicago is persistent. This year, the water diversion bill has again passed the House and it is again before the Senate Public Works Committee. We will have to marshal all our forces to defeat it.

This year, we have an ally in Canada, which also has a pretty healthy stake in what happens to the Great Lakes.

Canada has notified our State Department in no uncertain terms that it is dead set against Chicago's latest diversion proposal.

Ernest Smith Jr. Joins Deep Sea Research Group

A former Charlevoix resident, Ernest Smith jr., has signed on as a member of the crew of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography's research vessel Horizon which sailed earlier this month on the first phase of a three-year project to study the northward shifting of the Baja California peninsula.

Mr. Smith now makes his home in Lemon Grove, Calif. He is the brother of Mrs. Albert Clark jr. of this city.

Scientists will seek to determine how far the land has shifted since it was formed about 100 million years ago.

The expedition will also dredge the deep bottom for specimens of "living fossils," species of marine creatures believed to have survived from pre-historic times.

The gulf was chosen for study because it is believed to be a unique feature of the earth, formed when the floor sank more than 11,000 feet.

MICHIGAN GETS A GOING OVER these days! We bulldoze away its hills, dig trenches through its meadows and bore deep down into it. Doesn't seem to mind at all either, but not so our phone conversations and TV programs. Sometimes these come to a complete halt. And all because the underground cables that carry them have been accidentally cut by the excavations. There's an easy way to prevent this from happening and it saves a great deal of inconvenience. If you have some big digging to do, call us first—at our cost. We'll make sure that our cables won't get in your way.

ON THE DIXIE highway, just north of Pontiac, there's an experimental phone booth. It's a test tryout of a new concept in phoning—drive-in or, more exactly, drive-up-to phoning. You drive up to the little booth, stop your car and simply reach out for the telephone. Then you phone away to your heart's content. (Provided you have the dimes, of course.) When the design is perfected, these booths will become general.

OUTDOOR LIVING—two words that conjure up the summer ahead. And so do these: garden chairs, sunshades, beach balls, outboard motors, swim suits, tennis rackets, canoes, lawn mowers, yes, and jugs and tall glasses. These are the raw materials of summer pleasure. But where do you find them all? Easy! Look in your Yellow Pages. You'll find the names, addresses and telephone numbers of the dealers nearest you. You'll find the brand names you respect. With the Yellow Pages you'll be able to put your finger on just about all the things that'll help to make the summer ahead something to look back on for a long time afterward.

The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Herbert Selissen of Green Bay, Wis., and the late Mr. Selissen.

County 4-H Leaders To Hold Annual Dinner Meeting

Charlevoix county 4-H leaders will hold their annual dinner meeting next Wednesday evening, April 1, according to Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent. This will be held at the East Jordan Auditorium. Dinner will be served at 7 p.m.

All 4-H leaders in Charlevoix county, are invited to attend this dinner program. Their husbands and wives are also invited. Junior leaders who are assisting adult leaders are welcome to come.

Following the dinner will be a short program. In addition to discussing such items as final plans for Spring Achievement Day, 4-H camp and other 4-H events, it is hoped that a short entertaining program will be secured.

County Grangers Offered Training Program March 31

A training meeting for Grange youth and leaders of recreation will be held the evening of Mar. 31 at the Boyne River Grange hall (2½ miles east of Boyne Falls) County Deputy Charles Weisler has announced.

Conducting the meeting which begins at 7:30 p.m., will be Arden Peterson, extension specialist in recreation, and Merrill Eady, State Grange lecturer.

A pot-luck lunch will be served following the training meeting. Mr. Weisler urges all Grangers to attend the training program. Other meeting of this nature will be held in the county if enough interest is shown in the program.

Adventures in Understanding

By Harold E. Kohn

What Is Beyond?

Any day now male redwing blackbirds will return from their winter resorts in the South and fill the damp, spring-laden air of the marshes with their rich, vigorous song, "conk-ka-ree, o-rak-a-reee." Soon thereafter the more somber, dull-colored females will come trooping in, settling in the lowlands, pairing off with the proud males who will show them extravagant attention and strut before them in their best dress-uniforms of shining black, decorated with yellow edged, scarlet shoulder epaulets.

Among sheltering sedges and low bushes they will build their [illegible] and woven [illegible] [illegible] against [illegible] was [illegible] vital [illegible] the triumph of life.

We are fortunate that Easter comes in springtime, for now our awareness of Ressurection is reinforced by every living thing: the return of migrating birds to their summer haunts, the budding and leafing of shrubs and trees, the slow greening of the good earth, and the shy, hesitant smile that steals across sullen winter skies. Earth lays off her white woolen scarf and shows the color of her spring dress, patterned with tulips, arbutus and violets. But amidst all this resurrection the most hopeful symbol is that smooth, lustrous primordial form of life, the egg, which holds in its thin shell the mystery of existence and the yet undisclosed riddle of the future.

An egg appears to be only a dead, naked shell, but then the miracle of life bursts through deceitful appearances, and a feathered morsel of vitality tumbles forth, like a soul loosened from the bonds of mortality. It was probably this parable of the egg that prompted Christians to adopt it as a symbol of Easter, borrowing it from their pagan neighbors who merely exchanged baskets of eggs each springtime as tokens of goodwill.

But more important to my [illegible] another lesson of the [illegible] even if its infant intelligence were magnified a million [illegible] are developing to see [illegible] of which the baby bird has no conception and to behold [illegible] which are wholly outside its tiny range of experience. Feather-covered ears are growing that will register sounds thusfar unheard. Wings are budding and unfolding that will soon cleave marsh breezes and carry the freed bird over sky-roads yet unvisited, on missions yet unguessed, with companions yet unknown. An egg reminds us of two kinds of life — that of preparation and that of final fulfillment, forms of life that are continuous and yet different, bound together by one significant meaning: they are boh fashioned by the same Creator, and both in His capable hands.

As for me that is the persistent answer my faith offers concerning the mysteries of the Beyond. What do I know about the life on the other side of that shell called "death"? Very little. But I am certain that the God who made his life, made the next, and He is There as well as Here.

Dr. John Baillie, once Principal of New College in Edinburgh, has told that a man in his last illness was discussing the imminence of death with his doctor. He asked the physician what he supposed the Hereafter might be like. The man of science said there was no way of describing the future life in detail, because foreknowledge is so limited. Just then the physician's dog, which sometimes accompanied him on his rounds, scratched at the patient's door, begging to get in. The doctor told the patient that the faithful dog could know nothing of what was in that room, but he knew his master was there. "Isn't that the way it is with you?" the physician asked. "You do not know all that lies beyond the door, but you know your master is there."

What we now know about the life Beyond is meager in detail but of immense value. God is there. And wherever God is, it is heaven.

J. EMMET JUDGE

"The one thing we know car buyers want above all in an automobile is quality. Yet many people assume that all cars today are pretty much the same in this respect.

This is far from being the case. I can name at least 30 basic differences in the design of our '59 Mercury. Naturally, we feel these differences make Mercury a better car. For example:

EXTRA STRENGTH STARTS WITH THE FRAME
The backbone of every Mercury is the frame. We use a heavy box-type construction—the heaviest in the industry. Competitors use frames that are up to 125 pounds lighter.

WE BUILD QUALITY YOU CAN SEE
Compare the way Mercury builds engine hoods. Most competitive cars use what is known as a single-panel construction. This type of hood can be twisted and turned with the slightest pressure—often flutters and vibrates when the car is in motion. At Mercury, on the other hand, we use a double-panel construction—two layers of steel with the insulation sandwiched in between. Not only is Mercury's hood more rigid, but it looks better.

YOU FEEL THE QUALITY WITH EVERY STOP...
Mercury brakes are the largest in the field—with up to 22% more brake lining than competitive cars. And only Mercury in its field has brakes that adjust themselves mechanically. You save money by eliminating periodic adjustments. And you are safer because Mercury brakes stay properly adjusted for the life of the linings.

...AND EVERY TIME YOU TAKE THE WHEEL
All 1959 Mercurys have a flexible coupling installed in the steering system. This acts as an insulator—absorbs road shocks that would otherwise travel up to the steering wheel. Mercury, unlike some cars, gives you this with either manual or power steering.

WE HAVE PLENTY OF PROOF THAT THIS IS THE BEST-BUILT CAR IN AMERICA TODAY
We know it is the greatest Mercury ever designed and built. Never in Mercury's 20-year history have we had so much value in the product itself. Mercury has advantages everywhere over competition. The four described on this page are only typical. In future messages I'll tell you about dozens more—in styling, comfort, in everything you want in a car."

Contest Developes for 2nd Ward Alderman

Incumbent Franklin Boss Is Candidate for Re-election by Draft

The announcement Wednesday that incumbent second ward alderman, Franklin Boss, would seek re-election to the office as a 'sticker' candidate, opposing Richard Donaldson who had won the nomination in the February primary election, promised to bring renewed interest in the April 6 biennial election Monday, especially in the city's second ward.

Boss, who had represented his ward on the council for the past four years, consented to become a 'sticker' candidate this week when he was literally drafted for the post by voters in his ward.

Donaldson, who is seeking election to the aldermanic post for the second time in two years, won the nomination over Boss by a vote of 97 to 67 in the February primary election. Last year he opposed Ray L. Kipke in a contest which resulted in a tie vote. Kioke won the nomination when it became necessary to draw lots for the post.

Elsewhere in the city a light vote is anticipated since there are no contests. Seeking re-election to their respective offices without opposition are: mayor E. James Hiller: clerk, Hugh Mayne; treasurer, Nelle A. Hammond; first ward alderman, Clare Staley; third ward alderman, Edward P. Hansen; supervisors, Ivan Phillips, Ted R. Miller and Jess Smith, candidates in the first, second and third wards respectively.

Despite a shortage of local contests, the voters will find this year's slate of partisan candidates for state offices the largest ever, due to a new section to accommodate the election of a six-member Wayne State University board of governors. In addition there will be the names of five candidates seeking election to two Supreme court posts on the non-partisan ballot. A third ballot will carry three amendments.

Offices at stake on the partisan state ticket are those of the Regents of the University of Michigan (two to be elected); Superintendent of Public Instruction (one to be elected); member of the State Board of Education (one to be elected); members of the State Board of Agriculture (two to be elected) and members of the Wayne State University board of governors (two to be elected for terms of two, four and six years each).

School Board Approves Sale Of Bond Issue

The sale of $995,000 in school bonds to the Barcus Kindred and Co. of Chicago, representing a syndicate which includes five other companies, was approved by the Charlevoix board of education at a special meeting held here Thursday.

Interest rate will average 4.34 per cent.

Other companies included in the syndicate which offered the best interest rate are: Juran and Moody, MacDougal and Condon, Loewi and Co., Martin and Co., Martin and Co. and Vincent Neuman and Co.

The bonds will underwrite the cost of a junior-senior high school for the Charlevoix school district. It will be constructed on property located on Garfield ave. which the school district now owns.

The board of education will advertise for bids on the structure as soon as final plans are completed by the architect, Gordon Cornwell of Traverse City.

The tax levy to finance the bond issue was approved by a vote of 600 to 514 at a special election held in November. It will require a levy of 5.8 mills on the school district's present evaluation of $11,823,766 to be levied over a 27 year period.

Five bids in which 23 companies were interested were received for the sale of the bonds.

The new school will supply six classrooms and a general purpose room for use by the junior high division plus two science rooms, one homemaking room, two rooms for use by the commerce department and a general pur-

That's right . . . the telephone number at the Charlevoix Courier with which the dialing public has become familiar has been changed to LI 7-6558. The change became necessary when the Charlevoix Courier had a second line into the office installed recently thus making it easier for you to reach the office.

C. of C. Directors Revise Budget For 1959 Program

The Chamber of Commerce directors cut the 1959 budget by $2,070.00 in order to keep within the anticipated revenue for this year. The budget was trimmed after the council informed the Chamber that it could not expect more than $3,500 from the city for promotions and advertising.

Budget cuts approved by the directors Wednesday evening were: secretary-manager, $300; stenographic help, $120; program committee, $400; decorations committee, $100; miscellaneous expenses, $150; Venetian festival, $509, highway sign program $250; industrial committee, $250.

The various committees will necessarily have to revise their program in order to keep within the allotted funds. A brief business meeting and a report on the recent board of directors meeting preceded the discussion period.

It's Your Business

A visit to the Municipal Electric Light plant last week to look over the dressed up interior has caused us to be conscious of the fact that there is more to this business of producing electricity for the community than some of us may realize. A further investigation of the operation leads to some facts the public should know about this business it operates.

We have often thought that publicly owned business [illegible] at the expense of taxpayers. [illegible] the facts in the case of the Charlevoix [illegible].

Looking over the records we find the locally owned plant has steadily increased its power output over the last three years and at the same time has steadily decreased the number of hours the diesel engines have been operated. Records show that during 1956 the diesel engines operated 17,188 hours to produce 5,818,150 kilowatts. During 1958 the engine operating hours had been reduced to 15,803 and the output had been stepped up to 7,101,260 kilowatts — more than a million increase in kilowatts with better than 1,000 less hours of engine operation.

That kind of efficiency may well account for the fact that electric rates established here in 1948 are still in effect despite the fact that labor and material costs have steadily increased.

Incidentally, a check of electric rates in this area of the state shows the rates in Charlevoix compare favorably with other communities. There is a variance in rate schedule based on the amount of electricity consumed. Charlevoix rates are lower in some brackets and higher in others, but when averaged out Charlevoix patrons pay less than the average rate and very little more than the minimum rate.

It is worth noting that the Charlevoix plant is entirely self supporting and is operated [illegible] of city financing. During the last three years the plant has operated on the black side of the ledger, and at the same time set [illegible] funds for maintenance, replacements, and depreciation.

Another angle is worthy of mention. The community is provided with many free services that might otherwise come out of the taxpayers pocket book. These include free porch lighting, free street lighting, free lighting for the skating rink, the athletic field and the park, and free current for special street decorating events.

When the whole picture is brought into focus, the Charlevoix Municipal light plant operation may well be the envy of other communities in the state. We, at least, can appreciate what we have.

AHHH, IT'S SPRING! How do we know? Because the birds have been waking us up at daybreak with their chirping and because we've seen our first robins. Now these aren't the birds that spent the winter here. They're the kind that are too well fed and sleek looking to have been blown about by our winter gales. They're the kind that compare with these people who return from the south boasting about their tans. Anyway, it makes us happy to see them 'cause we feel that spring is almost bound to follow.

A HANDFUL of HEALTH

Many of today's "miracle drugs" are dispensed in very small quantities. At first consideration the cost of these small portions may seem high. Actually, the cost of such prescriptions is most reasonable.

Measured in terms of benefits—fast relief from pain . . . speedy recovery from illness . . . fewer and smaller medical bills—you realize that the small quantity of medicine was worth many times the price you paid for it. Today's medicines are the world's biggest bargains.

Bowling News

BY DES

I haven't bowled in a couple of weeks and the way I bowled Tuesday I should have stayed away a couple of more weeks — 5 really, then the season would be over. My bowling wasn't missed and by looking at last week's Courier I see my column wasn't missed either. My "Ghost Rider" did a very capable job. So capable in fact that I'd just as soon let him write the column all the time. For those of you who don't know who the "Ghost Rider" is — it is Don (Burro) Meggison.

* *

Neff's took over first place by [illegible] points from a very [illegible] Big Reg- [illegible] 504 series. For the [illegible] 210 third game to hit 509. Soupie also had a 204 game — 293 to be exact, which enabled him to come in low on the team with a 465.

** *

The Freedman No. 2 bunch did not help their cause any as they dropped 3 points to Lake Construction. Freedman's beat themselves more than Lake did as neither team had much of anything. George Bergmann got hot the last game and came home with a 217 game, and also high series for his team with a 490. For the losers, only Harry Pearsol able to beat his average as he had a 479.

[illegible] 450 [illegible] The Gardens [illegible] up with high series of the night 2523. For Swanson Gravel, who had to absorb all the punishment Bob Ferguson led with his 204 game and 536. [illegible] way the Moonlight Gardens opened Wednesday. Hope you have a good season Annie.

Browe Electric held on to 4th position [illegible] Puffs in 5th as they split with Puff's 2-2. For Browes it was Ted again high for his team with a 465 while for Puffs, it was Puffer himself getting [illegible] slow start but winding up with games of 214 & 211 [illegible] series.

[illegible] as they won 3 [illegible] 2-2 split. For Freedman's only Johnny Swanson could do much of anything. John started out with games of 209 & 201 and ended up with a 579 series, high for the evening. For Browns, only Norm Empey could come up over his average. Norm had a 511 series to take high honors.

* * *

Andy wanted me to write a little note and let all you bowlers know that the city tourney is starting April 10th. The entrees [illegible] on that same date at midnight. If your team doesn't want [illegible] you can [illegible] own teams from [illegible]

Adventures in Understanding

Notes from a northerner's diary

By Harold E. Kohn

Like the Coming of Spring

Now patches of dry, brown grass appear in open fields. Deer eagerly leave the swamps to nibble on tender greening shrubs. Soon the lowlands, ponds, and marshes will ring with choruses of spring peepers singing to the rippling accompaniment of overflowing streams. Warm south winds and soft spring rains will coax apple blossoms from their twigs, violets from forest loam and marsh marigolds from their brookside [illegible] of broad green leaves. Far lighter than a feather's touch, the sun's golden radiance has stroked the earth, and the world awakens, blinks and stirs, flings back its bed clothes, and commences its vigorous setting-up exercises.

What brings about these changes? Life is reviving here because of something taking place far out in space where the relationship between the earth and sun has been undergoing a change. While for several months the Northern Hemisphere has been turned away from the sun, now the North has begun to incline toward the sun's warm, radiant beneficence. And the sun will do the rest. Until the sun bestows its favors no amount of prying and pushing of seeds will make them grow. No frenzied efforts on our part will bring the warblers from their winter homes, or free the frost-bound earth from its chains of ice and wrappings of snow. Something vital is transpiring here because of a change way out there where the influences of sun and earth meet and become cordial. Who would think that the delicate beauty of spring violets and the sweet fragile notes of returning birds had anything to do with the number of degrees in an oblique angle that the earth's surface makes with the ninety-million-mile-distant sun? Yet that is the way it often is with this mysterious universe — something happening here because of another thing happening elsewhere.

The prosperity of farmers near Cairo, Egypt can be accounted for by plentiful rain high in the mountaintops of the African interior where the Nile River begins. Drought in those mountains will mean a ruinous lack of water for irrigation of farms thousands of miles away. So it is with life, much of its successful handling depends upon indirect factors. If we want success here at this point, we must begin at another point altogether.

One of life's strangest paradoxes is that many of our most coveted goals are not reached by striving for them, but by aiming at something else altogether. When a person has a serious lung infection, medicine is not forced into the lung. A serum is injected into the arm or hip, and must go to the lung indirectly. So in solving life's problems, a cure is often affected through attacking them by a circuitous route, by indirection.

Some go about life constantly frustrated because their aggressive assaults on life's problems do not yield expected results. They attempt by back-slapping, flattery, and busy-bodied attentiveness to make friends of their acquaintances, and when they have received a back-slapping, flattering, attentive response they believe they have succeeded. But they are soon disillusioned, and find that the reaction will not bear the tests of friendship. A slight misunderstanding, a fervent difference of opinion, and the relationship is broken. A real friendship is seldom formed by aggressively attempting to make a friend out of an acquaintance. Friendship is a by-product of trust, reverence, similar interests, a common standard of values and shared enthusiasms and contentments. When these conditions are fulfilled friendship arrives unsought.

You have had the experience of trying to remember an elusive name that persisted in escaping you. "Just a minute," you said. "I'll have it in just a minute!" But nothing you could do would force that name from its hiding place somewhere far back in the corridors of memory. So you gave up. Then, hours later when you were planting a garden, or fishing, or preparing a meal the lost name came creeping from concealment and identified itself. Memory is like a shy child. If you go after it aggressively, demanding that it come to you, it flees. But if you sit back quietly, waiting, busying yourself with other interests it approaches you and tugs at your sleeve, seeking attention.

One of the most noticeable differences between morally good people is found in the presence or absence of radiance. Some are morally good but unattractively so—showing signs of strenuous, pained effort to be decent, bearing the marks of strain on their face like an amateur soprano reaching for an impossibly high note. Others are radiantly good with the happy grace of a mother effortlessly singing hymns of joy as she busies herself with kitchen chores.

The secret of wholesome, upright living is not found in merely wanting to be good and seeking goodness with a dogged determination. Effort is necessary, but effort alone is not enough. We do not enoble our lives by straining to be good. We become better people by indirection, by a conscientious self-examination and repentence for our failures, by fighting difficulties, and overcoming trouble and temptation, by imagining oneself in another persons place and treating him as one would wish to be treated, by seeking to serve world need, by becoming involved in transforming fellowships with people of contagious good spirit, by frequent meditations upon life's highest and noblest values and especially by a sustained companionship with God. Aim directly at goodness and you will be either [illegible]

W[illegible] I've [illegible] many happy people [illegible] countless unhappy ones and I've been amazed that the miserable people never [illegible] to learn from the happy ones [illegible] happiness cannot be had by seeking it. Happiness comes not on a [illegible] pursuit, but makes its appearance when we are looking for other things we regard more important. We pursue a mighty purpose, and find happiness along the way, or we engage our attention and skill, our time and energy in a worthwhile task like building a boat, growing roses, painting a picture, educating a child and happiness joins us, unexpected. We attempt to fill our minds with the most interesting, inspiring, worthwhile thoughts and happiness slips in with the [illegible] almost unnoticed. Or we try to make others happy and while pouring the perfume of pleasure on others we accidently spill [illegible] ourselves.

Growth in friendships, good[illegible] and happiness, like all growth of spirit, is like the coming of spring. It cannot be had by frenzied effort. It comes when the conditions are met, when we turn thoughtfully and reverently toward the bright radiance of the things that matter most, and toward the light of God.

Canoeists Take Spring Trip on Jordan River

Four local residents enjoyed an unusual winter outing Sunday when they canoed 15 miles down the Jordan river from Grave's Crossing to Rogers Bridge.

They were Lee Moerland, Jack Mol, George Hutchinson and Dick Fochtman who reported seeing 15 or 20 deer at several locations along the river, 12 to 15 mallard ducks as well as smaller native game along the river which wended its way between banks covered with several feet of snow. At one spot they saw three dead deer in the river. There were signs of dogs which had been chasing deer in some areas.

SUNDEW REPORTS

So near and yet so far . . . the lights (of the tower) were in sight but it wasn't in the cards for the Sundew to moor in Charlevoix this past weekend.

The week started quiet enough The storm kept us in Muskegon Monday and Tuesday which enabled several men to return from and depart on leave. Wednesday also was comparativly quiet. We shifted our moorings back to the Clipper dock which put us closer to the center of town.

At 7 p.m. a call was received to assist a fishing boat stuck in the ice near Whitehall, about eight miles north of Muskegon. A call was sent out in the Muskegon area for the men on liberty to return to the ship but because of the size of the town it was difficult to reach everyone. Most made it back to the ship before we departed. We were able to free the fishing boat in short order and while she went into Whitehall we returned to Muskegon.

Seems as though Thursday is bowling day when we are away from Charlevoix. A large group of men went on early liberty to test their skill on the polished woods Later in the afternoon a second call in two days was received from the Muskegon Lifeboat Station to assist in the rescue of three men who were thrown into the icy waters of Muskegon Lake when their small fishing boat capsized We put one of our small boats over the side because the water was too shallow for the Sundew to go into the area When our boat reached the scene the police had already pulled the men from the water. Two were conscious but the third was unconscious. Despite artificial respiration administered by John Massey EN2 the man was pronounced dead by a local physician. Another reminder to maintain healthy respect for water even in shallow places.

At midnight Thursday the long awaited word was received We were relieved from the Muskegon area to return to Charlevoix. At 4 a.m. Friday we cleared the dock and headed northward but the elements were against us. The winds increased Friday, and from the wrong direction. Any clear water in the Charlevoix area was covered in a few hours by thick ice. We first encountered ice in the Manitou passage and as we turned eastward it became progressively thicker until windrows of six to 10 feet finally stopped us six miles short of our goal.

Continued high winds closed our track to the rear and kept the pressure on the already field of ice. It wasn't until Sunday noon when a shift in the wind opened lanes that enabled us to free ourselves and reach open water. We swung into Grand Traverse Bay and bulled our way through 16 to 24 inches of blue ice to Traverse City.

SUNDEW SCUTTLEBUTT . . .

Our sympathy is extended to Chief and Mrs. Bassett upon the death of Mrs. Bassett's mother in Escanaba. Condolences, too, to Charlie Hart, FN, upon the death of his grandfather. We appreciate the moral support from all those in town who parked on the highway south of Charlevoix and cheered us as we attempted to break free of the ice. Will be losing several men soon as the Charlevoix Group office prepares to man the lights on upper Lake Michigan. Navigation season is close at hand.

Lest you forget! This picturesque snow scene was photographed by Louis McKenzie two weeks ago after county highway road crews cut through huge drifts to open the Barnard Road. This drift was typical of those through the county that taxed road crews and snow removal equipment to the limit during the late winter months.

Conservation Dept. Surveying Deer Loss From Record Winter

[illegible] 1958 [illegible] 36,000 [illegible] additional winter [illegible] other causes — deer research personnel of the Conservation Department have their work cut out for them in 1959.

A major item on the research program's year-round agenda is the dead deer survey which is slated to begin this spring. Provided funds are available, Department members will trek thru miles of randomly-selected sub-areas of the deer range in both peninsulas to help determine deer mortality figures from starvation, dogs, disease and illegal kills.

It is but one facet of an intricate program which encompasses such studies as disease, yearly [illegible], mortality, physical condition, nutrition, populations, [illegible] evaluation, reproduction [illegible] damage to farms and orchards.

Much of the information for these studies is collected by game biologists, ecologists, conservation officers and the public. Like a jig-saw puzzle, these pieces of information are fit together, forming an over-all picture of the herd and its problems.

Laboratories at Houghton Lake and Cusino serve as headquarters for applying field data to controlled deer experiments such as diet tests. These tests are conducted in pens under differing range conditions to study eating habits, types of food and effects of the diets on the deer.

Data derived from these and other tests help to solve problems affecting the herd in its natural range and also serve as valuable guidelines when hunting regulations are established.

Coast Guard's Most Traveled Sailor

(Continued from Page One) with the cutter he was commanding. His duty there included Gate Guard duty at the Charleston base. Following his re-enlistment in October 1942 he was transferred to the cutter Mangrove, an assignment which lasted until Sept. 1945 when he was transferred to the Aids to Navigation School at Groton, Conn.

The following April he was returned to Charleston and re-assigned to the Cape Fear Light Station at Southport, S. C.

In October, 1947, a new assignment took him to Baltimore for duty aboard the cutter Violet. His next assignment took him to Norfolk, Va. for duty aboard the weather ship, Chincoteague, duty which took him to such places as Argentia, Newfoundland; Halifax, Nova Scotia and Londonderry, Ireland.

After a three months duty aboard the cutter Mistletoe, in May 1951 he found himself at Green Cove Springs, Fla., as a member of the crew of a destroyer escort which was being re-activated as the cutter Forester. The following August the ship departed for the west coast via the Panama Canal with a stop at Acapulco, Mexico, thence to Vallejo, Calif., for re-conversion. In February 1952 the ship made its way to Hawaii with Mr. Ehlers, now third class boatswain's mate, still aboard. Later he served aboard the cutters Buttonwood and Walnut before being assigned to the Ninth district for the first time. This was in February 1953.

After several months aboard the cutter Acacia at Detroit he was transferred to duty at the South Chicago and later the Jackson Park Lifeboat Stations in August 1953.

It was while he was at the latter station that he was awarded a letter of commendation from the U. S. Coast Guard for his part in saving the lives of four people during a squall which capsized their small cruiser and [illegible] on Lake Michigan. Mr. Ehlers and a crew of three men searched the waters off the station before rescuing the four people at great risk to him and [illegible] Coast Guard [illegible]. This happened on July 6, 1954.

In May 1955 he was transferred to Sault Ste. Marie as officer in charge of the Little Rapids Cut Light Attendant Station. In May of 1957 he came to this group as officer in charge of Grays Reef Light Station. He has had the rank of Chief Boatswain's Mate since August 1, 1956.

His wife, the former Mae Pack of Campobello, S. C., whom he married while in Norfolk, has accompanied him to his various assignments since their marriage.

Though his present enlistment will be up this fall, Mr. Ehlers, prior to leaving for his new assignment, said that he plans to enlist for at least another three years.

Great Oaks from Acorns Grow

When a young man starts out on his first job, he usually starts at the bottom of the ladder. The success he attains comes through a gradual growth based on training and experience. As his stature grows, so does the potential contribution he may make to his community.

The favorable "climate" he finds in his community plays an important part in how much he grows.

Industry is much the same as the individual. Most industries start on a small scale. Take the automobile, for example. Ford, Olds and others, who became greats in this industry, were very small at first.

But like the great oaks that rise from tiny acorns, the little shops that produced the first automobiles, grew and grew into great industries.

Who knows, the little industry that may be operating today in our midst, or one that we can bring to our community through a good community selling effort, may grow to become a mighty big concern in a few years. This would mean jobs for many people.

The important thing for our community is to provide a healthy climate for every single industry we have, no matter how small, to encourage it and let it know we appreciate what it is doing for our people.

Let's let industry know that here in our community it will find a warm welcome and the encouraging climate that is good for growing.

Then, like the little acorn, as they grow they will help build a bigger and better community that will benefit all who lives here.

"Great oaks from little acorns grow" is the theme of an advertisement in today's Courier. It is another in a year-long series of public service advertisements sponsored by the Michigan Press Association and Michigan Economic Development Department. The ads are designed to stimulate local industrial development programs.

Judy Ingalls, president of the Charlevoix high school band, and Steve Wells, the student director, launch the 1959 candy sale sponsored by the Charlevoix Band Parents Association by selling two packages of choice candies to Mrs. Kit Carson, an ardent supporter of the band.

High School Band Members to Stage Candy Sale Saturday

The above scene will be repeated many times Saturday when the members of the Charlevoix high school band canvass the community, selling this year's band candy.

The drive, sponsored by the Charlevoix Band Parents Association, will feature three varieties of Masar candies, especially packaged for the Charlevoix high school band.

Proceeds from the sale will be placed in the Uniform Fund of the Band Parents Association to underwrite the cost of an additional 20 uniforms to take care of an anticipated increase in the Senior Band enrollment during the next few years. The enrollment in the instrumental program has been growing steadily for several years and promises to continue its growth. For instance, the eighth grade presently has 32 members in the band, the seventh grade 36 and the recently organized beginner's band composed of sixth grade students, 50 members.

A Senior band of 89 pieces in the tenth, eleventh and twelfth grades is a distinct possibility, C. A. Odmark, band director, [illegible] Band Parents Association [illegible] rather than waiting until the emergency is actually here.

Versal Seymour, president of the sponsoring Band Parents Association, has expressed the gratitude of the entire organization for the fine support the community has given the band in its various fund-raising projects. He added that he hoped everyone would be home Saturday morning to answer the door when band members begin their canvass of the community to sell the candy. There is a limited supply of candy this year and the Saturday canvass should exhaust the supply so everyone is advised to purchased their candy Saturday morning.

BY FRAN MARTIN

"TAKE ME OUT to the ball park" will be heard up and down and across the land this week as the 1959 baseball season gets underway. Want to make any wagers? Not that we're interested but we might be able to find you a guy who's willing to bet on the results of this season before it gets started. But up and down the street one can hear "Wonder what Detroit will do this year?" "Have they got the pitching they need?" "the batting power?" Not being what one would call a rabid baseball fan we wouldn't be knowin'. It would be great to have a winner in our state for a change, but at this early date we will just hope for the best and let the chips fall where they will.

* * *

SUNDAY SAW the last of the pro basketball, with the play-offs climaxing the end of a grand season. And can those big boys play ball. But, you know, they can blow a lead with the best of 'em. As this is being written the Celtics have two to their credit over the Lakers who gave everyone a bad scare Saturday. And for basketball that's all 'til October.

* * *

AND FOR THOSE who like a less strenuous sport there was the Masters' golf tourney which probably was exciting enough for those who like golf.

* * *

BUT RIGHT NOW we're wondering when our kids are going to get on the cinder track. They come and go every day but with so much snow around it will be some time before the track will be in shape. If they can ever get started and we have a decent spring this could be a good track season. But there are so many 'ifs.'

"It's snowing all over our spring" was the answer Sara Sweet gave her dad, Ken Sweet, when he asked her what was going on, pretty well describes Charlevoix's weather during the past week. After a few warm days, a little rain and the promise of spring, it did snow. But it was April and everyone was sure it wouldn't last for long.

* * *

INCIDENTLY, how did you like the results of the Masters golf tourney. Watched the finish after this was started. Boy, it doesn't take much to blow a lead in that game. Arnold Palmer seemingly had the whole thing wrapped up when he goofed on two short putts and there went the prize money as he ended up in third. What a finish!

* * *

IF YOU'RE LOOKING for something to do, how about making a trip to the high school gym tomorrow afternoon or evening to see the handiwork of the 4-Hers which will be on display throughout the day? These kids certainly do a terrific job in a lot of different fields. Until you see it you can't believe that youngsters this age can do as much as they do. Time was when the program was limited to cooking and sewing but that was long ago. Now they have just about anything a youngster would be interested in. It's a joy to see them, so why not take time to give the display the once over?

We'd like to pay tribute to 4-H leaders throughout the county who give of their time and talents year after year that these youngsters might enjoy this acivity. Many leaders have been at it for years. They receive no compensation except the satisfaction of helping youngsters. We think they deserve more than a few accolades for the fine job they are doing.

People who put their health on a "bargain counter" when they have a prescription to be filled may save pennies—but at what cost to their physical well being? It is an incontestable fact that it is impossible to "cut" prescription prices without "cutting corners" somewhere along the line. This we absolutely refuse to do. We make certain that the prescription is RIGHT in every detail—and then we put a RIGHT and REASONABLE price on the medicine. Nothing could be fairer than that.

Bowling News

BY DES

Well with only four weeks and 20 points left in the season we find two teams tied for first place and only 3 points seperating the first four teams.

In action Tuesday night we find that Freedman No. 2 climbed into a tie for first by winniog 3 points from Freedman No. 1. For the winning bunch — all the series' were pretty even. Only 29 pins seperated the low, Wes Pemberton's 427 and the high, Bob Conkley's 456. The low average man oo the team though, Jack Niswaoder (129) came through with the high game — 170. For the losers it was John Swanson having a bad night but still high for his team with a 494.

• • •

Moonlight Gardens crept up to within one point of the leaders [illegible] 3 points from the Oilers. Moonlight had 2 men over the mark with Grover Geneit leading the way with his 208 [illegible] The [illegible] was [illegible] with his 529. [illegible] their [illegible] over [illegible] the [illegible] men dragging [illegible] to carry [illegible] Miller joined the rollers after a few weeks practice and led the Oilers with a nice 539 series including a 221 game. Tip O'Rile was next with a 532 series, 204 game followed by Kenny Cellner and a 537. Meg was draggin anchor but not as bad as Louie and his 380.

Puffs pulled up into 5th position and still remained in contention only 7 points back by virtue of their split with the Airport Inn. The total on this match was decided by 5 pins. For Puffs it was "ole dad" himself coming through with a 564 series which included a big 237 first game. For the Ino — 3 men over the mark with yours truly coming in high with a 547. It took me a while to get started — 2 games in fact but I finally came through with a 241 third game which was high for the evening. Hank followed up with a 533 and Soupie next with a 527. Nick & Dick [illegible] out for 4th and 5th position with Nick [illegible] by 2 [illegible]

[illegible] 3 [illegible] team and [illegible] Gravel [illegible] fought it out to a 2-2 split. This match was [illegible] by a mere 5 pins. For [illegible] it was C. T. Bennett, leading the way with his 503. Charlie just missed that 200 mark by 1 in the last game. For Swanson's it was Bob Ferguson being the whole show. Bob tied for high series of the year with his 615. Bob also had a good chance for high game of the year as he started out his 3rd game with 7 in a row (strikes that is) but faltered in the final frames and theo missing in the 10th to let me in with high game of the night. Bob actually threw 10 in a row as he ended up his 2nd game with a turkey in the 10th.

* * *

Now for the big news of the night — Browns moved out of the cellar and into 11th position by winning 3 points from Lake Construction. For Browns it was Empey (Norm I imagine — oo initials on the card) coming in high man as he rolled three nice games of 177 or better for a 553 series. For the Lakers who only had 4 men it was George Bergmann high with a 476 series.

* * *

As I mentioned before Browns moved out of the cellar. As you can imagine — the Airport went Inn. — Well it was like this — on the way over we discussed the situation — and we said — who are the Detroit Lions that they're any better than we are. If they can be first one year and end up last the next — so can we — and here we are — and I'm going to bed. I'm tired.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Doc Didn't Pull His Punch

"This fellow had a bad tooth," he explained, "but I told him I could save it with a few prompt treatments. Then, after that one visit it was six months before he came back.

"This time," Doc said, "his cheek was all swollen up. 'It's that same tooth,' he said. 'Think we can save it?' Sure, I said, after I take it out you can put it in your pocket and take it home with you."

From where I sit, trouble gets worse with neglect. That's why we should never Ignore "intolerance" in any form. Sometimes it crops up in little things like begrudging a man his right to a glass of beer, or telling him what kind of television programs he should watch. Let's all respect our neighbor's preferences and opinions. That way we won't "pull" at each other's freedom.

INDUSTRY is booming in Michigan.

The "state with the problems of economic climate" was ranked fourth in industrial plant growth during the past year and the future looks even brighter.

Consumers Power Co. is planning a $100,000,000 electric generating plant on Lake Michigan at the mouth of the Big Pigeon River, 30 miles west of Grand Rapids.

• • •

The bill would authorize the state conservation department to grant an easement over 63 acres of submerged Lake Michigan land in Port Sheldon township, Ottawa County.

• • •

PRESIDENT [illegible] the plant would serve Grand Rapids, Muskegon, Kalamazoo and the other communities in the 61-county area supplied with electricity by the company.

Coal to fuel the plant will be delivered by lake boats.

"We are now in the preliminary construction work on the site and hope to begin construction of breakwaters and a deep ship and water intake channel by the summer of 1960," he said.

* * *

The submerged land is shallow rivermouth area and because of the shallowness of the water, it is navigable only by small crafts.

The company's petition to the legislature promises that the general public will be able to use the breakwater and port for a harbor of [illegible]

DEMOCRATS in Michigan [illegible] G. Mennen Williams [illegible] little [illegible] national poll [illegible]

It raises the question of what Williams intends to do following his present term, which will give him 12 years in the executive office. Consider these:

1. Mrs. Williams, traveling around the world for the United Nations' World Health Organization (WHO) said in Tokyo that her husband has "had enough" and will not run for governor again.

2. Michigan Democratic leaders were upset when a Chicago political writer took a poll of 1956 convention delegates without mentioning Williams.

3. The palace guard in Lansing is running for the governor's office. There are Secretary of State James M. Hare, Treasurer Sanford A. Brown and Lt. Gov. John B. Swainson. Supreme Court Justice George Edwards is also mentioned as a candidate.

4. [illegible] colleague [illegible] as [illegible]

Some of the industry's spokesmen are predicting a 6,000,000 unit year, despite the competition from foreign cars, which one researcher claims are making a hit for their 'snob appeal.'

UNIVERSITY faculties are getting worried about finances, both long and short range.

They are fretting that, even if their administrators receive the hoped-for appropriations, that other pressing needs will stand in the way of salary increases they consider long over due.

The legislature appropriates money for the support of the universities, but has no voice in earmarking it for any special project or use.

GREAT OAKS FROM LITTLE ACORNS GROW

The oak tree depends on favorable soil and weather during its early years. Our town, if it is to have good industrial payrolls, must provide a good climate for industry.

Climate for industry boils down to how present industry is treated. Good climate for industry makes our town grow stronger.

Good industrial climate helps small industry, like good climate helps tho oak tree. And it attracts new industry.

Join hands with your local industrial development organization and the Michigan Economic Development Department to help your community prosper.

It will take you about 4 minutes to find out why

It Pays to Own a Dodge!

Okay, it's settled. You've thought about it and talked about it and now you've decided: A new car—and soon. Now for the jackpot question. Which '59 car will it be?

Unless you happen to be a Mr. Gotrocks, you'll probably think pretty carefully before you finally make the move. You'll do more shopping and compare more closely. And you'll ask yourself some basic questions. How much will a new car cost me to buy? How much will it cost me to drive? What do I get for my money?

There is no mystery about new car prices

Until this year, it was hard to compare different makes of cars to find which offered the most value for the money. It was like comparing apples and bananas. But not any more. Not since all new cars are required to carry price labels. Now, for the first time, you can compare various makes and models and see exactly what you're getting for your money. It's like exposing the hole cards in a game of stud poker: You know exactly where you stand.

Why should you buy a Dodge?

No one has to tell you that there are a number of cars on the market that sell for less than a Dodge. No cigar on that count. You know it and we know it. But there are things you get in a Dodge that you simply can't get in these other smaller cars.

And this is important. Dodge gives you all of these things—the bigness and [illegible], the comfort and ride, the luxury and [illegible]—for less than [illegible].

It's not just a few dollars less, either; in many cases it's literally hundreds of dollars less. Some Dodge models are even priced lower than the so-called "low-priced cars." (We'll be happy to show you the actual suggested retail prices.)

All cars cost money to run—but how much?

It would be nice if you just bought a new car and that was that. It didn't burn gas. Didn't use oil. Never needed service. But that's wishful thinking. Cars do use gas and oil. They do need service occasionally. But that doesn't mean that all cars cost the same to drive and maintain. Not by a jugful. There's a big difference.

Dodge is designed to run for less

Dodge has always had a reputation for economical operation. People who have owned them have found it costs less to run a Dodge, and that a Dodge needs service less often.

Take gasoline economy. The new Dodge 326 cu. in. Red Ram V-8 engine, because of its design and efficiency, will take you miles farther on a gallon of gas than any other V-8 in the Dodge field. You save money every mile you drive.

But that's only part of the story. The way Dodge is engineered and built saves you money on such things as engine wear, brake relining, tune-ups, spark plug replacement. When you add them all up, they represent quite a saving. Another reason why it pays to own a Dodge.

[illegible] beans—is what you get for what you pay. It's the "extras" you get at no extra cost that really determine which car is the best buy.

Dodge gives you more for less

Talk is cheap. Anyone can make claims. So let's be specific about the extras you get in Dodge at no extra cost. Torsion-Aire Ride—conceded the finest suspension in the industry—standard equipment on all Dodge models. Total-Contact Brakes, Safety-Rim Wheels, Electric Windshield Wipers, Independent Parking Brake—all standard on Dodge. Of course, you can also choose from such Dodge options as Push-Button Driving, Full-Time Power Steering and Swing-Out Swivel Seats.

There's a big difference in comfort, too

Goodness knows, we certainly don't want to knock competition. But we feel obligated to point out the comfort and convenience of the '59 Dodge. If you've tried getting into some of the other '59 cars you know just what we mean. To say it is difficult would honestly be an understatement. That's why we hope you'll come in and compare the difference in Dodge. How much easier it is to get in and out of a Dodge. How much more comfortable it is to sit in a Dodge. How much more room you have to stretch out. Really, it pays to own a Dodge.

It doesn't cost a penny to get the facts

Adventures in Understanding

Notes from a northerner's diary

By Harold E. Kohn

Where There's Death There's Hope

MARCH 31, 1959 — After our family made our nightly deer count, seeing eleven deer along the Camp Charlevoix road, we returned home, and I took a stroll up the west trail at Wide Sky Harbor.

In the somber blue-grey hour between seven and eight on this moist spring night the patches of earth exposed by the thaw present a picture of mixed life and death. There lie the twigs and limbs broken from birches and poplars, spruce and balsam by last winter's snow and ice. There rest last autumn's leaves having danced their last fling, now moldering in dark brown heaps. Faded grasses, sprawled in soggy limpness, will never rise again. A graveyard sobriety lies thick upon the land on this last day of March.

But life is there too — not yet apparent, but life about to be born. One can feel its heart beat in the belly of Mother Earth, heavy with her young. Faint stirrings of bulbs and roots can be sensed, the first feeble quiverings of unseen organisms in small pools and rivulets, the smoldering desire of underground shoots and seeds to reach the light. Death and resurrection are comingled here.

Why is it that we think of life and death as the antithesis of each other? In nature death is not so much the enemy of life as its friend They belong to each other and are companionable. Wherever we find an abundance of life there is also an abundance of death. Mixed with the multitude of infant grasses just now greening are the countless dead grasses. They have made way for the next generation and their decay will fertilize the soil, providing nutriment for generations of grasses yet to come.

Life and death exist in cordial communion in our streams and lakes. Fish eggs are laid in astounding profusion, but this is because the mortality rate of fish eggs and fish fry is extremely high Only by great reproductivity are the hazards of life for fish overcome enough to insure the survival of their race. A mature female brook trout may lay as many as 5,000 eggs in a single season. But not all of these eggs will hatch. And not all that hatch will live more than a few hours before being gobbled by their enemies. Perhaps no more than a couple of dozen will attain maturity and reproduce. The sturgeon may cast over two million eggs at a time, and so may the halibut, while a cod has been known to lay over nine million eggs. But life for young sturgeon in the great lakes and rivers and for halibut and cod in the seas is even more hazardous than for brook trout. Because death is more abundant, so must life be more prolific.

Our near neighbor the cottontail rabbit, may breed as many as four times a year and produce up to seven young each time. The young in their turn may breed when but six months of age. If all cottontails would live out their natural life expectancy of eight years the country would be inundated by a flood of rabbits. But, no danger. Foxes, weasels, mink, bob-cats, hawks, owls, man and a host of other predators will thin their ranks so that the rabbit population of these acres two hundred years from now will not likely be more than that of this year or year after next.

A common weed, Sisymbrium sophia, produces three quarters of a million seeds. It has been estimated that if all the seeds sprouted, grew to maturity and reproduced the entire land-surface of the earth would be covered with the offspring within three years. But because death is as abundant as life no such calamity results.

Thomas Huxley once reckoned that if all the decendants of a single green-fly lived and multiplied, at the end of the first summer they would outweigh the population of China. But a scant number will live more than a few hours.

Often we hear the exclamation "Where there's life, there's hope." In the natural world the opposite is just as true — "Where there's death there's hope." Without it there would be no room on earth for future generations. The world would have been crammed to overflowing with primitive forms of life within a short time after its creation. And those forms that did exist would be warped by age, worn out, and shortly the earth would have crawled with weakened and infirm forms that had no possibility of release from their weaknesses. Nor would there be room for replacements.

Death is not in itself a sad thing, but necessary and good. The transcience of life is essential to the well-being of the earth and its children.

This feeling about the bright aspect of death is more than a detached consideration of a principle of natural history. It is deeply personal, sensed with a quiet wonder and profound gratitude.

It would have been no tragedy if I had never been born. But it would be a personal calamity if I could never die, if I had to hold onto the accrued debits of flesh and mind for time without end, and if I could not at last give up my place here to some newborn child who might make the world some contribution beyond my power to give.

The same kindly Creator who made life made death. And I'm uncertain as to which act shows more of His greatness, wisdom and mercy.

Publisher - Columnist Ward Lowe, The Lometa, Texas, Reporter—We see where the Post Office Department can't figure out an abbreviation for Alaska. Alabama has preempted Ala.—and "ask." and "Aka." are liable to be confused with "Ark." We hasten to offer them a solution—that would be perfect as far as any Texans are concerned — since Alaska now claims to be the largest state in the Union. Our solution for abbreviation is simply 'Alas."

SUNDEW REPORTS

Charlevoix at last. Despite winds, snow, cold temperatures and one last thick windrow of ice the Sundew moored in Charlevoix Monday afternoon (Mar. 30). We left Traverse City early Monday morning. The tanker vessel Blue Comet followed us out but as she turned toward Chicago at the mouth of Grand Traverse Bay we turned eastward toward home. The ice field was scattered with one last field trying to keep us from entering Charlevoix. After one-half hour of pounding away we broke through to thinner ice. The whistle signaled our return after almost five weeks to the day since leaving.

On Tuesday we took aboard supplies in preparation for spring ice breaking which began on Wednesday. The master plan to open the lakes to navigation went into effect April 1. The cutters on Lakes Huron and Michigan got underway for their assigned stations. For the present the Sundew will have control of the Straits area, Grand Traverse and Little Traverse Bays. We left early Wednesday to break ice in the Little Traverse Bay area. About 15 minutes out of Charlevoix we encountered ice 24 to 36 inches thick and our progress was slowed. In the afternoon we turned and headed for the Grand Traverse Bay area to escort the tanker vessel Blue Comet into Traverse City.

By daybreak Thursday we had cleared Grand Traverse Bay headed northeast for the Grays Reef area. We met the Woodbine there and both of us worked north in the Grays Reef passage until we were called to assist the tanker vessel Blue Comet which was stuck in the ice near Grand Traverse Bay.

Friday we escorted the Arundel to Charlevoix where she could more easily make her engine repairs. We moored at the Lifeboat station until 3 a.m. Saturday. We met the tanker vessel Robert Stewart near the Manitous and after several probes into the ice field found an almost clear path to Grays Reef light station. The Stewart cleared the Straits area about 8:30 p.m. Saturday thus becoming the first commercial ship to travel that area this season.

After mooring in Cheboygan Saturday evening we got an early start in order to escort the tanker vessel Rocket on its westward passage through the Straits and northern Lake Michigan. We returned to Charlevoix at Midnight Sunday.

SUNDEW SCUTTLEBUTT . . .

"Sam" Novak returned from leave in Florida to find orders awaiting his transfer to Mackinac Island Lifeboat Station . . . Some of the windrow ice at the lights appears to be 10 to 15 feet high. It will be many weeks clearing away . The ice field north of Grays Reef extends to the southern shore of the upper peninsula. We will be taking some of the light keepers out this week.

March 30

After a weekend in the ice of Lake Michigan the Sundew moved into Traverse City Monday afternoon. Despite the distance between Traverse City and Charlevoix it didn't take long for the crew members on liberty to make their way north. Tuesday and Wednesday were treated as weekend liberty days with liberty continuing from 9 a.m. one day to the same hour the following day.

Early Thursday we got underway to meet the tanker vessel Chicaho Socony near the Manitous and clear a path for her as she made her way to the dock at Traverse City. We stayed in the track we had made on Sunday with the tanker following us to the dock. Since the tanker's entry marked the opening of the shipping season at Traverse City quite a crowd of people were on hand to welcome us.

Friday we once again got underway only to find that the heavy ice had moved into Grand Traverse Bay. The tanker that was due in the area was delayed in Chicago so we turned back into the bay and swung to the west [illegible] in order to break a path into Northport so the fishing boats could come out. We then returned to Traverse City.

We remained in Traverse City on Saturday but early the next morning we got underway to aid the tanker vessel Blue Comet which also was enroute to the docks at Traverse City. We met the tanker at the mouth of Grand Traverse Bay. However, the heavy ice was too much for the heavily loaded tanker and she became stuck in the ice. After failing to free her we took her in tow. It was early evening before we returned to Traverse City.

SUNDEW SCUTTLEBUTT . .

Lost some men to the Group office in Charlevoix as the Coast Guard prepares to man the light stations in northern Lake Michigan and Lake Huron. Don Krika, EN3, and Richard Waggoner BM3 have already left the ship for Mackinac Island. Dick Novak BM1 will be leaving for the same station this week. John Kinnunen SN left by plane this week for electronics school in Groton, Conn. We all were surprised to see Ed Haley SN back from the hospital in Chicago. He is recovering much faster than anticipated. Jerry Wyant left last week for Rittman, Ohio, on expectant father's leave but so far no news from him. We had quite a few visitors aboard the ship while we moored at Traverse City.

THE STYLE BEAUTY SHOP and Merle Norman Cosmetic Studio will open April 15. Glenn Krohn Hair Stylist. 106 Park Ave., Liberty 7-6775.

At the Bridge Charlevoix, Michigan LI 7-2781

Such scenes as this of Leo Allard, superintendent of the street department, bucking snow endlessly for four straight months, will be a topic of conversation for years to come. Few, if any, cities in the heavy snow area had a better snow removal program than Charlevoix.

NORTHERN AUTO COMPANY

Coping with snow plowed from the streets and parked cars which were always in the way, was the daily task of this snow removal crew from the last of November to the last of March. Severe Winter Storms Tripled City Snow Removal Costs

The cost of snow removal in the city of Charlevoix during the past winter, the severest in recent history, reached a new high according to figures compiled by Clifford G. Riley, deputy city clerk.

The statistics which include the number of man hours and labor costs as well as the cost of material and maintenance reveal that the over-all cost of the snow removal project was $9,665.37 for the period extending from Nov. 24, 1958, through March 28, 1959. This is approximately three times the amount spent for snow removal for the same period during the winter of 1957-58.

The figures show that a total of 5,122 man hours of labor by nine members of the city street department headed by Leo Allard were devoted to snow removal at a cost of $7,530.31; a total of $843.45 was spent for gasoline, oil and grease and $1,291.37 for truck and equipment maintenance for a total of $9,665.37.

The average cost of labor per hour was $1.4797 while the average over-all cost of snow removal was $1.887 per hour.

Panel to Discuss Future Uses for State Owned Land

Problems of present and future management of Michigan's six million acres of publicly owned lands will be presented to the officials of the United States Forest Service and the Michigan Department of Conservation by a panel of Northern Michigan Development Council members at a conference at the Higgins Lake Conservation Training School on April 15, it was announced today by Myrton M. Riggs, NMRC president.

The Council sees much of Michigan's future as very closely related to the proper management of this land. Problems presented by the panel for discussion will be concerned primarily with the agricultural, industrial and recreational developments of Northern Michigan.

The conference which will be chaired by President Riggs, and moderated by Dr. C. L. Anspach, president of Central Michigan College, is scheduled for the afternoon of April 15 at the Higgins Lake Conservation Training School. Registration begins at 11:00 a.m. and adjournment is set for 4:00 p.m.

The Council extends an invitation to all interested persons to attend the conference at Higgins Lake and join in the discussion of this issue of vital importance to our state. Because facilities at the Training School are limited it is urged that everyone planning to attend send in their reservations early to Donald Setterbo, Consultant, Field Services, Central Michigan College, Mount Pleasant, Michigan.

Now companies can select a "package" of hospital and medical care geared to the coverage and cost the specific group desires.

To go with the new basic Blue Shield M-75 medical-surgical coverage, which provides realistic benefits for surgery, obstetrics, doctor's hospital visits and other medical services, the group can choose ANY of the following Blue Cross hospital care plans:

COMPREHENSIVE CONTRACT. This, the most extensive of Blue Cross plans, will pay the full cost of semi-private or ward accommodations, meals, general nursing, and virtually all other costly hospital services for 120 days.

$50 DEDUCTIBLE CONTRACT. This is a lower-cost Blue Cross plan which provides exactly the same benefits as the Comprehensive Contract, except the patient agrees to pay the first $50 for each hospital visit.

ECONOMY CONTRACT. This costs the least of any Blue Cross plan offered. It pays $14 a day for 30 days toward room, meals, and general nursing care, plus coverage of virtually all other costly hospital services without dollar limit.

SPECIAL FEATURES ALSO AVAILABLE

1. You can increase days of care from 120 to 365 for as little as 10 cents a month extra.

2. Employees may continue coverage under direct-payment contracts after retirement. Moreover, if the firm has a formal retirement program, and agrees to make deductions from retirement checks, the employee can continue group benefits at group rates.

3. Once a year, individuals can join Blue Cross-Blue Shield without belonging to a group. Non-group contracts pay for 30 days of care and up to $14 a day, plus "extra" services without dollar limit.

Blue Cross-Blue Shield offer flexible, realistic health care plans designed to meet the needs of the constantly changing practices of medical science. Remember, no health care plan in Michigan returns more money in the form of hospital-medical services to its members than Blue Cross-Blue Shield.

Assembly of God Church to Have Revival Series

The Rev. Ella Giles of Leamington, Ont., will conduct a series of revival meetings at the Assembly of God church from April 12 to April 26, the Rev. T. B. Thodeson has announced.

Mrs. Giles has been pastor of the Pentecostal Tabernacle in Leamington for many years. Before going into pastoral work Mrs. Giles was a member of the Sunday school teaching staff in the Bethel Pentecostal Tabernacle congregation at Windsor. Among her students was the present Mrs. Thodeson.

During her appearance at the local church she will speak on such subjects as How to be saved, How to be filled with the Holy Spirit, Holiness essential to walking with God, Healing belongs to the Believer and others.

In announcing the meeting the Rev. Mr. Thodeson said this was an opportunity to hear the Gospel presented simply and warmly by an excellent speaker.

All Youth Must Register at 18 With Draft Board

Selective Service registration is a continuing requirement for all young men as they reach 18 years of age according to Roman A. Dubas, chairman of the Charlevoix county draft board.

Young men are required to register for the draft within five days after reaching their 18th birthday. Registration may be accomplished at any local board office. In Charlevoix county the office is located on the second floor of the Charlevoix city hall. Men who are away from their homes on this anniversary may go to any draft board office in the area where they are located and register.

Mr. Dubas emphasized that all registrants give their proper residence address at the time of registration. This residence address determines the local board that will have jurisdiction over the registrant's draft classification.

Members of reserve components of the armed forces, including the National Guard, are required to register. Only persons on active duty in the armed forces are not required to register. However, they must register within 30 days following separation from service if born after Aug. 30, 1922 and not previously registered.

At the time of registration each youth will receive a registration certificate which he is required to have in his personal possession at all times. If the certificate is lost or destroyed, a duplicate may be applied for at the local board office. Failure to comply with the Selective Service registration requirements may result in prosecution action by the U. S. Department of Justice.

Kiwanis International Moves Into New Chicago Home

The General Office of Kiwanis International moved into new quarters — the just-completed Kiwanis International Building at 101 E. Erie Street in Chicago —on Friday, March 20, it was announced by Archie L. Livingston president of the Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix. All 115 of the international service organization's general office employees will be housed in the new million dollar structure. From this building 4600 U. S. and Canadian Kiwanis Clubs will be serviced.

The move into the Kiwanis International Building is the final step in a five-year program of finance, design and construction on the part of Kiwanis. Every Kiwanis member contributed financially to the project.

The building consists of three levels. It fronts on Erie Street, a half block west of Chicago's "Magnificent Mile." A ground-level landscaped court and a parking area share the rear portion of the property. The new structure stands on a site formerly occupied by the home of the late Anita McCormick Blaine, granddaughter of the inventor of the reaper.

Don't plant tree seedlings when the ground is dry. Either moisten the ground artificially for planting or wait until it rains before planting. Moisture gets seedling germination off to a fast and healthy start.

Mary makes things grow. A full generation ago she planted love in a young man's heart . . . nourished it . . . watched it bloom through shrill and quiet years alike. And Alec knows—a love like this deserves security. Blue Cross-Blue Shield health care helps provide it—even after retirement—and it'll never be canceled because of old age or long illness. What's more, Alec and Mary are protected against unexpected hospital or medical expenses. But then, perhaps you and your family are protected by Blue Cross-Blue Shield, too. Arts and Crafts Group to Hold Meet at Cadillac

The Executive Council for the artists and craftsmen of northern Michigan will be held at the Grange Room in Cadillac on April 13, at 1 p.m. This newly formed organization is working on its constitution and by-laws, according to Clare Brown, Charlevoix county extension agent in home economics, and chairman of the group. It also has no name, although it was organized last October at the Second Annual Arts and Crafts Show at Grayling. At the last council meeting three names were proposed by the council and the actual decision will be made in the near future by ballot by the total membership.

This new organization sponsored a Michigan-made arts and crafts exhibit at the 7th Annual Tourist and Resort Institute at Kellogg Center on March 23-25, to interest resort shopkeepers in hand crafted products made in this area.

Plans are also underway for the organization to sponsor four design clinics in northern Michigan this spring through the cooperation of Central Michigan College, Michigan State University and the University of Michigan.

This organization is aimed at providing aid and instruction in the making of excellent hand crafted products; to further appreciation of fine hand made articles; to further creative use of leisure time; and to help provide markets for those producers that are interested in selling their products.

Light Station Attendants Start Summer Duties

Personnel of three light stations in northern Lake Michigan were transported to their respective stations Monday by the U. S. Coast Guard cutter Sundew.

A crew of six men was taken to Lansing Shoals light station located at the western entrance to the Straits of Mackinac; a crew of five went to Grays Reef light station and a third crew of three to White Shoals light station. A fourth man will join the latter crew shortly.

The three light stations are the only lighthouses in the area still manned. Others in the area are unmanned stations operated by automatic equipment.

This is the latest date in several years that keepers have been taken to the light stations. Heavy ice in the Straits area as well as northern Lake Michigan have slowed the start of navigation this year.

Wild geese live longer than any of our game birds. They have been known to live to be 70 years old.

Community to Stage First Maple Sirup Festival This Week

Charlevoix will be the sweetest community in northern Michigan this weekend as the city hosts the first annual Maple Sirup Festival Saturday, and Sunday.

The festival will climax several weeks of maple sirup making at a sugar house set up on Bridge st.

A variety of events has been planned for the entertainment of visitors to the festival. There will be tours of sugar bushes at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Saturday and Sunday; a meeting of maple sirup producers at the city hall at 4 p.m. Saturday and an opportunity for all comers to watch the making of maple sirup at the sugar house which is easily identified by the clouds of sweet steam that rolls out as the sap is boiled down into golden maple sirup.

For those who have a yen to taste the sirup there will be a pancake supper at the Methodist church dining room beginning at 5:30 p.m. with plenty of maple sirup for topping. The event is being sponsored by the Charlevoix Jaycees and the Methodist Youth Fellowship.

At 8:30 p.m. there'll be an old-fashioned square dance at the VFW post home two miles north of Charlevoix. There'll be country music with Joseph Stutzman in charge of the event.

For those who have a yen for knowledge regarding the making of maple sirup, an art the early settlers learned from the American Indian, there will be Sea Scouts who gathered sap and assisted in the operation of making it into sirup. there'll be maple sirup producers from throughout the north country who have been invited to join local producers by their respective county agricultural agents and Kiwanians who are actually the 'fathers' of the festival for it was one of their members. E. K. Shanahan, who presented the idea for the festival and who whipped the plans into shape.

Cooperating in presenting this first annual festival are the Kiwanis club, the Sea Scouts, Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, Maple Sirup Producers, and the cooperative extension service of Michigan State University.

Ed Rehman, Charlevoix county agricultural agent and Tom Symons, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce as well as Mr. Shanahan have pooled their respective talents in organizing the project.

Bradley Owners To Start Search For Lost Ship

The Bradley Transportation Line of the Michigan Limestone Division of the U. S. Steel Corp. announced Thursday that it will resume a search next week for the steamer Carl D. Bradley which sank during a violent storm in northern Lake Michigan last Nov. 18.

The company stated that its search was being conducted independent of any search that may be made by others.

With the assistance of the marine construction firm of Durocher, VanAntwerp and Beatty Inc. of Cheboygan, the Bradley Transportation Line has set up a well organized search effort to utilize the best equipment available for the purpose along with a team of marine and electronics experts.

The Great Lakes Underwater Exploration Co. Inc., also of Cheboygan, has been engaged to provide the boat and the electronic underwater detection device that will be used for the search in the Gull island-Boulder reef vicinity where the vessel is believed to have gone down. Thirty-three crewmen perished and two men, First Mate Elmer Fleming and Frank Mays, a deck watchman, survived the tragedy.

The search vessel will be the 38 ft. steel cruiser, Penmanta, equipped with the newest type electronic echo sounding and under water scanning device, small-

High School Band To Participate in State Festival

The Charlevoix high school band, numbering 64 members, and their director, C. A. Odmark, will depart tomorrow via school buses for Battle Creek to participate in the annual Class C band and orchestra festival sponsored by the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association.

The Charlevoix band is scheduled to perform at 1:50 p.m. Saturday at Southeastern Junior high school auditorium.

Adjudicators will be Norman Dietz of Central Michigan College, Harry Begian of Cass Tech high school in Detroit, Robert Etter of Bowling Green University in Ohio and Oscar Stover, assistant band director at Michigan State University.

This will mark the twelfth time the local band has participated in the state fesival. The present band will attempt to duplicate the record set by the 1958 band which was one of three Class C bands in the state to receive the coveted Division I rating.
